Thanksgiving Services at Gilmour Church

Sunday was observed as a day of Thanksgiving by the congregation of Gilmour Memorial church, and it proved to be a day that will be long and pleasantly remembered. Special music was a feature of both the morning and the evening services. In the morning Mrs. James Young sang with great feeling and with beautiful expression "Fear not, ye Oh, Israel." In the evening the Hallelujah chorus was rendered by Beulah F. Galt, A.T.C.M., and "Oh, Rest in the Lord" was sung by Mr. Ian Galt. Mr. Will Paul was as usual the zealous musical conductor.

RESOLUTIONS OF PRAISE.

At the morning service Deacon T. H. Graham rose in his place and submitted a resolution of Praise and Thanks to God for the grace and mercy which had attended the men whose names are on the honour roll of the church, whereby each and everyone has been spared.

The congregation with great feeling endorsed the resolution by rising in a body and singing the Doxology.

In the evening resolutions of Thanks and Praise for Victory, for Peace; for the Downfall of those who Caused the War; for the Downfall of the Turkish Power; for the gift of great and good men to manage the affairs of the Empire in its hour of trial; were presented by Mr. Allan B. Mann, Mr. A. Edmison, Mr. A. McGregor, Mr. Gordon McGregor, Mr. Harold Archer and Mr. Joe Mann.

Towards the close of the proceedings Mrs. Galt went to the platform and suggested that something practical should be done to mark the thanksgiving of the congregation, possibly to take the form of some institution to help the missionary work in India, and to be a memorial of the late John Davis. In a few minutes a sum considerably over $100 was raised.

BIG LEAGUES ARE PACIFIC.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16. —Due to Garry Herrmann's late arrival here, the Johnson-Herrmann confab over the acts of the miners, was postponed to late afternoon.

Herrmann was more pacific than his confrere, saying the difficulty between the majors and the miners probably would be smoothed out.

Prospects for the 1919 season were believed to be the subject for the big conversation between Johnson and Herrmann, although it was stated the draft problem would be tackled first.

MY OLD BIBLE

Though the cover is torn,
And the pages worn
And though places bear
Traces of Tears
Yet more precious than Gold
Is the Book worn and old
That can shatter and Scatter my fears.

When I prayerfully look
In the precious old Book
Many pleasures and treasures
I see
Many tokens of love
From the Father above
Who is nearest and dearest
To me.

This old book is my guide,
'Tis a friend by my side;
It will lighten and brighten my way
And each promise I find,
Soothes and gladdens my mind
As I read it and heed it to-day.
To this book I will cling,
Of its worth I will sing,
Though great losses and crosses be mine,
For I cannot despair,
Though surrounded with care,
While possessing this bible of mine.

While looking through an old scrapbook, I came across those noble verses. They still start the tears; they may find a place in your noble paper.

J. H. Taylor.

They had plighted their troth and were talking things over. They both decided to be quite unlike other married couples — forbearing and long-suffering and patient with each other.

"No!" said the man. "I shall not be like other husbands, who get cross and bang things about if the coffee is cold!"

"If you ever did," said the girl sweetly, I would make it hot for you!"

And the man wondered what she meant.

Hot Bath Wagon Aids Gassed Men

By WEBB MILLER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(By Mail).—A squadron of traveling "hot-bath trucks" is the newest scheme of the chemical warfare service for treatment of American soldiers suffering from German mustard gas. At several points behind the American sectors these bath trucks are held in readiness to start instantly whenever the Germans start a gas bombardment.

The most important part of the treatment for mustard gas is hot bath as soon as possible after the gas touches the skin. Before the inauguration of the "hurry-up" bath outfits, gas sufferers had to be transported to the nearest hospital with facilities for bathing. This sometimes meant a delay of several hours when every minute was precious. Under the new arrangements the "bath trucks" hurry toward the front upon receipt of a telephone message announcing the beginning of a gas bombardment. The trucks push up as close to the firing line as possible, and within a few minutes are ready to begin operations.

Each truck carries a 2,500 gallon tank of water and an instantaneous water heater. Other automobiles carry a demountable bath pavilion and the necessary piping. The work of putting up the tented pavilion and making the water connections is a matter of only a few minutes. More than twenty soldiers can bathe simultaneously in the tent.

As tht gas sufferers are brought in, the attendants undress them and dip the clothing in a solution of lime water. Even the helmets and shoes are immersed in the solution. Meanwhile the sufferers are quickly sprayed with the liquid soap and taken into the showers for fifteen seconds. Then other attendants scrub the gassed men and spray their eyes, noses and throat with a solution to counteract the burning and irritation of the poison. The men are then given clean clothing and sent to an evacuation hospital. The attendants wear oilskin one-piece suits with tight-fitting headpieces.

During a recent test 48 men were bathed in two and one-half minutes.

German Agents Are Again Active in the United States

Propaganda Machinery is Being Oiled to Promote Sentiment of Leniency.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— Government agents warn the public that German propaganda machinery in the U. S. is being put in working order again to promote sentiment of leniency toward Germany in peace terms. Consequently, Department of Justice officials have warned that the public should remain watchful against resumption of organized propaganda by interests formerly actively pro-German and for the past years passive.

Concerted movement is apparent, officials say, in utterances of many individuals, a few organizations formerly active for German interests, and some newspapers. There is no organized leadership, it is believed, but local interests have taken their cue from official pleas from Germany for leniency in armistice and final peace terms.

Consider Danger From Propaganda.

The interest of the Government agents combatting enemy propaganda at this time is not to suppress free expression of opinion, it is explained, but to fight any concert of propagandists whose purpose would be to confound the authorized spokesmen of the nation in forthcoming peace negotiations. Officials say during the reconstruction period there may be considerable danger from enemy propaganda working to make the nation forget Germany's course during the war.

Illustrating the attitude that the war and its dangers are not yet over, it is stated that Department of Justice agencies have ordered the internment of some Germans since the armistice was signed a week ago.

Trying to Incite Mexico.

Official reports show German representatives in various parts of the world still actively engaged in spreading propaganda to create and enhance feelings of hostility toward the United States and the allied countries. Eckhardt, the notorious German Ambassador at Mexico City, again is reported doing his utmost to make Mexico hostile to the United States, and is able to have misleading articles published in the semi-official Mexican papers. Recently he had published throughout Mexico that the German army had not been defeated, and that the German navy was still fighting the allied navies.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid avron; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

GRAIN MARKET

Winnipeg oats market was very strong yesterday. December oats closing at 86 1-8c. or 2 1-8c. over Saturday's close. It is said that there is a corner being operated, one firm, it is alleged, having practically the situation entirely in its own hands. It is recalled that speculation in the November option was stopped when the price got up to 85 1-2c., at which point it was fixed for the balance of the month. The question is asked why similar action was not taken with the December option?

Corn was also in a stronger market at Chicago, November going up 3 1-2c. Besides the unfavourable weather for delivery, farmers are said to be disposed to hold on to their corn. Buckwheat is quoted easier.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller was one day talking to a number of rich men who had made their pile in New York, none of whom had been born in America.

"When you come to think of it," he said, rather irritably, "you are only intruders. You are apt to forget what you owe us natives when we open our doors to you."

"Maybe," said an Irish member of the party, "but here's one thing you forget. I came into this country wid me fare paid an' me clothes on me back. Can you say the same?"

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

Gunner Dead; Pilot Flies On, Not Knowing

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(By Mail.)—The extraordinary experience of flying for some time unconscious of the fact that his machine-gunner was lying in a crumpled heap in the cock-pit with a bullet through his head befell Lieut. Henriques Crawford, an American pilot flying with French squadrons.

The grim story is told in the brief matter-of-fact official report of Lieut. Crawford to his commanding officer.

". . . . There were heavy clouds at 400 metres on the afternoon of ——, and we were flying just below them in company with other of our bombing planes. . . . Lieut. Craig told me to go farther north over our objective in order to get a better target. . . . We had narrowly missed a collision with one of our own planes, and as we came down out of the clouds, we were attacked almost immediately from the rear. We dodged and continued our course. . . . Later we sighted another enemy plane and I turned toward it. . . . Lieut. Craig did not fire so I glanced back and saw his guns pointing upward, while he was lying in a heap in the pit. I lost the attacking planes in the clouds and landed as quickly as possible at the aviation field at ——. The bullet had struck him in the centre of the forehead passing through the head and completely shattering the squll. . . . Lieut. Craig has always shown himself to be the highest type of American, an excellent observer, cool and fearless in any emergency. . . . "

Lieut. Harry W. Craig, the observer, had been decorated twice by the French and cited in army orders for bravery.

The Reasons Why—

THIS is what war-time conditions have done in the case of the telephone business:

Increased the cost of new telephone construction from 50 to 100 per cent or more—

Doubled the price of steel, copper wire, platinum and lead—

Increased the cost of all labor that goes into telephone plant and equipment—

Made higher wages necessary for telephone employees—

Increased the traffic so that a larger number of employees is necessary—

Drawn to the colours a large proportion of skilled male employees, making ordinary upkeep both difficult and expensive.

Made it necessary to give the subscriber more service to take care of his thriving business—

And made it necessary also for us to get some increase in rates to cope with mounting costs.

We are therefore asking for what is necessary. We can see no other solution.

- THE WIFE -

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Sees Brian and Mollie King Together at the Noon Hour.

CHAPTER XLII

Ruth had just returned from her luncheon and was removing her hat when Mr. Mandel's office boy told her he wanted to see her in his private office.

"I want you to go with me to look at an old house in Washington Square," he told her.

She stepped into a taxi with him and soon they stopped at a fine old house on the North Side of the park.

They finished looking the house over, then started up the Avenue.

"We will walk until I see a taxi, or until a stage comes along," Mr. Mandel said, and then continued the discussion of the decoration suitable for the house they had just left.

As they drew near a very popular restaurant, Ruth saw Brian and Mollie King come out and stroll slowly toward the Square they had just left. Ruth and Mr. Mandel were on the opposite side of the street, so Ruth had no fear of being seen by them, engrossed as they evidently were.

A feeling of dread, of fear settled over Ruth. Up to that minute, no thought that Brian might ever be disloyal ever entered her mind. Now, all suddenly, Ruth blamed herself. If she had not been so anxious about doing something that was congenial, Brian might never have dined alone with Mollie King, and so renewed the acquaintance—in an intimate form.

Then came the thought. If he was so easily led away, if he cared for her so much less than she had imagined he did, it was well she should know it at once.

So while Ruth answered Mandel at random, thinking hard things of Brian she could not know that it was Brian's unconscious appeal for help and sympathy that had caused Mollie King to be kind and give up her coveted working houre to him. That when he had telephoned her to meet him for lunch, she had laid aside her work with a sigh and gone to meet him because she liked him and thought he needed comfort.

It was in this spirit that Mollie King, artist and Bohemian had gone to met Ruth's husband—just because she thought Ruth wasn't being fair to him. And it was just the spirit that under the circumstances, appealed most strongly to Brian Hackett.

People who saw them together, that noon, shrugged their shoulders and said one to another:

"What can you expect? His wife is with some Fifth Avenue firm, doing as she pleases. Why shouldn't he be with Mollie? You remember they were always rather fond of each other. Half the village thought they would be married."

Really, to be fair to Ruth and also to Brian, she had not connected unfaithfulness to her as a result of his intimacy with Mollie. The coarser expressions and forms of love never occurred to Ruth. Her mind was as daintily clean as was her body. But she hated to think that Mollie had been entertaining Brian, that someone beside herself could interest him so that he would come so far from his office for luncheon. Mrs Curtis had told her that Brian used to be a great favorite in the village. She did not care at all for what she knew of it, and she hated to think that Brian was being drawn back into its arms.

As they hailed a stage Ruth turned once more to see if Brian were still visible. Yes, they were walking on the sidewalk, then the stage started and she saw no more.

One moment she grew cold at the thought of the possibility of Mollie stealing Brian's love, the next a wave of defiance would sweep over her. She hated this "village" she hated the people who claimed it as their bailiwick. But Brian had once loved it. What if he were tiring of her prosy conventionality? What if he were more interested in this colony of artists and writers than the world she represented? Was it her duty to follow him, to make his friends her friends—if they would let her?

Not only that afternoon but for days afterward, Ruth though constanty of her own perplexities. It became a task to hold her mind upon her work. It constantly trailed after Brian, and always in the distance, but where she could see her, was Mollie King.

It was fortunate that Ruth had a new apartment to put in order; it gave her less time to think. Every evening she worked until late, and after they had moved in, Brian worked with her. She could see that he was delighted with the change; but he never had admitted it save to say that it was a better location for HIM, for a professional man than was the other. Aside from that he made no concessions to Ruth's entire planning, and—financing, of the move.

Then, all suddenly, Ruth was obliged to go west. She would be away at least a week. She had not yet told Brian that she had seen him with Mollie King.

Few People Know This

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

MOTHER! GIVE CHILD "SYRUP OF FIGS" IF TONGUE IS COATED

IF CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK, BILIOUS, CLEAN LITTLE LIVER AND BOWELS.

Children love this "fruit laxative" and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty its bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, the stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, the breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach ache or diarrhoea. Listen, mother! See if the tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mother give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

FOOT FINER DEVELOPMENT THAN HAND.

A defender of the lowly foot has come in the person of the "Journal of Heredity." Says the Journal:

"The human hand, a strangely almost shockingly, primitive survival, has received enormous praise mistakenly lavished by the philosopher and the anatomist; but the human foot, a wonderfully modified and distinctly human member, has had but scant appreciation. . . The foot is apt to be regarded as a poor relation of the hand, as a thing which, once being far more useful, has degenerated, within the narrow confines of a boot, into a rather distorted and somewhat useless member. Although in modern man the boot has had its definite influence (as in limiting the possibilities of the power of grasp), such generalisations concerning the human foot are very far from true. If man should wish to point with pride to any organ, the structure of which definitely severs him from all other existing primates, it is to the foot he should point. If 'missing links' are to be tracked with complete success, the foot, far more than the skull or the teeth, or the shins will mark them as monkey or man. The weakness of Achilles lay in his heel; the weakness of the arboreal primate masquerading as man lies in the structure of the foot." It is the foot which differentiates between man and monkey.

HUN FLEET WAS SCARED.

Admiral Wemyss Tells Germans It Would Have Been Beaten Had It Come Out.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, who was appointed to notify the German envoys of the naval conditions of the armistice, is credited by the Figaro with a phrase which admirably reflects the respective positions of the two fleets.

"It is inadmissible," the Germans protested, "that our fleet should be given up without having been beaten."

Facing the envoys with his monocle, Admiral Wemyss retorted: "It had only to come out."

BIG NAVY PLANS GO ON.

Programme Will Not Be Checked, Daniels Says.

WASHINGTON.—Despite the armistice, Secretary of the Navy Daniels stated the navy programme will go on.

The United States fleet will bear a heavy share in the policing of the world in the future and must be extended accordingly, the Secretary stated.

The navy has 70,000 men abroad, including marines, Daniels said.

Work on battleships and larger war vessels which has been slackened because of the urgent necessity for patrol and destroyer craft will be resumed as part of the permanent expansion policy of the navy.

The coastwise patrol will not be demobilized at once, the Secretary said. Plans will not be changed except after careful deliberation in the next few days. Contracts for the Eagle boats may not be carried through. Delivery of 100 was expected by next summer.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

USING MILKING DEVICES

When It is Advisable to Invest in Milking Machines.

The Cause and Cure of Diarrhoea In Calves — Simple and Common-sense Methods of Treatment May Save Valuable Young Animals.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

IT is clear that if dairying is to develop as it ought to do in the Province of Ontario, more labor is needed on dairy farms. As the supply of labor is limited, cow-farmers are turning their attention to the mechanical milker as an aid in the biggest job on a farm where milk-cows are kept, namely, that of milking.

Past the Experimental Stage.

While it is true that mechanical milkers are not yet perfected, and possibly will never be absolutely "fool-proof," they have reached a stage of perfection where they can be recommended to the man who is in need of help at milking-time. There are several machines now on the market which have proven to be more or less successful in tests made at Experimental Stations, but what is even more important, have stood the test of actual farm conditions. The advertising columns of the agricultural press contain the names of the leading makes of machines which can now be purchased by milk-producers.

In answer to the question, will it pay to buy a milking machine? we would answer yes, under the following conditions:

1. Where a herd of twenty or more milking cows are kept, though we were in a stable recently where a man was using a machine to milk eight cows, and he considered that it paid him.

2. Where hand-milkers are not to be had, and where it means selling all, or part of the herd, because of the difficulty in getting the cows milked.

3. Where a man desires to increase his herd but cannot do so, because hand milking is impossible.

4. Where a man has some mechanical genius and is willing to give the machine the necessary attention in order to make it a success. Not every man can get good results with a milking machine. The cows must be stripped after the machine, to insure "milking out clean."

5. Where a man or woman will give the necessary attention in order to keep the machine clean. It must be thoroughly washed and the milking parts kept in a solution of chloride of lime—one pound, dissolved in ten gallons of water. This must be changed about every two weeks, or as often as necessary to prevent contamination.

6. Where a man has the necessary capital (about $500) to invest in a machine and does not have to borrow the money at the present high rate of interest.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Infectious Diarrhoea In Calves.

A form of diarrhoea in calves, known as "Infectious Diarrhoea," is not uncommon in calves, and the owners are often at a loss to account for it.

It is caused by a specific germ that gains entrance to the circulation, generally by the navel opening. It generally occurs as an epidemic in certain stables or certain localities, and as it is often fatal, causes great loss to the breeder.

The cause and results strongly resemble those of joint-ill or navel-ill in foals. The virus which causes the trouble exists in the stable or in the soil.

Symptoms.—At a variable time after birth, in some cases a few hours and in others a few days, the young animal suffers from an attack of acute diarrhoea, the symptoms of which do not differ markedly from ordinary diarrhoea, except from the fact that they seldom yield readily to treatment. The patient refuses to nurse or partake of nourishment, persists and death soon results.

Treatment.—Preventive treatment consists in preventing the cause. When we know that the entrance into the circulation of a germ causes the trouble, its entrance must be prevented in order that we may be successful. The building in which the cow is expected to bring forth young, and especially the stall, should be thoroughly disinfected. This may be done by sweeping and dusting thoroughly, and following by a thorough washing or scrubbing with a hot five per cent. solution of carbolic acid or one of the coal tar antiseptics, or a thorough coat of hot lime wash with five per cent. crude carbolic acid. The stall should be cleaned out daily and a little slacked lime spread upon the floor each time before supplying fresh bedding. The attendant should have a quantity of a good strong disinfectant on hand, as one of the solutions above mentioned or a solution of corrosive sublimate, 30 grams to a pint of water. The writer prefers the latter. The navel of the calf should be freely dressed with this as soon as possible after birth, and several times daily afterwards until thoroughly healed.

Curative treatment is often ineffective. The following has probably given better results than any other, viz.: Mix part formalin with 15 parts new milk and mix a teaspoonful of this with each part of milk consumed by the calf. When the calf is nursing its dam the mixture can be mixed with a small quantity of the dam's milk and given as a drench, the attendant estimating about how much it should get. When the calf is to nurse the dam it is well to wash udder and teats with the solution before the calf nurses and once or twice daily for a week or so afterwards. When this is done the parts should be allowed to dry, and then be well rubbed with a dry cloth before the calf is allowed to nurse.—J. H. R., Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Thirty Feet of Danger

The intestinal canal is an important part of every individual, important every inch of its thirty feet.

The upper portion of it is intended for the digestion of food and absorption of its useful portions. But the lower part is concerned with the elimination of waste materials.

It is, in other words, the great sewer of the body. The more food eaten the greater the waste. If a sewer becomes clogged up, its contents stagnate and become more and more dangerous.

Constipation means more than failure to evacuate the bowels regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation, increased fermentation, putrefaction and germ action. Increased amounts of irritating and poisonous substances are formed. Absorption of these into the blood follows. Self-poisoning results.

Danger, disorder, disease, or even death follows.

Pills, purgative mineral waters, castor oil, salts, etc., do not cure constipation or prevent its consequences. They make it worse because they do not only irritate the bowels, but they "wear out" in effect and so must be taken in increasing doses, making constipation a habit.

But the Nujol Treatment for constipation overcomes constipation by helping Nature re-establish easy, daily, thorough bowel evacuations as "regular as clockwork."

Nujol prevents stagnation and self-poisoning.

Nujol forms no habit, except a natural, healthy habit.

After Nujol has trained the bowels to act, it can be dispensed with.

TAX THE NET PROFITS.

Provisions to Curtail Use of Child Labour.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. — An amendment to the War Revenue Bill designed as a substitute for the Child Labour Act, recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, was introduced yesterday by Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, and referred to the Finance Committee.

Under the law nullified interstate shipments of products of child labour were prohibited. The Pomerene proposal would levy a special excise tax of ten per cent. on the net profits derived from the sale of such products. It was prepared after numerous conferences between Senators Pomerene, Lenroot and Kenyon, who believe it will overcome the objections which caused the former law to be declared invalid.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

In False Colors

By CECILLE LANGDON

Earle Danvers was disappointed, wrathful and indignant all at the same time. He felt that he had reason to be. He was disappointed in his hope of winning the love of Vera Martin, indignant at her sudden and inexplicable change in her treatment of him, angry and resentful toward Drake Beale, who to all seeming had stepped between him and his heart's choice and had practically supplanted him.

It had come about in a single day. Earle was all but engaged to Vera. Her sister, Blanche, had paired off with the flashy, intrusive young fellow who was a newcomer in Lisle, Drake Beale. To this avowed lover of her sister Vera had been barely civil. All of a sudden she avoided Earle and Beale became her constant escort. Blanche, thus rudely deserted by her treacherous chevalier, sulked and would not even speak to Vera. Everything and everybody seemed at odds. Misery, suspicion, antagonism reigned where harmony had previously existed.

"Vera is not the girl I took her to be if she can endure that Beale," soliloquized Earle. "I am going to have a plain understanding with her, once for all."

Earle watched his opportunity to meet Vera alone. He succeeded the following day, making it manifest that he was not satisfied with her passing on, as she palpably desired to do with a mere bow. He confronted her with a grave, set face.

"May I speak a few words that are on my mind?" he intimated courteously, but with an insistency she could not resist. She did not reply. Her face flushed deeply. Then it lost its color and she stood with downcast eyes and averted face.

"Vera," spoke Earle, "I fancied a week ago that you and I understood one another. We were, at least, good friends, and, I hoped, something more. I seem no longer welcome. The attentions of Mr. Beale are a matter of comment. Do you prefer his company to mine? Is it your wish that I discontinue my visits to your home?"

She put out her hand impulsively. Then she withdrew it. She murmured brokenly: "Can you not trust me?" burst into tears, and fled from the spot convulsed with emotion. In a kind of a stupor Earle watched her disappear.

"Are you lost in dreamland, Mr. Danvers?" a bitter, bantering voice broke in upon his abstractedness, and Earle turned to face Blanche. She had always been to him a frivolous, light-headed coquette, but he read in her face jealousy and resentment now.

"You must know that I am deeply hurt at the change in your sister's attitude toward me," said Earle frankly. "I am greatly perplexed to know the reason why."

"You needn't be," replied Blanche, "when you realize that she has stepped between myself and Mr. Beale. Think of it! Oh, the conscienceless flirt! A treacherous sister and a false friend. I am glad you have found her out. It is a shame! Mr. Beale really loved me, and although my brother, Arnold, disliked him and opposed his visits here, Mr. Beale would have been true and faithful if Vera had not exercised her wiles to captivate him. The minx—if she is my sister!

"And all that Arnold had against Mr. Beale was that he was a stranger and we knew little or nothing about him. Oh, it is mean, cruel, wicked!"—and away flashed Blanche, weeping and wretched as Vera had been.

It pained Earle to have Vera pass him with a coterie of girl friends the next day and never lift her eyes to him. It tortured him worse to see Vera whirling by in an automobile with Beale.

It was a week later when Earle received a telegram that startled and mystified him. It was from Arnold, who had been absent from home in a neighboring city for a week, and it read: "As a lasting favor go to Willsville and get a description, a photograph, if possible, of a man called Edward Pike, who was arrested there for swindling last year."

Arnold was too close a friend to deny a favor. Earle followed up the request. He made a discovery that set him thinking along new lines. He joined Arnold in the city the next day.

"Why," remarked Earle at the outset, "this Edward Pike you asked me to look up is no other than Drake Beale. I have his photograph."

"Good!" applauded Arnold. "That clinches the evidence. Old friend, I suppose you have been made to suffer through Vera's apparent desertion of you, but it was done for a purpose. We found out that Beale planned an elopement with Blanche. She is foolish, senseless in some things. To outwit the scoundrel and gain time, Vera tried her arts on the fickle knave. Now I have evidence as to his being not only a married man, but an all-around criminal. Even Blanche will shrink from him when the expose is made, which must be at once."

It took just one hour for Arnold Martin to convince Beale that he had better remove to pastures new. Flighty, impressionable Blanche soon forgot him amid raptures over a new fiance. And Earle—he never forgot the true, trustful expression in Vera's eyes when he asked her pardon for having ever doubted her fidelity and love.

Capt. Gilbert Nobbs Tells.

I first heard of St. Dunstan's when crossing the North Sea in a hospital ship after my release from captivity in Germany. I had been given a champagne supper on board to celebrate my release—the first time that I ever remember having drunk champaigne in bed.

A R.A.M.C. sergeant came to my bedside with the inevitable form to fill up, and I am afraid I did not answer his interrogations with that solemn dignity which his official tone seemed to expect.

"Your name, sir?"
"So and so."
"Regiment, sir?"
"So and so?"
"Rank, sir?"
"So and so."
"Nature of wound, sir?"
"Bullet through my head."
"Gunshot wound through head," he corrected.
"Same thing."
"Any operations performed, sir?"
"I have had my right eye taken out."
"Right eye excised. Any disability, sir?"
"Blind in one eye."
"Then you can see with the other, sir?"
"No."
"Then you must be blind in both eyes, sir."
"No, I'm blind in one eye."
"How can that be, sir?"
"Sergeant," I replied quietly, "I have only got one eye!"

And then he dropped his air of dignified officialism, and became human.

"You fairly caught me there, sir. I'm very sorry you've lost your sight, sir. You ought to try and get sent to St. Dunstan's."

"Why, what kind of a place is St. Dunstan's, sergeant?"

"Don't know, sir, but I've heard they do wonderful things there. I've even heard them say they make the blind see!"—Scribner's.

German Profiteers.

In the discussion about the war profiteer, it has probably been overlooked that the greatest profiteers of all, if they could have their way, are in Germany. They are the petty princes, the grand dukes and dukelets who are eager to be kings of the conquered provinces, and are squabbling among themselves for the Courlands, the Livonias, the Finlands, and even the Roumanias that have fallen to the German "bag." But, like the frightfulness that never frightens, it is going to be the profiteering that never profits, as the Allies are going to have the say about the matter.

Things generally come the way of the man who goes after them.

The earth being a ball we must expect to find some bounce in the world.

Public is Warned against using Dangerous Hair Preparations

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and rendered incurable by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant) which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

High Tension Work

TO understand the work of the girl at central is to sympathize with her—for hers is a continuous high nervous tension.

At these critical times, when help is so scarce and the wires so busy, the task of the telephone operator is made doubly trying on her nerves.

How like her own nervous system is the complicated electrical equipment which she manipulates.

The central station may be likened to the brain, and the cables and wires, which go out from it, correspond to the spinal cord and intricate nerve fibres which branch off to the members and organs of the body.

The electric current is similar to the nerve force in the human system, for without this nervous energy the human mind and body would be just as dead as a telephone system without electricity.

The continuous strain to which the brain and nerves of the operator are subjected exhausts the nervous energy at an enormous rate, and starved nerves cry out for nourishment with headaches, neuralgic and sciatic pains, nervous indigestion and sleeplessness.

The functions of the vital organs become weak and irregular, as is shown by the feeble action of the heart and the tardiness of the liver and bowels.

It is comparatively easy to restore exhausted nerves if Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used regularly when these early indications of trouble are apparent.

This food cure is also effective in the treatment of nervous prostration, and even in many cases of locomotor ataxia and partial paralysis, but when these ailments develop it is usually necessary that considerable patience and persistence be applied, as recovery must necessarily be a tedious process.

On this account we always like to look on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as primarily a preventive treatment—a means of restoring feeble, wasted nerves while there is yet a foundation to build on.

Rest, gentle exercise out of doors, cheerful companions help the sufferer, from nervous exhaustion, but there must be additional nourishment supplied to the nervous system, and the ideal way to supply the essential elements is by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Apple Syrup Latest Chemical Discovery

The Latest product of Conservation Due to the Chemist.

Apple syrup is the latest product of conservation due to the chemist. After noting the large wastage in apple orchards, due to scarcity of help or unfavourable market prices, Dr. H. C. Gore, of the United States Bureau of Chemistry, has been experimenting with apples, in the hope of discovering some cheap and effective way of conserving their food value without involving too much manufacturing and transportation. He announces two methods which are recommended to farmers generally and in some measure to housewives.

As described by J. J. Williamson, of the American Chemical Society in a recent report of that organization, the first method is based on the well known fact that when impure water freezes, the ice becomes purer than the original water. That is the crystals of ice, when forming, exclude the impurities, so that the crystals are almost pure water. It matters not what the impurities are. For fruit purposes the sugars, acids and flavouring matter of cider are impurities, and by freezing the cider these highly desirable impurities will be concentrated in the mother liquor.

The cider is slowly and with constant stirring subjected to a temperature below the freezing point; loose crystals of ice soon form, until the cider is "sugary" with them. The whole mass is then dumped into a rapidly revolving tub with perforated sides, called a centrifuge. It is very similar to the centrifugals used in separating the molasses from the granulated sugar in a sugar factory. As a result of centrifugal force, the liquid portion of the cider is thrown out of the perforations and is caught in a surrounding drum, leaving the crystals of ice in the tub. By this process the cider becomes much concentrated; in fact, the process is continued until a cider syrup is obtained so concentrated in sugars and acids that it will not spoil when bottled, even without sterilizing. This syrup can be economically shipped, and is ready for dilution at any time into a beverage, which, to the uninformed, "was fresh from the tree just yesterday."

This method obviously can be used only in a factory, with machinery available. The other way of utilizing waste apples can however, be very effectively followed in the home. This is a chemical treatment, in contrast the purely mechanical treatment of the first method. The cider is boiled with calcium carbonate (obtainable at any drug store as a precipitated chalk) to destroy the acidity, and then boiled down to a syrup.

MUST LEAVE CAUCASUS.

LONDON, November 18. — By the Turkish armistice terms the Turks are required to evacuate the territory of the caucasus and north-west Persia, and withdraw the Turkish forces behind the pre-war frontiers. In Syria and Cilicia Turkish forces are to be withdrawn to the westward of Bozanti by December 15th, to be followed by immediate demobilization.

Ladies! Why Keep Corns?

Lift a corn or callus right off without one bit of pain.

Yes! You truly can lift off every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as hardened calluses on bottom of feet, without one bit of pain.

A genius in Cincinnati discovered freezone. It is an ether compound and tiny bottles of this magic fluid can now be had at any drug store for a few cents.

Apply several drops of this freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you lift it off with the fingers. You feel no pain while applying Freezone or afterwards.

Just think! No more corns or calluses to torture you and they go with out causing one twinge of pain or soreness. Keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

RED CROSS MOTHERS WOUNDED ITALIANS

By W. W. Husband

(Formerly with the American Red Cross in Berne.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.)—One of the most important phases of the varied work which the American Red Cross is doing in Switzerland is that of caring for the repatriated Italian soldiers enroute from Austria to Italy.

We were very busily engaged in Switzerland last spring in organizing for American prisoners in Germany when there came the first sudden influx of invalid Italian repatriates, sent from Austria under a new exchange agreement. Arrangements were promptly made for taking up this work under a combination between the American, French, and Italian Red Cross organizations. This has now become one of the most important features of allied relief which we have undertaken in Switzerland.

Many Have White Plague.

A considerable part of these Italian repatriates are tuberculous, while others are the pitiful "grandes blesses," hopelessly wounded men. The condition of these men as they arrive from Austria is often very serious and the work to be done for them is correspondingly urgent.

Many of the repatriates die in transit. I remember one group of tuberculous soldiers in which about 50 deaths occurred between the time they were gathered together in Austria and the time they reached the Italian border. There are several deaths in practically every train, and the condition of many of the other passengers is deplorable. The American Red Cross realized the importance of this work and threw its whole energies into it.

The ordinary method of bringing these men out is as follows: The Italian government sends a train into Austria, through Switzerland, to gather up the men who are to be released under the exchange agreement. The train crosses the Swiss border with its repatriated passengers and arrives at Buchs, where it is met by delegations from the allied Red Cross organizations. Under the present arrangement, the American Red Cross is furnishing the major part of the food and clothing required for those passengers.

Many of the repatriates get at Buchs the first square meal they have had for years, and it is pleasant to know that most of the food which they consume comes from the United States through the American Red Cross.

Each train carries 360 men. There are Italian doctors and priests on board. The American representatives go through each train as it leaves Buchs for Zurich. Among the passengers are always to be found a dozen or more Italians who have been in America and even a few who claim American citizenship or who have perhaps taken out their first papers. Every man on the train receives from the Red Cross man a package of American cigarettes and a small American flag, and the pleasure which they derive from the flag is hard to overstate. The Italians who have lived in America go into real ecstacies over the Stars and Stripes, and it is not exceptional to see an invalid soldier break into tears as he receives the flag, which he embraces and kisses with true Italian fervour.

Fear vs. Sense of Duty Equals Shellshock

Definition of Malady Given by a Specialist.

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.)—A soldier suffers from shellshock when great, overmastering fear crashes against sense of duty. He tries with all his moral fibre to conquer that fear and it is when he fails that shellshock comes shattering his nerves and sometimes leaving him with a blank mind.

This is the definition of shellshock given by Maj. Sir Robert Armstrong Jones, an eminent mental specialist, in a recent lecture on the strange affliction that comes to hundreds of unwounded men, including many of high mental qualifications and model physique.

Though real sufferers from shellshock receive the most sympathetic treatment, once they arrive in the quiet hospitals where specialists are restoring disordered minds, the authorities of all armies have become skeptical in dealing with many cases. This is because cowards have faked shell-shock symptoms in the hope of being sent out of the line for a time or even of being discharged as mentally unfit.

Minor degrees of shellshock sometimes are hard to distinguish from the worst degrees of plain yellowness. Maybe the doctors have made some mistakes in diagnosis because the difference is so subtle, but most of their decision probably were right, for pecialists learn human nature as they learn psychology. The faker usually over-acts his part.

There was an infantry captain with a brave record in the trenches who came to London to recover from shellshock and would ride in the subway because the sound of the train with its trailing vacuum reminded him of the sound of the big shells coming through the air. On his first subway ride after coming back he trembled like a frightened child in a dark closet. His nerves had given way.

Big brawny soldiers are inmates of a shellshock hospital near London. Some are obviously of unsound mind as a result of their fierce inner conflict of emotions. Others appear to be absolutely normal. Yet some of the "normal" men whimper like children and crawl under the beds when the air-rade is on.

These are real shellshock cases.

Psychologists distinguish between a coward and the shellshocked man, whose condition comes from that interior battle of character. Only a brave man can suffer real shellshock—if he weren't brave his sense of duty wouldn't have resisted to the breaking point.

"Big business" is anxious for a pronouncement of policy. Labor wants to know what its future will be.

These things are pointed out in a letter written the President by the United States Chamber of Commerce which shows particularly the need of a uniformed system with respect to cancellation of war contracts and transition from war to peace time industries.

The Government has found itself temporarily staggered by the suddenness and immensity of problems presented by peace, but is now getting its second wind and preparing for systematic handling of the problem. Lloyd George says that Bolshevism is not feared if the problems are handled alright. This nation, too, is striving to avert the curse of Bolshevism, and hence it proposes to have a sound reconstruction policy at the earliest possible time.

The unanimity between Britain and the United States at this time is considered important, since many see that Germany is trying to get softened peace conditions by playing the "sympathetic game" now. President Wilson has cabled King George that America is glad to be allied with Britain and upon whom we are so sure we can count for co-operation that the high purposes of the war may be realized."

While the revolution in Germany has proceeded with comparatively orderliness so far, the real fear of this Government is that hunger will spread the trouble and cause a reign of terror. Were it not for hunger, it was said at the State Department, the Government would have no fears about the situation.

THINK BIG BOOM COMING

Within a few weeks the United States will undergo a big boom, according to the forecast of leading Government officials here to-day. They anticipate no hard times or panic during the process of graduating industry back from war to peace.

So confident is President Wilson ta that the foundations for reconstruction are firm that he will not hurry in his recommendation to Congress for legislation needed for the reconstruction Pending his appearance before Congress, which will probably await his annual message, the President may place in the hands of a commission of experts, members of the House and Senate Appropriations Committee and Mr. Baker and Mr. Daniels the work of arranging details for infilte ation of returning soldiers into industry.

The War Labor Board, one of the agencies created by the war, will be retained it is said for a long time.

The Government will follow a policy of stabilizing labor and industrial conditions as thoroughly as possible in cancelling contracts for munitions and war materials.

The commission as now being considered in official circles would lay down the broad lines under which the nation would be converted from a war to a peace basis. It would act largely as an advisory body. Executive functions would be in the hands of departments and agencies now in operation.

Those paid by other people are the most popular taxes.

Wise is the man who doesn't write a truthful story of his own life.

A Little Sugar Goes a Long Way

THE Canada Food Board has put the homes on their honour to save sugar. But a little sugar goes a long way when you use Corn Syrup for cooking, preserving and on cereals. It makes it easy to obey the War Order!

CROWN BRAND AND LILY WHITE CORN SYRUP

Corn Syrup, is corn starch converted into its "sugar" form, making it even more digestible and palatable. It is therefore made from the most nutritious and wholesome part of the corn.

And as corn is grown in North America, and does not require for its transportation the ships still needed so urgently for carrying food and supplies to Europe, you can use all you wish of Corn Syrup.

Write to the Canada Food Board for Bulletin on Corn Syrup, and in the meantime, get a tin of CROWN BRAND Corn Syrup or LILY WHITE Corn Syrup and try it in your favorite recipes in place of sugar.

Several Railways Passed Under Government Control

Fourteen Thousand Miles of State Owned Roads Will be Under Single Corporation Cont ol.

NEW DIRECTORS

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, November 19. — With the transfer this week of the Intercolonial, National Transcontinental, Prince Edward Island and other federal lines of railway to the control of the Canadian Northern Board of Directors, approximately 14,000 miles of state-owned roads will pass under single corporate control. In the future these roads will be administered direct by the board without political interference, the directors being responsible to parliament for outlay and expenditure.

New directors are to be added to the Board to represent Nova Scotia and New Brunswick respectively. They are Thomas Cantley, head of the Nova Scotia Steel Co., who was formerly a member of the Canadian Shell Committee, which was succeeded by the Imperial Munitions Board; and Alex. Barnhill, K.C., of St. John, a prominent barrister, and business man. Mr. Barnhill, it is interesting to note, was one of the members of the International Joint Waterways Commission, recommended by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the Imperial authorities in 1911, when the Borden government came to to power. The recommendations, which had not yet been acted upon, were withdrawn, and men of the new government's own choice substituted. The directors will shortly meet to appoint the new members.

Order Restored in Berlin Says Late Despatches

Canadian Press:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 19.—The Berlin Telegram, under date of November 13, which has been received here, says that during the twenty-four hours before its despatch not a shot had been fired in Berlin, and that the physical crisis appeared to be over. Order, it is said, was maintained with an iron hand, and robbery punished by immediate execution. At that time the life of the city was returning to normal. Delegates from all the Soldiers' Councils met in the Reichstag Chamber on Friday to discuss the institution of the Red Guard. The proceedings were enlivened by divergencies of opinion, some advocating the Red Guard as civil protection and others opposing a plan as implying lack of confidence in the soldiers. Friedrich Ebert, the Premier, frankly declared in an address that there was no necessity for the Red Guard.

THE SOLDIERS WILL BE UNABLE TO VOTE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 19. — Herbert H. Asquith, former premier, in delivering an election speech at Caxton Hall, Westminster last night, said that when the whole future international development of the world was inscrutable, it was both a blunder and a calamity that the country should be plunged into the turmoil of a general election. He said his case against holding an election was greatly strengthened by the fact that the men most entitled to express an opinion on the reconstruction of affairs, the soldiers in the field, would be unable to vote. The House of Commons which will be brought into existence, he said, will be of such a nature as to lack the right authority.

Garbling the Reports

Doubt as to Whether Germany Is Purposely Garbling President Wilson's Message.

Special to The Examiner:

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 19.— President Wilson has informed the German Government, through neutrals, that unless the Germans maintain internal order, hostilities will be immediately resumed, it was declared in a Berlin despatch received here to-day.

Report is Denied.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President Wilson has not threatened Germany with a resumption of hostilities if order is not restored there, the State Department said to-day.

Stockholm reports that such a warning has been sent through neutral channels are believed here to have arisen from President Wilson's recent note to Germany promising food if order is restored and maintained.

Whether Germany is purposely garbling the President's messages is not known here, but to-day's report is the second garbled one to come out of Germany. The first report said that the President had demanded that order be maintained and the Bolsheviki kept out of Germany.

Pte. Edward Hargrove, a veteran of the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles, who has been awarded the Military Medal, for distinguished conduct on the field ,is reported to be dangerously ill at the General Military Hospital, Letreport, France. On November 12th, he was severely wounded in the left shoulder and received a fractured spine. This is the third time that Pte. Hargrove has been wounded. He has also two brothers overseas, Quentin, of the 33rd Battery, and Allen, who went overseas with the Cobourg Heavy Battery.. His father, Mr. Edward Hargrove, resides at 31 McGill street.

PTE. PANTER WOUNDED.

Mrs. Alice Panter, 623 Chamberlen street, was officially notified that her husband, Pte. Fred. W. Panter, was admitted to hospital on November 5, suffering from a gun shot wound in the left leg.

Pte. Panter went overseas with the 93rd Battalion and over six months ago was invalided to England with trench fever. Just recently he returned to the front.

City Will Put Up a Short Fence on McDonnel Street

To protect itself against possible accident for which it might be liable, the city will erect a fence on the south side of McDonnel street, where the diverted Downie street creek enters private property. Mayor Duncan reported to the Board of Works that the covering had fallen in, and that the dilapidated condition was a danger to the children. A short fence, it was believed, would preclude the city's liability, although it was agreed that the danger would not be greatly lessened.

The Bell Telephone Company was authorized to erect poles on the north side of Murray street east of Aylmer, south side of Edinburgh west of Bethune, and south side of Dublin street west of Stewart.

Following Ald. Edgar's reference to the unfinished condition of the C. P. R. sidewalk crossing on the south side of Chamberlen street, the C.P.R. will be asked to bring it into alignment with the cement sidewalk.

Ald. Saunders called the attention of City Engineer Parsons to the need of draining a section of Lake street on the north side between George and Aylmer streets.

THE DUTCH SCANDAL

French Newspapers Want More Light on the Status of Mr. William Hohenzollern.

"IDYLLIC"

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 19.—French newspapers insist that more light be thrown on the status of William Hohenzollern.

"L'Intransigent" wants to know whether the Dutch scandal will keep up.

"It is, certainly revolting to see the man responsible for everything, comfortably adapting himself to a purely political "'abdication,'" says L'Intransigent. "It is also revolting to find Holland offering such facilities to an ex-ruler, who thus is admirably placed to conduct intrigue and propaganda for again seizing power."

The "Tempe" insists that the affair needs clearing up. It points out that Prince Max of Baden did not state the Kaiser had abdicated, but that he had "decided to abdicate."

The German press calls William's sojourn in Holland "idyllic."

Possible Return.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 19.— The possible return of the former Emperor to Germany, the restoration of the old regime, and the formation of a greatly extended German federation is greatly feared here. Such a federation, with William Hohenzollern at its head, the "Express" argues, would carry the seed of another world war. It insists that the former Emperor must be seized and his activities prevented. The Daily "Chronicle," in an editorial, makes a similar demand.

Doubtful Situation.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 19.— The rumours that William Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, may possibly return to Germany, as supported by the Berlin "Lokal Anzeiger" hint that he would not be refused an entry to that country, have created a considerable stir here. They are featured by several of the morning newspapers as creating an uncertain situation which is rendered more doubtful by accounts of the activity of the German propagandists in several countries. The fear mainly is that the former Emperor would sooner or later become the centre of a reactionary movement in Germany, when the present revolutionary storm has blown over, and advocates of this view consequently fear his return to his former Empire.

This Man Wanted a Pathephone

Smashed Through Three Thicknesses of Brick to Get One.

On August 10th the store of The Phonograph Shop, in Montreal, had an unexpected visitor some time between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. During those hours the store is generally closed for business, but the visitor didn't mind—he had decided to get in—and he DID. It's evident that he wanted a Pathephone badly—and he GOT it. He went into the basement of the store next door (Holland's), performed the acrobatic stunt of climbing up through the elevator shaft, gave the Canadian Artillery an example of what could be done with brick walls by breaking through three thicknesses, and paid his respects by walking off with a No. 45 Machine and one of every Pathe Band and Orchestra Record in the place—total 182 records.

Although there were other makes of machines and records in the store, only Pathe goods were taken.

Germany Will Have to Take Her Place in Food Line With Rest of the World

Herbert Hoover May Go to Berlin Within the Next Two Weeks to Study the German Food Situation—Huns Want Blockade Lifted—Would Disrupt Food Distribution System of the World.

(By John De Gant—United Press).

PARIS, Nov. 19. — That Herbert Hoover will go to Berlin within two weeks to study the German food situation first hand, was the belief expressed here to-day.

The plea of the Germans that a continuance of the blockade will cause great hardship, owing to food shortage, is expected to be thoroughly investigated by competent Allied authorities, under Hoover's direction.

Should the blockade be lifted, it is pointed out, the entire food distribution system of the world would be disrupted, as the Germans would be enabled to go into the open market and bid against the Allied and neutral countries.

Aside from military reasons, a continuance of the blockade is therefore deemed advisable, as a guarantee that Germany will take her place in the food line with the rest of the world.

FOOD SITUATION IS BAD IN AUSTRIA

Mayor Duncan Invited to Attend Session of the Re-construction Committee

After the War Problems Will he Discussed—Contractors Will Attend.

Hon. A. K. McLean, Minister without portfolio at Ottawa, and chairman of the Reconstruction committee, has called a special meeting to be held in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa on November 26 th, 27th and 28th to lay a building programme for after the war problems. The Reconstruction committee have deemed it advisable that new lines of contract work should be studied and put into action with the view of re-adjusting the country to the present world situation. The mayors and contractors who will be asked to attend the conference will be consulted on the desirability of changing the various methods of calling for tenders, awarding contracts and the supervision of public and private work. In the opinion of the Reconstruction committe there is much room for improvement.

The Letter.

The Mayor and as many contractors as possible from all municipalities are invited to attend this conference. The following letter is addressed to Mayor Duncan:

To the Mayor,
City Buildings,
Peterborough, Ontario:

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the special committee of the Canadian Building Industries, I beg to advise you that at the express wish of the Hon. A. K. McLean, Chairman of the Reconstruction committee of the Dominion of Canada who, with the committee, respectfully requests your attendance, assistance and co-operation.

The war is over and the conditions in Canada demand serious and important work.

It must be apparent to you that the building enterprise (outside of munition activity) has been practically paralyzed for the past three years and with a view of reviving activity entirely on the individual efforts of those most vitally interested this conference has been called.

Programme.

Tuesday — Hon. A. K. McLean, chairman of Reconstruction committee.

Wednesday— Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works.

Thursday—Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labour; Mr. Thomas Moore, President of the Dominion Trades and Labour Council.

It is urgently desired that you endeavour to arrange for the attendance of interested delegates, preferably builders, contractors and suppliers of construction materials.

Yours,
J. P. ANGLIN,
Chairman of the Conference on Canadian Building Activity.

The labour outlook will be thoroughly gone into, the material outlook and also foreign competition.

Surrender of the German Fleet

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 19.—In compliance with the armistice, the German dreadnoughts Bayern, Grosser, Kurfurst, Kronprinz, Wilhelm, Markgraf, Kaiser and Koenig, Albert and the battle cruisers Seydlitz and Moltke left Kiel on Sunday en route to the North Sea.

British Admiralty reports said the German fleet was to leave its bases at 5.30 yesterday morning. Unofficial advices late yesterday said the enemy ships would not leave until Wednesday morning and would surrender on Thursday morning.

The ships named in the above despatch are only a portion of these to be turned over to the Allies.

S.O.S. CALLS

Canadian Press:

HALIFAX, Nov. 19.—Widespread shipping damage, due to a severe storm that swept over this section last week was reported to-day upon the restoration of communication with points along the Maritime coast. In addition to the steamship Cascapedia, which was abandoned and set on fire by her crew after drifting helplessly in a storm off Cape Race Sunday, the steamer Lake Manitoba and two schooners met with mishaps. The Lake Manitoba, of 9,674 gross tons, was being towed to Halifax to-day by a Government cruiser.

Heavy Damage.

Canadian Press:

QUEBEC, Nov. 19.—The tidal wave which swept up the river St. Lawrence last night did immense damage to villages and towns between Quebec and Three Rivers. It was caused by the heavy storm of Sunday and Monday. Caught in a terrific windstorm that raged in the Gulf last night, two vessels are in a precarious position. An unknown schooner was swept ashore at Fox River, Gaspe, and is a total wreck, her crew swimming ashore, while the steam barge, J. A. Tremblay, last night, was sending out flash signals which read "Help, need immediate assistance."

WILL NOT BE MODIFIED

Germany is Appealing in Vain for Modification of Armistice Terms.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Germany is appealing in vain for the present for the modification of the armistice terms.

Her latest attempt to get the terms modified fell to-day on deaf ears here. There will be no change of terms before the thirty day life of the armistice is concluded. What will be done thereafter in the way of extending or altering the armistice is a matter for the military men to decide.

Dr. Solf has wirelessed here and to the Allied capitals asking for a tempering of the terms as to the Rhineland's occupations, but authorities see no reason to alter the scheme now. The spectre of Bolshevikism is used by Solf as an argument for modification.

The Versailles conference and the Associated Governments took this destructive influence into account in all they did and they realize that there is a danger from that source. However, they do not intend to imperil Allied supremacy through a false sympathy.

Hun Propaganda.

In fact the German propaganda of sympathy has long since begun to pall on this government. It is now taking the course of withholding the wireless plaints from Germany on the theory that most of them are propaganda efforts without real merit.

Meantime cable reports indicated today that Herbert Hoover would soon go to Germany to see whether the starvation whines of Solf are justified or hysteria.

The Government regards Solf's talk of Bolshevism as very largely an effort to get sympathy or rather coercive methods.

In other words, it holds that Solf is trying to raise the bugbear of anarchy as a reason why the nation should be inordinately sympathetic with the plight of the German nation.

CANADIANS IN ACTION IN SIBERIA

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 19.— Canadian artillery is engaged with the British and American forces in fighting Bolshevik forces at Tulgas, on the Dvina river, in the province of Archangel, Russia, according to despatches from Archangel dated Nov. 13th, which indicates that Bolshevik infantry on Nov. 11th succeeded in reaching Canadian artillery positions, but were subsequently repulsed with heavy losses.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19TH, 1918.

NOT COMING YET.

Judging by two different news items which appeared in the papers yesterday, plans for the reception of homecoming troops need not be undertaken for some time, for the paragraphs in question may be taken as evidence that it will be several months at least before any of Canada's soldiers in France are returned to their homeland. It is stated in one of the items referred to, that Canadian troops are to be used in garrisoning German towns—in other words, that the Canadians are to form part of the British Army of occupation. The United States authorities have adopted the sensible course of organizing its army of occupation from amongst the American troops that have not been called upon to do any fighting, the newly formed Third United States Army being selected for this purpose, and it is presumably the intention to send home as soon as possible the soldiers of the First and Second American Armies who have been on the firing line.

Canada's soldiers who were in the fight years before the entrance of our neighbours to the south are apparently, however, destined to remain for some time, particularly as the second item referred to states that a Toronto officer is being sent overseas for the purpose of compiling complete returns as to the occupation, etc., of the men of Canada's army. It was supposed that all this information was secured at the time the men enlisted, but somehow or other the records thus secured do not seem of any value, and a new census is being arranged. This will be a matter of many weeks, and may delay the homecoming of the troops, even if they are released from garrison duty overseas.

HONOURING OUR DEAD.

Yesterday the Examiner published a letter from Mr. E. G. Patterson, suggesting that the City Council, in co-operation with the Board of Trade and other bodies, should immediately make plans for the erection of a suitable monument, to be erected in one of the public parks, in memory of the men from Peterborough who have given their lives in the great war. At last night's meeting of the War Veterans, Capt. Morrison, who was later on in the evening elected president of the G. W. V. A. for the ensuing year, remarked that the most fitting memorial that could be arranged to honour the memory of Peterborough's Heroes would be the building of a memorial hall for the use of the soldiers from Peterborough who have come safely through the perils of the war. He suggested that a suitable building, along the lines of the Y.M.C.A., and containing facilities for the business work of the Veterans, as well as for social purposes, would be a much better way of honouring their comrades who had fallen than would be a cold monument of marble. In such a building there could be erected a brass tablet containing the names of every Peterborough soldier who had made the supreme sacrifice.

In these two suggestions we have two widely different plans for keeping green the memory of the unreturning brave. There will probably be other proposals differing from the two already offered, and the fact that there will be so much difference of opinion makes it all the more necessary that the civic authorities should take up this all-important matter as soon as possible so that the details of the different plans can be threshed out and a definite policy decided upon. There is no solid reason for delay, while on the other hand there is much to be gained by an early consideration of the matter.

In the meantime the Examiner will throw its columns open to any citizens who wish to discuss the question of a memorial. Any letters on the subject must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer as a guarantee of good faith.

Aldermanic candidates are already oiling up their election smiles and limbering up their hand-shake ready for the campaign that is only a few weeks away.

GET OUT THE FLAGS.

Peterborough seems to have a reluctance towards flying the national flag or the colours of the allies. During the years of the war the comparative absence of flags in our streets has been frequently commented upon by visitors. On Monday of last week the marvellous news that the armistice had been signed and the war was virtually over, broke through Peterborough's shell and for a few hours there was the biggest display of flags and bunting than had been seen here in years. But next morning the ensigns began to disappear, and their numbers have grown steadily fewer until to-day the streets present the same drab appearance as usual. Canada has had a big share in one of the greatest victories in the history of the world, and Peterborough soldiers have valiantly played their part in bringing a successful peace. We should not treat the culmination of their splendid efforts as a matter for a one day's outburst of rejoicing. Let us continue our gala garb for a few weeks at least. Other cities in Canada and the United States are a mass of colours, beautiful flags everywhere proudly displayed in the breeze, tell over and over again the epic of heroism that brought the forces of militarism to their knees. The end of a four years' world-wide war is not an ordinary event—it is an occasion that will live in the memories of every man, woman and child as long as life itself lasts. Get out the flags and leave them out. Let Peterborough look as she really is, a city which has given hundreds of soldiers to the allied cause and which rejoices and is proud of what they have done.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

The tremendous success of the Victory Loan campaign, probably the most gigantic financial effort ever completed by any nation with a population the size of Canada's, should hearten and encourage every one. There are those among us who are most pessimistic in their views as to what the next year or two will mean to Canada. Industrial disturbances, thousands out of employment, poverty and distress during the period of reconstruction are some of the dire things that are being prophesied. But a people who only a year or two ago had to borrow its money for national undertakings from the Mother land, and who now, in the face of unusual condition and in the mist of an epidemic that swept the country from coast to coast, have completed the subscription of well over half a billion dollars to a domestic loan, can surely face the problems of the future with a good deal of confidence.

If it were possible to capitalize for use in peace times, the enthusiasm and self sacrifice which the majority of the Canadian people displayed in the prosecution of the war, the outlook for the coming months would be even more reassuring. And why not? Surely if men freely offer their lives and sacrifice their prospects of material success to go thousands of miles away to fight for principle and freedom, they should be as ready to make the same sacrifice for the sake of humanity at home. And the sympathetic, whole-hearted support of the multitude of Canadian women who banded themselves together to see that the dear ones fighting overseas should receive as many comforts as possible—surely that need not be dispensed with now.

In other words are we to lose the benefit of the spirit of comradeship and the desire to help one another that has developed in the period of national peril? Cannot that same splendid relationship be continued in our peace time existence so that reconstruction problems can be faced with the feeling that the Canadian people intend to meet these conditions unitedly shoulder to shoulder as they met the common foe in the world war? Or are we to sink back into the same selfish grooves of ante-bellum days?

Canada's future depends largely on how these questions are answered in the coming days.

"OUR TE DEUM."

The great war is over—democracy has won. For over four years there has been raging in Europe a war that in its horrors and its glory has no counter-part in the history of the world—a war that brought out all the worst and all the best in the whole of mankind. Twenty divided nations sent many millions of men into the arena to fight to the death. On the one side were ranged the hosts of liberty; on the other the hosts of slavery. And liberty has won. It was the sacred word against the tricks of diplomacy. And the sacred word has won. It was right against might. And right has won. But what an awful price has been paid. While our temple of victory is filled with trophies millions of homes have been made desolate so that the future of mankind may be better, and in that category of glorious dead but desolate homes are the flower of Canadian manhood. Their comrades having fought equally well the good fight, but more fortunate will come home. Also will come home the wounded and the maimed—the derelicts of the half million men who went to Flanders to keep up the good name of Canada. How well they fought. The records of the Canadian troops in the war will always stand out in the annals of chivalry and bravery, and those of us fortunate enough to have someone in the ranks will indeed be proud to take credit, however indirect, for the mighty deeds of Canada's armies in the great war of 1914-18. But what of the future?

If our Te Deums mean anything at all they mean deliverance from the worship of mammon and brute force as typified in the German creed of domination of might. They mean deliverance from the selfishness of the few who have enriched themselves at the expense of the many. They mean the right of the individual to live in the best sense of the term. They mean that greater responsibility has been put on those in authority to see that citizenship is made equally easy for the poor as the rich.

We in Canada have our special responsibilities—the re-education of our soldiers so that they can take their part in the rebuilding of the country, the welfare of those families whose fathers and sons have lost their lives on the field of battle, and the care of those wounded and maimed in the great cause of liberty. Better conditions for our workers must prevail in our industrial centres — better housing, better streets and more hygiene. Public life must be purer and better —the power of the private interests must be done, otherwise our men will have fought in vain. — Canadian Municipal Journal.

WANTS TO CELEBRATE.

Hamilton Man Writes a Letter to the Government.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—There is at least one man in Canada who objects to the celebration of peace with anything as weak as water. A Hamilton man who has lost three sons and who gives his name and address, has written rather pathetically to the Government, saying:

"We have had a lot of tin can rattling by the pink pill population, and relatives of conscripts and draftees. Please do me, the father of real soldiers, the favour of sending me a case of "O' Be Joyful" from your own cellars. I would like to celebrate in the old original way, and water would naturally produce only tears. I would like, while remembering my boys, who will not return to me, to drink to their peace in Heaven, but not in water."

CHASE & SANBORN MONTREAL

Voice of The People

WHAT LABOUR IS TRYING TO DO.

To the Editor:

Sir.—It may be of interest to the people of Peterborough during the period of reconstruction to know what labour is really trying to do. It should be borne in mind, that labour is not what has been claimed, in the past, a mere commodity. It is human power. It expends itself for the purpose of maintaining not only its life, but the life of those dependent upon it, which is of course the whole world. In pre-war times labour was given as little as possible, and degraded. Out of the labour market, like a great pen of slavery, came the millions to be sacrificed, men, women and children alike. Now labour is trying to make this sacrifice impossible, and to place itself on the basis where it belongs. Where it can secure from the world recognition of its services. It is struggling against the waste of human life, of human abilities, and capacities. It sees great rewards going to the few, and a bare existence going to the multitude. Workers of Canada recognize that the man with the dollar can overrun Canada, irrespective of moral character. Labour has better ideals, and looks forward to the time, therefore, when it shall be honoured. Gambling in human life must cease, and a new ideal maintained. We look for a moral and intellectual advancement, giving us a certain hold on the principles of good living. We look for shorter hours of work, because we know by experience that long hours have a tendency to stifle the intellect, impair the energy and vital organs of the body; and reduce the opportunity for physical and mental development. International labour movement does not discriminate in creed or colour, but unites in one common bond to preach the gospel of emancipation of the working man, preaching the sentiment of love and brotherhood, which is a stepping stone to a higher civilization.

Surplus Flour Substitutes May be Sent to Germany

The Millers Have Large Stocks on Hand—No Waste is Likely—Restaurant Men and Grocers Expect to Use Up What They Have.

The surplus stocks of wheat flour substitutes left unsold on the hands of Canadian millers and dealers by the order of the Canada Food Board rescinding the order requiring their use in baking, may yet find their way into the hungry mouths of the German people, if the forecast made by Mr. Douglas A. Campbell, president of the Campbell Flour Mills, should prove correct. That the new order will cause no waste or no loss to merchants or manufacturers with large stocks on hand, is certain in the minds of well-informed men.

"I don't think there will be very much waste," Mr. D. A. Campbell said yesterday. "It is quite true there are considerable quantities of substitute flours all over the country, but the Canada Food Board cannot be blamed for repealing the order requiring the use of wheat flour substitutes. They realized how the people of Canada had stinted themselves for many months to feed the allies, and rewarded them at the earliest possible moment.

"The Canada Food Board has not forgotten the dealers and millers in their latest move. They have arranged, I understand, for the export of all of it out of the country, probably to Germany, though I don't know for certain. The Canadians and the Allies have the right to get all the wheat flour they need rather than that any should go to feed Germany. There is no reason why they should not get the bran flour, rye flour and other substitutes, if the allies decide to relieve the food situation.

Trust the Food Board.

"We trust the Canada Food Board" Mr. Campbell went on. "We will get get out of the matter all that we paid and probably more. We and other firms changed our milling machines to grind the substitutes when they ordered them. We have enormous stocks on hand. They will not leave us in the lurch."

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION CURED BY Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WHITE OWL CAUGHT IN NORTH MONAGHAN

Rare Bird Supposed to be the Forerunner of Peace.

That the appearance of a white owl is a most conclusive sign of peace is an old tradition. An owl of this species was seen flying over the farm of Mr. Richard Moncrief, North Monaghan, and was captured by Mr. J. Burns across the river on the Devell farm in Otonabee, just about the time the armistice terms were signed. Mr. Burns, who formerly conducted a grocery store on Western Avenue, Peterborough, was rather elated over the capture of this rare bird—"The broad-faced chicken on the fence," as the small boy would say.

At first Mr. Burns did not regard the owl as a forerunner of peace as, before being captured, it had disturbed the peace of a fine flock of chickens and snapped off the head of a fine bird that might have been a prize-winner some day. Not being much impressed by the action of this messenger of peace, Mr. Burns pursued it with a rifle, but afterwards caught it in a trap, using the mutilated chicken as a bait. It was a real white owl.

Peterboro Nurse Volunteered for Dangerous Task

Mrs. J. C. Gamey of This City Stricken With Influenza While Nursing Smallpox Patient.

A week or two ago up in Oakwood, a case of smallpox and influenza was found by Dr. A. J. Prentice M.O.H., for York township. Immediately he asked for volunteers and received but one answer from anyone who would brave the danger. This came from a Peterboro lady, Mrs. J. C. Gamey, 592 Aylmer street, graduate of a Wolverhampton Hospital and a former hospital chum of Edith Cavell, whom she nursed with in Belgium. Two days elapsed and the brave volunteer was stricken with influenza. Remembering the answer to his last call for volunteers Dr. Prentice resolved to nurse the two patients now on his hands himself believing no nurse could be found. Quite to the contrary however, a young V.A.D. worker Miss Tomlinson of Toronto, sister of Mrs. Gamey, was on hand and now nurses her two patients in a little shack covered by a Union Jack on Eglington road.

Mrs. Gamey's husband Sergt.-Major Gamey went overseas with the 93rd Battalion. He had completed his course and obtained his lieutenancy but reverted to go overseas.

FIRE LOSS WILL BE ABOUT $300

The fire which gutted the carpenter shop at the Peterborough Planing Mill yesterday did damage to the sum of $300. A box-stove in the carpenter shop was the cause of the blaze. Shavings had been used as fuel, and the flames, escaping from the chimney, had set fire to a rack of mouldings which had been there for a considerable time.

Sparks from the Planing Mill set fire to Mr. George Steven's apartment house, 633 George Street, yesterday afternoon.

Children playing in front of Boyd's grocery store, corner of Edinburgh and George Streets, noticed the fire and notified the Chief. The fire was extinguished before it had made any headway.

America's Share in Cost of War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— America has paid approximately ten per cent. of the entire cost of the war.

According to figures made public by the Federal Reserve Board to-day the great war cost all belligerents a grand total of about $200,000,000,000. When hostilities ended November 11, this nation had disbursed, through her own war cost and loans to her associates in the fight, $21,800,000,000, according to unofficial figures from the treasury.

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

G.T.R. Must Assume All the Cost of Bethune St. Bridge

Board of Works Will File Objections to the Company's Plans With the Railway Commission—Did Not Build or Maintain the Old Structure and is Not Liable for New One.

ROAD BRIDGE IN REPAIR

The city will oppose the G. T. R. Company's application to the Dominion Railway Board for the approval of their plans for a new bridge over the creek on Bethune Street. The company purposes replacing the old bridge on the Lakefield branch line with a new concrete structure, and they informed the Council that they expected the city to pay the cost of the public highway bridge alongside the railway. In the statement of the city's objections, one point was regarded by the Board of Works as all sufficient, but they tacked on three others to round out their case. Their salient declaration is that the G.T.R. built and maintained the present bridge, and, therefore, must be responsible for any rebuilding without entailment of cost to the city.

Built By the Midland Railway.

From his lore of the early days of Peterborough, Ald. Dobbin recalled that the bridge had been built by the Midland Railway, as part of the Bellerville division.

Street Commissioner Evans stated that the company had always kept the bridge in repair. "We never put a plank in it," he said.

The Board was informed that City Solicitor Gordon had been unable to find any agreement that made the city liable for the upkeep of any part of the bridge.

Repairs Not Needed.

The city's second objection asserts that the new bridge will be six inches higher than the present one, and would necessitate the raising of sidewalks and crossing in the vicinity of the intersection of Murray and Bethune Streets.

Third, the bridge for general traffic does not need repairs.

Fourth, the piers of the proposed bridge are placed opposite the vents or arches under the old general traffic bridge, thereby erecting additional impediments to the floating ice carried by the spring freshets.

Ald. Langford moved that these objections be forwarded to the Railway Commission, and the resolution carried unanimously with all the members of the Board, and also of the Council, present.

Under No Obligations.

The Board was satisfied that the city is under no obligation to bear any part of the cost of the new bridge. To Ald. A. A. McIntyre, City Engineer Parsons stated that the company cannot raise the grade of the bridge without the Council's consent. He believed that the company's plans would improve the course of the creek at Bethune Street. The bed would be deepened and narrowed, and provide a freer passage for the ice floes in the spring.

Captain Morrison is New President of Peterboro Veterans

21st Battalion Veteran Chosen at the Biggest Meeting in the History of the Peterboro Branch of the G.W.V.A.—Veterans Favour Canada Insisting Upon an Idemnity From Germany as Recompense for Losses Sustained Through War.

The biggest attendance in the history of the Peterboro branch of the Great War Veterans Association marked the meeting held in the club rooms, George street, last night for the nomination and election of officers for the ensuing year.] In addition to a very large showing of Peterboro returned men, Lakefield was represented by a number of comrades residing in that village. President H. J. Staunton was in the chair. Keen interest was taken in the result of the elections and for some of the positions three or four nominations were made.

Comrade Capt. A. S. Morrison who went overseas with the 21st Battalion and afterwards served in France with a trench mortar battery was the Associations choice for the position of president. The other candidates were Comrade Harvey Staunton who has been president for the past year and a half, Comrade Dr. Wood and Comrade T. R. Cooper.

The other officers elected were as follow:

1st Vice President—Comrade Dr. Edward Wood.

2nd Vice President—Comrade R. H. Muir.

Treasurer—Comrade Geo. Coleman (by acclamation.)

Sergeant-at-arms — Comrade Wm Cole.

Executive Committee Comrades T. R. Cooper, Comrade Harry Yates, Comrade Capt. R. E. Layfield, Comrade F. A. Dainton, Comrade Fred Long.

Relief Committee— Comrades Cooper, Dainton, and Muir.

The election though spirited was conducted with a spirit of comradeship and President Staunton was warmly applauded when on the announcement of the vote for president he arose from his seat and congratulated Capt. Morrison on his selection as presiding officer of the Association for the coming year.

Six applications for membership were read and favourably passed upon by the meeting. Among them was Fred Mockett, a member of the original 2nd Battalion who enlisted in Peterboro in the first week of the war and has been three times wounded.

AN INDEMNITY

The meeting by a standing vote unanimously passed the following resolution moved by Secretary Whatley and seconded by Treasurer Coleman.

"Whereas the financial cost alone to Canada in the great war just coming to a close will be at the time of demobilization, approximately, one billion and a half dollars which great financial losses have been caused entirely through the treacherous and unjustifiable aggession of Germany and her allies and

"Whereas the financial cost alone burden cast upon the shoulders of the Canadian people to meet does not include any estimate of loss caused by the death, wounds and invaliding of those enlisted from Canada, whose power of useful production has been lessened for the Canadian people to the extent of probably ten million dollars annually and

"Whereas all Canadian appreciate that Germany being a wrong doer should be required to meet the loss as far as she is capable of those who have suffered at her hands and it is in the national interest that Germany should make good this loss as far as she is able even though she is required through the whole of the next century to compensate those suffering at her hands.

"Therefore the Peterboro branch of the Great War Veterans Association does hereby resolve that demand should be made that Germany and her allies should pay an adequate war indemnity to Canada for the great and irreparable loss that she has suffered in men and money and that Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada representing Canada at the peace conference should insist upon such adequate indemnity being paid to the Canadian people and when such indemnity is received by the Government of Canada that it should be utilitized first in providing a fund extensive enough to grant sufficient and reasonable pensions to every man and woman who enlisted for service in this war, and to their dependents who have suffered loss through this war and that after proper provision has been made for those enlisting in the war and their dependents who have suffered, then such indemnity should be used for the purpose of reducing the national debt of Canada and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary to Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, Sir Thomas White, acting prime minister of Canada and to J. H. Burnham, Esq., the present sitting member for Peterboro."

AFTER REV. B. SPENCE

The meeting also unanimously passed a resolution protesting against the action of the Attorney General of Ontario in dropping the charge against Rev. Ben Spence of Toronto.

The motion which was introduced by Comrades H. Yates and Wm. Cole pointed out that Rev. Ben Spence was was committed for trial at the spring assizes for publishing literature detrimental to the allied cause and banned by the order of the censor and that his trial had been postponed to the Fall Assizes, and went on to express the opinion of the Veterans that the case should not have been allowed to drop and that the Rev. Spence should have been placed on trial and if found guilty should have been punished to the full extent of the law. A copy of the resolution will be sent to the Ontario Provincial Branch of the G.W.V.A. to the minister of justice and to J. H. Burnham, M.P.

Comrade Yates informed the meeting that Col. Beattie, Director General of Chaplain Service, and formerly chaplain of the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F., is to give an address in St. Paul's church on Monday night next. He proposed that the Veterans should attend this meeting in a body.

Comrade Canon Davidson heartily endorsed the proposal. Col. Beattie had done splendid work in France, he said.

It was unanimously decided to accept an invitation, if one is offered, to hear Col. Beattie's address.

Secretary Sidney Whatley occupied the chair during the election of officers and before this part of the business of the evening was commenced urged the Veterans present to realize the great problems that would come before them in the next few months and to appreciate the importance of selecting men of the proper calibre to guide the Association.

Sugar is Up Again in Peterboro

Price Has Increased 50 Cents a Bag—Christmas Trade Prospects.

Yesterday Peterborough dealers were notified that the price of sugar had been increased fifty cents a hundredweight. Granulated is now selling at $10.40 a cwt. and yellow at $10. Supplies are still limited and local dealers are being supplied with about three bags at a time, consisting of two bags of granulated and one bag of the yellow brand. This brings the retail price of sugar up to two pounds for twenty-five cents, or eight pounds for a dollar. This time last year it was possible to get as much as eleven pounds for a dollar and a few years ago it was possible to get anywhere from twenty to twenty-four pounds for a one dollar bill.

Christmas Trade.

Discussing the Christmas trade prospects one local grocer said he did not anticipate a big trade in luxuries such as nuts, peels, etc., owing to the prevailing high price. The embargo which was placed on peels, but has since been removed, has had the effect of increasing the price, as most of the local stocks were purchased while the embargo was in force. This season, peels will sell in the neighbourhood of sixty cents a pound. Last year they were worth from forty to forty-five cents a pound. Almonds and walnuts shelled will range from sixty to eighty cents a pound. Many housekeepers are already in the market for their Christmas supplies and inquiries are being made daily for the many lines that usually go into the production of the Christmas cake, etc.

The wholesalers report a shortage of "Christmas stockings," which used to retail at ten and twenty-five cents and higher; depending on the quality of the contents. This line of goods is not being produced this year for obvious reasons.

Oranges and lemons continue high. The former are selling as high as one dollar a dozen and have been up to one dollar and fifty cents a dozen in Peterborough.

ANARCHY WILL AFFECT PEACE CONDITIONS DECLARED EBERT

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 19. — "If the enemy sees that anarchy prevails he will dictate peace conditions which will destroy German economic life," Chancellor Ebert declared in an address to the Workmen and Soldiers in the Reichstag, a Berlin despatch reported to-day.

HEAVY FINES WERE IMPOSED THIS MORNING IN POLICE COURT.

Five young men residing in the city were made poorer by $1,050.50, when they each were fined $210.10 for their share in sending a younger member of their set to Montreal for some wet goods, to be precise, 20 quarts. Each of the men paid their agent $6, and as they have now no booze to celebrate the signing of peace, they have lost $1,050.50—quite a sum if invested in Victory Bonds.

Mr. J. O'Brien, who conducted the defence, was overruled by the Magistrate when he contended that the men were not parties to the affair, because they had not actually the liquor in their possession.

DRAINAGE SYSTEM IS RECOMMENDED TO 1919 COUNCIL

The need of a complete surface drainage system in Peterborough was again dismissed by the Board of Works at last night's meeting, and on Ald. Worth's motion, seconded by Ald. M. McIntyre, the question was recommended to the Council of 1919 for their consideration.

Mr. J. J. Duffus presented three requests. The first was for lights on Water Street, south of Charlotte Street, which was referred to Ald. Dobbin's committee; another for permission to erect his garage sign on Charlotte Street, east of Water Street, was referred to the City Engineer with power to act. In his third request, Mr. Duffus asked that he be reimbursed for the section of the cement sidewalk which he built, with the Council's consent, over his coal chute on Water Street. The city subsequently laid a walk on the east side of Water Street, and as the coal chute required a width of only one foot ten inches in a stretch of forty-three feet. City Engineer Parsons reported that he did not consider that he allowance should be made. If the sidewalk had been built first, as is usually the case, Mr. Duffus would have been put to the entire expense of removing the walk as far as necessary and of rebuilding it. He would have had to pay the local improvement assessment and the cost of the work of tearing up the walk and restoring it.

The motion recommending the adoption of the Engineer's report, moved by Ald. Edgar and seconded by Ald. Saunders, was defeated by an amendment moved by Ald. M. McIntyre and seconded by Ald. Taylor.

"Mr. Duffus was lucky that the walk was not laid before he put in his coal chute," said Ald. Worth. By the amendment, Mr. Duffus is allowed a sum equal to the city's forty per cent. of the cost of the part of the walk over the chute, which it would have had to pay as part of the new sidewalk.

A Bill For Cinders.

A bill for $18.10 for cinders used on the approaches to the Exhibition Grounds was sent to the Exhibition directors, on motion of Ald. M. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Saunders.

The City Engineer, Mr. H. Evans, and Ald. Weir stated that they had understood from Mr. R. Denne that the cinders would not cost the city anything.

"It looks rather small," commented Ald. Worth, who felt that the city might have helped the directors by paying the cinders bill.

Want Trees Removed.

C. Eaton, 188 Aylmer Street, was given permission to remove one of five trees.

"They won't be long in growing up again; they're Manitoba maples," Ald. Saunders said.

Other applications for the removal of trees were received from C. Lacheur, Gilmour Street; A. Guerin, Perry Street; A. McLeod, Lake Street, and A. Cerico, 560 Dopegal Street.

BURN MORE AIR
SAVE COAL
BY INSTALLING IN YOUR FURNACE
Economy Air Burner

THE ECONOMY AIR BURNER is a patented device which can be placed in the fire-box of any Hot Air, Hot Water, Marine or Upright Boiler and is attached to a pipe on the outside of the furnace into which the air is drawn and becomes heated in the centre ring to a high degree before coming into contact with the unconsumed gases.

Why not reduce your coal bills by scientifically feeding the fire with this Air, taken in, PRE-HEATED and sprayed over the surface, and thus assist in completing combustion and consuming all your gases that would otherwise escape out of your chimney.

Just read one out of many.

TESTIMONIAL

138 Avenue Road, Toronto, July 30, 1918.

The Economy Sales Company, Ltd., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—I have pleasure in heartily endorsing the Economy Air Burner because of the actual results I derived from it. We heated an eight-roomed house with five tons of coal per winter and the house was very comfortable even in the severest weather. Before the Burner was put in it required nine tons to heat the house. We also had trouble with escaping coal gas, but after installing the Burner we never detected the odor of gas at all.

Yours truly, R. L. SHRINER.

We are the Sole Agents in Peterborough for the Economy Air Burner. Come in and let us show you.

The Cost of Living Is Still Ascending

BUDGET OF STAPLE FOODS SHOWS ADVANCE OF 23 CENTS IN WEEKLY AVERAGE

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—During October, the last full month of the war period, the cost of living in Canada was still ascending. Figures compiled by the Labor Department apply both to the index number of wholesale prices, which rose approximately four points as compared with September, and the weekly budget of staple foods. This budget averaged $13.54 in some cases, as compared with $13.31 in September and $11.81 in October, 1917. The retail prices of meats was slightly lower than in September, but eggs, milk and butter were higher.

The department reports that the loss of time on account of industrial disputes amounted to 65,969 working days. The percentage of unemployment among trade unions was less than one per cent. on October 1., but this condition was disturbed by the influenza epidemic.

BULGARS TRY ANOTHER DODGE

Athens, Greece, Nov. 19:—Reports of a change of the regime in Bulgaria and of the proclamation of a republic there have been received here, but official confirmation is lacking. Wider Market For the C.G.E.

The conclusion of operations on munitions is not likely to seriously affect the operations of the Canadian General Electric Company, particularly as there are prospects for orders for normal products of the various plants on a big scale. Municipal and other power needs have long been neglected, and there should be a widening market for equipment. Sales of the common during the week at 104½-¾ showed practically no change. —Financial Post.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. J. H. Burnham begs leave to announce that the report that Mrs. Burnham and he are separated is untrue. Mr. Burnham preferred Ottawa for Mrs. Burnham until parliament expires and he is no longer member for the following reasons. Being unable to keep two places going he had to choose between leaving Mrs. Burnham alone when he was at Ottawa or when he was at Peterborough Mrs. Burnham has many friends there and is almost a total stranger here. The Military Hospital Commission at Ottawa on account of her long experience and efficiency asked her to go back and help them with war-work. This she is doing. Mrs. Burnham paid Mr. Burnham a week-end visit recently and perhaps if the visits of husband and wife to each other had been chronicled in the "personals" this unpleasant task would not now be necessary.

The many friends of Mrs. Wm. Spencely, Auburn, will be glad to know that she is recovering from a nervous breakdown.

Pte. Lorne Northey of the R.A.F. Mechanical Section, Hamilton, returned this morning after spending the week end at his home, 435 Stewart St.

Mrs. Alex. Kay, Donegal St., returned on Sunday from two weeks visit with her mother, Mrs. Overend, Toronto.

Revd. Charles E. Pratt left to-day to return to his parish, Saba Island, Dutch West Indies. Mrs. Pratt will spend the winter with her father, Mr. Roland Strickland at his ranch near Eels Creek.

Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald, Lakefield, is a visitor in the city to-day.

Mrs. Frank Lynch (Matron Katherine McCarney) Halifax has been called home by the serious illness of her father, Mr. J. McCarney, 21 Bethune street.

WHILE EATING AN APPLE HE KILLED A DEER

Strange Experience of a Peterborough Youth.

BOBCAYGEON, Nov. 15.— A very excited lad struck town lately, a son of Prof. Gliddon, of Peterborough Conservatory of Music. He had been one of a party deer hunting in Harvey, but his holiday being over, he started to walk to the village to get the train home. Walking is fatiguing exercise especially when encumbered with a gun and an acre of mud on each foot. He found it necessary to halt for refreshments and sat himself down to eat an apple. While so engaged a very fine does walked out within thirty yards of him, which, with great presence of mind, he shot through the heart.

A TRIBUTE.

To my dear Mother, Mrs. James Smith, of Mount Pleasant, who died on Nov. 13, 1918.
Oh! summer winds blow gently o'er
The silent grave of she who sleeps.
Oh! summer rains refresh the rose
That o'er her tomb its vigil keeps.

The sun of life is sinking low,
The lonely day will soon have passed,
And with its close—eternal dawn,
A love long lost—regained at last.

WILL PRESS GOV'T TO PROCEED WITH BUILDINGS HERE

Delegates of a number of men who have been thrown out of work by the cancellation of munition contracts, asked Mayor Duncan this morning whether the Council had any work in prospect that would provide employment during the period of change from a war to peace basis of industry. Mr. T. Tooms was one of the delegates.

The Mayor replied that the Hunter street bridge plans have not yet been approved and that this work can scarcely be depended upon for some considerable time at least. After a consultation with Mr. J. H. Burnham, it was decided that the Mayor and City Clerk Armstrong should go to Ottawa next week to urge the Department of Public Works to proceed with the erection of the new post office for Peterborough ,and also to make an effort for the commencement of the dry dock which was promised when the war broke out.

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 32 cars, with 621 cattle, 106 calves, 223 hogs, and 580 sheep and lambs.

There was a good atcive trade to-day, with a demand for good butcher and good feeders. Although the bulk of the offerings was of a very poor quality, everything was practically cleaned up at the advances reported yesterday of 25c to 35c. on the best butcher stock.

Lambs were also strong at yesterday's advance.

Hogs were reported steady at last week's closing price, with a very light run offering.

SUFFERED TWO YEARS WITH PIMPLES

Child Could Not Sleep Till Cuticura Healed.

"My little brother suffered for about two years from tiny red pimples. They appeared constantly on his body but he had the greatest trouble under his ears. The skin was red and very sore and at the least touch he would give a howl of pain. After a few seconds he would have to scratch, and he was not able to sleep.

"A friend advised me to send for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I noticed a change, and I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Ointment when he was healed." (Signed) Louis Frank, 746 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Que., February 2, 1918.

Farmers Are Advised to Feed as Many Cattle as Possible

Close of War Instead of Diminishing Will Greatly Increase the Demand for Food.

The Toronto Live Stock Exchange has issued an important circular to farmers, which in part is as follows:

1. The close of the war, instead of diminishing, will greatly increase the demand for food, and particularly for meat. It is already evident that the chief reason for the capitulation of the Central Powers was that they had not enough food to go along with.

2. The products of the Canadian farms are cereals and food animals. At the present time the demand for both is unlimited. The first demand to be satisfied will, unquestionably be that of cereals. One crop will greatly ameliorate the famine; two crops will probably restore wheat reserves to normal.

In regard to live stock, this is not the case. The building up of cattle herds, particularly, involves a programme of years. Even if the foundation stock and fodder were available in Europe, the cattle herds could not be restored in less than five or six years, but all European countries —combatants and neutrals alike—are stripped of live stock and of fodder.

An unlimited demand will exist for years, both for breeding stock and meats.

3. The situation is therefore as follows:

Prices of grains will probably decline on a scale which will restore them to normal in two or three years.

Prices of live stock will decline on a much slower scale. Normal prices will probably not be restored for ten years.

During these ten years the advantage to the farmer of marketing his grain through the medium of live stock will be greater than at any previous time in a generation.

4. The farmers of Canada will not be able to take advantage of this situation unless they have the live stock to sell. They can place themselves in this position only by keeping their breeding stock this fall. Therefore, farmers, keep your cows, and your sows. Every breeding female held over this fall will bring rich dividends in the years to come. If Canada supplied ten times her present supplies of cattle and hogs there would be a profitable market for them all.

5. In regard to feeders for the present winter. It seems now as certain as anything can be that there will be a profit in the feeding deal this season. We unhesitatingly recommend that you buy all the good cattle & Jury and E. cattle as they can feed.

Sold by McDermid & Jury and E. cattle as they can feed.

SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF CATTLE IN EUROPE

An Important Statement by the British Ministry of Food.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.— Sir William Goode, of the British Ministry of Food, has cabled the Canada Food Board and after-the-armistice statement of the live stock in the chief European countries, which is of the utmost significance to Canadian farmers. He says:

"There is throughout Europe a serious deterioration in the numbers of live stock. The allied and neutral home-produced meat supplies cannot improve for several months, hence an insistent demand for overseas supplies will be inevitable. The meat situation in Germany, especially in Austria-Hungary, is considerably more difficult than we had anticipated, thus further increasing the call upon exportable surpluses to the limit of our transport capacity.

"Owing to the universal reduction of pigs, the world production of bacon, hams, pork and lard at present is unequal to the demands, including those of the United Kingdom, which has always been by far the largest consumer of imported pig products.

The milk yield in general is greatly diminished, in fact, almost to a vanishing point, in Central Europe, Holland, Switzerland and Scandinavia, which are normally large exporters of dairy products, will probably not have any considerable surplus for the United Kingdom, which will thus be practically dependent on imported fats entirely from the Dominion of Canada and the United States."

The following shows the decreases in most of the countries given in Sir William Goode's cablegram:

Cattle—France, 2,866,000; Italy, 996,000; Denmark, 345,000; Sweden, 599,000; Germany, 2,200,000; Austria-Hungary, considerable.

Sheep—France, 2,258,000; Italy, 138,000; Denmark, 47,000; Holland, 200,000; Austria-Hungary, considerable.

Pigs—France, 2,815,000; Italy, 354,000; Denmark, 1,873,000; Sweden, 252,000; Holland, 182,000; Germany, 19,395,000; Austria-Hungary, considerable.

LET PROVINCES DECIDE

DR. SOLF SUGGESTS PLEBISCITE TO DECIDE FUTURE OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN

London, Nov. 19.—Announcement was made in Copenhagen, Sunday, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from the Danish capital, that Dr. Solf, the German Foreign Secretary, had declared he would propose to Denmark that a plebiscite be held in Schleswig-Holstein to decide whether that territory should remain German or join Denmark.

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE. CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torure and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfect health."

BANKS MAY RETAIN GIRLS

ECONOMIC SITUATION FOLLOWING WAR WILL DECIDE IT.

One of the questions that is being asked now that the war has terminated is, "Will the banks retain the services of the large army of young women who have filled the gaps created by the enlistment of so many of their men?"

Bank officials say that it is yet too early to make any definite pronouncement, and that the questions will have to be solved by circumstances as time proceeds.

Officials of the Canadian Bank of Commerce state that there are still 1,384 of their men in uniform out of a total of 1,750 enlisted. "We shall gave first preference to returning men," they said, "but that does not necessarily mean that we shall have to dispense with any or all of the young women, as we do not desire to impose any hardship on them any more than on the returned men. It may be that the development of business in his country will demand the addition of several hundreds to our staff, or a position exactly the reverse may arise."

Mr. William Payton, of 320 King street, who has a son overseas, has received from a friend in the United States the following clipping from an American paper, which reproduced it from a newspaper published in France:

"On the Run,
"Somewhere in France,
"Everywhere in France,
"All the Time."

"Dear Papa:

"I am writing on der run, as der brave and glorious soldiers under my command have not seen the Rhine for so long dat dey have started back dat vay, and of course I am going mit dem. O pap, dere has been some offel doings happened here in France. First, I started in my big offensive which was to crush de fool Americans, but dey know so little about military tactics dat dey vill not be crushed just like I vant 'em. I sent my men in der fight in big vaves, and ven dey got to de Americane dey all said 'Boo as loud as dey could holler. Vell, according to vat you always told me, the Americans should turn and run like blazes. But vat do you tink? Dem fool Americans don't know anything about war, and instead of running de odder vay, dey, come right towards us. Some of them was singing about 'Ve von't come back till it's over over dere,' or some odder foolish song and some of dem was laffing like fools. Dey is so ignorant. But dey are offel reckless mit dere guns, and ven dey come toward us it was dat my men took a notion dat dey wanted to go back to de dear old Rhine. Ve don't like de little dirty Marnbe river, any way. And, Oh, pap, dem Americans use such offel language. Dey know nothing about kultur, and say such offel dings right before us. And dey talk blasphemy, too. Vat you tink dey said righ in front of my face? One big husky from a place dey call Missouri he said—oh, papa, I hate to tell you vat an offel ting he said—but I can't help it, he said, "To hell mit der Kaiser!" Did you ever hear anything so offel? I didn't tink anybody would say such an offel ting. It made me so mad I vouldn't stand and hear such offel tings, so I turned around and run mit de odder boys. Vas I right? Vat? And, oh, papa, you know dem breast-plates vat you sent us—can you send some to put on our backs? You know ve are going the odder way now, and breast-plates are no good; for de cowardly Americans are shooting us right in der back. Some of our boys took off der breast plates and put 'em behind, but de fool Americans are playing 'De Star Spangled Banner' mit machine guns on dem plates. Can't you help us? You remember in your speech you said nothing could stand before der brave Germans soldiers? Oh. Papa, I don't believe dese ignorant Americans ever read your speech, for dey run after us just like ve vas a lot of rabbits. Vot you tink of dot? Can't you send dem some of your speeches right away? Dey don't know how terrible ve are. Can't you move my army back to Belgium vere ve von all der glory? My men can vip all de vimmen and children dot dem Belgians can bring us. But dese Americans are so rough and ignorant. Ve can't make dem understand dot ve are de greatest soldiers on earth, and ven ve try to sing; 'Deutschland Uber Allies,' dey laff like a lot of monkeys. But ve are getting the best of de Americans. Ve can outrun dem. Papa if ve are not best fighters on earth, ve are sure de best runners. Nobody can keep up mit us. Ven ve tink of der dear old Rhine, and my army never did dink so much of dot dear old river. Let me know right away vat to do by return post office.

FOUND RESEARCH FUND

PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT IN DENTISTRY IS TAKEN UP

$50,000 TO BE RAISED

Toronto, ov. 19.—At a mass meeting of the 400 students of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, called yesterday by the Students Executive, it was decided to raise a fund to be devoted to dental science and research.

The plan was enthusiastically endorsed and every student contributed to the fund. The total amount raised in the college was $1,500, and this sum has been invested in Victory Bonds.

The money raised at the college will form the nucleus of a permanent endowment for dental research, the objective being $50,000 to be held in trust and the revenue devoted to dental research in Canada.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Has a Grouch Because Ruth is Going West.

CHAPTER XLIII

The apartment Ruth had taken was delightfully dainty and attractive. She had sold most of the things they bought when they were so cramped for money, and had replaced them with better pieces of furniture. She had not attempted to finish her rooms. But what she had put in them was in perfect taste, and good of its kind. She had the ground work, she could add the rest from time to time.

The lovely pieces of tapestry Mr. Mandel had given her, she had disposed to the best advantage so that they gave quite an air of luxury to the entire apartment. The larger pieces she had used as over-drapes or for covering odd-shaped pillows. The smaller ones for chair seats etc. The odd Oriental silks she had used in making lamp-shades and for draperies in the dining room, which was panneled in wood, ivory white, making a good foundation for her artistic hangings and the frieze which she had laboriously cut from several different papers, and so made an original design.

"I am so glad we are so nearly settled before I had to go west," she said to Brian the night before she was to leave on her business trip. "You will be very comfortable."

Mrs. Crawford was still with them, and would look after Brian. Someway, Ruth resented the sulky air with which he received her remark more than she ever before had resented his actions when she displeased him.

"You're not going to be cross because I have to go?" she asked recalling her determination not to allow anything he did to make her angry with him; not when it concerned the business in any way. She had too much at stake. The business and her happiness.

"A lot of good it would do if I am!"

"Come now, Brian! Do be a good boy," she ruffled his hair and pressed a kiss upon it. "I shan't be away but a week."

"A week is a long time for a man to mope around alone."

Ruth thought with a quick stab, that when she was away before he didn't do much "moping around alone." She supposed she should tell him that it wasn't necessary, that he had friends he could be with. But she could not bring herself to say it.

"It will soon pass, dear."

"Yes—with you. Staying in swell hotels, living on the fat of the land."

"Oh, Brian! as if that counted. Why, dear, I had rather have a meal here with you than anywhere else in the world."

"Tell that to the marines! If you did, you would," he said in a peeved tone.

Ruth burst out laughing in spite of her vexation. "If you did, you would," she repeated "Oh, Brian!"

"Well, I mean it," yet he smiled with her at the expression he had used. "When are you going?"

"To-morrow afternoon."

"Is Mandel going!" his face dark with jealousy.

"No, indeed! he trusts me to attend to the work alone. It is a great compliment, Brian—I wish you felt differently about it." This last she said wistfully.

"Well, I don't and I never will! I expect, now, all the people who know me say I can't support you, or that you are supporting me."

"Oh, Brian! you're too ridiculous. The women all envy me, because I am able to do something; and say you should be proud of me. Why, Brian, lots and lots of women whose husbands are richer than you are have gone into business."

"That's just the rub! If I were 'rich' as you say, you could do what you pleased and no one would think anything about it. But I'm not! and all my friends know it. So of course they think I am a poor, good-for-nothing sort who can't get along. So you have to help." His face grew darker, his scowl deeper as he talked. Ruth saw he was working himself into a ferment so she changed the subject by asking him if he knew the people across the hall.

"They are such a nice looking couple, just about our age. The man looks very pleasant; and she is so pretty."

"No—haven't noticed them," Brian growled.

"I hope they will call. I should like to know some nice people."

Don't call my friends 'nice,' I suppose," still holding the grouch.

"Of course I do! I haven't met one who wasn't, unless it was that queer Claude Decky; and I suppose he is all right only I never met any one quite like him before."

"Yes, Claude's all right enough. I'm tired. I'm going to bed."

"I'll come presently. I have to pack my bag."

"Of course! always something to do about that d—— business!" Brian distinctly slammed the bath-room door.

When Ruth packed her bag a few hot tears fell on to the dainty lingeree.

"Is he always going to be cross about it?" she muttered.

To-morrow—Ruth Plans to Bring Her Old Nurse to Live With Her.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of his old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

GUNNERS SANG HYMN.

Picturesque Incident of Dark Night at Sea.

The great transport was cutting its sturdy way through three dangers—the submarine zone, a terrific storm beating from the west against its prow, and through a night as dark as Erebus because of the storm; with no lights showing, writes a war correspondent.

I had the midnight to four o'clock in the morning watch, and on this night I was on the aft fire control. Below me on the aft gun deck, as the rain pounded, the wind howled, and the ship lurched to and fro, I could see the bulky forms of the boy gunners. There were two to each gun, two standing by, and six sleeping on the deck, ready for any emergency. The great coats made them look like gaunt men of the sea as they huddled against their guns, watching, waiting. I wondered what they could see in that impenetrable darkness if a U-boat could even survive in that storm; but the navy never sleeps in these days, and this transport was especially worth watching, for it carried a precious cargo of wounded officers and men back to the homeland, west bound.

For an hour I heard no sound from the boys on the gun deck below me. When I was on watch in the daylight, I knew them to be just a great crowd of fine, buoyant, happy lads, full of pranks and laughter; but they were strangely silent to-night as the ship ploughed through the storm. The storm seemed to have made men of them. They were just boys, but boys in these days become men overnight and acquit themselves like men.

I watched their silent forms below me with a great feeling of wonderment and pride. The ship lurched as it swung to its zigzag course. Then suddenly I heard a sweet sound coming from one of the boys below me. I think that it was a big, raw-boned Westerner who started it. It was low at first, and, with the storm and vibrations of the ship, I could not catch the words. The music was strangely familiar to me. Then the boy on the port gun took the hymn up, and then the two reserve gunners who were standing by, and then the gunners on the starboard side, and I caught the old words of—

Jesus, Saviour, pilot me
Over life's tempestuous sea;
Unknown waves before me roll,
Hiding rock and treacherous shoal.

Above the creaking and the vibrations of the great ship, above the beating of the storm, the gunners on the deck below all unconsciously in that storm tossed night were singing the old hymn of their memories, and I think that I never heard that wonderful hymn when it sounded sweeter to me than it did then.

SLAYER OF VAMPIRES.

He Kills the Real, Not the "Movie," Variety.

In the middle of the Langaza plain, a dozen miles up-country from Salonica, there dwells a strange character. He is rich. He has a good house and many cattle and sheep, and sometimes his linen and waist-sash are almost clean. By his neighbors he is treated with extreme deference, and his name is mentioned with awe in the villages for thirty miles around. He is Demetrius—Demetrius the Slayer of Vampires.

The Macedonian shepherd, tending his flocks in the high pastures, sets off on his rounds one morning at dawn and finds half a dozen of his sheep mangled about the neck and dying or dead. Forthwith he flies to the nearest village, and spreads the dread news—Vampires!

Now the vampire, you must know, is as susceptible as other mortal creatures to an argument such as is afforded, say, by two ounces of slugs discharged from a long-barrelled musket; but he has this peculiarity, that he is invisible to all save certain few and far between individuals.

Among those who have this rare gift of being able to see vampires, Demetrius is king. The tracking and slaying of vampires is his life-work. Occasionally, he will give his services to a poor man for little, but his usual fee is three hundred drachmae (about $60).

So our owner of the slaughtered sheep, if he be a well-to-do man, hies him to Demetrius and states his facts. And Demetrius loads his long musket very carefully, rams down holy water on top of the charge, puts on his long sheepskin cloak, mounts his pony, and sets off for the hills. At the waning of the moon he takes his stand upon a rock and waits for the vampire. In the chill hour before dawn, perhaps, you will hear him shoot once, and only once.

At daybreak Demetrius takes you to the rock and shows you the ground near by soaked with a vast quantity of blood. (The vampire, be it remembered, is all blood. Shoot him, and he resolves at once into his elemental.) Thereafter your flocks are troubled no more.

I have said that Demetrius is treated with deference by his neighbors. There is one exception to the rule. Andreas, who sells sour wine, and pickled fishes and holy pictures in the village store, has been in America. Andreas is a scoffer. He mocks at those things which all men know to be true. Andreas laughs when you mention vampires. He talks of wolves, and of dogs that run amuck. Yes, he even hints that it is easy to conceal a bladder filled with blood under a long cloak such as Demetrius wears.

But all the people know that there is bad feeling between the two, Andreas is not so rich as Demetrius, and they pass each other by without speaking.

War Demand for Shoddy.

The process of reclaiming wool from all sorts of rags has become a task of increasing magnitude since the placing of the government's big orders for army clothing, special machinery being employed to reduce the rags to shreds, wash them, separate the wool from the cotton, etc. Cloth experts claim this reworked wool, or shoddy, is suitable for use in overcoats, because a warmer, more closely woven fabric can be produced, if used in the right proportion with virgin wool, says Popular Mechanics. For this reason it is used in army overcoating, but all other uniform cloth is now pure wool, according to government officials.

She Understood It.

"Who is that man with the blue suit on just behind the catcher?"

"That, my dear, is the umpire."

"What does he do?"

"He calls balls and strikes and tells whether or not a man is safe at the plate."

"Oh, I see. He is there to warn the batsman when he sees the pitcher is going to hit him with the ball."

"You grasp the idea perfectly, my dear," he said, choosing the easiest way of dropping the discussion.—Detroit Free Press.

There was never a time when the sacrifices and the help of women were more appreciated than at the present time. Women should learn war-nursing and nursing at home. There is no better way than to study the new edition of the "Common Sense Medical Adviser"—with chapters on First Aid, Bandaging, Anatomy, Hygiene, care of the Sick, Diseases of Women, Mother and Babe, Marriage—to be had at some drug-stores or send 50c. to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ontario.

If a woman suffers from weak back, nervousness or dizziness—if pains afflict her, the best tonic and corrective is one made up of native herbs, and made without alcohol, which makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is the prescription of Doctor Pierce, used by him in active practice many years and now sold by almost every druggist in the land, in liquid or in tablets. Send Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c. for trial pkg. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are also best for liver and bowel trouble.

Stratford, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was a great help to me. During an expectant period I became all run-down, weak and nervous and could not eat—was nauseated. I also suffered with backache. I was a complete wreck and was down sick in bed when I began taking 'Favorite Prescription.' I soon commenced to feel stronger and it finally restored me to health and strength. I could do all my work and felt fine. I had practically no suffering and my baby was strong and healthy."—Mrs. Thomas Surlock, 206 Erie St.

BARBARIANS OF LILLE MUST STAND A TRIAL.

First Step Taken to Punish Germans For Crimes During Occupation.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Edouard Ignace, Under Secretary of State for Military Justice, has ordered a judicial inquiry at Lille against German officers accused of crimes during enemy occupation of that city. This action conforms to the decision recently made by the French Cabinet.

"These officers will be judged by a court martial in their absence," says the Temps, "if the Allies are not able to secure custody of the accused."

This is the first step in such prosecutions. M. Ignace anticipated the need for such action and in 1916 proposed the organization of a high inter-allied court to try Germans who committed crimes in invaded territory.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Her Destiny
Her Destiny

By BRUCE WORTHINGTON

It was a cheap dismal restaurant, or its fare the best Aline Durand could afford. A girl somewhat older than herself had entered and taken the opposite chair. Aline fell to covertly studying the newcomer. Her face was almost tragic, her eyes tired looking, her garments were poor, though carefully patched. In fact her whole appearance was one of destitution.

Aline watched the girl as she read the sign: "No meal under fifteen cents" and inspected her shabby purse. It contained two nickels and three pennies. The lips compressed a trifle harder. The girl arose. Impetuously Aline caught her arm.

"You have left your money at home," she intimated softly. "Won't you accept a small loan from me?"

The other stared at her in wonder. She uttered a harsh, bitter laugh. "You may not know it," she said, "but you are offering me charity."

"Even so," went on Aline winningly, "I am pretty near the same condition. Suppose we pool our respective miseries and exchange confidences, and meantime, please order a good meal."

The stranger warmed up to slight beer under the influence of Aline's hopeful, friendly overtures. She was Viola Reese, she told Aline, a stenographer, an orphan. She recounted her loss of steady work. She had been unsuccessful in finding a new position. She had wandered the streets all the night before and had slept on a park bench until noon.

"You are to come home with me and have my room," insisted Aline. "You'll take the rest you need for a day or two. Then how happy we will be when we are both at work again!"

"I never expect to be happy again," declared Viola Reese. "The cruel blows of fate have numbed me—crushed me. And I have no right to share your little store—you, so generous, so kind." And the speaker broke down utterly.

Aline handed her new friend two dollars the next morning after a roomcooked breakfast and she started away from the house.

"You may need some little trifles like handkerchiefs, or a collar, or laces," she suggested. "Oh, don't look so grim. You can pay me back when we get work. I expect word from some of my answers to advertisements, but I shan't cease to apply for work outside of that."

Viola went to the door as the landlady brought a letter. It was directed to Aline. Through neglect or rough usage the flap had come open. Viola noticed the name of a leading local cloak factory on the envelope. She hesitated for a moment. Then she withdrew the enclosure as she suspected it was an answer to Aline's reply to an advertisement. "If Miss Durand will call upon us, we can put her at work at sixteen dollars a week," it read.

"I need the place worse than she," whispered Viola fiercely. "Oh, it is shameful, treacherous, but I must not let this chance go by."

Viola Reese was awarded the place she went after, as Aline Durand. Two weeks later a terrible fire consumed the factory and over a dozen employees perished in the flames. Aline often tried vainly to think out the cause of the abrupt departure of her guest. Often she sighed for companionship, for she was very lonely, and there was a passage in her young life that had nearly broken her heart. In a neighboring city she had become engaged to Walter Marsh, an estimable young man. One day his wealthy uncle had sought her out. He represented that he could enrich or beggar his nephew, as he chose. He pictured to Aline how the dream of his life for years had been to have Walter wed Marcia Danforth, the daughter of an old friend. He told Aline she was spoiling the future of the man she professed to love.

Aline was impressed. She sent a note to Walter, telling him that he must forget and went herself in a new city.

He had sought for her everywhere, without success. One day in an old newspaper he came across the name of Aline Durand in the list of those destroyed in the cloak factory fire. Life was thence forth barren to him. He amazed and delighted his uncle a month later by informing him that he would follow his wishes as to marrying Marcia Danforth. The brief courtship was distasteful to Walter, but he felt that he was performing a filial duty in making the old man happy. The wedding day was set. A week before it arrived Marcia Danforth eloped with the man she really loved.

It was two months after that when Walter visited the neighboring city. He drew back in a doorway shocked, rigid, as there passed him on her way home from work, his heart's idol, whom he had long mourned as dead.

He summoned the self-control to follow her. He located her home, then he returned to his uncle. He poured out his heart to him. The old man was disappointed, the house was lonely.

"Yes," he said huskily, after a moment of thought, "tell Aline Durand I ask her to become my niece."

Walter Marsh had found his lost love. "I will not let you go again," he declared to her the next day, and gentle, loyal Aline, when he had told her all, was content to abide his will.

Banting.

Put away the pancake batter.
We want pancakes nevermore.
We have grown so fat and fatter

Put away the sodbot biscuit
And the sausage. Though we fret,

Our shape will grow rounder yet.

Set it here where we are at.
Though it makes us sad and dreary,
No one could get fat on that.

France and Morocco.

The amazing transformation of Morocco since its occupation by the French in 1912 is of world-wide importance, especially as it is a region in which vast quantities of wheat can be raised, so that it may become one of the great sources of the world's food supply. Mr. J. M. MacLeod, for thirty years British consul at Fez, gave a description of the achievements of France at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society which has been published in the Geographical Journal for August.

Six years ago tribal warfare prevailed. Now there is a just Government, administered in the interests of the people. Then there were only camel tracks, while now there are 500 miles of macadamized roads, 511 miles of railway, with 100 in construction, and 2,378 miles of telegraph lines. Then there were practically no ports, and Casablanca was a squalid Moorish town of 10,000 inhabitants. Now there are a number of ports, furnished with quays, stores and sanitary services, and Casablanca is a well-equipped European town with 82,500 inhabitants.

In 1912 every disease had its way unchecked. In 1916 there had been 68 hospitals established and one in every four of the people had medical care, with the result that in a generation the population will be trebled. Education privileges have increased in like manner, the 37 schools six years ago being represented by 180 now including a Franco-Arab college at Fez.

There are agricultural, horticultural, arboricultural, veterinary and meteorological services, and annual agricultural and cattle shows, while rural provident societies have been instituted. The municipal nursery gardens established at all the principal towns do excellent work in inculcating proper methods of fruit and vegetable growing. Active assistance is also given in teaching better methods of stock raising. The result is that Morocco to-day is no more an African but a European country, with the same economic laws and almost the same method of life.

A Drinking Song.

That most celebrated of drinking songs "We Won't Go Home Till Morning," found its inspiration in war. The air was composed by an unknown French soldier after the battle of Malplaquet, which was fought in 1709. The French troops suffered severely in the battle, and when night came a cold, drizzling rain and a shortage of food added to their discomfort. The trooper-composer wrote the song on a drumhead, and it was designed to cheer his unhappy comrades. It immediately attained popularity and spread all over France, and thence to England and America.

Linen Needed for Airplanes.

The high price of linen is due in large measure to the enormous demand for this material for covering airplane wings.

Women of Japan Are Workers.

Nearly 280,000 women of Japan earn their livelihood outside their homes. Many of them work in the fields and at the docks.

NAVY CARRIED 22,000,000

AND, OF THIS LOT, ONLY 4,391 SOLDIERS WERE LOST AT SEA

London, Nov. 17.—During the war the British Admiralty transport service conveyed by sea 22,000,000 soldiers with the loss at sea of only 4,391. More than 120,000,000 tons of naval and military stores and more than 2,000,000 animals also were transported.

The British fleet and auxiliary craft grew during the war from a total of 2,500,000 tons to a total of 6,500,000 tons while the personnel increased from 146,000 to 406,000.

While in 1916 one hundred and sixty nine ships were sunk by mines only 25 ships were destroyed from this cause between January 1 and September 3 this year. This has been due to the work of British mine-sweepers who have steamed 1,320,000 miles during the course of their operations.

The salvage department of the navy has succeeded in salvaging 500 ships torpedoed by submarines or mined. Most of the vessels again were placed in commission by the British ship repairing board.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind, and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the bismrated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc. but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

11,000,000 CZECHS AND SLAVS NOW FREE OF AUSTRIAN YOKE.

WASHINGTON.—The Czecho-Slovak Republic has begun its existence and the Czechs and Slavs, numbering about 11,000,000 people, having thrown off the yoke of Austria-Hungary, become free for the first time since 1620.

Thomas G. Masaryk, formerly professor of philosophy at the University of Prague, and since 1915 president of the Czecho-Slovak National Council, which was recognized by the United States and the Allies as a de facto Government, has been selected as the Republic's first President. He is now in Washington and was notified of his selection by the Council, which urged him to proceed to Prague to take up further formation of the new Government.

President Masaryk will leave within a fortnight.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mr. Arthur Hainge, Ashton Farm, Pasley, Sask., writes: "Two years ago whooping cough was very bad in this part of the country; our eight months old boy caught it and had a very severe attack. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and we gave it and nothing else with splendid results. When the older brother took the whooping cough we used this medicine promptly and prevented serious trouble, as the cough passed off in two or three days".

Starving Serbia.

The Dutch "Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant" writes the following in regard to the effects of Austrian rule in Serbia:

"According to statements we have received from former Russian prisoners of war, who while in captivity had been forces to work in Serbia, the Serbian people, whose land had been very rich in food products before the outbreak of the war, are now facing starvation. While before the war Serbia exported ten times as many food commodities as she was able to consume, the people of the valley of the Morava and the districts of Matchava and Chumadia are not allowed more than fifty grammes (two ounces) of bread daily, and even this quantity is not given to them regularly. Not only all their cereals are being requisitioned by the Austrian authorities, but even everything that serves as food, fruits, poultry, drinks, etc. As far as cattle is concerned, the Austrians have left only one ox on every few farms, and in this way the Serbs are deprived of the means for cultivating their soil.

"In the sections of Serbia occupied by Bulgaria even clothing is requisitioned; furthermore, in these parts of Serbia all linen, wool and leather are subject to requisition. Under those circumstances many Serbs have found it more advantageous to carry away all valuable things in their possession and to seek refuge in the mountains, there awaiting the return of their government."

To Foil Bank Robbers.

The up-to-date bank robber will have to steal a march on the military geniuses of the age if he has any hope of accomplishing his designs. For Mr. Walter Watson Arnold, of Dawson, New Mexico, has invented and patented an armor-plate cage for bank tellers.

"Hands up!" says the gentlemanly robber, and is obeyed with the expected alacrity. But the bank official's foot surreptiously releases a spring that causes sliding doors of armor-plate to move into place and encase him.

Adjustable plates fixed over the openings in a teller's cage are connected by a system of cables and pulleys with some stationary member attached beneath the desk. When not in use, a trigger engages sectional weights applied to the pulley. This trigger is connected with the arm of a bell crank lever, the other arm of which is connected with a rod or cable that is again attached to the foot lever—Popular Science Monthly

The Quakers In War.

It took the pen of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell to give his countrymen a different idea of the Quaker in wartime. There has always been a quota of "Fighting Quakers," and there is no lack of them now. Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges, albeit managed by Friends, probably have contributed a proportion as considerable to the fighting ranks as the larger colleges have given, though many of their graduates are engaged in reconstruction and Red Cross effort, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Stalwart, clear-eyed "Jim" Shipley, son of Walter Penn Shipley, is one of the Philadelphia Friends bearing Uncle Sam's rifle on his shoulder. He was assigned to a camp in California and about to be "sworn in." "I affirm," he informed his captain. "Conscientious scruples?" queried the officer. "Yes." Looking at the record, the captain observed, "Quaker, I see." "Yes." "Are you aware that you may be called on to kill men?" "Yes," said young Shipley. "But I don't have to swear at them, do I?" "You'll do!" said the captain.

The Difference.

An extremely wealthy man has occasion frequently to make use of taxis, and he always gives the chauffeurs the legal fare and no more. Once, when he handed the man the fare, the latter looked it over and said: "Excuse me, sir, but your son always gives me twice as much as this." "I don't doubt it," growled the old man; "he has a rich father."

It Scratched.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

You Need More Than A Laxative

To correct constipation, all organs of digestion and elimination should be helped. Try NR and see how much better you feel.

NR Today—Keeps the Doctor Away

To live and be healthy, your body mechanism must properly digest your food, extract all the nourishment from it and promptly throw off the waste that is left. This is accomplished by the processes of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the work of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

The failure of any of the vital organs to do its work properly affects the action of all the others. A forced bowel movement does not help constipation; it only relieves for a few hours the condition that constipation brings about.

Now if you are used to taking so-called laxative pills, oil, purges and the like, you know mighty well you've got to be taking them all the time. Moreover, if you stick to any one laxative, you've got to be increasing the dose all the time. That can do you a lot of harm.

Stop dosing yourself with such things just long enough to give Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) a trial, and let the results show the difference. NR Tablets are not mere bowel movers, their purpose is to correct the condition that causes constipation and give you real, genuine, lasting benefit; to improve your digestion and assimilation, give you a good hearty appetite, regulate your liver and bowels, tone up kidney action and give your poison-clogged body a good cleaning out.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is not harsh; it is mild, easy, pleasant in action; no griping or pain ever follows its use; but it is thorough and sure.

By its action on the digestive organs it promotes assimilation, which means extraction of full nourishment from your food, and thereby gives you new strength, energy, better blood, better appetite. By toning, not stirring your lazy liver, NR sends bile into the intestines, improving intestinal digestion. Lastly, by gently encouraging more vigorous bowel and kidney action, NR drives poisonous impurities out of and cleans up your body.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and just see how much better you feel in every way. Get a 25c box today and take one each night for a week. You'll say you never felt better in your life. NR is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Essential to Future Welfare of Australia, Says Prime Minister.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 18.—In the Federal Parliament the Prime Minister moved the following resolution:

"That it is essential to the future welfare of Australia that the captured German possessions in the Pacific, now occupied by Australian and New Zealand troops, should not in any circumstances be restored to Germany, and that in the consideration and determination of any proposals affecting the destiny of these islands Australia should be consulted."

The HOME CIRCLE COLVMN

Indolence is an enemy to home. Some men are too lazy to provide decent conveniences at home. It is a crime against the happiness of the home for a man to neglect to provide the little conveniences that will add to the beauty and comfort of the home. Say, brother, take out that old mildewed pillow and put in a pane of glass, it is too painful as it is. Climb up then, and put some bricks on the chimney where the storm of last winter blew them off. Put a carpet on the floor and a few pictures on the shelves and give your family a paper or two to read. Study to make yourself useful and to rob home of its bleakness, by providing things that add to its comfort and brightness. Make the children feel that home is a Paradise in which the thrushes of love ever sing high up in the clear, blue sky of the humble heart and you will have no fear of turning out thieves and harlots in years to come.

There is one sin which seems to us is everywhere and by everybody underestimated and quite too much overlooked in valuation of character. It is the sin of fretting, so common that unless it rises above its usual monotone we do not observe it. Watch any ordinary coming together of people and see how many minutes it will be before somebody frets—that is, makes more or less complaining statement of something or other, which most probably every one in the room, or in the car, or on the street corner, it may be, knew before, and which probably no one can help. Why say anything about it? It is cold, it is hot, it is wet, it is dry;; somebody has broken an appointment; ill cooked a meal; stupidity or bad faith, somewhere has resulted in discomfort.

Parents make their great mistakes in their training of children, by not recognizing their individuality. Each child has peculiarities in mind, temperament, disposition and character which makes it an individual problem. Mothers in lamenting the failure of home discipline sometimes say, "I am sure I cannot understand it: I have always tried to do my duty by them, and have always treated my children exactly alike." Therein lies the very secret of her failure; she has not realized their individuality; she has made the mistake of using the same formula for different problems; she has sought to move distinctly different locks by the same key. The same sun melts wax and hardens clay.

Much has been said and written about the model husband. A quarter of a century ago Ella Wheeler Wilcox penned her ideas of a model husband and we doubt if they could be improved upon. "Ella" said if she were asked to define the meaning of a successful man, she would say a man who has made a happy home for his wife and children. No matter what he has done in the way of achieving wealth or honours, if he has done that he is a grand success. If he has not done that, and it is his own fault, though he be the highest in the land, he is a most pitable figure.

A cut finger is not benefitted by pulling off the plaster and exposing it to somebody's eye. Charity covereth a multitude of sins. Things thus covered are cured without a scar; but once published and carried to meddling friends, there is no end to the trouble they may cause. Keep it to yourself. Troubles are transient; and, when a sorrow is healed and passed, what a comfort it is to say: "No one ever knew it till it was over."

We like to see the glancing, cheerful light through the window of a neighbour of a cold night, or watch them, as evening deepens, gradually creeping from the parlour to the upper stories of the house near us. We like to watch the little children going in and out of the door, to play or to school. We like to see the white-robed baby dancing up and down at the window in its mother's arms, or the father reading his newspaper there at evening, or any of these cheerful, impromptu home glimpses, which though we are no Paul Pry, we will assert go to make a pleasant neighbour to those who live for comfort instead of show.

There is food for thought in the story that is told of a young lad, who for the first time accompanied his father to a public dinner. The waiter asked him, "What will you take to drink." Hesitating for a moment, he replied, "I'll take what father takes." The answer reached his father's ear, and instantly the full responsibility of his position flashed upon him. In a moment his decision was made; and in tones tremulous with emotion, and to the astonishment of those who knew him, he said: "Waiter, I'll take water."

To honour the memory of the departed mothers and enrich the ever ennobling lives of those who are living an "International Honour Day," has been designated in the civilized nations of the world. The general object of Mothers' Day is a simultaneous observance of the love and gratitude men, women, children, and nations owe their good mothers. The special object is to honour and uplift motherhood, and to give happiness to "the best mother that ever lived"—Your Mother.

The Canadian Angle

E. W. BEATTY
New C. P. R. President.

AN amusing skit on the effect of the new C. P. R. president's hat appears in the Chatham "News"—this effect being produced, doubtless, by the law of suggestion. The hat of Mr. Beatty is said to be tilted at a rakish angle; and the moment that this was found to be the case, the mimicry of that hat became a sacred duty on the part of the employees, according to the story.

In the good old days of Baron Shaughnessy, says the writer, the brisk and businesslike boy who delivers our C. P. despatches used to march into the office with his natty blue cap set square across his noble brow.

That cap was a fixture there. We got used to it. It seemed part of the established order of things. One could as easily imagine the boy pushing it to one side or the other, as one could imagine a breeze on the Nile upsetting the great Pyramid.

One day last week we got a shock. Into our office tripped the youngster with his cap tilted rakishly over one ear.

"What's the matter, kid?" we enquired. "Getting the flu?" "Nope," and he brisked out again without troubling to explain. But we have just discovered the truth.

Baron Shaughnessy used to wear his hat square-set across his forehead. But the new president of the C. P. R.—its first Canadian-born president—Mr. E. W. Beatty, invariably carries his chapeau tilted at a rakish angle.

There are whispers going down the line that sedate firemen and brakemen and conductors all over the 18,500 miles and more of the C. P. R. are giving their headgear a shove to the east.

A commercial traveller through the West, who has escaped the flue, his system being too crowded with nicotine to give the germs even the tiniest foothold, mentioned to us just this morning that he had seen bellboys in the C. P. R. hotels out there with their caps entirely off their heads and hanging from their ears, like pagan ornaments. He saw that in more than one of the C. P. R. hotels; and what the effect may be if the new practice is prevalent throughout the eighteen C. P. R. caravansaries, it is impossible to gauge.

Telegraph operators in the 15,000 offices of the C. P. R. Telegraphs have been widely affected by the new movement in hats. The workmen in the great Angus car shops at Montreal, and in the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg and Calgary, show, it is said, scarcely one piece of headgear that retains the old Shaughnessy level. The Beatty angle is the thing now.

Even the chaps associated with the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services (representing one of the largest passenger fleets in the world), with the C. P. R. western lands, with their great $17,000,000 irrigation scheme and ready-made farms, and with the mining and smelting interests of the C. P. R. on the Pacific Coast—even the men linked up with these C. P. R. subsidiaries have yielded, it is said, to the lure of the tilted cap.

It is even whispered that a few of the older locomotives with the white-brimmed Stetson smokestacks of the vintage of 1889 have taken to wearing their battered crowns a bit to one side.

We asked the kid about it this morning, when he came in wearing his cap at an even Beattyler angle than yesterday. "Do you really expect to be president of the C. P. R. some day?" "Every fellow's got a chance," he rejoined. "But," we explained, "Mr. Beatty went to Toronto University and studied law, and—" "That's just it," he said. "He was only a lawyer to start with and look what he done—just through wearing his cap like this. Don't try to tell me I ain't got a chance—and here I'm starting at the bottom rung and working up." "But," we urged, patiently, "it's better to be right than to be president." "Yep," said the kid, "and its a beaverdamsite better to be both."

He gave the corner of his cap a yank, and went out whistling.

Boys and girls, what is it you can never catch, though you chase after it on the wings of the wind? You can never catch the word that has once left your lips. Once spoken, it is out of your reach; do your best you can never recall it. Therefore, take care what you say. Never speak an unkind word, an impure word or a profane word.

How an Edinburgh Woman Makes Jam.

A writer from Edinburgh says in a recent letter: "I wonder if you will be interested to know that last year I made all my jams in the following proportions, and that they have kept beautifully: 4 lbs. fruit, 2 lbs. sugar, 1 lb. corn syrup, and a teaspoonful (level) of fine salt. Just to test it, I kept a pot of black currant and rhubarb jam out, before adding the salt; it kept all right, but was very sugary, quite unlike the rest. Last year the corn syrup was pure as crystal; this year it looked very dark, so I did not risk using it, but instead used 3-4 lb. sugar to each pound of fruit, and the same amount of salt as above."

Hot Water Gingerbread.

One cup molasses, one-half cup boiling water, two and one-half cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons ginger, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon melted butter.

Add the water to the molasses. Sift together thoroughly the flour, ginger, baking powder and salt. Combine the two mixtures, add the butter and beat vigorously. Bake in a moderate oven thirty-five minutes.

Soft Sugar Gingerbread.

Two eggs, one cup sugar, one and two-thirds cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one and one-half teaspoons ginger, two-thirds cup thin cream.

Beat the eggs until light, add gradually the sugar. Sift together thoroughly the flour, salt, baking powder and ginger, and add alternately the first mixture with the cream. Bake in a buttered cake pan thirty-five minutes.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

SAY BACKACHE IS A SIGN YOU HAVE BEEN EATING TOO MUCH MEAT, WHICH FORMS URIC ACID

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a wellknown authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive cannot injure, and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

Two Splendid Things

One is plenty of open-air exercise.

If you can't get all of that you should, it's all the more important that you should have the other tried-and-true remedy for a torpid liver and bowels that don't act freely and naturally.

Take one pill every night; more only when you're sure it's necessary.

"ARID AS A CINDER PATH"

Temperance Leaders Meet at World-Wide Conference To-day—Extend Dry Belt.

THE SPEAKERS

Canadian Press:

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 20.—Plans through which temperance leaders hope to make the world as "arid as a cinder path," according to one of the delegates in an address last night, will be outlined at the sessions to-day, Thursday and Friday of the world-wide prohibition conference. Among the speakers who will address the meetings to-day are former United States' Secretary of State Wm. J. Bryan, Ben H. Spence, Toronto, and Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Chicago. National executives of Anti-Saloon League of America will also speak at sessions of the conference.

Mr. B. Revoy Struck By An Automobile

Face Was Badly Cut and Two Teeth Knocked Out.

At 8 o'clock last evening a car owned by J. P. Pulkinghorn, 182 Hunter street, struck a vehicle owned and driven by Mr. Ben Revoy, 292 Woodbine avenue, breaking one wheel and the waggon shafts, and cutting Mr. Revoy's nose, also knocking out two of his teeth. Mr. Garnet Fleetwood was driving the car.

Mr. Revoy states that he was driving west on Smith street, opposite 61 Smith street, on the right side of the road, when the automobile going east crashed into him. There were no witnesses, but the mud tracks showed the positions of the two vehicles.

PETERBORO'S LOAN PASSES $2,500,000 IN LATEST COUNT

Peterborough's objective in the Victory Loan has not only been long forgotten, but the later, estimated total of $2,500,000 has disappeared behind the splendid aggregate of $2,541,900 that was reported at noon to-day. Even with that splendid sum the grand total for Peterborough county was not complete, and it is expected that further additions this afternoon will increase the surplus beyond the comfortable round numbers of $2,500,000.

"We have not yet cleaned up Saturday's applications," Mr. Brownscombe said at noon, but to-day will bring the end of this phase of the work practically within the grasp of the staff."

There is an Actual Danger of Bolshevism But the Teutons Are Overplaying Its Possibility.

THE SEMI-CALM

(United Press Service.)
(By Carl D. Groat.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—That there is an actual danger of Bolshevism in Germany, but that Teuton leaders are overplaying its possibility for their own ends, is the official attitude of this Government to-day toward the German situation.

This position was revealed by the State Department.

It was pointed out that the semi-calm of recent days need not necessarily be significant. Russia started rather quietly, but when Bolshevism burst in its fullness, the nation went mad. The State department scarcely expects events to follow the same sequence in Germany, for intellect and training of the average German are higher than those of the Slav. It was pointed out that the Russians came out of actual serfdom only a comparatively few years ago. The German has not been a real serf, though he has been bound down by caste and by autocratic rule.

Solf Radiograms.

However, it was said that liberty for the Teuton probably will not prove as intoxicating as to the Russian. The chief element in the situation as seen by the State Department in the matter is that when the dead of winter comes there may be hundreds hungry through unequal food distribution.

That, as President Wilson has pointed out, tends to anarchy, so the State Department feels that there is still a chance of genuine Bolshevism, with bad consequences in Germany.

On the other hand the official governing the points added the suggestion that Germany was overplaying the possible menace in an effort to enlist sympathy for herself and to gain modification of armistice and peace terms.

"Looking at the matter from the German viewpoint it seems quite the logical thing for them to do," said the authority. He indicated, however, that neither this nor the Allies are being unduly swerved by the Solf radiograms wailing for help and appealing for sympathy.

Thrift Stamps Will Be Issued

Canadian Government Follows Example of United States—Will Issue War Savings Stamps.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Nov. 20. — Official announcement is made to-day of the government's inauguration of a war savings stamp and thrift stamp campaign in Canada, along the lines similar to that run in the United States for some time. War saving stamps will be on sale at a price which works out at about 4 1-2 per cent interest, and redeemable in January, 1924. Thus a stamp worth five dollars on that date can be bought in Dec. or January next for four dollars. As time passes the price will increase in proportion. Thrift stamps will be for smaller amounts on the same basis.

Car Struck By a Train

Serious Accident on Rink Street Shortly After Nine O'clock Last Evening.

Mrs. Ernest Huble, 193 Romaine street, sustained severe cuts about the head and bodily bruises, and Mrs. Wilbert O'Neil, 353 Rink street, severe bruises, when a G.T.R. way freight backing on Bethune street, struck the automobile on which they were driving last night at 9.35. The car, driven by Ernest Huble, was going east on Rink street, and when crossing Bethune street the freight, backing south from the diamond, struck it and carried it 100 feet before the train could be stopped. Mr. Huble, who was thrown out when the car was first struck, escaped unhurt. The women, however, were apparently unable to get out and sustained the worst injuries. The automobile was totally destroyed. Only the fact that the freight was able to slacken its speed averted a more serious accident.

Mrs. Huble and Mrs. O'Neil were taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where they are making satisfactory progress toward recovery. Dr. M. McClelland was called to the accident.

ALLIED LOSSES WERE SMALL

Bolsheviki Were Driven Back With Severe Losses—Artillery Fired Point Black at Enemy.

ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Canadian Press:

ARCHANGEL, Nov. 14.—The Bolsheviki forces along the Dvina river, their infantry attacks having been repulsed, to-day were bombarding the Russo-Allied positions on the left bank of the river at Tulgas. Canadian artillery is replying vigorously. Since late in September the Bolsheviki have been trying stubbornly but fruitlessly to drive the Allied forces up the Dvina to north of its junction with the Vaga. Bolsheviki losses are five times those of the Allies. In their attack on November 11, Bolsheviki advanced to the gun positions of the Canadian artillery. Guns continued to fire at point blank range and the ground before them was soon heaped with enemy dead. Allied infantry then counter-attacked and swept the Bolsheviki back into the forest, where patrols pursued them throughout the night. Enemy losses on that day were exceptionally heavy, while those of the Allies were small.

Gladman Party Have Returned

Deer Were Plentiful This Year.

The Gladman party returned last night from Parry Sound district with six deer, four bucks, and two does. The party consisted of Mr. Charles Gladman, Mr. Martin McFadden, Mr. J. B. Audette, and Mr. Dickson Best.

Nicholls Party.

The Nicholls party, consisting of four members, have returned from their annual hunt with eight deer, having secured their full complement four days before they returned. Several beavers were secured as a result of the trapping activities of the party. The members of the party were Mr. N. Nicholls and his son, Oscar Nicholls, 734 George Street, also Stephen Nicholls and Wesley Cummings, of Harvey Township.

Large Supplies of Coal For Local Consumers

Citizens Can Now Have a Maximum of Four Tons of Hard Coal.

The Fuel Commissioners anticipated the request of the delegation from the City Council last night and allowed the citizens to obtain two extra tons of hard coal, making a maximum of four tons. Further, the Commission allowed for the mixing of coal. Citizens having pea, nut or buckwheat will be allowed to purchase two tons of any of the other sizes, also those that have egg coal or larger will be allowed to buy two tons of smaller coal.

Mayor Duncan, Aldermen Taylor and Dobbin, a delegation from the City Council, were thoroughly satisfied with the resolution and did not press for further concessions.

City Treasurer Adams reported that only three orders for coal were received yesterday. Apparently the people are lulled into a sense of immunity from cold weather.

"When a few days of cold weather arrive," said Mr. Wearing, "the orders for coal will be coming thick and fast and they will wonder why they can't get it."

The secretary was instructed to write the various churches of the city, stating that the Commission would be very glad to hear of the plans which they are making for the conservation of fuel this winter.

It came to the notice of the Commission that many people are neglecting to sift their ashes. Ashes should be thoroughly sifted and the cinders used as fuel. Cinders is the ideal fuel to bank a fire up at night.

Mr. Alex. Murray, a member of the Commission, was unable to be present on account of illness.

GERMANY KNEW SHE WAS BEATEN

(British Wireless Service.)

LONDON, November 20. — Germany in the end gave way, not because she changed her views, but because she knew that she was absolutely beaten, declared the Earl of Reading, who has been mentioned as one of the British peace delegates, in a speech in London to-day. Lord Reading uttered a warning and said the allied countries should continue to be watchful of Germany and the utterances of her statesmen.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Vigorous Speech Discusses Many Issues of the Day

Distinguished Statesman Spoke in London Last Evening to a Large Gathering—Capital and Labour—Liberal Principles.

FATE OF SOLDIERS RETURNING HOME

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced last night that he would call a national convention of the Liberal party to decide the program and policy of the Liberals of Canada, to "examine the problems which have been laid before us when we know the full conditions of the results of the war," and "to endeavor to settle them on the lines of Liberal principles." It was the outstanding feature of a vigorous, eloquent speech, in which the former Prime Minister of Canada discussed the issues of the day. The distinguished statesman spoke to 300 men and women from all parts of western Ontario, representing the 31 Federal constituencies west of Hamilton. Each riding had sent to the conference three men and three women, and the organization of the Western Ontario Liberal Association was completed at the meeting in Hyman Hall yesterday afternoon. It was at a banquet tendered to the Liberal Leader last night in honor of his seventy-seventh birthday to-day that Sir Wilfrid spoke. He was received with enthusiasm and for nearly two hours as followed with intense interest by the gathering.

SOLDIER IN THE CHAIR

There were gathered at the tables Liberal members of Parliament, members of the Legislature, and prominent workers in the party, while the chair was occupied by Major Eric Reid, the son of the well known Western Ontario Liberal, who has served his country upon the field of battle. "We welcome our trusted Chief and ask him to be of good cheer, for it is well with Canadian Liberalism," said Major Reid in opening the after-dinner proceedings.

"To him once more Canada turns for light and leadership," added the Chairman, amid prolonged applause.

There was another outburst of cheering when Mr. J. C. Elliott M.P.P. for West Middlesex, who welcomed the distinguished leader to western Ontario congratulated Sir Wilfrid upon reaching his seventy-seventh birthday, and referred to him as "the greatest leader Canada has produced."

BANNER-BEARER THIRTY YEARS

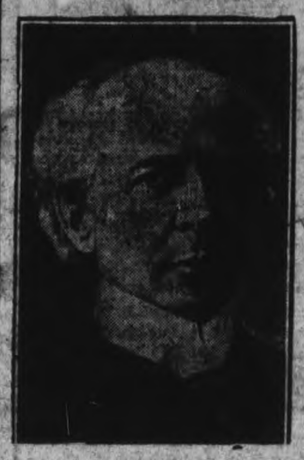
Sir Wilfrid had an ovation upon rising to speak. He said that it was about forty years since he visited this district for the first time, and it was then at Strathroy that he met for the first time the late Sir George Ross, whose son, Mr. Duncan Ross M.P.P., for West Middlesex, who was at the head table. Sir Wilfrid added that he had been the banner-bearer of Liberalism for thirty years.

"I have fought for Liberalism in victory and defeat," he proceeded, "and many were the occasions when we had to fight anxious battles. Some years ago I was urged by some of my followers to give up the leadership. But I am of the Celtic race, and I don't like to quit in times of danger especially." (Applause.)

THE CAUSE OF CLEAVAGE

"We cannot forget that in the last fight we were a divided party. You must recognize that the party is not as united now as it as at one time It is the part of prudence to examine closely what were the causes of the cleavage. Upon the question of the participation of Canada in the war there never was any division among the Liberals of Canada. We were all in favor of the view that Canada should go into the conflict with the best she had in her with her treasure and her blood. From the very first we supported all the war measures of the Government. We supported those measures until the day when it as announced that they would give up the voluntary system of recruiting in favor of the system of compulsory military service. Then came the cleavage."

Sir Wilfrid said his colleagues were given the privilege of following their own minds. "I thought I would support all the war measures of the Government, but it was my judgment, knowing the country as I did know it, that there had been no proper preparation of the people for such a deviation from the policy of the past, especially when the Government had declared again and again that they would not resort to the system of compulsory military service, and I thought the policy was a mistaken one.



SIR WILFRID LAURIER,
Who to-day celebrates his 77th birthday.

CLAIMS HIS POSITION WAS RIGHT

"To the end of my days my policy will be, as it has always been —the interest of Canada, our mother country. In helping Britain to defend freedom and civilization, if I took that attitude it was because I was firmly convinced that in doing so I was holding Canada first, last and all the time. When the thing is scanned we must come to the conclusion either that those who supported the Government were right and we were wrong, or we were right and they were in the wrong. There can be no doubt to-day as to who was in the right and who is wrong. (Applause.) The Government having thrown down the gauntlet, having appealed to the people on that policy of compulsory military service a few days before the polling, issued a solemn promise to the farmers of Canada that, so far as they were concerned, the law would not apply to them. (Applause.) From this city thousands of telegrams were sent by an officer commissioned by the Department of Militia, telling the farmers that their sons would not be conscripted, but that they would be serving the country better by prodding food than by donning the King's uniform.

IMPUTES ELECTIONEERING MOTIVE

"If the Government had not mismanaged the business as they did they would have secured from each Province of the Dominion the full quota of men to support our divisions at the front. The promise was given to the farmers, and the promise was broken," said Sir Wilfrid, amid wild applause. "The promise was broken by the new Government. How are the pure fallen from grace. Did! they think the war could be fought without reserves? Either they made that promise to the farmers in ignorance or they made it in bad faith. I know what was the motive. They wanted to win—not the war, but the election. (Applause.) There was only one thing to do, and I said: "We shall observe the law. The people may be deceived once. That is the crime of the deceiver. If they are deceived a second time, that is the fault of the people.'

"LET US FORGET THE PAST."

"The war is over and democracy has triumphed over autocracy. Let us forget the past. Let us look forward to the future and to the duties we must assume," proceeded Sir Wilfrid. "New trials and new struggles are in the face of democracy. The power of the Kaiser has been crushed. Now we are faced with the problem of ending war forever on this earth. It is a noble dream. Democracy is now the law of the best nations of the earth: England, France, Italy, the United States. Is it not possible that among those nations there may be an entente in which there may be an agreement that henceforth there will be no dispute among he nnnnnnnnn be no disputes among them which they will not settle by tribunal?

THE NORTH AMERICAN EXAMPLE

"I believe that the conference that will be held in a few months will give us a treaty whereby it will be decreed by those nations that never again shall there be a war between them." Sir Wilfrid expressed the hope that the United States and Canadian delegates to the Peace Conference would point out that for more than a hundred years Canadians and Americans have lived side by side in harmony.

INTERNED PRISONERS

Austrians Who Have Been Making Big Wages Here Are Anxious to Return Home.

EXODUS LOOKED FOR

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—In official circles here it is stated there are indications that in the near future there will be a very considerable exodus of enemy alien citizens to their own country. This, it is said, is particularly true of Austrians. Many of them have been making four or five dollars a day or even more in mines and factories. They have been unable to send any of their earnings home or to bring their relatives out here. Moreover there has been no opportunity for squandering them. They have, therefore, accumulated what is to many of them a small fortune. They have gained experience in the Dominion and are probably of a higher standard of efficiency and education than the average of their fellows back home. There is a revolution there and they would like to take a hand in it and share in the fruits thereof.

There will be no inclination here to hinder their going.

The greater proportion of the 2,500 odd interned men in the Dominion will also be transported to their land. At Amehrist the prisoners are mostly naval men who have never been residents in Canada prior to the war. They will be handled as other prisoners of war are handled.

Rochester Without Daily Newspapers

Strike Called Last Night by Allied Printing Trades Council.

Canadian Press:

ROCHESTER, Nov. 20.— Rochester is without daily newspapers to-day as a result of a strike called last night by the Allied Printing Trades Council. Neither the Democrat-Chronicle nor the Herald, two English morning papers, appeared this morning, and two afternoon dailes, the Post-Express and Times-Union, will not be published to-day. The strike order followed the rejection last night by the Printers' Council of the award made by a Board of Arbitration of five. Printers had demanded a scale of $35 a week for day work and $40 for night work. The Arbitration Board awarded $28 and $31. International Union officers are expected here to-day to settle the matter.

MILITARY MEDAL FOR BAILIEBORO SOLDIER

Pte. Wesley Hibbard Has Had a Hard Seige of It.

Pte. Wesley Hibbard, a Bailieboro boy, has been awarded the Military Medal for special service on the field of battle. He was attached to the 47th Canadian battalion and after seeing seven months of active service in France, and passing safely through the battle of Paschendaele, he was wounded on April 22nd, in an early morning raid by a German machine gun bullet in the right leg and arm. He was then admitted to Stepping Hill Hospital, in England, where he was seriously ill for some months, but after gaining a little strength it was found necessary to amputate his right leg above the knee. After this he seemed to recover more rapidly. But on November 8th a cablegram was received that he had been admitted to Nell's Lane Military Hospital, West Dudsbury, England, suffering from delusional insanity.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 20TH, 1918.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Canadians everywhere will unite in extending the heartiest congratulations to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who is to-day celebrating his seventy-seventh birthday. Although well past the allotted three score years and ten, the vigorous speech delivered by Sir Wilfrid at London last night, shows that the standard-bearer of the Liberal party for over thirty years is as virile and full of vim as ever. He spoke for nearly two hours, and was followed with intense interest as he dealt with the record of the government, and the Liberal plans for the future.

MUST CARRY ON

For the noble band of workers who have made the Canadian Red Cross one of the most effective agencies in the mitigation of war's suffering and horrors, the end of the conflict does not mean the cessation of their activity and the announcement of the Peterboro branch of the Society published in another column, is therefore timely and necessary. There is a vast amount of work still before the "greatest mother in the world," as the Red Cross has been aptly termed. Until every Canadian soldier has been returned home, there will be work among our troops overseas and even the return of all the soldiers will not bring the labours of the Red Cross to a close, for there will be many wounded men to be cared for in Canadian hospitals. In addition the needs of Canadian troops who form the Dominion Expeditionary Force in Siberia will have to be attended to by the same great Society, while the signing of the armistice and the consequent evacuation of French and Belgian territory by the Huns throws upon the Red Cross the tremendous task of assisting the refugees, thousands of whom are homeless and destitute and must be clothed and fed. In this humanitarian mission the Canadian Red Cross will play a great part—in fact, Canadians, themselves happily spared such horrors and suffering would not have it otherwise. It will be a matter of pride that the Canadian Red Cross was able to come to the assistance of the unfortunate French and Belgian people, and Canadian workers, unwearied after four and a quarter years of unceasing effort for the benefit of our gallant soldiers, will continue to play the game until the end.

Peterboro's citizens who recently contributed $30,000 for the work of the Red Cross will readily see that all of this amount will be needed during the coming year while the members of the different auxiliaries who have been doing such grand work in making socks, hospital material and thousands are urged to continue their exertions. The need continues to be great and there can be no relaxation for the present.

EMPLOYMENT FOR SOLDIERS

A correspondent who signs himself B. R. has written a very interesting article in the current issue of the Veteran on what he called the "Soft Job Menace." The writer evidently a soldier, handles the somewhat delicate question frankly and the advice that he gives to returned men impresses one as being inscribed in an honest attempt to be of service to his comrades who have returned from overseas.

Briefly he advances the argument that because of the indefinite promises made to them when they left Canada, an appreciation of the fact that through being disabled it is impossible for them to resume their former employment, and an ignorance of the fundamental factors which govern industrial life many returned men come home extremely indefinite as to what kind of a position they want except that it must be light and pay good wages. "In other words," says the writer, "a soft job."

Returned will agree that there is much truth in these statements. Nor is this condition of affairs to be wondered at. We all remember the speeches that were made when the boys went away. We heard them here in Peterboro as they were heard all over the Dominion, "The best will be none too good for you when you come back," was an expression that punctuated the cheers at every send-off in Canada. It is not surprising then that a man who has undergone months in that hell-on-earth overseas, and remembering the promises that were made should come home expecting that some light, profitable employment should be found for him. Goodness knows the men who come back to us from the firing line are entitled to a "soft job." But unfortunately there are not enough or nearly enough "soft jobs" to go around, and the man who comes back must expect to find that the fundamental principles of industry are still operating in Canada, that even his great services overseas will not enable him to get something for nothing. In other words the returned soldiers must have something to give an employer, either skill or brain or strength.

It is pointed out by the writer quoted that a large proportion of the Canadian army is composed of unskilled labour, of which there was a surplus in Canada before the war and the surplus threatens to become greater by reason of the fact that many skilled men who went overseas have come back physically unable to resume their former work. It becomes a paramount duty for every disabled soldier to benefit himself and Canada by endeavoring to raise himself from the ranks of unskilled labour.

In the opinion of the Examiner the vocational training system of the Government is not receiving the attention it should from the returned men. It is not perfect by any means and can be greatly improved, but as it stands at present it offers facilities for the re-education of disabled soldiers that should not be neglected.

No more important work could be accomplished by the Peterboro branch of the Great War Veterans Association than that of investigating the possibilities of the vocational training system thoroughly, recommending improvements where they see a chance of altering the system, and impressing upon all its disabled members unable to follow their former occupations the necessity of fitting themselves, if possible, for positions they will, with training, be capable of filling. The disabled soldier whose only asset before the war was strength and brawn will be a handicap to himself and the community if he is not given or does not take advantage of a chance to re-educate himself.

A CALL TO SERVICE

There seems to be an early and unusually great interest in the coming municipal elections, and this augury is most welcome, for if there ever was in Peterborough's history a time when the ratepayers should concern themselves with the qualifications and calibre of the men they chose to govern the affairs of the city, it is now. In the past the people of Peterborough have been rather indifferent as to what candidates were nominated and as to who was elected. Peterborough has suffered through this indifference because it has inevitably at times resulted in the election of aldermen, undoubtedly respectable citizens and good fellows in themselves, but hardly possessing the qualities that should be considered essential for the governing body of a city the size of Peterborough.

The ratepayers cannot afford to adopt this careless attitude towards the election of next year's council, because the problems that will come up in the next twelve months will be too big and too serious to entrust to an aldermanic board of the calibre of some that have filled the council room chairs in past years. The Hunter street bridge, the possible purchase of the Radial Railway, the absorption of Peterborough's soldiers into civilian life, the planning and election of a suitable monument to the memory of the heroic men from this city who lie beneath the sod of France and Belgium, the adoption of a housing scheme, the encouragement of manufacturing, the planning of municipal works as a means of relieving possible unemployment, these are but a few of the problems that will have to be dealt with by next year's council.

It will be a man's size job—and cannot be left to men, who honest and willing though they be, are not qualified to grasp problems of this kind with the shrewdness and energy that will be needed to carry them through to success.

A number of organizations recognizing the important wark that will have to be undertaken in 1919, are already planning to be represented in next year's council. The Trades and Labour Council will undoubtedly place four or five candidates in the field, and it is an open secret that the Great War Veterans' Association is preparing to enter the arena with one and possibly two candidates for the aldermanic board. It is fitting that such should be the case, for many of the questions that will come up next year will directly affect both organized labour and returned soldiers, and the desire of both of these bodies to have direct representation in the council is natural and commendable.

As the majority of this year's aldermen are expected to again stand, the field already in sight is a varied one, bue yet cannot be called representative. There is a dearth of candidates from the business, professional and manufacturing interests in Peterborough, and this is neither desirable nor promising for the future. It is to be hoped that before nomination day rolls around that it may be possible to induce more of these citizens who have made a success of their own business to offer themselves for next year's council.

There is a clear call to service for the big men of the city—men who are honest and energetic, able to grasp the details of big problems and to act promptly and unhesitatingly. It is true that the City Council has offered little attraction to business men in the past—their services were not appreciated and more abuse than praise has always been their lot. The result has been that while it has always been possible to select a Board of Education of qualified, capable citizens, it has been most difficult to secure men of the same type as aldermanic candidates. It would be most unfortunate if this proves to be the case in the coming election, and The Examiner hopes that the programme to come before next year's council will be appreciated by some of our leading citizens. For this one year at least, the year of reconstruction, when business ability and enterprise will be needed as never before in Peterborough if this city is to hold her own with her rivals, are there not public-spirited citizens who will come forward in answer to the call for service?

THE PUNISHMENT OF WILHELM

(New York Times).

Many ill-considered opinions have been expressed as to the penalty that ought to be inflicted upon the dethroned German Kaiser by a world into which he has brought so much misery. The feeling is almost universal that his crimes transcend the provision of criminal law, for he is the world's greatest criminal and even the most terrible statutory penalties fall miserably short of his desert. The weakest suggestion is that he be extradited to England to be tried there under the murder indictment brought against him in the Lusitania case. To begin with, no extradition writ would be honored. But suppose he were tried, found guilty, and executed. Would not that end his sufferings? Retribution would cheat itself if so soon his sufferings were ended.

Why should not every civilized human being pray that this man of altogether unspeakable sin may live for ever to undergo through the unending years of time those mental tortures, far surpassing any conceivable physical pangs, which we may be sure are afflicting him at this moment? Remorse he may not feel; we cannot well know the mental and spiritual nature of this incomparable malefactor. But he must feel the immeasurable difference between his present despised state and that high position from which he has fallen. Excruciating as that torment must be, it is only the beginning. He knows that earth's millions detest him, loathe him, hate him with a hatred never before visited upon mortal man. They all shun him, or seek him out only for hot reproach and reviling. The guilt of ten million murders rests upon his soul, for he is the man, the only man, who might have stopped the war before it began; he was the greatest exemplar, preacher, and practitioner of that theory of rule over men out of which the war was born. "Thou art the man," is what the world has said to him from the beginning.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The announcement that it may be some time before the Canadian army is returned from overseas is not made any better in the eyes of Canadian girls by the statement of Hon. Dr. Cody that 1,200 Dominion troops are being married to English girls every month.

There has been no public announcement yet as to the appointment of a bailiff for Peterboro. Does that mean there is still chance for a returned soldier?

Ottawa has changed its mind again and defaulters under the Military Service Act are to be apprehended. Any other course would have been rank injustice.

The familiar question "Will the German fleet come out?" has been settled at last.

Will Continue the Negotiations

Erzberger Reveals Himself as Secretary of State For Peace.

Canadian Press:

BASEL, Nov. 20.—Mathias Erzberger, Secretary of State without portfolio in the German cabinet, and head of the delgates who were sent to Marshal Foch's headquarters, has agreed, at the request of the Government, to continue negotiations relative to the armistice and to prepare for those of peace, according to the "Post" of Strassburg. He thus, strictly speaking, is Secretary of State for peace, it is said.

NEED FOR SUPPLIES IS STILL GREAT.

At the monthly meeting of the Executive of the local branch of the Red Cross Society, held on Monday, November 18, emphasis was laid on the fact that work should not be slackened. The need for hospital supplies did not end with the signing of the armistice — the military hospitals are filled with patients who require as much care and attention as during the war.

Workers are reminded that the workroom at the Public Library will be open for work on Wednesday afternoon as usual.

More helpers are urgently needed.

Inmates of the Peterboro Protestant Home Cost $3.55 1-2 Per Week for Maintenance

This is Mainly Due to the Excellent Work of the Management and the War Garden—Annual Meeting of the Board.

OFFICERS ELECTED

At the annual meeting of the Protestant Home held yesterday, the officers elected were: President, Mrs. Walter Roger; Hon. Pres. Mrs. Hazlet 1st. Vice Pres. Mrs. Robert Neil; 2nd Vice Pres. Mrs. Duncan Walker; Secretary Mrs. F. Davidson; Treasurer, Miss S. Robinson; Hon. Vice Pres. Mrs. Birdsall and Miss Nicholls, Mrs. Neil, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Hall were re-elected directors for three years, Miss Archer and Mrs. Ellis were elected for one year.

WERE PRESENT

Those present included Mrs. W. Roger; Mrs. Duncan Walker; Mrs. Robert Hall; Mrs. G. Suckling; Miss S. Robinson; Miss. M. Archer; Miss Davidson; Miss. S. R. Armstrong, Mrs. E. F. Mason; Rev. J. W. White; Rev. J. A. McKenzie; Mrs. Walsh, Mrs Neil; Ald. Taylor; Mrs. (Dr.) Harvey and Mrs. C. S. McLelland. Rev. Mr. McKenzie opened the meeting with prayer.

ANNUAL REPORT

The Annual Report of the Protestant home shows a larger number of admissions tha ever before. Forty-two persons, twenty-four men and eigheen women were admitted, of whom twety-eight remain at the close of the year. 17 men and eleven women. Total number of days 11,609, average number 277. Nine for various causes have been discharged.

Twenty-five meetings of the Board are recorded with an average attendance of seven.

SUNDAY SERVICES

The Sunday Services have been continuously held with the exception of two Sundays last Winter, when the weather was extremely stormy.

Last November the citizens responded generously to the invitation to a jom and linen shower, and the Christmas Season brought its usual gifts and donations from the public, both in money and provisions. The Christmas Eve Entertainment was most enjoyable. Rev. Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Kenyon of Knox Church contributed to the pleasure of the evening assisted by Master Walter and Miss Helen Collins and Miss Muriel Harvey.

Through the liberality of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Waddell, the womans' sitting room was very beautifully and comfortably furnished in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Waddell. Also the splendid gift to the Home of an Edison Diamond Disc was made possible by the many friends of the Home the energy of Mrs. F. L. Robinson and the liberal discount given by Mr. J. M. Greene, from whom the instrument was purchased.

In July the Royal Arthur Lodge provided automobiles and took about twenty-six old people to South Beach for dinner. Needless to say they all enjoyed themselves very much and one old lady wished the gentlemen "Many Happy Returns."

GARDENING OPERATIONS

Mr. Hamilton has been very successful again this year with the garden and since the completion of the root house he is able to store all the vegetables for the winter.

The Board would like to express their appreciation of Miss Lancaster's efficiency in managing the old people and in making the last days of many so comfortable and happy.

Although the Treasurer's Report shows all bills paid, the Board are obliged to admit that this has been done at the expense of the future resources. Heretofore the reports have shown a balance in the Savings Bank. This has been depleted from various causes. The expenses have been extraordinarily heavy and in addition to those which have appeared, is the item of added Insurance. The Board of Directors in the spring, drew attention to the fact that the Insurance on the Home, was quite inadequate and in May a very careful inventory was taken of all furniture, linen, bedding, etc., in the Home and additional insurance was put on.

The thanks of the Board are extended to the Doctors of the City who have so willingly given their services to the clergy, for their kindness in holding the Sunday Services and visiting the inmates, to gentlemen who act as auditors, to the Press for their courtesy in inserting notices, and to all the friends who show interest in the Home by many acts of kindness.

LOW COST PER HEAD

In commenting upon the financial report Mr. E. F. Mason said that the cost per head of each inmate ($3.55½) per week, deducting expenses such as insurance, is appreciably smaller than in any other institution. This he said is due to the splendid work of the board of management and the gardener. Contrary to the general rule of a public institution, the board did everything to save the town expense. The management took every precaution against needless expense yet the inmates are all fed and clothed as a result of which they are happy and contented.

CONGRATULATED MANAGEMENT

Reverend A. J. MacKenzie congratulated the management upon their solving of the high cost of living. Alderman Taylor in also congratulating the management, said that the city officials appreciated the splendid management and look upon the Home as the best managed institution in the city.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Mrs. Rogers in a short address spoke of the willing response the council has always made to any request. The Board had however never asked for anything which was not absolutely necessary. She thanked the Superintendent and manager for their splendid co-operation in curtailing the expenses of the institution and helping the inmates. She particularly spoke of the almost total absence of doctor bills due to the extensive medicine chest kept by Miss Lancaster and her judicious use of this. In conclusion she spoke of the work done by Mr. Hamilton, who recently took charge of the men. "The men", she said, "are hard to manage and apt to discount the authority of a woman" 'only a parcel of weemin' is their usual ridicule of any attempt at coercion by a woman.

AN INCREASE

Mr. E. F. Mason, after warning Ald. Taylor that the Home is going to ask the council for an increase presently paid a warm tribute to the work of the Treasurer, Miss Robineon, and Secretary, Miss F. Davidson, which has always been absolutely satisfactory. He concluded by speaking of the immeasurable debt the public owes Mrs. Roger for her untiring interest in the Home and to Miss Lancaster and Ms. Hamilton for their work. "The only fault with Miss Lancaster and Mr. Hamilton for their tender hearted."

CHANGED ATMOSPHERE

In giving a verbal report Miss Lancaster spoke of the changed atmosphere, evident to her in the Home. The old people have come to a feeling that the institution is home. This she though was due to to the influence of the services held by the clergy at the Home each Sunday. One old lady declared that though she had only 50 cents in the world she'd rather lose 25 than miss one service. When the Belgian Relief Fund was started a collection was spontaneously taken up amongst the old people from which $18 was realized. A collection was also taken up for the Children's Shelter. She also referred to the land which under Mr. Hamilton's care is in splendid condition. Concluding she thanked the Board for their kind words of appreciation of her work.

The meeting was concluded by prayer conducted by Reverend Mr. White.

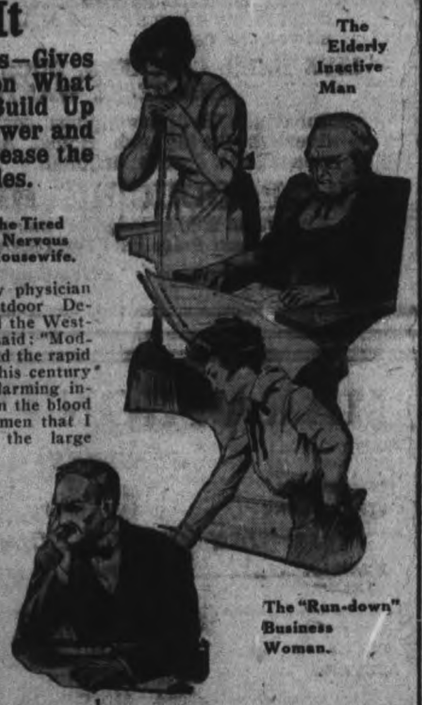
Who Should Take Nuxated Iron and Why They Should Take It

Physician Explains—Gives Practical Advice on What To Do To Help Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles.



Commenting on the use of Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood-builder, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Department), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, said: "Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this century live has made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marveled at the large number of people who lack iron in the blood — and who never suspect the cause of their weak, nervous, run-down state. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous, and irritable. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic ,run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body, something like corn through an old mill with rollers so far apart that the mill can't grind.'

"For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable, and all "run down," while at fifty or sixty, with plenty of iron in your blood, you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy.

"As proof of this take the case of Former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee Charles A. Towne, who at past 58 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy. Senator Towne says: "I have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and regulative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this remedy and I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to all who feel the need of renewed energy and the regularity of bodily functions."

"Then there is Former Health Commissioner William R. Kerr of Chicago, who is past the three score year mark, but still vigorous, active, full of life, vim and energy. Former Health Commissioner Kerr says he believes his own personal activity to-day is largely due to his use of Nuxated Iron and that he believes it ought to be prescribed by every physician and used in every hospital in the country.

"But in my opinion you can't make strong,vigorous,successful sturdy iron men by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron — before they are ready to be taken up, and assimilated by the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well known physicians, thousands of people still insist in dosing themselves with metallic iron simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician' prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble, then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron."

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron which has been used by Dr. Sullivan and others with such surprising results, and which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older organic iron products it is easily assimilated, and does not injure the teeth, make them black or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

Reasons for Equipping Your Plant with Dominion Friction Surface Belting

Each factor is in itself a substantial, common-sense reason for using this superior belt but when combined these eight reasons are an overwhelming argument that you cannot afford to ignore.

1. Low First Cost
Dominion Friction Surface Belting is priced in true relation to the high quality standard which it represents, but low enough to make it the most economical belt for every transmission purpose.

2. Power Conservation
Over fifty years of research and experience have enabled us to develop a special friction surfacing which gives to our belting a pulley grip that transmits, of each power unit, the maximum force that can be transmitted by a belt.

3. Increased Production
Continuous service, minimum power leakage, less stops for repairs or replacements and satisfied operators are bound to "speed up" production.

4. Economy in Upkeep
By building our belting up to the highest quality standard and by using the correct belt for each particular purpose we have practically done away with the cause of most transmission repairs.

5. Dependability
In Dominion Friction Surface Belting the years of experience, selection of materials, process of manufacture and placing the right belt for a given purpose, combine to insure absolute dependability.

6. Long Life
The best proof of long service is contained in actual performance—one Dominion Friction Surface Belt has outlasted four other belts.

7. Satisfaction of Employees
Employees often recommend our belting because they seldom have to stop for repairs or replacements and can produce a satisfactory high average output whether on day's pay or piece-work.

8. Service
All of the other seven reasons are summed up in our unequalled special free service, in charge of belting engineers and backed by the oldest and largest rubber organization in Canada. Our technical experts can make these factors just as effective in your plant, as they have in many others.

Phone, wire or write our nearest Service Branch when you are ready to test this Service—it places you under no obligation and will undoubtedly prove profitable.

Prices Are Average in Peterboro

When the citizen is asked to pay, and pays, for a ton of coal the sum of $11.50 or $12.00 as the case may be, as he folds up his wallet and pockets it, he soliloquizes, "Pretty stiff proposition. I wonder what they are paying in other places."

It is both the right and the prerogative of the citizen to ask. But up to date he has not had the information, except desultory word from some commercial traveller or transient, whose source of information has been the remarks in the smoking section of the train. But in an endeavour to find out, the following table of facts and prices have been framed, and it may be accepted as entirely correct, reliable and authentic. Gained at first hand from men in each place who actually know.

Difference in Price.

Sixteen places are given. Fort William to Kingston, from Sarnia to Welland. It will be noticed that there is a difference in the selling prices. These prices are influenced by the fact of lake transportation holding down the rail charges. For instance, at Kingston. It does not matter whether the coal for that city comes across the lake from Oswego or around by the bridge, the transportation charge is fixed by the lake and water rates. This is the open season for navigation. In the winter the rail rate prevails. The same thing is apparent at Sarnia and Windsor, while Welland is in a class by itself. Port Arthur and Fort William, again, though far beyond the distance from mines to Peterborough, have about the same selling price. Due to the water carriage. If by rail to the ports mentioned, then the coal would run up to nearly $18.00 per ton (hard coal), as it did last winter. Oddly enough, Galt, an inland proposition, has about the lowest in the list. Why this is so no one can understand, while North Bay, with water freight, is dearest of all.

Wood Situation.

The wood proposition shows the effect of denuded lands in each locality. Though places, not far from the available wood lots, are soaked by a high price. Kingston asks from $14.00 to $15.00, Welland from $15.00 to $20.00. Stratford is held up, being plotted in the centre of the western part of the province, for $16.00 to $20.00 for hardwood and as much as $17.00 for soft wood. North Bay is the lowest for wood, paying $9.50. A study of the table will reveal some queer prices. No use asking why. They just take it. Necessity knows no law. Pay or freeze.

Taken by and large, as the saying is, Peterborough is not so badly off. We are within the average. It is taken that the amounts allotted to the several places are such lots as determined by the Dominion Fuel Controller and mean that the place has been given practically the seventy per cent. for 1918-19 of the amount used in 1917-18. No doubt the allotments for the winter may be altered, depending on the mine output and the severity of the winter that is at hand.—F. H. D.

RUSH FOR DIVORCE.

Forty-Nine Applications, Over Half From Toronto.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—The close of the war has seen an unprecedented rush for divorces. All records have been broken. Up to date forty-nine applications have been filed to be considered next session by the Senate Divorce Committee. Every week sees a new batch, and by the time Parliament assembles the total is likely to reach seventy-five. The largest number considered in one session previously has only been thirty-three. Over half the applications are from the city of Toronto.

The question of divorce reform is likely to be considered at the coming session.

The prairie provinces are claiming the right to their own divorce courts and there is a strong feeling that the consideration of divorce should be taken out of the hands of Parliament and made a judicial matter. The chief opposition is from Quebec.

Pasteurized Milk Taste

Occasionally we hear the objection to the TASTE of Pasteurized Milk. The complaint is for the most part well founded; but the change in taste is due to the absence of dissolved cow manure, which until recent years has been an almost constant ingredient of marketed Raw Milk.

PRACTICAL ILLUSTRATION.

A practical illustration of how this flavor has become fixed on the human palate occurred in a dairy in the United States a few years ago, which was soon after Pasteurized Milk began to be extensively talked about. The owner of one of the largest herds supplying New York City, in a spirit of profound indignation, called upon one of the firms that dealt in certified milk only and asked for a glass of this new "fandangled" milk that they called "certified." After tasting it he smacked his lips and said: "Do you call that milk? That's not cow's milk; you can't fool me." The proprietor, knowing that this man was coming, was prepared for him, and asked him if he would like to try another kind of it. He replied "he would." The attendant going into an adjoining room returned in a few minutes with anotehr glass of the certified milk, taken from the same bottle, but to which he had added two or three drops of liquid cow manure. After tasting this the man smacked his lips and said "that's milk." Hence it is difficult to get away from the associations of this flavor with cow's milk, but once the public know to what this flavour is due they will no longer be desirous of adhering to it.

Neurasthenia and the Germans

(By "A.A.M."

It is permissible to state that the author is "A.A.M.", the well-known contributor to the London "Punch."

It appears that we have misunderstood Germany. What we thought were German thoughts were only faults of the German language. So we gather from a remark made by Dr. Helfferich to Dr. Muhlon.

Dr. Muhlon at the outbreak of war was one of the directors of Krupps Works at Essen. He is now in Switzerland suffering (officially) from neurasthenia. Neurasthenia may spring from many different cuases; the cause in this case is an imprudent memorandum which Dr. Muhlon has published. The German Government has decided that anyone who persists in telling the truth so shamelessly as Dr. Muhlon must be suffering from nerves.

The effect of Dr. Muhlon's memorandum is to show, what everybody outside Germany knew, that the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia was deliberately arranged in conjunction with Germany in order to bring about a European war. It was Helfferich, the late Vice-Chancellor, who let the Krupp director into the secret that the ultimatum was coming. In due time it came, as Dr. Muhlon describes below.

"On the very day indicated to me by Helfferich the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia appeared. At the time I was again in Berlin, and I told Helfferich that I regarded the tone and contents of the ultimatum as simply monstrous.

Dr. Helfferich, however, said that the note only had that ring in the German translation. He had seen the ultimatum in French, and in French it really could not be regarded as overdone."

We confess that we had not thought of this. Foolishly we had considered that the Austrian demand to send Austrian officials to assist Justice in Serbian courts and to help the Serbians put down anti-Austrian propaganda would have sounded offensive in any language, to a high-spirited nation. Apparently not. In French it has quite a pleasant ring. Probably in Spanish it is even more gratifying. It is only in German that it grates on a Serbian's nerves.

In the light of Dr. Helfferich's great discovery the whole history of the war and its origins must be reconsidered. The ultimatum to Belgium seemed to most of Europe to be a deliberate breaking of faith. But that, of course, was when we read it in English or French or German or Russian. Indeed there were even peopel who read it in Dutch and Danish and Norwegian, and yet regarded it as "simply monstrous." It was unfair of them. The ultimatum only had that ring in the particular European language in which they happened to read it. It was really designed to be studied in Chinese. In Chinese it really could not be regarded as overdone. And I can assure you that in some of the Thibetan dialects it reads just like an invitation to supper.

A New Form.

The peace with Russia, too, takes on a new form when properly translated. Probably you have never considered it in Swahili. Believe me, in Swahili it appears as a very different business from what you had supposed. "Annexations?" Good Heavens, No. There is no suggestion of that in the Swahili translation. It appears there in its true colours as a typical example of German forbearance and generosity.

Yes, I think Dr. Helfferich is right. At any rate he is right in respect of one word. The word "neurasthenia" as applied to Dr. Muhlon's disclosures. It has that ring in the German language, but in every other language in the world it would be more probably regarded as "truthfulness."

PONTIFICAL MASS WAS CELEBRATED.

At St. Mary's Church yesterday morning a pontifical requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. Dr. Kingsley, a large congregation being present.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, of Peterborough, was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. John O'Brien, Rector of Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough; Dean McColl, rector Church of the Immaculate Conception, Peterborough; and Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan of Port Hope. Monsignor Casey and Rev. Father Galvin, of Downeyville.

At the conclusion of the mass, His Lordship referred to the death of sixteen young priests in Ontario during the recent influenza epidemic. There was a dearth of priests at present and the Bishop urged upon parents the necessity of encouraging vocations for the priesthood as well as other religious callings.—Lindsay Post.

ECZEMA ON BABY'S EAR

Mrs. F. Clarke, Belmont, Man., writes: "My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to do her very much good. Hearing of the remarkable cure Dr. Chase's Ointment was making, we sent for some, and after the third application the sore began to heal. I am glad to say that it is quite well now Ointment. We cannot recommend this and we give the credit to Dr. Chase's preparation too highly."

No Drop in Prices to Follow the War

Rather Pessimistic Outlook for the Consumer—Some Comparative Prices.

End of the war does not mean a drop in the prices of necessities of life for the time being at least.

Shoes are among some of these, and the reason given by dealers is that the demand of leather overseas will be just as great in the next two be looked to by these countries to years as it has been during the war, and that the American continent will keep up the steady supply of leather. The manager of one shoe store, in speaking of conditions, says that possibly in about two year's time there may be a reduction in shoe leather, but that then it will only be a matter of 75 cents or a dollar on a pair of shoes. He says that the foreign demand is greater than the supply, which as a result will tend to keep the prices high.

There has been some talk among housewives that sugar will probably drop now that the war is over. This was denied. He says that just yesterday the price of sugar has taken an increase of 50 cents a hundred pounds. This new price was set by the International Sugar Commission in Washington and New York City. The refineries are paying more for raw sugar now than before, which is the reason for the increase. Canned milk has also increased 3 per cent. of its value, as a direct result of the sugar shortage. He says that there are many things in the grocery line that instead of dropping in price will take an increase. In speaking of the reduction in the price of canned goods, he denies this, saying that there cannot be possible any drop as there is now not enough of the maket for home requirements or for export, so that a drop would be unheard of

The following are some prices of women's apparel which the majority of women thought would take a drop since the signing of the armistice, but which for many different reasons promise to hold the same high figures. The table shows the cost of articles in 1914 and the present cost:

Coats	$20.00	$50 to $80
Cloth Dresses	12.95	45 50
Suit	20.00	45 50
Hat	5.00	10
Boots	6.00	12 15
Blouses	5.00	10

Deer Supply Is Depleted

Great Slaughter this Fall will make Animals Scarce—Bad for the Future.

SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 19. — Hunters are taking full advantage of the new law which permits them to kill two deer each this year instead of the one deer of former years. Literally thousands of deer will have been shot ere the season, which started on Nov. 1st, comes to an end on Nov. 22nd.

The extension of the season by one week and the additional deer allowed by the Ontario government this fall, seems to have induced many more hunters to go into the woods than formerly. Even in remote districts the sound of rifle shots constantly breaks the stillness of the forest and the presence of camps is visible in unexpected places.

Red Caps Wise.

More than ever was the wisdom of wearing red caps borne out this season. Sportsmen penetrating the woods in the wildest localities where they thought themselves the sole human beings, were frequently surprised to find that the object cracking through the underbrush, and which they were preparing to fire at, when it disclosed itself properly, was not a buck or a doe, but another hunter. His red cap of course was the first thing visible. The flaming spot of red, which showed so plainly through the bush, saved many accidents.

Killing them Off.

Deer seem to be fairly plentiful this season, but the supply is surely diminishing Many hunters think the the time will come when deer like partridge will have to be protected for several years on end. Though the government allowed the additional deer this fall to help out the food situation many hunters are deploring it as a very unnecessary concession. As a result deer will never again be as plentiful in the Ontario woods, and the day is thus brought nearer when a sport which is within the reach of any hunter, and which affords a cheap and healthful holiday for thousands of men from all parts of the province, will soon be accessible only by a long and expen-

Why Not Insure The Payment of Your Premium?

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

Then Read The Following:

The Sun Life of Canada will give you a further insurance of $5,000.00 if you are still insurable, and if you become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the Company will not only relieve you of all future premiums on THIS policy during such disability, but they will guarantee to hand you a $500.00 cheque every year, which you see will pay the premiums on your $10,000.00 and in addition will give you a handsome CASH XMAS BOX each year and, nevertheless, will pay the face of your policy at maturity or death.

Many people hesitate to take out Life Insurance, lest some catastrophy should force them to give it up. Well, that bugbear is removed by the Sun Life of Canada.

Roy Howard Throws Further Light on Premature Report

Reported Signing of Armistice Was Given Out in Good Faith and Was Accepted in Paris,

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, November 20. — "Neither I, myself, or the United Press, has any apology to offer for giving the American people as news a statement of the signing of the armistice, announced as official, and furnished in writing for publication by the Vice-Admiral of the United States in supreme command of all the American naval forces in France. Were the same identical proposition presented to-morrow we would act exactly as on November 7. No newspaper man could or would do otherwise."

Roy W. Howard, president of the United Press, made the following statement upon his return to New York after having spent yesterday in Washington, where he conferred with Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and other government officials, following his return to the United States, on a government transport.

"The bulletin which Admiral Wilson gave out, and which the United Press carried, was not a 'rumor' or a 'report.' It was a bulletin furnished to the Admiral as official, and so given to us,' continued Howard.

Was Given Out.

"It was given to us for publication by the ranking active United States naval officer in France. There was no more ground for doubting Admiral Wilson's source of news than there would have been for doubting the statement had it come from Marshal Foch.

"It was about ten o'clock in the morning (French time) when I first learned of a rumor that the armistice had been signed. The report was current in both French and American army circles in Brest when I arrived that morning to embark for the United States.

"I put in the entire day endeavoring to confirm the report. But it was not until about four o'clock in the afternoon that Admiral Wilson was notified, on what he stated was official authority, and on what I know he had every reason to believe was official authority, that the armistice had been signed.

"The announcement had been made by the local Brest newspaper, and the civilians, soldiers and sailors had their celebration under full headway before I was able to get from Admiral Wilson personally a copy of his written announcement and his personal assurance that the bulletin was official.

Celebration Suppressed.

"The admiral sent his personal aide with me to assist me in fyling the despatch as I do not speak French fluently.

"It was the fact that all in Brest including the operators and censors accepted the news as official, and were celebrating at the time, that caused my wire to pass the French censorship at Brest unchallenged.

"Upon my return to the United States I learned that no news had been published here of the fact that celebration of the signing of the armistice took place on Nov. 7th at practically all the army and navy bases on the French coast.

"I was also surprised to learn here that nothing had reached here by cable concerning the fact that all Paris had the report of the armistice being signed. At the American Luncheon Club meeting in Paris on that day the toastmaster arose and with Admiral Benson seated on one side of him, and American Consul General Thackery on the other, announced on what he said was the authority of the American embassy, that the armistice had been signed.

Hintze Delegation.

"All the celebration of that day was by no means on this side of Atlantic. Nothing has yet been said as to the source of Admiral Wilson's information. This is not for me to discuss. Nothing has been said as to the reason for the report current on that day throughout France, no explanation has yet been offered, of how the report reached the American embassy in Paris as official.

"Neither has any explanation been offered yet as to what became of the first German armistice delegation, headed by von Hintze, which was reported to have reached the French lines on Nov. 6th, and then disappeared from sight, the news being then supplanted by Erzberger's plenipotentiaries. Some of these matters will be cleared up after peace is signed."

Howard called upon Secretary Daniels yesterday to express his appreciation of the courage and squareness of Admiral Wilson in furnishing the United Press with a signed statement assuming full responsibility for the bulletin which started the wonderful celebrations of Nov. 7th.

SIR WILFRID'S VIGOROUS SPEECH

"We had some men in this country who said: 'No truck or trade with the Yankees.' (Laughter.) The Lord forgive them! If the Americans are good enough to mix their blood with the blood of our Canadian boys in France, never again will you hear talk about 'No, truck or trade with the Yankees.' (Applause.)

HOPES FOR DEMOCRACY IN GERMANY.

"With Germany ruled by the Kaiser we can have no alliance," proceeded Sir Wilfrid, "because a League of Nations must be arranged by a treaty signed by men upon whom we can depend. But Germany has sent the Kaiser away. Germany is now in the throes of a revolution, and I hope democracy will triumph in Germany. There are men among us who say that the German people are responsible for the atrocities committed by their armies. I do no agree with that view. The responsibility rests with the Commanders of the German armies. Unless there is at the head of an army a strong arm to maintain discipline there will always be crimes. Are we to believe that the German people, one of the noblest races in the world, in the past at all events, cannot reclaim themselves as so many other nations have been reclaimed by the teachings of democracy in which we believe? Whether the new Germany should be admitted to the family of nations is a question which, with the limited knowledge I have, I would not care to answer, but it is a question that we can leave to the wise decision of the diplomats who will settle the question of peace."

ETERNAL HONOR OF BRITAIN.

Sir Wilfrid said Britain and France had borne the burden of the war, and quoted Premier Clemenceau to the effect that but for the support given to France by Britain, France would have been crushed and dismembered once more." "To the eternal honor of Britain it must be said that the war found Britain unprepared," remarked Sir Wilfrid. He paid a sincere tribute to the King and exclaimed, "without further delay let me ask you to rise and give three cheers for King George V., himself leading in the cheering.

DENOUNCES PROTECTION AGITATION

The speaker said there was greater commercial liberty in Britain than in any of the Republics, and denounced those men "who today are conspiring to force Britain to abandon free trade for protection for the benefit of the overseas Dominions."

Sir Wilfrid did not know what authority Bonar Law had for stating that the British Government "has put itself into line with the Governments of the Dominions" on this matter. "If anything of the kind has been done by the Government of Canada we ought to have known of it ere this," he said. "Certainly the Canadian Parliament had not consented to any principle of Imperial preference so far as the Liberal party is concerned," he added. "We will never ask to go back upon our policy of preference, nor shall we ask England to give us some petty or big favor for it. (Applause.) We don't desire in Canada to tax the food of the working people of Great Britain. By serving the interests of Canada we shall serve the interests of Britain and the interests of the British Empire. If the British Empire is to continue it is not by reconstructing any law of freedom, but by extending it all over the world. This is the policy which we hope will be adopted."

Quoting President Wilson's declaration to the effect that we must take into consideration the different positions of the nations of the Entente and that no tariff barrier should be set up between nation and nation, Sir Wilfrid said he would not announce a premature policy for the Liberty party, but simply "lay before you to-day the principles that have actuated Liberals up to the present time."

CRITICIZE MINISTERS' DEPARTURE.

The Opposition Leader warmly criticized the "hasty departure" of the Canadian Ministers to the Peace Conference. He pointed out that the elections in Great Britain will not be over until December, and added that he would be surprised if the Peace Conference opens before many weeks have passed. "In the meantime," he said, "perhaps it would have been the part of prudence and patriotism of the Prime Minister of Canada to call together the Parliament of Canada to hear the views of the Canadian people in so far as the views of the people could be expressed by the present Parliament.

"The fate of Turkey and Bulgaria may be very important but I submit that the fate of the returning Canadian soldier is of some importance also," declared Sir Wilfrid amid prolonged applause. "Does any returned soldier or anyone else know what has been done for the returned soldier by the Canadian government?" he asked. He referred to the appointment of the Reconstruction Committee headed by Sir James Lougheed, and commented: "If they have done anything worth showing they have been more modest than I ever knew them to be, and I know them pretty well." (Laughter.)

Sir Wilfrid showed that the policy of the British government was to be ready for peace at any moment, no matter how remote peace was, and added that 63 per cent. of the fighters of the British army are assured of positions as soon as they are discharged. "Speaking in the name of the Liberals in Parliament, I may say that whenever it pleases the Canadian government to give us such a bold policy as the policy they have in Great Britain we shall give it our solid backing and support."

He declared emphatically that suitable employment and adequate pensions must be provided for the returning soldiers of Canada. "We must do justice to the men who have fought so splendidly at the front," he added, amid much applause.

The Opposition leader touched on the questions of industrial reconstruction and expressed the hope that Capital and Labour would turn a new page i nteh history of the new page in the history of the Labour up to the present time have not been satisfactory," he said, adding that Labour and Capital were dependent upon one another, and ought to go forward henceforth hand-in-hand. He would make "no premature pronouncement, no hasty judgment" upon this question, explaining that that must depend upon the conditions of the peace settlement.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE SMUGGLING "WET GOODS"

Attempted to Throw Grip Full of "Wet Goods" From Train.

LOST HER BALANCE AND FELL BENEATH THE TRAIN—INQUEST HELD

Oshawa Reformer:—At the inquest into the death of Mrs. Kiwel, who was killed by falling from a C.P.R. train, Friday evening the evidence showed that she was apparently trying to put the grip, which contained three gallons of whiskey, off beside the track opposite her home on Eldon Avenue, with the intention of going on to the station and coming back after it that she might not run chances of being caught with "the goods" and lay herself liable to a $200 fine. She evidently lost her balance in doing so and the heel of her shoe caught in the steps, and did not give way until she was dragged about 100 yards from where the grip was dropped. All this distance her body evidently bumped against the ends of the ties. A foot was taken off and other limb almost at the knee. Her chest was stove in and her head lacerated.

The husband claimed that he was sick when she left for Montreal to get the alcohol, and did not know she was going there He did not bother about it when she did not come for two days, and said he would not have done so had she not returned for four or five days, though he admitted that this was the first time she had been away since they were married over seven years ago They have five children, the oldest about seven years of age and the youngest a baby.

PORT HOPERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

From Serious Injury — Mr. Thomas Morrow Missed Turn in Road and Car Plunged to the Ditch.

Messrs. Thomas Morrow, Itheel Walters, Percy Manson, J. T. George, A. B. Skitch, and Charles Doney had a miraculous escape from serious injury on Friday night. They had been attending a Masonic meeting in Orono and were returning in Mr. Morrow's car. Not being familiar with the road, Mr. Morrow missed that sharp turn between Orono village and Newcastle, and the car plunged in the ditch and almost turned over. The occupants were given a severe shake up, but fortunately none of their injuries are serious. Mr. Morrow had his nose broken and both eyes are completely closed. Burney Skitch was cut about the forehead and nose; Itheel Walters was badly scraped about the forehead and Charles Doney is nursing a very sore nose and mouth. J. T. George and Percy Manson were fortunate, escaping without a scratch. The axle of the auto was damaged but the care was brought to town on its own power.

HAS OVERTHROWN THE UKRAINIAN GOVERNMENT

Kiev Occupied by Troops Under Gen. Denekine.

Canadian Press:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 20. — Word was received here that the Ukrainian government at Kiev has been overthrown and Kiev occupied by troops under General Denekine, who is an anti-Bolshevik leader. Ukraine separated from Russia and made separate peace with Germany in November, 1917.

Admits the German Navy Was Inferior to the British

Says a General Engagement Would Have Resulted in Destruction of German Fleet.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(British Wireless Service.)— Captain Persuis, the German naval critic, has chosen the moment when the finest vessels of the German navy are about to be surrendered to the Allies, to publish in the Berlin "Tageblatt" a sensational article containing revelations regarding the German fleet. Captain Persius says the hope that the German fleet would be able in the second Skagerak battle to beat the British fleet rested upon the bluff and lies of naval authorities. In August, 1914, Germany had about one million tonnage in warships, the writer points out, while Great Britain had more than double that, and thanks to the mistakes of Von Tirpitz, the German material was quite inferior to the British. In the Skagerak battle, he declares, the German fleet was saved from destruction partly by good leadership and partly by favourable weather conditions. Had the weather been clear or Admiral Von Scheer's leadership less able, the destruction of the whole ermanG navy would have resulted. Long range British guns would have completely smashed the lighter armed German ships. As it was the losses of the German fleet were enormous, and on June 1 Capt. Persius says, it was clear to every thinking man that the Skagerak battle must be the only general naval engagement of the war. Capt. Persius tells of the mutiny that broke out at the beginning of this month when the German navy was ordered out for the attack. Had the seamen obeyed, the writer remarks, innumerable lives would have been lost, and he declares that "every thinking man, therefore, is of the opinion that the seamen on November 5th rendered an invaluable service to their country."

Session Concluded Last Evening

Interesting Address at the District Meeting in St. James' Church.

The closing session of the district meeting held yesterday in St. James Methodist church was well attended and addresses of unusual interest given by the speakers of the evening.

After the opening exercises led by Reverend F. E. Malott, the chairman Reverend Wm. Higgs, gave a splendid address on the importance of the missionary work.

In his address, "Gleanings from the General Conference from a Layman's Standpoint," Dr. Middleton spoke of the scope of the missionary work which stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Reverend R. A. Whattam gave an inspiring address on the patriotic side of mission work impressing the fact that if we do not christianize the immigrants from the foreign countries they will heathenize us. The closing address by Mr. J. M. Greene dealt with how the objective of $8,000,000 could be reached in 5 years. The session was favored by two splendid vocal solos, "I want to see Jesus" by Mrs. Geo. H. King and "The Ninety and Nine" by Mrs. J. H. Renwick.

At the conclusion the benediction was pronounced by Reverend B. J. Greatrix.

Peterboro Soldier Instantly Killed

Letter of Appreciation to the Mother of the Late Corp. F. H. Heffernan.

The following is a letter of appreciation from his commanding officer to the mother of the late Corp. F. Heffernan:

France, Oct. 9, 1918.

Dear Madam,—It is with great regret that I am writing to you to tell of the death of your son, who was killed while leading his men in an attack by my battalion.

He reported back to my company only a short time before this action, and reverted to do so, but would have had his higher rank confirmed in a few days. I esteemed him very highly, and considered him the highest type of man and soldier, and I feel proud to have commanded men of his class.

Your son was instantly killed by machine gun, and his body taken out and placed in a Canadian cemetery.

I feel keenly for you, his mother, in your loss, and can only hope that what I have told you concerning him will fill you with a pride that will help you to ease your loss.—Yours sincerely,

Philip L. Barter, Capt.,
Oc. C Com., 46th Bn., Can.

SOLDIERS OPPOSE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY

Temperature and Moisture

(How to Conserve Fuel.)

Temperature recommended by the Ontario Fuel Administration for working and living-room, 64 degrees F.

(64 is the "optimum" temperature or the degree of heat at which science agrees man is at his best.)

Temperat erurmceo60 mhm mhm

Temperature recommended for sleeping-rooms, 50 degrees F.

Nature has provided tre people of the earth with a great blanket in the form of moisture; take the blanket away, or thin it out, and we get cold. Moisture is extremely necessary to life. In our homes in Winter we get an excessive amount of heat and an insurcient amount of moisture, which not only makes the air oppressive and uncomfortable, but accounts for a large percentage of the catarrhal and other diseases of the nose and throat. Dry air at 70 or 72 F. may feel cooler than moist air at 60 degrees.

In the Summer, when the heat appears excessive, one hears the phrase on every side, "It's not so much the heat as the humidity." Heat prostrations would be more numerous at 96 in Toronto, where the lake humidifies the air, than in drier places at 102, or more. Apply this to your home this Winter, and you have gone a long distance towards solving the ciol conservation problem.

If the atmosphere in a room is dry, the heat from stove, register or radiatir strikes through this air readily, and, without being absorbed, rises quickly to the ceiling; if the air is moist, the heat is absorbed and the general temperature is perceptibly raised.

Moist air retains the heat much longer than dry air, hence the amount of coal needed to keep such air sufficiently warm is less than when the air is dry.

In dry air, the evaporation from the skin, throat and lungs is increased; illustration of this is the fact that wood-work and furniture usually swe'l when exposed to the natural atmosphere, while they shrink and crack in heated rooms in Winter.

Evaporation causes loss of heat, and you say you are cool or cold. Instantly you want more heat, so you build a bigger fire. You might get precisely the same result if you should give the air a dring out of a pan instead of off your skin.

There are ten per cent. more deaths at a given temperature if the relative humidity is below 40 than if it is above 70 P.C.

Moisture adds the glowy warmth, the cheery touch of comfort to the home, saves coal, improves health and increases our power of resistance.

The question is, how to get the required humidity. Here are some simple rules recommended by the Fuel Administration:—

When a house is heated by a stove, a pan containing water or a boiling kettle should always be on top of the stove.

When a house is heated by a warm-air furnace, the water retainer in the hot-air jacket should always be filled with clean water. It is also advisable to keep a pan of water near the registers, particularly those giving out the most heat.

When the house is heated with hot water or steam, pans or hubidifiers should be on every radiator.

The evaporation of water may be one quart per room per day. Change water frequently.

The whole thing is a result of the exercise of common sense applied to house heating, and the plan suggested makes water warm you instead of burning an excessive amount of coal to do it. You get the same effect by humidifying the air as by forcing the furnace in many cases.

As much attention should be paid to humidity of rooms as to temperature readings, if not more. A hygrometer, as well as a reliable thermometer, is recommended for the home.

THE PADRE ON THE FIRING LINE

(By Lieut. Frank Fox, R.F.A.)

"There has never been an army that had more chaplains, or that needed them less." That was the verdict of one American observer on the British Army in 1917.

The judgment was a sound one. The British Army in the field has been notably well supplied with chaplains "padres" as the soldier knows them but this is not in answer to a call for spiritual leaders to combat a special degree of wickedness. Quite the contrary. The Army has been and is a very well-behaved sober-minded institution on the whole, as if it recognized the solemnity of its task and fitted its conduct accordingly. To this fact the French population can bear witness. The French villages among whom the British soldiers have been quartered have come to a view of them which was once eloquently expressed: "They are lions in the trenches and lambs in the villages."

So the padre comes out for duty with the troops with no taste of leading a forlorn hope against ramping wickedness. His trouble is rather in the other direction. "I don't see how I can have the front to preach to these men," said a padre attached to an Artillery Division one day: 'I'd rather they preached to me".

It really is a difficult task—that of the padre at the Front, and only the best type of clergyman makes a success of it. His attitude of life must be manly, his character brave. The padre who runs risks just for the sake of running them is often more of a bother than a help. The padre's attitude should be that of the careful soldier who will face any danger that comes in the way of duty, but will not go looking for danger in a spirit of bravado The padre can make two mistakes. He can take things too easily and just be a parson available to conduct Divine service when he is wanted to; or he can try to do too much, to interfere too much and become a nuisance in the fighting line. The good padre strikes the happy medium. He has the knack of being there when he is wanted, but he recognizes that the Army's first duty is to fight, and he does not get in the way of its fighing activities. Above all he does no try to arrange a church parade for the morning after tired troops from the line have reached rest billets.

One of the most successful padres at the Front was known as "the Lost Sheep." He had a Mess to which he was properly attached and this Mess was responsible for having a comfortable billet for him. But he was rarely "at home." He wandered all over the Division, picking up a meal here and there and sleeping wherever he found himself after dinner. At first it was thought to be recklessness on his part. As a matter of fact it was artfulness. Moving about as he did, taking a meal and a bed anywhere, he got to know everybody and found out who wanted and who needed him as padre.

One very heavy, very "gassy" night when the battery waggon lines were at work from dusk to dawn bringing up the gun food through barrages of shrapnel and of gas shell, this padre organized an allnight service at the dump. Hot coffee or tea for the men as they came in, and an occasional hymn, made the brief rests between trips really pleasant. It was better than trying to switch a half-hours' sleep. When morning came and the tension was relieved the padre made for himself a nest among some ammunition boxes and slept.

One padre known to many divisions of the B.E.F. was a colonial Bishop before the war, and his particularly keen appreciation of all that is manly and courageous in life makes him a splendid success. It has been said of him that he gets up at least as many sports meetings in rest camps as he does Divine services. But he is a genuinely spiritual man in all that he does, and there is credited to him the aphorism that the men do so much worshipful work in the trenches that in rest camps the first thing to be thought of is relaxation.

ITALIANS WON'T STEAL.

(By United Press.)

ROME, Nov. 3.—(By Mail.)—"Italy ought to be called the country of unlocked doors," says F. C. Thwaite, Milwaukee, Wis., in charge of a large section of American Red Cross work in Italy.

"I think honesty is the chief trait of the Italians," he says. "The best proof of this general statement is that I never lock my hotel door anywhere in Italy, nor do other Americans after they have been here a few weeks. We go away from our own hotels, perhaps for days at a time, leaving our doors unlocked and all our personal belongings at the mercy of the first comer, and we never lose anything.

"Out on the front you can leave your automobile anywhere you like, with your overcoat and other belongings and be sure that nothing will be disturbed."

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR, DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY

Try this! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful at once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain? that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first —yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlon's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents.

THE GROUP OBSERVATION POST

"Our turn for Frascati's to-night, boys," says the Major at lunch, "Who goes this time?" The Pedagogue—we call him "the Pedagogue" in our battery because in the piping days of peace he teaches the young idea how to shoot—the Pedagogue pleads "guilty," and the Major says: "Right-o young feller, you might give the other O.P.'s a look on your way there, and if the light is good we'll do a shoot on Telegraph House just to keep our hand in."

The Pedagogue gives sundry orders connected with the boiling of eggs and laying in of provisions for a turn at Frascati's means 24 hours away from the battery. Frascati's is the Group Observation Post, and an officer has always to be there. When we first came into this part of the world there were only three batteries in our group, and one's turn came fairly often. Now we are a group of seven batteries and life for the subaltern is less strenuous.

After the Pedagogue, his haversack stuffed with tins of sardines, herrings in tomatoes, eggs, bread, and a Tommy's Cooker, climbs into the car with his telephonist and observer. They go by car as far as Whizzbang Corner, beyond which it is not safe to proceed save on foot. They walk therefore to the canal, cross the wooden bridge, and make their way through a trench till they come to the road which will lead them to the copse where the observation post is siutated.

Here they find the officer and his staff whom they have to relieve, and he welcomes them, for they are well on time. A Captain in the R.F.A. is also there, who calls the Pedagogue "Sir," for he is an old pupil and the habit of youth is not lightly broken. Our friend examines the stores which he has to take over, signs the receipt, and settles down to business.

He rings up the battery. "Good light, Sir,' he says, "Can see Telegraph House, and am ready when you are."

He goes to his perch and adjusts his glasses.

"Number one fired, Sir," reports the telephonist; and presently there is a sizzling noise, like a kettle singing, as the shell passes over. "Two-o minutes right," says the Pedagogue, noting the column of black smoke which springs up to the right of the target, and his observation is passed on.

"Number two fired, Sir," says the telephonist. "Line and plus," answers the officer, and so the process goes on until the observation is "line and range." this comes about the third or fourth round in every well conducted battery, and having found the target the guns keep to it. Certainly if anyone is in Telegraph House they are having a thin time of it.

In the evening the usual hate begins and our friend is kept busy picking out hostile flashes. These he reports to the counter-battery. About 11 o'clock he turns in and sleeps like a top, on a frame of chicken wire, an excellent bed for a tired man. An hour later he is awakened by a rat running across his face. "Proper nuisance, them rats, Sir," sympathises the N.C.O., who is keeping first watch.

Next morning the Pedagogue discovers that the rats have eaten his bread. One learns wisdom by experience, next time he will bring a tin of biscuits instead. As it is a fine morning he settles down to make a panorama sketch. After a good lunch on herrings in tomatoes he begins to draft his report for the group commander. Two hours later he is making his way back to the battery.

LANDED IN SWITZERLAND.

BERNE.—No less than twelve German aviators landed on Swiss soil Wednesday and Thursday of last week. They came from the Western front, and said they had lost their bearings, but it is believed that some of them came to Switzerland to be interned.

JIMMY WILDE, ENGLISH BOXER, TO MEET AMERICAN SCRAPPERS

Sensation of England Will Fight the Bantams of Canada and the States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Jimmy Wilde, the fistic sensation of England and all Europe, is coming to this country. There is a possibility that he is already on his way here to meet the fly and bantam weights of the United States. This news is made known by Mr. Albert de Courville of London. Mr. de Courville only arrived in this country on Friday.

In London they call Mr. de Courville the Flo Ziegfeld of the Continent. He is a producer of musical comedies and revues. He is also a close student and patron of boxing.

Most Remarkable of Boxers.

"Wilde will be here shortly," said Mr. de Courville, "that is certain. I am very anxious for the American public to see him, for I think he is the most remarkable boxer that ever lived. He is so regarded in England, and I think this rating will be accorded him here when he is seen in action.

"He is a physical freak. Much has been written of him in this connection but in one important particular most people are misled.

"He is extremely light. He boxes at about 108 pounds, I believe, and he is of fair height. It has been reported that he is a sickly lad, and that this keeps his weight down.

His Peculiar Physique.

"This is not so. Wilde is a remarkably strong youngster. He is perfectly sound physically. His weight is the only thing that has led people to question his physical fitness.

"He is clever with his hands, he is very fast; he has a terrific punch and unusual endurance. He can go at top speed from one to thirty rounds.

"I have seen him in action any number of times. He meets them all in England, up through the featherweight class. No one has been found to beat him. Candidly, I think it will be some time before he is beaten abroad or in this country.

"I would like to see him meet your bantamweight champion as soon as he comes here. I would prefer to have him box a few boys of less ability and reputation first, for he will be giving a lot of weight.

"However, when he gets acclimated and is ready, I will wager that he beats your champion. I say this without any intention of casting aspersions on the ability of your titleholder.

Chats With Carpentier.

"I saw Georges Carpentier in France before I came over. The French heavyweight champion is in wonderful physical shape. Don't let one tell you differently.

"We were talking of the night he fought Gunboat Smith in London before the war.

"'Do you think those days will ever come back?' he asked.

"'I am sure of it,' I answered.

"'Will you be ready to box again when they do?'

"He smiled. 'Look for yourself,' he said. 'I never felt better. Of course, I have not had a real boxing match in a long time. But I am young, and do not think it will take me long to get ready.'"

FOOD SUPPLIES FOR GERMANY

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 20.— Negotiations regarding the food to be supplied to Germany have been completed, a Berlin despatch announced to-day. Germany, it was stated, will receive monthly, 75,000 tons of fats, 150,000 tons of meat and 230,000 tons of corn.

Peterboro Red Cross Society

The monthly meeting of the Executive of the local branch of the Red Cross Society was held in the Public Library on Monday afternoon, Nov. 15. To correct the impression that many people seem to have that the work of the society would cease with the declaration of peace, the great need for continuing the work was emphasized. Auxiliaries should continue work on the supplies on hand. As the Germans evacuate occupied lands, refugee work becomes urgent, so there will be plenty of work for all to do—in the society and in the auxiliaries.

Some interesting information was received in the weekly letters from headquarers.

"A gift of £50,000 from the Canadian Red Cross Society was sent to France, to be expended for refugees.

Supplies for Siberia.

General Powell, K.C.B., British Red Cross Commissioner to Siberia, and Miss McGregor, matron of hospitals to be established in Siberia for the fighting Russians and Czecho-Slovaks, are now in Canada, on their way to Vladivostock. Supplies for the British and Canadian forces in Siberia will be distributed through the Canadian Red Cross Commissioner, Col. Dennis. Supplies are already on their way from Vancouver.

Nearly the full quota of Christmas stockings has already been shipped overseas, so will be in splendid time for distribution. Ontario apples have figured largely in overseas shipments.

In previous years the Red Cross warehouse address has changed with the winter port. However, this year all shipments west of Montreal will continue to go to St. James Street.

Requests for newspapers for hospitals have come once more from the Information Department. All home news is welcome to the men, who come from every part of Canada. The address is —, Newspaper Department, Canadian Red Cross Society, York Hotel, Berners Street, London, England.

Refugee Work.

The extent of refugee work is enormous, as is also the need—it cannot be launched in one day or two. The task of making up the preliminary samples and patterns is being performed as quickly as possible. There need be no fear on the part of any branch which is asked to concentrate for the time being on one or more special garments, that these will be overstocked. The Allied countries, France, Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro, Poland, Siberia and the countryless Czecho-Slovaks, are destitute. Clothing sufficient for their barest needs means all the work that can be done.

An appeal for the destitute civilian population of Siberia has just come from the Canadian Red Cross Commissioner in Siberia. This brings still another claim upon the Red Cross workers.

Central Council Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Central Council will be held on November 26, when the peace policy of the society will be fully discussed.

The society has requested the Government for information as to what arrangements are being made with regard to present condition, release and repatriation of 2,300 Canadian prisoners now receiving food and clothing from the Canadian Red Cross Society. Friends and relatives of prisoners are naturally anxious, but until the War Office has communicated with Canada it will be impossible to get definite information."

Parcels Acknowledged.

Acknowledgments of receipt of parcels were received from the following prisoners:

Ptes. A. David, F. Peace, O. Cripps, F. Lebar, Geo. Butcher, G. Hutchinson, J. Jackson, W. H. Larkman, C. Orford, H. Lawrence, J. G. Hadden, H. Godfrey, V. A. Henry, A. Connon and Gunner H. Gilpin.

Mrs. Breyfogle, convener of the Central Work-room Committee, reported work done during month, Oct. 16-Nov. 13:

30 M. T. bandages, 4 grey flannel shirts, 5 suits of pyjamas, 18 bed socks, 12 operation stockings, 12 stretcher caps, 42 personal property bags, 72 pneumonia jackets, 1 pneumonia jacket, 3-year size, 1 pneumonia jacket, 5-year size.

Of the pneumonia jackets, 24 were sent to the Emergency Hospital and 7 to special cases.

Miss Davidson, convener of the Packing Committee, reported 26 cases shipped in October, 23 to Montreal and 3 to Toronto, containing:

133 day shirts, 188 pairs of pyjamas, 750 pairs of socks (138 pairs C.W. C.A.), 270 M. T. bandages, 208 stretcher caps, 63 sheets, 531 towels, 40 wash cloths, 102 bed pads, 409 head bandages, 1339 handkerchiefs, 4 gauze vests.

Sent Supplies.

The following auxiliaries and societies sent in supplies:

Otonabee Chapter, North Monaghan Teachers' Guild, Murray Street.
Central Work-Room, St. Peter's.
George Street Methodist Church and Trinity Methodist Church, Berean Bible Class.
S. John's Churchwomen, St. Paul's.

Publicity or Bankruptcy?

Bradstreets statement that 84 per cent of all failures are among non-advertisers is significant.

Intelligent advertising has become absolutely essential to every modern industry—

But what shall the advertiser do in the face of war conditions, when he finds it difficult to get goods to fill his orders?

First of all, remember that the fundamental purpose of advertising is to fix indelibly the trade mark or the trade name in the public mind.

A let-up in that campaign must be fatal to any product.

The American Rolling Mill Company declares its purpose to continue its advertising, although for two and a half years it has been unable to supply the demand for its product.

"We are building," they say, "a permanent business edifice, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and goodwill of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency."

Unless advertising is kept up without break the advertiser loses the results of all previous effort.

Here is a warning to the advertizer who neglects the dull season in summer—

When advertisements are fewest is the very time when a message to the public may get the most attention, providing, of course, that the character of the advertising deserves it.

British Public Pays Big Toll to the U. S. Packers.

LONDON.—Investigation of the alleged Chicago beef trust is being demanded by members of Parliament and a section of the British press.

Bitter criticism of American meat packers is expressed in such headlines as these:

"At the mercy of the meat trust."

"Inquiry needed into working of U.S. concern."

Answering the statement of H. S. Cautley, member of Parliament, that the Food Control Departments of Great Britain and America are being run together to a great extent, and that American influence in the direction of their policy is very strong and is exercised in the interests of the alleged American meat trust, J. R. Clynes, British Food Controller, declared the charge is a "gross misrepresentation."

Mr. Cautley, however, is not without support. Sir John Taverner, who for eleven years was Agent-General at Victoria, Australia, advocates a probe.

"Mutton in Australia was commandeered by the Government and cheerfully relinquished by the producers at 12 cents a pound," said Sir John.

"It cost two cents a pound to deliver it here, and should have sold with a reasonable profit at 19 to 20 cents. Instead, it was sold at 26 to 40 cents a pound. Australians wrote me indignantly about it when they heard of these high prices for meat they had relinquished at 12 cents a pound.

"When complaint was made here we were told that the Government had to average up their prices. In other words, they used this Australian meat to make up their losses on the excessive prices they paid the American meat trust.

"It has always seemed the greatest injustice that the Australian meat, which is cheap, should be handed over to our Allies, while to the British people should be left the dear meat of the American trust. That is why I think there should be an impartial inquiry."

ENGLISH VILLAGE HAS NO YOUNG MEN

(By United Press.)

VILLAGE OF POTTEN END, HERTFORDSHIRE, Eng., Nov. 4.—(By Mail.)—The English countryside is to-day just as quaint and peaceful and beautiful as ever. But it has lost its young men.

On the village green last night the countryfolk gathered at sundown as they have done for several centuries. The duckpond in the middle of the green; the Red Lion Inn, (200 years old) tight in a hedgewall on the south; the squat little church steeple just over the hedge; and the heathery moor to the west—all were just as they were before the war, except.

There were no young men.

They who came together on the green were women, girls, children, old men and occasionally a man of 50. Two sober-faced young women were pushing baby carriages.

A motherly woman of 60 presided at the bar in the Red Lion (the bar was perhaps 4 feet long in a room about 6 feet square.) On the right was another brown-walled room with a bare table in the centre. A dozen old men were smoking and sipping their ale. At the head of the table sat a soldier, home on leave.

The innkeeper's daughter was banging a tinpanny piano in the tiny parlour. She played to an empty room—and to a soldier's picture above the instrument.

The Inn is a squat little place, mostly grown to roof and many-barreled chimneys (the kind you used to see in your Mother Goose book, with storks standing on them.) The cracks between the brick shingles are stuffed with moss.

A wooden tablet nailed to the wall of the village church—by the door—displays the "Roll of Honour." Underneath on a little wooden shelf a few sprays of flowers tell their story.

It was a Hertfordshire regiment, with its quota from Potten End, that was practically wiped out at Gallipoli.

From the common this morning one could see squads of Women's Land Army girls, in khaki, shocking wheat in the hedge-framed fields.

Behind, the roofs and chimneys of the village were just visible over the masses of trees, shrubs, and hedges which form the basis of every English landscape. In every one of these homes was 1, perhaps 2, 3 or 4 empty chairs, many of which would never be filled.

A crowd of girls was blackberrying among the brambles and bracken on the moor.

Lover's Lane, smooth and grassy between high hedge-walls, was empty. A tiny girl in gingham and a bit of a boy with yellow curls were marching, hand in hand, into its far end.

He Put the English On That Fling, Though

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(By Mail.)— The most-talked-of soldier in a certain famous American division is a Yank of Italian extraction, who learned more English since he entered the army than he ever knew before. However, he is still more apt at soldiering than pronunciation.

This Yank was waiting in support in front of a stretch of ground which the advancing Americans had taken a few hours previously. While peering over the trench he saw a lone boche furtively looking out of the entrance of a dugout. Without waiting for orders, he jumped over the parapet and raced toward the dugout. The German disappeared with Tony after him. A lieutenant and a squad of men followed and surrounded the entrance.

There was a deep silence and the squad listened anxiously. Finally the watchers heard scuffling in the depths of the dugout and there was silence again. The lieutenant shouted down the entrance.

"Did you get him all right, Tony?"

"Yes, sir," came the reply. "I gotta twenta-two of a him."

Will Assist the Unemployed

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Nov. 20. — The Department, under Hon. Gideon Robertson, its new head, is rapidly preparing to assist in every way possible, in placing men and women who are unemployed by reason of closing down of war industries. A recent registration showed that three-fourths of the munition workers were in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and strenuous efforts are being made in those provinces to absorb all labour released. Senator Robertson expressed satisfaction over the fact that employers generally endorse the suggestion and agree that there must not for the present be any reduction in wages.

Preference List is Discarded

New Move is Hailed With Joy by Manufacturers.

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—The discarding of the preference list in the United States is hailed with joy by the Canadian manufacturers, many of whom have been seriously held up on account of lack of raw material.

The officials of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, commenting on the announcement from Washington that the list has been discarded, said that it amounted to the cutting out of much of the red tape which was necessary in war times to regulate transportation, but which was not necessary under the new conditions brought about by peace. The officials said that the abolishing of the list would not have any effect on prices, which, however, will go down as soon as transportation facilities can be provided. Any people who can do what Canada has done in the war are capable of taking care of the present situation and bringing things back to normal again very quickly, said the officials of the Association, commenting on future prospects.

Bugler Shepperd sounded the Last Post at the close of the service, which was read by Rev. P. J. Jull. The pallbearers were Comrades T. R. Cooper, R. H. Muir, A. Ringer, H. Yates, J. Smith and F. Shepperd. Representatives of the Lakefield Great War Veterans were present, in charge of Capt. Finnemore, and the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends and the Anglican Young People's Association were represented also, as the deceased young man had been a loyal member of these societies.

Voice of The People

HAS "GRAVEYARD COUGH."

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,— Kindly allow me sufficient space in your paper for this complaint. I purchased half a ton of coal for my kitchen range from a local coal dealer which was to be stove and nut size, mixed with buckwheat coal. The coal was delivered on Saturday and was all buckwheat coal, which is only used for damping fires and furnaces. I paid for the coal at the office before it was delivered, and mentioned the need of good fuel for my range until I could afford a bigger supply of fuel; also to get the furnace fitted up to burn it.

Now, I am only a soldiers' wife with two small sons to care for. My husband has bled for his country. He has received six shell wounds at one time on the battlefield, while his wife sits beside a damped fire nursing a case of Spanish 'Flu' and a graveyard cough.. Had I not been taken ill on the street while shopping I should have gone to another coal office and bought some real good coal.

Now could some kind-hearted citizen teach me how to use this coal with good result until my government money arrives?

NAVAL DEMOBILIZATION.

Ottawa Preparing to Discharge Forces Gradually.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20. — The naval service department is making arrangements for the gradual demobilization of the Canadian naval forces. There are some four thousand men in the Canadian navy, largely on patrol boats in the Atlantic and pacific. This force will be gradually discharged at Halifax and Esquimalt. Like the soldiers, they will get three months' pay with their discharge papers. No trouble is anticipated in the absorption into civil life of these men. In addition to the men in the Canadian navy there are some thousand men serving under Canadian rate of pay in the British navy. These men will be discharged when the British navy reduces its forces.

There are some 150 ships of all kinds under the Canadian Naval Service. Most of these boats were either borrowed or commandeered and will return to their original owners. With winter coming on, however, it may be necessary for the Government to retain these ships until the spring. Most of the patrol boats built for Canada can be used to fishing patrol work.

The late Jack London once fell behindhand in a story which he had promised a New York magazine.

The editor, after repeated efforts to get the story, at last called at London's hotel, and sent up the following note:

"Dear Jack London: If I don't receive the story within twenty-four hours I'll come up to your room and kick you downstairs; and I always keep my promises."

London replied:

"Dear Dick: If I did all my work with my feet I'd keep my promises, too."

Ten Thousand Canadian Troops Will Soon Return

First Movement Comprises Men of Low Category in Reserves and Recently-Arrived Untrained Infantry Drafts and Tank Corps Reinforcements No Longer Required.

NUMBER OF DEPENDENTS ARE INCLUDED

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—Ten thousand soldiers of the Canadian Expeditionary Force overseas will sail for Canada before the end of this month, according to an announcement made by the Department of Militia and Defence. Present indications are that approximately 5,000 will sail on the Acquitania about November 20th and 5,000 on the Olympic a few days later. Thus two of the largest boats on the ocean are to be used to bring the first detachment of Canadian soldiers home. These troops are being despatched to Canada in advance of general demobilization, and are therefore not within the classes described in the general policy respecting demobilization, which has been published in the press, nor will they be dealt with according to the procedure therein outlined. They will be handled through military districts in the same way as troops which have returned to Canada previously and not through the dispersal areas which have been constituted to deal with the army as a whole. The allied command has not yet decided to release experienced fit soldiers, who now form a part of the fighting forces. Those now returned comprise low category men not likely to become immediately fit men of the general reserve in England, and some men who arrived so recently that they have not yet been absorbed into their units, such as recent untrained infantry drafts and tank corps reinforcements.

These men are being returned during the armistice period in order to assist in clearing the way for the movement of the main Canadian army when it is no longer required in France. The present movement will also include a large number of wives and dependents of soldiers serving overseas.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M. D. editor of New York Physician's "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Jos. D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensatory, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine, and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, srength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

Caution:—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relievin, nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Plans to Bring Her Old Nurse to Live With Her

CHAPTER XLIV

Ruth had been planning for some time to bring old Rachel north as soon as she could afford it. It seemed to her now that she had a dainty place to live, she longed for her "mammy" more than ever. While Mrs. Crawford was a good cook and kept the place very clean; she never had been accustomed to waiting either on the table or helping her mistress. Ruth missed the little attentions Rachel used to give her and now that she was so busy at the shop they would be doubly welcome.

As she packed her things to go away the thought came to her that, the very next raise she had, she would send for Rachel. The thought made her smile through her tears. It would be heavenly once more to have some one of her own with her.

In the morning Brian had partly forgotten his grouch and she left him in a much better humor than she expected from his actions of the night before.

"Don't mope!" she said when she kissed him goodbye. That was as much as she could bring herself to say. She hoped he wouldn't spend his time with Mollie King.

When she left, that afternoon, Arthur Mandel went to the train with her. He had a few directions he wanted to give her, he had said—things he had overlooked.

Ruth had no faintest idea that it was an excuse to be with her, away from the prying eyes of the clerks. Neither had she mistrusted that Mr. Mandel knew that Brian was with Mollie King when she was in Philadelphia; or that he had also seen them together that day in Washington Square. Yet all these things were so. And like most men of the world, Mandel put his own construction on what he had seen, knowing nothing at all about the circumstances.

He insisted upon stopping at one of the Avenue fruit shops and buying Ruth a basket of fruit. Then when they reached the station he bought the late magazines and papers. In every way possible he looked after her comfort, and she was grateful. But one word from Brian, a simple telephone message, even, bidding her goodbye, would have meant more to her than all Arthur Mandel could have done, more than all he did. Yet it was but natural that she should be pleased at the attention her employer gave her.

"I must be doing well or he wouldn't be so kind to me," she said to herself as she sunk her teeth into a delicious peach, and opened a magazine.

That she herself was the cause of this kindness she never dreamed. It was because of her value as a business asset. She must work terrribly hard to make good. She had such a wonderful chance. So she thought, for a bit, after Mr. Mandel left her. Then her mind reverted to Brian as usual. She wondered what he was doing. It was near dinner time. Would he go home and have his dinner? Or would he take Mollie King and go to some restaurant and spend the evening? She never yet had visioned him as spending the evening at Mollie's little studio. It some way had not occurred to her.

But Ruth was young, vitally alive, and easily interested. She never had traveled west before and soon gave up all thoughts of home and business to watch the shifting scenery. Until it was too dark to see, she looked from the window upon the new country constantly unfolding to her gaze. Then she went into the dining car and had her dinner.

But after she had gone to bed in the narrow birth in the state room Mr. Mandel had secured for her, her thoughts again sought out Brian, and she lay wondering what he was doing.

"I want him to be happy," she said aloud, knowing all the time she did not want him to be happy if it meant being with Mollie King.

Ruth was jealous of pretty Mollie. More jealous, perhaps, because she had hidden it from Brian. She did not underestimate Mollie's charm, even though she had no understanding of her character. Then, too, Mollie was a Bohemian, one of that class with whom Brian had associated before she, Ruth, knew him.

What was the fascination about such men as Claude Beckly? she wondered, her thoughts shifting. To her he had seemed such an outre sort of a creature. She recalled her determination to make Brian's friends her friends, if they would have her.

"If they were all like the Curtises it wouldn't be so bad," she said to herself. "I wish I knew that nice couple across the hall," once more her thoughts straying. "They both look good as well as intelligent. They look like the right kind of people," then she thought of Mrs. Clayborne. Would she never forgive her for going to work? Her letters since Ruth had refused to stop, to give up her position at her behest, had been few and very short. "I hate to have Aunt Louisa cross at me," she murmured sleepily. But her last thought again veered back to Brian. And before she finally slept she whispered: "I hope he isn't with Mollie King."

To-morrow—Brian Spends Another Evening With Mollie King.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

COUGHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible.

Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it, for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Landly, Bristol, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Last fall I took a severe cough and cold in my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep, but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely cured, and I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont

WINTER DAIRYING PAYS

A Few Very Simple Rules for Economical Feeding.

A Profitable and Efficient Ration for Work Horses When Fall Work Closes—How to Feed Roughage to Live Stock to Best Advantage.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

ONE great lesson which is being impressed on the people of Canada at the present time, and which cannot be emphasized too much is the need for thrift or economy. In this connection those in authority ought to set a worthy example to what Lincoln called "the Common People," of whom he is reported to have said, "The Lord must have loved them, because he made so many."

Farmers farm, "not for fun" as a man said to me one time, "but to make money." This may not be a high ideal for farmers or anyone else, but nevertheless it is a very necessary part in the lives of most farmers.

The chief value of winter dairying from an economical viewpoint is, that prices for milk, butter and cheese are always greater in winter than in summer, and if the producer of milk can keep winter production costs down to the level of summer costs, the gain in price for the milk, cream and butter sold in winter, is clear profit. Some claim that this cannot be done and that the extra cost of feed in winter, more than counter-balances the extra prices received for winter dairy goods.

This is probably true where the cow-feeder is obliged to purchase all his concentrates in the form of high priced dairy feeds, such as oilcake, cottonseed and gluten meals, but where a farmer is able to grow all his roughage, and at least one-half the meal ration, on his own farm, there is probably not so much differences between winter and summer milk costs, as some would suppose, especially on high-priced land. Where cheap, rough land is available for summer pasture, then summer milk can be produced comparatively cheap.

Another phase of milk production in winter worth considering is the labor problem. In winter there is more time to attend to the cows than in summer during the rush of work. Having the cows in a comfortable stable makes pleasant winter work looking after them. If at least half the herd be fresh during November and December, these cows will be going dry at harvest time the following summer, and thus labor is more evenly and more economically distributed throughout the year. Winter dairying may be warmly commended to the people of the Province of Ontario who keep cows for profit.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

End of Glacial Period.

Dr. Marsden Manson, an eminent authority on geology, points to the fact established by recent Antarctic explorations that the great ice cap covering the region of the south pole is shrinking. From this he draws the conclusion that the gradual subsidence of the age of ice of which the polar ice caps are the existing remnants is still going on and that we live, so to speak, at the tail end of the glacial period. He expresses the conviction that the same succession of geological climates has prevailed in Antarctic as in other latitudes and says that the evidence collected in recent Antarctic explorations is corroborated by the comparatively recent uncovering of temperate land areas, and the progressive retreat of the snow line to higher elevations in temperate and tropical latitudes and toward the poles at sea level. He comes to the conclusion that the disappearance of the ice age is an active present process and must be accounted for by activities and energies now at work. He considers it as proved that the rates and lines of retreat are and have been determined by exposure to solar energy and the temperature established thereby and by the difference in the specific heat of the land and water hemispheres.

MOTHER! DON'T TAKE CHANCES IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, clean little liver and bowels.

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups, plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

MORALE ALREADY GONE

GERMAN SAILORS KNOW ABOUT U-BOAT LOSSES.

Men Object to Being Included In the Crews Because So Many of Them Have Never Returned—Teutonic High Command Tries to Explain the Decrease In Submarine Activities In Recent Months.

GERMAN sailors did not await the British publication of the names of the commanders of the German submarines lost to undergo loss of morale as is intimated in the latest German communication regarding the publication of the list of mutinies in the German fleet had already taken place because of the enforced service on the U-boats. The sailors objected to being included in the number of crews which never return, since it was impossible to hide the loss of the submarines from the rest of the fleet.

The Germans tried to hide the losses by changing the bases, scattering the crews, changing the system of numbering and excluding the U-boat from the fleet. The German bulletin claims that more submarines are built than are lost. This is possible since Germany does not lack material with which to construct submarines. However, she lacks experienced and trained men to man the U-boats. The number of such boats cruising are known to be gradually decreasing. At one time they travelled in large groups, but now they rarely sail in groups of more than two. The U-boats are sinking ships westward bound from European ports, perhaps by operating in pairs. One U-boat submerges near the port, with its periscope out, patrolling for a convoy far enough away from it to see the smoke without itself being seen. It learns in what direction it is sailing and its speed. Then by sound signals it informs a second submarine at the route taken by the convoy, whereupon the second U-boat places itself in the path of the ship to be attacked.

Convoys approaching a European port enter the circumference of a circle where twenty U-boats are needed for effective blockade, since there is no way of locating the convoy. The Germans claim that the decrease of activity on the part of the U-boat is due to the increase in the Allied means of defence with the augmentation of the number of allied submarines. It is true that the Allies have augmented their means of defence against the submarines. However, the real augmentation has not yet been in operation. American seaplane stations are just being equipped and the American destroyer fleet awaits new units of the American chasers which are just arriving. The Allied submarines are not a great factor in eliminating the U-boat because of the low range of vision and the small target presented by the enemy submarines. Recently a French submarine trailed a friendly convoy in an effort to sink the U-boat if the convoy were attacked. The convoy was attacked when the night was at its darkest and an American ship was sunk by two torpedoes when only 800 yards from the Frenchman, who was on the surface hunting feverishly for the unseen enemy. The merchant ships under full steam separated and rushed at high speed, passing within 600 feet of the Frenchman who despite the imminent danger of being rammed remained on the surface. The Frenchman did not see the German and neither he nor the enemy was seen by the convoy. The Frenchman was disgruntled because he lost an opportunity and remained on the scene for two days hoping that the U-boat would return to the wreckage.

This illustrates the policy of the German statement. At present there exists no way of preventing some torpedoing because of the nature of the submarine, though augmentations of sinkings is not feared. The increasing demand for tonnage is liable to cause another crisis in shipping because of the necessity of providing the American army with superiority of equipment. There exists the greatest need for carrying out a vast shipbuilding program.

The New, Better and Safer Way to Wash Your Hair

Dandruff is the primary cause of falling hair. This disagreeable condition of the scalp and hair glands is almost certain to cause temporary or permanent baldness.

Loss of hair may also be ascribed to the use of improper shampoos containing irritating substances, animal oils and alcohol, any of which may produce gradual decay of the hair.

Don't use a stale liquid preparation that contains too much alkali (a harmful irritant). The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

How the Church Lost a Fortune

By RUTH GRAHAM

Mr. Whiffles was a young clergyman of the Anglican church who passed from low church to high church till he got so high as to favor celibacy among the clergy and finally determined to abstain from marriage. There was another, perhaps a stronger, reason for his own celibacy. He owned considerable property which he determined to put into a church. The giving up of this fortune he considered incompatible with matrimony.

His mother, who was as practical as the son was visionary, strongly objected to his plan. She had helped her husband by good household management to make the fortune her son enjoyed, and she had no desire to see it put into a church. If it were to go for any such purpose she preferred to have it given to the poor.

One day Mrs. Whiffles called on Miss Laura Edmonds, whom she knew her son fancied, and said:

"Laura, I wish your assistance."

"How can I serve you, Mrs. Whiffles?"

"Marry my son."

"What!"

"I mean what I say. Paul needs to be revolutionized. He has nonsensical ideas about living the life of a celibate and giving the fortune my husband left him—he had better have left it all to me—to the church. Paul has always liked you, and I think you can get him if you want him."

"Why, Mrs. Whiffles!"

"Listen to me. Paul's property pays 5 per cent on $800,000, and Paul himself is a good boy, though impractical, sentimental and generally ridiculous where his feelings are concerned. He isn't a bit like me or like what his father was."

"But, Mrs. Whiffles"—

"Don't 'but' me, please. You are too sensible a girl to throw $40,000 a year over your shoulder. When you get Paul you get his property. The question is do you want it or shall it go into stone and mortar with Gothic naves, a hand carved reredos and an altar"—

"Pardon me for interrupting you, Mrs. Whiffles, but will you kindly tell me how I am to marry your son when your son"—

"Simplest thing in the world—out-Herod Herod."

"Please explain."

"The first thing is to get hold of him. That I will arrange for you. All you have to do after that is to work to build two churches instead of one and much bigger ones. Keep forcing the gas into the balloon. Never let up. Regret that you haven't a fortune to build all these churches."

"Then what?"

"He'll think you the only sensible girl he ever met. He'll come to me and tell me all about it. I'll do a part of the rest myself. I'll suggest that you two together can build a church to beat the Cathedral of Cologne. Live on nothing. Sacrifice everything, even to living on bread and water. The bread and water will appeal to his imagination. Work in harmony for a great purpose."

"But I wouldn't relish living on bread and water."

"No more would Paul. I can't get anything dainty enough for him. But to mortify the flesh—imagination—he will beat St. Simeon Stylites."

"How funny!"

"Will you dine with us next Thursday evening?"

"Why, Mrs. Whiffles, Thursday? You don't intend—I believe I have no engagement for that evening."

"Well, Laura, goodby. You'll help me. I'm sure. You're no fool. I've known you since you were a little girl, and I'm sure there is no nonsense about you."

"But, Mrs. Whiffles, when I've out-Heroded Herod, as you call it, and have, as you proposed, put the money into the church at the expense of our stomachs"—

"Oh, you must do some sentimental lovemaking!"

"What else?"

"Get him; that's all. Get him."

"And after I have got him?"

"Oh, Laura, you make me tired! All these churches that you and he have been building together will collapse. If you can't manage Paul you're not the girl I take you for. Goodby, dear—Thursday evening at 7 o'clock."

Miss Edmonds appeared at Mrs. Whiffles' promptly at 7, and dinner was announced a few minutes later. She was as bright in action as she had seemed dull of comprehension. She had spent the interval since Mrs. Whiffles' visit poring over descriptions of cathedrals, and her knowledge on the subject made the young clergyman feel like a country meeting house architect beside a Michelangelo.

Mrs. Whiffles did her part after Miss Edmonds had departed, and when Paul called on Miss Edmonds a few days later he found her as keen up on medieval asceticism as she was on cathedrals. When he finally proposed, with the proviso that they marry and spend all their money except a thousand a year on churches, she declared that the amount reserved for themselves was extravagant.

When the couple returned from the wedding journey, which cost all they were to live on for a year, Mrs. Whiffles said to the bride:

"Now that you've got him lassoed you know what to do with him."

"I knew that before we were married," said the young lady as she held up her left hand, showing an immense solitaire diamond set in her engagement ring.

A Joke on the Germans.

In Le Figaro a recently returned French prisoner of war tells of an amusing trick that he and his comrades played on their German guards.

After two particularly trying captivities, he was transferred to a little village in Schleswig, without garrison, where they lived in specially constructed barracks. The work was light, not particularly urgent and the Germans, both officers and soldiers, who were old men, seemed anxious above all for tranquility. The Frenchmen, to the number of about fifty, profited by this, and as they gave little trouble to their keepers they were regarded by them with a certain benevolence, and from living together in the barracks there were even established somewhat neighborly relations.

The Germans were from that region, from the very old classes, and were totally ignorant of French. To relieve the monontony, in mixing with the Frenchmen in the hours of repose they sought to pick up a little of the language. Many of the prisoners had fine voices, and to pass the time they had organized as best they could a little choral, which they called the "Voice of the Galley Slaves." And in the evening, accompanied by an old harmonium, they spent hours in singing whatever they could remember—often canticles. The guards listened religiously and often joined in the choruses. One day one of the prisoners, who had a beautiful voice, announced a bold project: As the Germans repeated the phrases without understanding them, why not teach them something elaborate? Then, as a treat for the Germans, he sang a celebrated canticle on the Sacred Heart, the air of which is very beautiful. After an explanation as to what it was all about the boches gravely listened, found the music to their liking and learned the canticle word for word without, however, understanding a single word of it. And many evenings, when the day's work was done, after being assured that no intruding chief was spying around, the prisoners would encourage the German soldiers to sing, often all alone, and naturally to the great delight of the Frenchmen, this refrain:

Sauvez, sauvez la France,
Au mon du Sacre-Coeur,
(Save, oh, save France!
In the name of the Sacred Heart.)

He—There's no use introducing me to any one. I can't dance.

She—What nonsense! I saw you dancing with Miss James the other night.

"Yes, but she hasn't spoken to me since."—Life.

He stood behind too many bars,
And then he sought to find some.
In several bars he started jars,
And now he's lodged behind some.

PENSION TO MOTHERS.

Now is Opportune Time, Says Ottawa Council of Women.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—That the present is the opportune time for the Provincial Government to grant pensions to mothers, was the unanimous opinion of the Local Council of Women at the meeting yesterday over which Mrs. Adam Shortt presided, and a request will again be sent to the Provincial Government to deal with the question. The war has brought widowhood to hundreds of women in Canada, and the recent spread of illness all over the Dominion has added still more widows to the list. If ever there was a time when pensions should be granted to mothers, it is now, and the members of the Ottawa Local Council will send in their request immediately.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED SEVERE HEADACHES

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in, followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Youth and Age

"So this is your birthday, grandmother."

"Yes, dearie, I am seventy-five years old to-day. It doesn't seem possible, for I don't feel old."

"And you certainly do not look old. Besides, you are always so happy and cheerful that you do not seem at all old."

"A woman is only as old as she looks you know, and I have always tried to keep young and healthy."

"And were you never sick, grandmother?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, there was a time in my life when I never expected to live to be fifty, say nothing about seventy-five. When your mother and my other children were small I had my hands full and got run down in health. I got so nervous that I could not sleep and had frequent headaches. Every little thing the children would do seemed to annoy and worry me until, finally, I gave out entirely, and was in bed for months with nervous prostration."

"Did you have a doctor?"

"Yes, dearie, I had two or three doctors, but they only told me that it would take a long time for me to regain strength. One day your grandfather came in with some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. He said some one told him that it would cure me, and he went away to the drug store and bought half a dozen boxes."

"What did your doctor say about using it?"

"Well, what could he say? He only said that he had done all he could, and that he had run across a great many cases in which the Nerve Food had been used with excellent results. So I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it was not long before I was on the way to health and strength."

"And did it cure you?"

"Well, the best evidence is that I am here to-day, well and happy, after all these years. And I am more than ever enthusiastic for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for I have used it several times during the last few years when I felt that I needed some assistance to keep up vitality. As a person gets older I think their blood gets thinner, and they seem to need something like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to increase their strength and vigor."

"That is something worth knowing, grandmother."

"If you will take my advice, dearie, you will not forget about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when you get run down, tired out and nervous. This has been my advice to a great many people, and I know that it has done them good."

ALMOST A COMEDY.

Weird Incidents of Rule of the Bolsheviki.

Lenine, head of the Bolshevik Government in Russia, has succeeded in tracing and regaining possession of nearly all the Russian church valuables, the most historic of which were housed by the sacristans of the churches in the Kremlin, Moscow. After he stole them from the church lesser Bolsheviki stole them from him. Now the most valuable have been found in Saratav, including 1,000 diamonds, pearls, emeralds, gold chains, crosses and other gold objects used in the ritual, containing thirty-six pounds of pure gold and also the great emerald bearing a carving of the apostle Matthew. The collection is worth $5,000,000.

The central soviet committee will commemorate the second revolution in October by the publication of a book in Russian, English, French and German entitled "A Year's Proletarian Dominion." Among the contributors are Trotzky, Krylenko, Lenine and Radek.

Czaristic Russia in the second year of the war imported several thousand Chinese coolies who worked in the Ural and Donetz mines, harvested crops in the Volga region and unloaded steamers. Lenine succeeded in fetching most of them to Moscow, where they were organized on a military basis to defend the Bolshevik cause and carry out executions of men belonging to the upper and middle classes. At what the Bolsheviki term a general meeting of the Chinese colony in Moscow, held Sept. 15, the following resolution was passed:

"The Chinese colony in Moscow numbering 10,000 workers and peasants have decided to bring to the notice of the Chinese Government and people the knowledge that the colony energetically protests against the active intervention of China in Russia's home affairs. The Chinese colony is convinced that the Soviet Government is the only government in the world which is by the people and for the people. Long life to it! Long live its great chief Lenine and long live the International!"

The resolution was signed by four Chinamen able to write who were found by the Bolsheviki after a long and fatiguing search.

BURIAL SERVICE FOR WORKINGMEN URGED BY TRADES COUNCIL

Brantford Body Asks Congress to Draft It.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 18.—An appeal has been sent by the Brantford Trades and Labour Council to the Trades Congress of Canada, asking that body to draft a burial service for use in the funerals of workingmen, many of whom to-day were not affiliated with any church.

"Workingmen do not want smug-faced Pharisees chanting their 'cant' over their bruised and broken bodies," declared Delegate Kite, on whose initiative the appeal is being sent out.

Of the 1,8000 girls who answered the appeal for farm help in Ontario this year, only about 20 worked on mixed or dairy farms. The rest were fruit pickers and truck farmers. Of those who went to mixed farms, 30 per cent. were farmer's daughters and about 70 per cent. had had some previous experience in handling horses and milking cows.

Questioned afterwards as to their liking for the work, and whether they wished to take it up permanently, a number of the girls declared that they would consider dairying or poultry-keeping as life work if they had the necessary capital.

GERMANS HATE OWNER OF TIMES

Great Point in Lord Northcliffe's Favor.

HIS INFLUENCE IS FEARED

They Issue Paper Accusing Him of Using Trickery and Underhand Methods to Prove to the Teutonic Soldiers That Their Cause Is Lost and That the Allied Cause Is Right.

THERE are some parts of the British Empire where Lord Northcliffe is not greatly admired. People think that he possesses more power than ought to be given into the hands of a single wealthy and ambitious citizen. Time alone can show whether he is a dangerous man or an unselfish patriot working for the good of the Empire, but he has the satisfaction of knowing that the Germans pay him the tribute of hating him cordially. The Teutonic High Command is endeavoring at the present time to offset the effects of the propaganda of the Entente, aimed to show the German soldiers that the Allied war aims are just and reasonable. Here is a document that recently fell into the hands of the Buddies, which shows the feeling towards Northcliffe, who has supplied a great deal of the propaganda literature.

The order is as follows:

"The enemy begins to realize that we cannot be crushed by his blockade, his superiority in numbers and his force of arms. He, therefore, is trying by trickery and underhanded methods of which he is past master, to induct in the mind of the German people doubts of their invincibility. He has found for this purpose a special ministry for the destruction of German confidence. At the head of this ministry he has put that most rough-going rascal of all the entente, Lord Northcliffe, who has been given billions for influencing opinion in Germany and at the front by means of paid agents, assassinations of ambassadors and in all other ways in favor with the entente methods.

"Aviators are constantly distributing increasing numbers of leaflets and pamphlets. Letters written by German prisoners are falsified in the most outrageous way. Tracts and pamphlets are written, to which names of German poets, writers and statesmen are forged. These come from the Northcliffe press, which is working day and night for this sole purpose. His whole thought and aim is to place these forgeries in the hands of the German people.

"However obvious they may appear to the man who thinks twice, they may suggest a doubt, even for a moment, in the minds of those who do not think for themselves and shake their confidence in their leaders, their own strength and in the exhaustible resources of Germany. Germany may be saved by confidence.

"Lord Northcliffe forgets that German soldiers are neither negroes, Hindoos, illiterate French or Americans incapable of seeing through such machinations.

"Explain these infamous attempts to your young and inexperienced comrades. Tell them what our mortal enemy expects of them and what is at stake. Pick up the leaflets and pamphlets and give them to your commanders for transmission to the high command, which may be able to make invaluable deductions from them as to the aim of our enemies.

"You will thus help the command and also to hasten the hour of victory."

A Temptipg Bait.

The burgomaster of Arnsberg, Westphalia, Germany, having failed in all endeavors to induce the farmers of the neighborhood to bring in supplies, placed this advertisement in the local newspaper: "This municipality will buy all agricultural products for cash at government prices. Every person who delivers 100 pounds of bread grain or 300 pounds of potatoes will receive a ticket entitling him to buy a bottle of brandy or rum at reduced prices from the municipal cellars." Within twenty-four hours the cellars were empty and the residents of Arnsberg enjoyed the first square meal they had had for weeks.

FRANCE'S YELLOW BOOK

CONVINCING REPLY MADE TO GERMAN CHALLENGE.

Proof Given to the World That the Alliance Between the French and the Russians Was Defensive and Not Offensive — Pan-Germanism Always a Menace to Peace of Europe.

THE Prussian of to-day is so confirmed in the policy of aggressive militarism as to imagine the nations around him animated by the same motives toward him and toward one another. It was Shakespeare who said, "There's nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so." It was a German Chancellor who recalled the memorable saying of Hamlet when he openly and insolently impeached the Franco-Russian alliance as an aggressive one aimed at Germany. The outcome of that challenge is the Yellow Book, which has just been published in France.

Now, there is no doubt that the condition of the political atmosphere in Europe in the years 1892-93, the time when the Franco-Russian alliance was formed, was such as to lend color, for a superficial political observer, to the challenge flung out by the German Chancellor. Russia was then pursuing a steady, though covert, policy of military aggressiveness and absorption in the East and Far East. Over France there had swept a wave of chauvinism which threatened to overwhelm her better political judgment and to plunge her into strife, with the recovery of Alsace-Lorraine as the leitmotif. But, as the Tzar Alexander III. pointed out, in a conversation at the time with the Marquis de Montebello, there is a great gulf between "the natural hope of some day entering once more into possession of the lost provinces and the idea of revenge." The cry of "Revanche!" proved to be that of cliques, not of the French nation. The "gulf" of Alexander III. is now supplemented by the dossier of the Yellow Book, which, to say the least, is decidedly damaging to the German accuser in the Wilhelmstrasse. In this book have been published the documents relating to the Dual Alliance, which were seized by the Bolsheviki, and upon which the Chancellor based his accusations. One and all, they not only entirely vindicate and exonerate the French and Russians of the charge, but they virtually force the Chancellor to swallow his own words. At the same time, the frank publication of the correspondence has rendered an inestimable service to the Allies at a time when acute feeling has been aroused in allied countries against those secret methods of diplomacy which in the past have often bound peoples to treaties of which they may not have been warned, and against which they have not been forearmed.

The most superficial perusal of the official correspondence between Russia and France will abundantly prove that the Dual Alliance was not offensive but defensive, and that it was undertaken to insure Russia and France against the very assault upon their liberties which has been made in the present war. The true nature of that treaty could never have been doubted by any one outside the Central Empires; it must have been perfectly familiar to the chancelleries of Europe; and Great Britain, in entering upon a rapprochement with France and Russia which resulted in the formation of the Triple Entente, must not only have had full assurances of the defensive character of the alliance, but have been familiar with the tenor of the documents which now make up the case for France. They show conclusively that, even at that early date, it was the intention of Germany to attack Russia and France singly, in conjunction with Austria. "Thanks to the rapidity of his railway transport," so runs one of the incriminating documents, Germany calculates "to throw itself first on France and conquer her, and then to turn against Russia." One cannot rise from a perusal of these state papers without the conviction that the war, so far as Germany was concerned, was inevitable, that behind and underlying everything was the menace of German imperialism, and that, even without a Dual Alliance, Germany would have pursued her aggressive policy to its present logical conclusion. It is conceivable that without an alliance her task would have proved the easier. She could have attacked France without fear of intervention by Russia, whilst Russia, isolated and incapable of rapid mobilization of her army, would have fallen a ready victim to her unscrupulous military plans.

The German Chancellor, and his aid and abettor, the Kolnische Zeitung, have, to say the least, been "hoist" by their own petard. "The German press desired the revelations," exclaims Le Temps, in an editorial on the Yellow Book, "and here they are, but it is not for us that they prove embarrassing." Those words admirably sum up the situation. The only regret that one may feel with regard to the state documents is that their publication has been so long delayed. It is not at all unlikely, however, that the nature of international relations, after the war, will have undergone such a profound change as to preclude the possibilities of a diplomacy which refuses to take the peoples themselves more into its confidence. The letters of the Yellow Book bring it home in most pointed fashion that for years Europe was virtually sitting upon a gun barrel without the knowledge of the circumstance getting much beyond the chancelleries.

Greece Demands Expulsion of Turks From Europe

The Disposition of Constantinople Presents a Problem to the Allies—Difference of Opinion.

THE BRITISH VIEW

(By Raymond Clapper.)
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The disposition of Constantinople is being discussed informally by Allies statesmen and diplomats, it was learned today. This promises to be one of the most difficult questions confronting the peace conference.

President Wilson has expressed the belief that the Dardanelles, the Bosphorus and the strategic heights dominating these water passages, should be Internationalized, but some older statesmen express doubt as to whether the Turk will be driven from Constantinople.

Greece, through Premier Venizelos, now in Paris, is demanding the expulsion of the Turk from Europe. Many Hellenic statesmen and diplomats are pointing out the historic position of Constantinople as the capital of the ancient Byzantine Empire, in proof of their contention that Greece should receive this valued point.

The British View.

The British view is that while much can be said for the evacuation of the Turks from Constantinople, it must be considered that more than one-half the population is Turkish. The British delegation it is officially stated, will go to the peace conference open-minded on this point. They will, however, insist on the overthrow of the present tyrannical rulers of Turkey. The Dardanelles and the Bosphorus must be absolutely freed and Armenia must be cleared of Turkish oppression.

British purposes include the liberation of all subject races, including Jews, Arabs and Turks.

It is possible that the waterways and the land heights dominating them might be internationalized, while the city of Constantinople will be left to what government is in control in Turkey. Diplomats point out that the civilian administration of the city is purely a local matter, and that it is possible that a zone will carefully be defined which would cut off strategic and harbour points from the remainder of the city. Another plan is to form a joint government, consisting of representatives of the Allied powers or a League of Nations, with delegates from the local population. The prime object, it is said, is to keep the Dardanelles open to all nations. Cables reaching the Greek Legation to-day, declared that the admirals of the Greek flag ships are with the other Allied forces at Constantinople.

American Army of Occupation is Now Standing on the Soil of Four Countries.

(United Press Service.)
(By Webb Miller.)

WITH THE AMERICANS ADVANCING TOWARD THE RHINE, Nov. 21. — The American army of occupation is now standing on the soil of four countries, France, Belgium, Luxemburg and German-Lorraine.

Yesterday's advance resulted in the occupation of a score of Belgian villages and towns. They reached Fontoy and Vitry, in Lorraine, the latter town being only ten miles north of Metz. Further to the left Americans entered the neutral Duchy of Luxemburg, passing through Esch. American outposts are now only a few miles from Luxemburg. The capital is gaily decorated with flags, the people expectantly awaiting the entry of the Americans. The mayor of Luxemburg crossed the lines in an automobile and paid his respects to General Pershing at Longuyon, which is now headquarters.

The Germans sent some staff officers to army headquarters to arrange for handing over the material at Longuyon. This included thirty-nine locomotives, two hundred guns and thousands of rifles. The roads near the Luxemburg frontier are lined with surendered cannon.

SURRENDER OF FIRST FLOTILLA OF GERMAN SUBS

Eighty Others Are to be Given Up Before the End of This Week —Silent, Dramatic Scene.

ALL PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Twenty German submarines—the first flotilla of the foe's underseas forces—are anchored to-night near Parkeston quay, under the surveillance of two patrolling British cruisers. Each flies the white ensign of the British navy, with the German flag underneath. They are the first hostages of the Kaiser's humbled armada.

The submarines were surrendered to Rear-Admiral Sir Reginald V. Tyrwhitt at sunrise this morning about thirty miles off Harwich. Admiral Tyrwhitt received the surrender of the German craft on board his flagship, a British cruiser.

Twenty additional submarines will be surendered on Thursday and twenty more on Friday. The remainder of the U-boats to be handed over in accordance with the armistice terms will be given up later.

All the submarines were at the surface, with their hatches open and their crews standing on deck. The vessels were flying no flags whatever, and their guns were trained fore and aft in accordance with the terms of surrender.

Ready For Treachery.

A bugle sounded on the Curacao, and all the gun crews took up their stations, ready for any possible treachery.

The leading destroyer, in response to a signal from the Admiral, turned and led the way toward England, and the submarines were ordered to follow. They immediately did so. The surrender had been accomplished.

Each cruiser turned, and, keeping a careful lookout, steamed toward Harwick. On the deck of one of the largest of the submarines, which carried two 5.9 guns, 28 officers and men were counted. The craft was estimated to be nearly 300 feet in length. Its number had been painted out.

British Seaplanes Arrive.

Near the Harwich lightship three large British seaplanes, followed by an airship, were observed. The Harwich forces and the seaplanes and airship made a most impressive sight.

One of the submarines was seen to send up a couple of carrier pigeons and at once a signal was flashed from the Admiral that it had no right to do this.

When the ships had cleared the mine field and entered the war channel the "paravanes" were hauled aboard. On reaching a point some 20 miles off Harwich the ships dropper anchor and Captain Addison came out on the warship Maidstone.

British Crews Take Possession.

British crews were then put on board the submarines to take them into harbour. With the exception of the engine staffs all the German sailors remained on deck. The submarines were then taken through the gates of the harbour and the German crews were transferred to the transports which will take them back to Germany.

As the boats went through the gates the white ensign was run up on each of them with the German flag underneath.

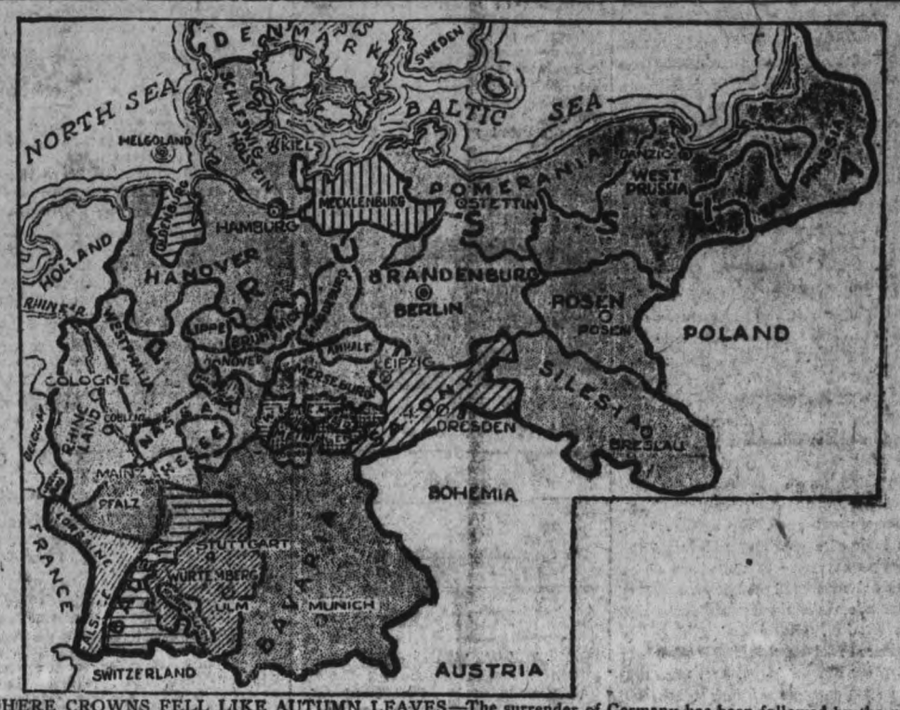
Surrender in Silence.

Each German submarine Commander of the transfer was required to sign a declaration to the effect that his vessel was in running order, that its periscope was intact, that its torpedoes were unloaded and that its torpedo heads were safe.

Orders had been issued forbidding any demonstrations and these instructions were obeyed to the letter. There was complete silence as the submarines surrendered and as the crews were transferred. So ended an historic event and the first portion of the German submarine fleet is now in the hands of the British navy.

MAY CUT OUT HOLIDAYS.

The Department of Education is considering the advisability of cancelling this year the usual Christmas holidays, the general holidays on December 25th, and January 1st, of course, being observed by the little folks.



WHERE CROWNS FELL LIKE AUTUMN LEAVES—The surrender of Germany has been followed by the uncrowning of the Kaiser and three other kings, and at least 16 petty rulers, grand dukes and dukes. There were four kingdoms and twenty-six states in the German Empire and probably by this time all the crowned rulers have either quit or been given notice to do so. The men who have lost their thrones include Wilhelm II. of Germany, Ludwig III. of Bavaria, Wilhelm II. of Wurtemberg, Friedrich August of Saxony, Ernest Augustus, Duke of Brunswick (the ex-Kaiser's son-in-law), the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, the Grand Duke of Hesse, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Grand Duke Ernst of Saxe-Weimar, Prince Leopold of Lippe-Detmold, Prince Heinrich XXVII of Reuss, Prince Friedrich of Waldeck-Pyrmont, the Duke of Anhalt, Prince Adolphe of Schaumburg-Lippe, and, as our French friends say, et al (There are others).

Imposing Array of Naval Craft Took Part in the Dramatic Ceremony—The Actual Surrender Was Made at 9:30 This Morning —List of Enemy Craft Turned Over.

LONDON, November 21.—The German Fleet has surrendered to the Grand Fleet, the British Admiralty announced to-day.

The American Battle Squadron and French Cruisers and Destroyers participated in the ceremony.

The German fleet as specified in the terms of the armistice with Germany, was surrendered to-day to the Allies at 9.30 a.m. The British Grand Fleet, accompanied by an American Battle Squadron and French Cruisers, steamed out at three o'clock this morning from its Scottish base to accept the surrender of the German battleships, battle cruisers and destroyers.

The surrender is being carried out according to plan. The point of rendezvous for the Allied and German sea forces was between thirty and forty miles east of May Island, opposite the Firth of Forth.

FOR INTERNMENT.

The Admiralty made the following announcement: The commander-in-chief of the German fleet reported at 9.30 this morning that he was in charge of the German high sea fleet, which is "surrendering for internment."

Four hundred allied warships, the biggest fleet ever assembled, are reported to have met the Germans. The fleet included five American dreadnoughts. The surrender is understood to have taken place at a point about sixty miles east of May Isle. (May Isle is just off the entrance to the Firth of Forth, on the Scottish coast.)

The German fleet followed the prescribed plan in surrendering, with the exception of one ship which is now en route.

The total number of ships which surrendered was not yet known as this was cabled.

FOG CLEARED.

Fog which enveloped the Grand Fleet for three days cleared last night and this morning the weather was dull with a slight haze hanging over the Firth of Forth. The allied fleet which is to witness the surrender, consists of some 400 ships, including 60 dreadnoughts, 50 light cruisers, and nearly 200 destroyers. Admiral Sir David Beatty, Commander of the Grand Fleet, is on the Queen Elizabeth.

The names of German battleships, battle cruisers and light cruisers which have surrendered to the allies have not been announced officially. A telegram received in Amsterdam from Berlin on Sunday gave this list: Battleships: Kaiser, Kaiserin, Koenig Albert, Kron Prinz Wilhelm, Prinz Regent Luiptold, Markgraf, Grosser Kurfuerst, Bayern, Koenig and the Friedrich der Grosse; in all between 24,000 and 28,000 tons each.

Battle cruisers: Hindenburg, Derflinger, Seydrlitz, Moltke, and Von der Tann, all between 18,000 and 28,000 each.

Light cruisers: Bremen, Brummer, Frankfurt, Koeln, Dresden, and Emden, all about 50,000 tons.

Favours Open Diplomacy

Censorship May be Removed From the Peace Conference—The Wilsonian Policy.

(United Press Service.)
(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, Nov. 21.—While Versailles is making its toilet for the peace congress, the problem of secrecy or no secrecy, censorship or no censorship, is taking on great importance.

Senator Borah's statement that everything must be done under the eyes of the public is receiving much comment, and it is understood that President Wilson has the same sentiment.

It is pointed out that the American censorship has been abolished and the British newspapers are permitted to publish what is not allowed in France. It is now urgent that they be an inter-Allied agreement concerning what shall be published about the peace negotiations.

Opinion here generally inclines toward secrecy on the ground that the Germans will exploit to the fullest extent the slightest lack of harmony. However, many declare the Wilsonian policy of open diplomacy ought to begin at Versailles.

Will Protest to Holland

German Troops Permitted to Cross Dutch Territory During Retirement.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 21.—The Allied governments have decided to send an official protest to the Dutch government against the violation of Holland's neutrality as a result of permitting German troops to cross the province of Limburg in the retreat from Belgium.

Limburg is a long irregular province of Holland, nearly 105 miles in length. For 28 miles from its lower extremity it lies between the province of Limburg, Belgium and the Rhine province in Germany. At the widest point in this region it is nineteen miles between Belgium and German soil. Just north of Sittard, the Limburg province narrows down to less than five miles. It was reported from Paris that German troops returning to Germany from Belgium had to cross the Dutch province of Limburg, and the charge was made that the passage was made with the sanction of the Dutch authorities.

French Newspapers Suppressed in 1914 Resume Publication—The Native Lorrainers.

GERMANS WILL STAY

(By Frank J. Taylor.)
(United Press.)

METZ, Nov. 20. — Peasants and trades people were the loudest in their cheers when the French resumed control of Lorraine. The reason is that most of the workers are native Lorrainers and heartily pro-French. They constitute a strong majority of the population. Their children usually speak French, although that language has been "verboten" since 1914.

There was not the wildest enthusiasm among former office holders and professional men. These are mostly from Germany and had a monopoly on the jobs with fat salaries. Many of them intend to stay under French control apparently. I talked with dozens of them and I failed to find any who contemplated pulling out. They were generally philosophical and said they were learning to become French and would welcome the new liberty.

Shortage of Supplies.

Shortage of supplies is confined mostly to leather. Shoes made of that material are practically unobtainable, most of them being made of wood. Clothes are expensive, but can be bought if one has the price. Bread is not particularly scarce, but is of poor quality. There is plenty of meat and vegetables.

The French newspapers, suppressed in 1914, resumed publication yesterday. They were combined temporarily. Both French and German newspapers welcomed French occupation.

Premier Clemenceau will enter the city when the Civil government takes control after ten days of semi-military occupation.

NUMBER OF DEATHS DUE TO INFLUENZA ON BOARD SHIP

Inquiry Has Been Instituted by the Adjutant-General of the Canadian Forces.

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 21. — While there are reasons to believe that the report of the death by influenza of a number of troops en route to England recently may be correct, no direct verification of the report is yet available at military headquarters.

The Adjutant General is instituting an inquiry into the matter from overseas and a report will be issued at an early date. Meanwhile the Department will neither confirm nor deny the report.

Dr. George Clinton in the City To-day

Dr. George Clinton, District Officer of Health with headquarters in Belleville, was in the city to-day and in company with Dr. C. H. Amy's, local Medical Officer of Health looked into local conditions arising out of the recent influenza epidemic.

"We had about sixty deaths in Belleville", said Dr. Clinton.

Both doctors agreed that there may be isolated cases of influenza all winter.

FILTHY CONDITION OF THE NOSE

Detrimental to the Health.

It is only a few years since it was an exception to find a person, who took proper care of the teeth. Accordingly, most people, a couple of generations ago, lost their teeth at a very early age. And even to-day many people are suffering from their youthful neglect in this respect.

People used to smile when the doctor told them that their whole system was poisoned from the teeth.

And even to-day, while many people clean their teeth thoroughly in the morning, they entirely overlook the equally important matter of cleaning them before going to bed. There is more danger from corrosion from food substance being left between the teeth overnight than there is in the daytime. And if one will attend to them twice a day, it is better, as far as the preservation of the teeth are concerned, to clean them at night rather than in the morning.

There is another very important item in personal cleanliness and prevention of disease, that, even to-day, is, by the great majority of people, entirely neglected. This is the proper cleansing of the Nose and Throat, and particularly the Nose.

It has been estimated that about one person out of two has a Diseased Condition of the Nasal Cavities. It may exist in the form of dry catarrh or a chronic inflammation and enlargement of the membranes or in the form of the nasty discharges, which are so common. This Chronic condition makes it easy for other germs of a more dangerous nature to gain entry into the system.

Parents should learn, themselves, and then teach their children that it is just as important to keep their Noses Clean as it is to keep their teeth clean. There is no doubt that many of the throat troubles are caused by the spread of chronic inflammation of the nose.

Anyone, that has any signs of Catarrhal trouble, should use, once or twice a day, a cleansing antiseptic. Moncur's Antiseptic Mouth Wash and Nasal Douche admirably suits this purpose. Diluted with twice its bulk of water (almost hot), it makes the most pleasing, refreshing, cleansing wash, that one could wish.

Many Medical Practitioners use some such preparation before making their daily Calls.

If your Nose and Throat are in perfect condition, you may keep it so by using this preparation once or twice a day even in a more diluted state.

Used, when you feel a cold starting in the nose, it will often completely stop the discharge.

It is Cheap and Effective. You can get a large bottle for 25c. at Moncur's Drug Store, 407 George street.

Retreating in Great Disorder

Military and Civil Authority Has Disappeared in Western Germany.

Canadian Press:

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—The retreat of the German armies from the western front is continuing in greatest disorder, according to information received by the Swiss Federal authorities at Berne. Anarchy in Germany is said to be far worse than during the Austrian retreat from Italy. Swiss newspapers say military and civil authority has disappeared in Western Germany.

Shipping Losses for October

PUNISHMENT FOR DEFAULTERS.

The suggestion that the most fitting punishment that could be given defaulters under the Military Service Act would be to deprive them of their franchise is not likely to find much favour in the eyes of such organizations as the Great War Veterans' Association, judging by the following wire sent to Ottawa by the Provincial branch:

"The Ontario Provincial command of the G.W.V.A., representing 20,000 returned men of the provinces, and acting for 120,000 yet to come home, protest most emphatically against exemption of defaulters and deserters under the M.S.A. from the punishment that is their due.

"The removal of border restrictions and the halting of legal proceedings against such defaulters and deserters is viewed with alarm and dismay. Repeal of such action is requested."

"Rev. C. E. Jeakins, president
"W. E. Turley, secretary-treasurer."

The majority of citizens seem to have the same view on this matter as the returned soldiers. To punish men who, through religious scruples, refused to serve, by giving them ten or fifteen years in the penitentiary, while other Canadians who deliberately hid themselves and evaded their duty are allowed to escape with disenfranchisement, does not seem either logical or fair. The man who was an out and-out shirker when his country needed his services, is not likely to place much value upon the right to vote and will cheerfully be deprived of that opportunity in exchange for immunity from other punishment.

NEGLECTING OUR OPPORTUNITIES.

From governmental and other circles, Canadians have been frequently advised of the importance of reducing the adverse balance of trade between ourselves and the United States, a balance that amounts yearly to about four hundred millions of dollars. It is obvious that this should be materially cut down, and the government might reasonably be expected, in view of its own warning statements, to take advantage of all our natural resources to effect this result.

And how are they doing it? A writer in the financial section of Toronto Saturday Night gives some interesting figures that show how utterly we have failed to realize from these resources. Do the people of Canada appreciate the fact that in the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1918, the Dominion exported to the United States over a million cords of pulpwood to the value of $8,339,000, and that during the present year the quantity will be even greater?

In the name of common sense, why could not this pulpwood be manufactured into paper in Canada? The paper that could have been obtained from the wood sent to the United States would have been worth $40,000,000 and its manufacture would have given profitable employment to thousands of workmen. What is the use of the government preaching trade expansion and the reduction of the trade balance, when they permit the exportation of pulpwood valued at $8,000,000 that could quite as readily be converted into paper, and exported in that form, thus reducing the balance against us by $40,000,000? We are stripping our forests at the minimum profit and the United States is benefitting at the expense of our heritage of natural resources. There is no doubt that the United States mills require our pulpwood, but they would have the solution in their own hands. They could move their plants into Canada, and do their manufacturing here.

The development of Canada's resources to their fullest extent should be a leading feature in the programme of reconstruction. It is to be hoped that those in authority will wake up to the pulpwood situation. Our timber resources are not inexhaustible—much of them have been squandered, but we still have vast quantities left. Will the government go on sleeping while the rest of our heritage is frittered away?

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

Candidates who intend to offer themselves at the coming municipal elections would do well to study the question of better housing accommodation, because this problem threatens to be an issue in the campaign that will have to be faced, judging by the decision of the Ontario Provincial Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association to put the matter squarely up to all candidates. The problem is a serious one in Peterborough as elsewhere throughout the province, and will be aggravated by the return of the soldiers from overseas. At the present time there are many cases where two soldiers' families are occupying the same house, but this will not be possible when the husbands return from overseas. Again, there are 20,000 Canadian women in England who will shortly be returning home. Houses will be required for many of these, which will add to the difficulty of the situation.

Recognizing the importance of the matter, the Provincial executive of the G.W.V.A. has sent to each branch in the province the following questions to be submitted to every candidate for mayoralty and aldermanic honours:

To what extent do you consider the municipality responsible for the living conditions of the citizens of the municipality?

Do you consider a well defined town planning scheme necessary to every municipality?

Are you in favour of the appointment of a housing and town planning board in this municipality?

Are you in favour of the municipality taking advantage of the Ontario Government loan? If not, how do you propose to solve the problem?

SIR WILFRID'S ADDRESS.

"To him once more—Canada turns for light and leadership."

Such was the reference made to Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the banquet held in honour of the Liberal leader at London on Tuesday night, and the sentiment will appeal to the people of Canada as well founded. Canada is tired of government by order-in-Council, weary of the blunders and inactivity of the Union Government in vital matters, disgusted with the apparent absence of any systematic policy of reconstruction after the war. Canada's soldiers who more than any other class were responsible for the election of the Union Government have already begun to regret their action, the farmers of Canada complain bitterly that they were deceived by the government. Dissatisfaction with the existing condition of affairs is rampant throughout the Dominion.

What is more natural in view of these facts that the country should look for guidance to the great statesman whose counsel has led the Dominion safely through many of its difficulties in the past? And the vigorous nature of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's London address indicates that the country will not look in vain. Although Sir Wilfrid announced that a national convention would be called to decide the policy of Canadian Liberals "to examine the problems which have been laid before us when we know the full conditions of the results of the war" and "to endeavour to settle them on the lines of Liberal principles," the speech itself furnished an opportunity to judge what some features of the policy will be.

Prominent among these features was the declaration that suitable employment and adequate pensions must be provided for the returning soldiers of Canada. "We must do justice to the men who fought so splendidly at the front." This statement was given further weight by the passing of a resolution pledging the Liberals of Western Ontario to the task of seeing that soldiers and sailors should have first claim upon the consideration of Parliament, and that no distress should be allowed to exist among those who have fought for the Empire. The resolution also emphatically urged the training of disabled soldiers to fit them for new positions.

Sir Wilfrid made clear where he stood in regard to trade relationships with the Mother Land. "We shall never ask to go back upon our policy of preference—nor shall we ask England to give us some petty or big favour for it," was the ringing declaration of the Liberal leader, and he added: "We don't desire in Canada to tax the food of the working people of Great Britain."

Returned soldiers will appreciate Sir Wilfrid's reference to them. "The fate of Turkey and Bulgaria may be very important, but I submit that the fate of the returning Canadian soldiers is of some importance too," was a remark that elicited the most enthusiastic applause from those who heard Sir Wilfrid.

The whole address was a forcible criticism of the Government and an eloquent exposition of some of the problems that Canada is facing.

When the blue dries up in the bottle add a little vinegar and it will resume its liquid state.

THE "VETERAN'S" COMPLAINT

The Veteran, the official organ of the Great War Veterans Association does not seem to have the same confidence in the Union Government as it had a year ago. In November issue of this monthly journal devoted to teh interests of Canada's returned soldiers, appears a very interesting editorial on the situation at Ottawa of which the following is an extract.

"All over the world men's minds are now turning to plans of reconstruction and schemes of amelioration of social and economical conditions of which the majority of intelligent people are now agreed to be intolerable. There is movement everywhere, everywhere the impulse to a new and better world—save apparently in the Council Chamber of our Union Government. There may be steady incubation of reforms and schemes of public betterment in that sanctuary, but the public has scant knowledge of them and is rarely allowed to lend the saving assistance of comment and criticism. The truth is that while Union Government has displayed a modest capacity for furthering Canada's war effort, its performances and sins of omission have aroused in many minds a serious doubt whether it is in any way capable of solving the numerous and grave problems of reconstruction which will confront our country next year. It suffers from the lack of a coherent mind and the notorius diversity of the views of individual members. But it also suffers from a certain mental staleness and fossilization, which are a hopeless barrier to clear thinking and ready reception of new ideas. And the world is now possessed of new ideas and wants to see them put into execution. Active politicians are especially prone to find themselves in such a rut and into it a certain element of the Union Government have fallen. They are absorbed in the daily routine of their official duties and have neither the time nor the inclination to study and face problems till the necessity for their settlement has become pressing urgent. Then ensue hasty consultations and conferences with unsufficient data available and bad decisions which give general dissatisfaction are the result. Reconstruction cannot be handled in this manner without disaster and confusion. So difficult a task requires as careful planning and forethought as Foch and his staff have doubtless given to their successful offeneive. Is there any sign of it in Ottawa? What are the Government's plans about demobilization? Has it any mind about Canada's future position in the British Commonwealth and League of Nations? Has it ever considered if the principles of the Whitley Report could be applied to Canadian industry? Does it contemplate the payment of our war debts without recourse to a levy on capital and how?"

Hence it comes that we are on the eve of a very trying period of reconstruction when men's minds are in a temper, if not revolutionary, at least filled with impatience at the many wrongs and evils in civilization with our fate directed by a Government which contains larger elements of dead wood and is still painfully susceptible to the influence of vested interests

Trades Combine? Machinists Confer

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Fred Bancroft, representing the Pattern-makers' Association of Toronto, addressed the delegates to the Provincial convention of machinists this afternoon, on the federation of the metal trades organizations.

Mr. Bancroft told of the efforts which had been made up to date to combine all the metal trades in the city into a federation. The pattern-makers and machinists had appointed committees already to bring the movement to a focus. He pointed out that the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labour gave ample power to International Unions of the metal trades to form combinations of the metal trades unions for the purpose of obtaining better wages and conditions, and also to maintain the standards which had been established by hard work.

President Gompers had stated frankly that the standards of wages and conditions must be maintained.

It was absolutely necessary that the standards should be maintained so that the boys who have fought so nobly for democracy can come back to proper wages and conditions in the industries they belong to, and that the workers of Canada may have proper conditions.

It will be necessary to accelerate production in Canada, as well as in Great Britain to meet the financial obligations assumed. To produce the commodities to pay the debts, it will mean labour, and plenty of it will be needed. In the adjustment of industry a great deal will depend on the maintenance of certain standards. The metal trades compose a very important part of industry, and it would be well for the convention to consider very seriously the organization of metal trades councils in the various cities, and a Provincial federation of metal trades as well.

Vice-President McClelland stated in reply that he was very glad that the pattern-makers had sent Mr. Bancroft with this message, he thought it was a most vital question, and predicted great value from the organizations of the metal trades. Other delegates spoke in favour of it. The message of Mr. Bancroft was received enthusiastically, and there is little doubt but that the convention will start the organization under way. It may be called the Iron Trades Council of Ontario, with councils in the various cities.

The conference then went into close session to take up once more matters of further organization for after war conditions, and a number of resolutions which had arrived for consideration during the day.

Use peanuts on meatless days if possible.

MATTERS MUSICAL

ADVICE TO TEACHERS OF TALENTED PUPILS.

A word of warning must be given to the teacher regarding his most talented pupil or pupils. There is no task so grave as that of teaching a really talented pupil. It is easy to make use of talent, taking it at its present value and parading it as a product of our instruction. Many young players "have it in them" to do brilliant things at the piano without seeming effort. Often the best "show pupil", the most popular pupil at the Studio Recitals is one who in the least degree represents the teacher's work.

By special "grace," these clever pupils "get on" and appear to outstrip all others of the class; 'tis but human that these pupils (young and inexperienced) feel that they do not need the strict discipline insisted on with the average pupil, and this thought leads to indifference, and indolence; they generally "make good" in public affairs and often carry off the public honours because of a certain brilliant dash in their performances; but it is also a fact that often (generally) these most brilliant pupils of the studio, at the final tests are found defective in many ways. If these more talented pupils are to be fully developed, realizing their real possibilities, they must finally "get down" to serious fundamental work and accomplish the difficulties of "detail" which have been neglected; these facts must be known and appreciated by the teacher and in the early stages of work: all pupils, however so talented should be brought to know the importance of hard work and be induced to cultivate the habit of serious practice.

THE SERVICE OF MUSIC.

Music is the express service of our consciousness. It assembles, classifies, drills our remembered emotions and tumultuary mobs of associated ideas, and so sends them to the front. To each, music assigns its station and its service on the battle front of the present moment, and at each realized moment of music, life wins a victory over dreamland. Thus music has a practical importance. The progress of a modern city is at best confused and any force or fashion which makes for order and saves waste of power and dissipation of personal effort is worthy of serious attention. At this time the question naturally presents itself how far can music claim recognition as an organized educational force making for progress and happiness.

In two respects at least music has an advantage over nearly all other branches of study. First, it ministers to happiness by its continual appeal to pleasurable emotions; secondly, it is the permanent way to friendship, owing to its dependence upon sympathy and co-operation. Music is therefore of supreme importance to every nation, perhaps most of all to nations like our British race, who are not congenially addicted to musical self-expression.

The Welsh people and the Italians are the most sociable of peoples, because they are admittedly in their very grain musical. Your Welshman or your Neapolitan is never bored, seldom aware of such a thing as ennui or loneliness. The Prussian people are not musical. Even in great Germany, which stands on an unapproachable eminence as the motherland of Bach, and Beethoven, the galaxy of great musicians were an oligarchy, the sudden and majestic issue of three isolated generations, who have left no equal posterity. If the faculty of making friends, the faculty which raises a man above the animals has its especial home in the British race, it is largely due to the reverence and love of music which with us has been an acquired, not a natural and national predilection.

MUSIC IS A MORAL LAW.

There is an intense need for art, and above all for music in the daily lives of Canada's people, and it is through the public schools that the musical resources of the younger generation, at present lying dormant, must be awakened.

Why should our girls and boys being educated to be good business men and women be denied development of the higher intellectual and moral side of their natures? It is here that music most directly exerts its influence. To quote the words of Plato: "Music is a moral law. It is the essence of order, and leads to all that is good, just and beautiful."

There is always the possibility, too, that embryo Pattis and Carusos are amongst our children and these can add as much to the future fame of our country as orators, poets, writers, or successful business men—then let them too, have their chance in school days, as well as the others.

CHILDREN SHOULD BE TAUGHT TO STUDY SERIOUSLY

It is necessary for children to be serious in their music studies. It is of no use to teach a child to make its fingers flexible enough to play for uncle and aunt and to please the guests of the house this only caters to youthful vanity and lessens appreciation of great achievements. Children should be taught music to broaden their views, to enlarge their sympathies, to add to their emotional expressions, to increase their capacity for joy, to make their souls warm and tender.

A child should be taught to read music as we teach it to read a book, for his own individual delight, for his development and increased spirituality. What you can do for others with your music is not important, unless you are a professional musician; it is what music can do for you that counts.

In other words, don't seek to ornament children's minds with a little musical decoration, but seek to enlarge their spirits with the wealth of beauty that music can bring them. But let them strive for it themselves.

Music & Drama

CINDERELLA

For a number of years Peterboro theatre goers have been delighted with an annual visit from Mr. P. Stuart Whytes pantomime company. Two years ago 'Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" was successfully presented here, last year saw the return of the company in a sparkling presentation of "Robinson Crusoe" and last night these charming entertainers returned to the Grand to present a spectacular version of "Cinderella." The popularity that Mr. Stuart-Whyte's organization enjoys in Peterboro was eloquently shown by the presence of a capacity audience to welcome the old favourites in the caste and to make the acquaintance of the new members.

"Cinderella" proved to be he biggst and most sumptuous production the company has yet presented. It was elaborately staged the scenic effec s being lavish in the extreme while the costumes were strikingly rich and beautiful.

The caste was a brilliant one. Miss Zara Clinton is once more the "principal boy" and proved as charming and pleasing as ever as "The Prince". Miss Clinton has been prime favorite here since her first appearance in this city and she added to her laurels by her work last evening. Her singing has lost none of its charm and she scored heavily in her song numbers, notably in the old favorite "When Johnny Comes Marching Home", a peculiarly appropriate offering just now. Other members of the caste, who are well known from their previous visits here in pantomime were Messrs. Harry Hoyland and Mr. J. V. Barrett-Lennard. Mr. Hoyland provided much of the comedy as Peptica, one of the wicked sisters while Mr. Barrett-Lennard who looked even taller and thinner than last year, provided much amusement as Baron Bursten, Cinderella's father. Miss Kitty Arthur was a most pleasing young gallant and won much favour by her delightful singing while Miss Sue Parker was most successfully cast as Cinderella investing the part with a charm and grace that were most appealing while she displayed a sweet and pure soprano to splendid advantage. Miss Blanche Young contributed several very effective dancing numbers.

The chorus well drilled and comely added much to the enjoyment of the evening, their dancing and singing leaving little to be desired.

The whole performance was clean, bright and entertaining and Peterboro will always have a warm welcome for Mr. Stuart-Whyte and his capable British-Canadian entertainers. The announcements that "Cinderella" will pay another visit here later on in the season and that for next year Mr. Stuart-Whyte is preparing a new and elaborate production of "Aladdin" were enthusiastically applauded.

No Trace of Body After Eleven Days

Dragging and Blasting Fail to Locate Walter Lauder's Remains.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—In spite of the most diligent search, the body of Walter Lauder, the only American member of the Aurora Hunt Club, of Aurora, Ont., has not been found. The veteran out-of-doors man from New York City was drowned in the Washnipatate River, near Burwash, eleven days ago, when the large gasoline boat in which the hunting party were going into the bush for the season stalled and capsized.

The deceased, who was remarkably well preserved and youthful in appearance, thanks to his outdoor life, had a weak heart and wore a heavy fur overcoat, which made attempts at rescue difficult. Five Aurora hunters and a friend from New York have been dragging and blasting, but the river is cold, snaggy and swift, and empties into the fast flowing French river.

Famous As Sportsman.

The late Walter Lauder was one of the best known men in New York, but was also a famous shot and skilled fisherman, and the scene of his death was as familiar to him as his beloved New Jersey farm. Among the sporting men with whom he had an extensive acquaintance he frequently served as banker and one occasion held $40,000 in bets made on an election.

A keen farmer who was "up with the sun" and his melons were famous, but he was also one of the best known figures on Park Row. Half a million people passed his drug store in the Pulitzer Building every day, and as a former official on the New York World he knew almost every newspaperman in his city. In business he was conservative and his charities were numerous.

He was a director of the "Amen Corner" and a member of the New York Athletic and Hardward Clubs and of the Aurora Hunt Club for forty-seven years.

COURTSHIP AT THE FRONT

Even such matters as courtship and marriage are now supervised by the military authorities.

A girl who was in the Q.M.A.A.C. at Boulogne became engaged. Engaged couples are allowed to remain in France, married couples are not. After a period of courtship her fiancee was informed that he was off for the front line at a certain time.

Then the burning question arose: Should she remain at Boulogne as a fiancee and a Q.M.A.A.C. and he go to the front or should they get married and she go back to England? They decided to marry.

First at the Consulate and then at the garrison church, Gertie was married in a cleaned frock with patched elbows. The three days' official honeymoon was spent at a cottage rented by the authorities for the purpose—an official home for honeymoon couples. The cottage is in the care of a French housekeeper, whose charges are moderate.

Sheriff's Officer is Shot to Death

James McKay, of Prince Albert Shot at Steep Creek.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 20.—James McKay, of this city, a sheriff's officer, was murdered at Steep Creek, and his body, along with his car, thrown down a sixty foot embankment into the Saskatchewan river. The place is forty miles east of here near the Lacolle Falls power dam.

The crime was committed last Friday afternoon when Mr. McKay went to make a seizure under instructions of the sheriff, at the farm of a man known as "Doctor Jarvais." The victim was shot from an entrenched dugout by two men who are believed to be draft evaders of the military service and who are said to have come to Steep Creek district about the time the Military Service Act was put into force, from Montreal.

Discovery of the crime was mad yesterday when Sergeant Kistruc of the Provincial Police, was sen out to make a search for Mr. M Kay, whose unexplained absenc since last Friday had caused son anxiety at his home and at the She iff's office. Sergt. Kistruck found system of trenches which had ev dently been constructed for the pu pose of human defence and repr sented what might have been foun on a modern battlefield. There we a number of dugouts which com mand strategic points in the loca ity and it was from one of these th Mr. McKay was shot.

Investigation in the neighbourhoo disclosed the fact that the people Steep Creek have been living in te ror of three men, one of whom is a leged to be "Doctor" Jarvais, wh came to this district some time a and with whom the two men, wh are alleged to have committed th crime, lived.

A posse of police and soldie have been despatched to the scen of the crime by Inspector O'Sull van of the Provincial Police. The are fully armed and have instru tions to take the men dead or aliv

Cold Reception for John Barleycorn From Labor Men

Resolution Asking the Government to Increase the Alcoholic Content of Beer Was Thrown Out by Labour Council—Progress in Preparations for Activity in Elections.

ALD. A. A. McINTYRE MENTIONED

Organized Labour's preparations for participation in the coming municipal elections advanced a stage last night when the special committee, delegated to survey the ranks for likely candidates, proposed to the Trades and Labour Council the names of Messrs. Alex. Murray, Robert Morrison, Harry Gainey and James Palmer. Mr. M. L. Campbell and Mr. Thos. H. Lane presented the report, which first of all suggested Ald. A. A. McIntyre as a Labour candidate for Mayor. The Council was informed that Ald. McIntyre declined to commit himself for the present, but would give his answer after carefully considering the question.

Mr. Campbell stated that the report was incomplete. The committee desired to extend their investigations, and particularly wished to consult the Great War Veterans' Association as to their intentions. The information was offered that the Veterans proposed to have at least one representative in the Aldermanic field, and this prospect brought forth the unanimous opinion that Labour and the returned soldiers should work together. In fact, it was suggested that the Veterans' nominee should be included in the Labour list.

"Our aims are practically identical," one member said, but discussion was deferred until the special committee presents its complete report.

All Qualified Labour Men.

The four men proposed for the Aldermanic ticket are all solid union men. Mr. Murray and Mr. Palmer are members of the Machinists' local; Mr. Morrison is an electrical worker, and Mr. Gainey a barber. Final action on the whole question of selecting candidates was postponed until December 4th.

Mr. Lane, who has been business agent for the Carpenters, announced that he expected to move from Peterborough shortly, and asked that his resignation from the special committee be accepted. Mr. Thos. McMurray was appointed to succeed him.

Memorial Idea Premature.

Attention was called to the suggestion that a war memorial be erected in Peterborough, but the Council felt that the idea was too previous and should not be put forward until all the soldiers, or the great majority of them, have returned home.

Frosty Reception For J. Barleycorn.

"The Brewers' Big Waggons Can't Roll Over Us," was the sentiment of most of the Council toward a communication which they interpreted as peace envoys from the "liquor traffic." The International Brewery Workers and Soft Drink Makers sought the Council's endorsation of a resolution petitioning the Government to increase the alcoholic content of beer from its present infusion of 2½ per cent. to nearly five per cent.

A motion that the letter be received was followed by an amendment that the resolution be endorsed and forwarded to the Government. On a fairly close vote the motion carried.

In discussing this question some members declared that the proposal was a transparent disguise or the entering of the thin edge of the wedge of the liquor traffic which, they maintained, was appealing to Labour to appeal for its restoration.

One speaker asserted that his own and the general experience of working men had demonstrated all too sadly that alcoholic beverages were a nest of evils to Labour and also to the Union Labour movement. Men who had wasted their wages in this bleery days of the open bar had found themselves without the means to maintain strikes, and thus to protect their own and the interests of their families. There was not one good word for the "traffic," which was heartily denounced, and practically every speaker expressed the hope that the day of the open bar was gone forever.

One member who declared his detestation of the old evils said that the 2½ per cent. beer was so distasteful to the men who drank it that there might develop an agitation for a stronger "kick" in it, and to forestall that demand it might be wiser to support the resolution from the Brewery Workers.

"It simply means this," summarized another, "that the present beer is not strong enough. Do you want it stronger?"

And the Council's reply was "No."

A "reasonable wife" is one who never asks the reason of anything her husband does nor stops to reason about anything he tells her.

Interesting Letter From Peterboro Soldier Overseas

Private A. Coughlin Describes the March of the Canadians Through Mons—Had a Narrow Escape.

Miss Coughlin, of 349 Euclid ave., East City, has received the following letter from her brother, Private A. Coughlin, of the 38th Canadian Battalion, B.E.F., France:

Dear Sister: Just a line to let you know that I am O.K., or as we say over here, "Tres bon." I received your most welcome letter yesterday, and was glad to hear from home. I think that I have got all the boxes Mother has sent me, for which I am most grateful. I am sending you a rose I plucked from a rose bush on the battle field; it was just commencing to bloom.

This life is not all hardship and danger. We had a great reception when we took the city of ——. It is about the size of Toronto. It is one of the largest that has been taken from the Boche. The people did not have to leave their homes as it was not shelled by either side.

Thousands of refugees lined the main streets as we marched through. Such an excited crowd! Some were cheering and clapping their hands — others weeping, and clapping, and trying to cheer at the same time. It was a sad sight to see old men and and poor old grey haired women calpping their hands, and crying, and from all sides came "Vive la Canadien." Our band played the Marseillais over and over. We were all afternoon passing through the city. I am sending you in this letter a piece of a French flag. Keep it as a souvenir. The people were intoxicated with joy—the only way that I can explain their actions.

Well, dear sister, I had one close call while in battle a week ago. My haversack was hit by a bullet and taken clean off my back. It was close enough for me. Don't worry about me, for I think that it will soon be over, and if it is God's will I will come out safely. I don't worry. I will say good-bye, with love to all from,

Pte. A. Coughlin.

Generator Bought in Sweden for Hydro-Electric Commission May Have Been Sunk by Submarine

Could Have Been Built in Peterboro During Admittedly Slack Year—Ordered for Extra Generating Unit at Healey's Falls.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS ARE DIMLY LIGHTED

When Mr. Ireland of the Hydro-Electric Commission's staff was asked by Mayor Duncan a few days ago why the Commission had ordered from manufacturers in Sweden, instead of from the Canadian General Electric Company, the generator that is to be installed at the Healey's Falls power house, he stated that the Swedish company's price was about $14,000 less than the local company's. It will be remembered that several months ago the Commission announced its project of building a new dam at Raney's Falls, Campbellford, to provide a new unit in the local Hydro-Electric system. Preliminary work was to be begun this fall in preparation for the actual construction next year, following the completion of a new flume at Healey's Falls this year. It was for the latter that the new generator was ordered from Sweden. Delivery was due months ago, according to the information at hand. The Commission was notified several times that shipment had been made, but in Mr. Ireland's words the Commission did not know whether the machine was afloat or at the bottom of the ocean.

Opinion in Peterborough has crystalized into conviction that the needs and demands of this district have received too little attention from the Hydro-Electric Commission, and there is a fixed belief that the requirements of Western Ontario receive first and last attention in the Hydro office. This order placed in Sweden indicates an economy that might lend itself to reconsideration at this time, or even within the past year, in view of the recently published statement of Senator Nichols that the C.G.E. Company could handle more business than it had in sight. Whether the company has shared in the Commission's orders in the past or not, should be regarded apart from this order for a generator required locally, paid for to a large extent by Peterborough power consumers, and finally that could have been built in the local factory at a time when employment was giving both manufacturers and labour unusual concern.

There is, too, the important side of this deal, apart from the supplying of home industry, that power is needed in this district and that the extra unit at Healey's Falls may lie idle indefinitely, for Mr. Ireland told Mayor Duncan that the machine might have been lost in the submarine field.

More Lights Needed.

Last night's serious accident at the G.T.R. crossing on Rink street emphasizes the danger that lurks at other crossings in the city under the cloak of darkness. The Utilities Commission have exemplified an ideal condition by their experiment at the corner of Bethune and Sherbrooke streets. A magnetite arc lamp close to the G.T.R. and in front of the substation illuminates that corner as few others are illuminated outside the principal streets. It is a pity that this plan has not been extended to all the places of possible danger along the railways that cut through the heart of the city in all directions. There is a decidedly dangerous locality at the corner of McDonnel and Park streets where the Street Railway and G.T.R. tracks parallel for a short stretch. The lighting at that corner is altogether insufficient. In fact any of the steam railway lines may be followed and nearly every corner will be found poorly lighted. The G. T.R. crossings on Wolfe street are quite satisfactory, but on Townsend street and in all the district south and west, where three railways criss-cross the streets, the lighting is deplorably bad.

It is of course recognized that the Utilities Commission has been hampered by high costs of material and labour due to war conditions, but next year's Council should set its mind upon the problem of the city's lighting with a determination that Peterborough must live up to its title of "The Electric City."

A CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR SOLDIER KIDDIES

The Peterboro Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association will hold their annual Christmas treat for the children of Peterboro Soldiers and Sailors, on December 21st. We solicit the kind patronage of the citizens of Peterboro to assist in this work by donations of either cash or provisions. Mr. G. N. Gordon has most generously opened the list with a donation of $50. We are confident that anyone who saw the happy faces and listened to the merry laughter of the little ones at last year's Christmas treat, will be anxious to help to make the coming event squally as successful.

Government Aid For Exporters After the War

Trade Commission in London Will Help Canadian Business.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—In connection with the Government's decision to establish a Canadian trade mission at London, under the charge of Lloyd Harris, to arrange for post-war Canadian export trade generally with European countries, it is understood that arrangements are being made to continue after the war the same arrangements now obtaining with regard to purchases of Canadian products for overseas through Governmental agencies. Canadian manufacturers and exporters of Canadian products generally will not be left to their own resources in again competing for export trade under the unsettled and complex trade conditions bound to develop with the quick cessation of war industries. There will undoubtedly be a continuance to a large degree at least, of the present conditions of Governmental financing of overseas purchases by the Allies in Canada, with regulations as to the distribution of orders and more or less standardization of prices.

France, Belgium, Great Britain and other European countries will have an immense program of rehabilitation and reconstruction, and this program will have to be carried out in the main by a system of Government credits instead of individual credits, such as obtained under pre-war conditions. There will be little ready money to send to Canada for our exports sent across the Atlantic. Individual manufacturers or exporters in Canada naturally will not be in a position to advance long credits on overseas purchases, and consequently, if the hoped for trade is to be secured, it will have to be through Governmental financing and regulation here.

The War Trade Board and other Governmental purchasing agencies will probably be continued after the war, and as a corollary to the Governmental supervision of purchases for export trade, those will naturally be as equitable as possible a distribution of orders with fixture of prices as far as possible. It is to be noted that the new Canadian trade mission is a separate branch of the Governmental service, and is not attached either to the Department of Trade and Commerce, or to the High Commissioner's office. Mr. Harris will confer direct with any departments of the Government concerned, and has practically a free hand in carrying out the objects of the mission.

Gossip here has it that Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who is one of Sir Robert Borden's colleagues going to the peace conference, will remain in London as the Canadian Minister resident there. His functions as well as those of Sir George Perley, Canadian High Commissioner, will be, however, somewhat circumscribed, since the main task will be that of the trade mission under Mr. Harris.

The Trade and Commerce portfolio is likely to go to some big business man not new in the Government.

PETERBORO DRY DOCK PROPOSAL REVIVED

Minister of Railways and Canals Surprised to Learn of Scheme.

At the time war was declared in 1914 arrangements were under way to construct a drydock in East City for accommodation of local navigation. The money was voted by Parliament and the contract ready to let.

Mr. J. H. Burnham M.P., has taken the matter up again as the following correspondence will show,

Office of Minister of Railways and Canals.

Dear Mr. Burnham,—Yours of the 18th instant duly received. It is the first intimation I have had of any dry-dock being considered in Peterborough, as of course it was before I was minister of this Department. I inquired from the Chief Engineer as to what the situation was and the enclosed memorandum explains how the matter stands at the present time.

I however will take up the matter and see if anything further can be done.

Yours truly,
J. D. REID.

Ottawa, Nov. 19, 1918.

To Minister of Railways and Canals.

With reference to the Peterboro Dry Dock scheme, about which you received a letter from Mr. Burnham this morning, I find that the lands required for this purpose were expropriated in 1914. Later upon the majority of the owners refusing to accept the amounts fixed by the valuator, abandonments of the expropriation were filed.

W. A. B.
Chief Engineer.

Was Killed on Second Last Day of the Conflict

Former Member of 93rd Battalion Met Death Just Before Armistice Was Signed.

The many friends in Peterborough of Lieut. Wesley Clarence McFaul, M.M., formerly of the signalling section of the 93rd Battalion, will be grieved to learn that he was killed in action on the second last day of the war, meeting death on the Sunday preceding the signing of the armistice. Lieut. McFaul, whose home was in Owen Sound, enlisted as a private with the 93rd Battalion here and became a member of the signallers. During the time the 93rd was training in Peterborough he made many friends, while he was most popular with his comrades in the battalion.

An Owen Sound despatch says:

Owen Sound, Nov. 19.—A. W. McFaul, 922 Second avenue west, has just received the sad news that his son, Lieut. Wesley Clarence McFaul, of the infantry, had been killed in action on the previous Sunday, November 10. The word coming after the signing of the armistice, when everyone hoped that casualties had ceased, made the announcement doubly hard. The late Lieut. McFaul enlisted in November, 1915, with the 93rd Battalion, and was in France in 1916.

Won Military Medal.

He served with such distinction that he was awarded a military medal, and a commission. He was wounded in August last, and only returned to the front thirteen days when he made the great sacrifice. One day more and the fighting had ceased. Lieut. McFaul was not only well known, but very highly esteemed by everyone who knew him. He was an upright and manly lad, and his death has caused the deepest regret. He leaves, besides his father, two sisters, Misses Evelyn and Violet, at home, and two soldier brothers, Lieut. Lawrence and Pte. Cre McFaul, both of whom are in France.

Coal is Badly Needed in Township of North Monaghan

Three Hundred and Fifteen Families in Suburbs of Peterboro are Without Coal.

LIVELY DISCUSSION

The seriousness of the fuel situation in North Monaghan was brought home to the City Council last evening by Mr. Fred Wilson, Deputy Reeve and Fuel Controller for the township. So far this year the township has received one car of coal, and this Mr. Wilson has distributed to a large number of families. Mr. Wilson used his own teams and gave much of his own time and labour in order to accomplish this result. In the words of Ald. F. H. Dobbin, chairman of the local Fuel Committee, "Mr. Wilson makes me feel ashamed when I hear of all he has done to relieve the fuel situation in the adjacent township."

Mr. Wilson appeared before the City Council last evening with a request for one car of the city's coal supply. This, the township is willing to buy or borrow until such time as the township's allotment of coal arrives. It is nearly a month since Mr. Wilson was advised by the Fuel Controller that two cars of coal had been assigned to North Monaghan, but so far they have not arrived.

315 Families Effected.

Over three hundred and fifteen families in the suburbs of the city are without coal and at the mercy of the first cold snap. Ald. A. A. McIntyre who opposed the proposal to assign a carload of municipal coal to North Monaghan, wanted to know if Mr. Wilson intended to supply coal to the farmers and residents of Springville.

In reply to this question Mr. Wilson produced an order book containing a list of names of residents of Brownton and adjoining suburbs, including such streets as New Romaine street, McGill street, and a host of others.

"Next winter the farmers will draw wood into Peterborough at fifteen dollars for three-quarters of a cord," said Ald. O. A. McIntyre, persisting in his argument that some of the coal would find its way into the hands of the farmers.

Mr. Wilson told of one case where one woman with a sick child had been unable to get coal. He said that lots of farmers had no wood lot and others were drawing wood to warm citizens in Peterborough. Mr. Wilson assured the aldermen that the coal he was after was not intended for the farmers but for the residents of the suburban district adjacent to Peterborough.

Feeding the Germans.

"We are not geting an order for the Germans whom we have been fighting as an enemy for over four years, and I can see no reason why we should not help these people who are separated from us by a street boundary line. If it is a case of a little red tape involving the by-law, we might break it and help these people out," said Alderman Worth.

"If this Council undertakes to overstep the by-law in order to supply coal to North Monaghan I will take out an injunction," threatened Ald. A. A. McIntyre.

"If conditions get serious in North Monaghan there will be a higher power than us will break the by-law," observed Alderman Langford.

"We are not getting an order for coal, and we are not buying any more coal," said Alderman Weir, in support of the contention that the city was well supplied with coal.

Alderman Dobbin took Mr. Wilson's breath away when he enumerated the number of cars of coal that has been received by the city, and the number on the way.

Mr. Wilson said that both he and other residents in the township had been refused coal by local dealers. North Monaghan had always looked to Peterborough for the winter's coal supply.

Alderman Jones—"Are we going to let these people want for coal when we have it here."

Alderman McIntyre moved that no coal be supplied to North Monaghan.

Alderman Worth and Alderman Jones moved in amendment that some steps be taken to supply the suburbs with a limited supply of coal.

City Solicitor Gordon said that the term "suburbs" was too vague a description and suggested that "North Monaghan" be substituted. The original amendment containing the word "suburbs" was carried on a division of six to five, but when the term "North Monaghan" was substituted, a couple of the aldermen flopped over and it was finally moved that no action be taken.

The objection to the word "suburgs" was that it might permit of a too liberal interpretation and include Douro and other adjacent municipalities, while other members of the Council were of the opinion that it might be possible to "bend" the by-law to include suburbs, whereas as the term "North Monaghan" would be too distinctive and would mean that the by-law would have to be deliberately broken.

A War Memorial For Peterboro

477 1-2 Boliver St.
City, Nov. 20.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir:—

Taking advantage of the invitation in last night's issue, re. "War Memorial."

I have no doubt that the arguments for and against the erection of a monument in Peterboro will be many and varied. The contention of Capt. Morrison, President of the G.W.V.A., that the monument should take the form of a home, or institute for the G.W.V. would be a very practical form of memorial for the next 40 or 50 years. I don't dispute this, I would like to see the Veterans in permanent quarters, free from all taxes, etc., where, when our veterans who have fought for our freedom and liberty, grow old and feeble, could still have a home to meet in, fight their battles over again as old soldiers love to do, and live in if necessary without fear of ejection through unpaid rent, etc., But there is also another duty which I feel sure the G.W.V. will agree is a sacred one, that is to perpetuate for all time the things Peterboro has done in the war, by "things" I would include the noble work of the Red Cross done by the women of the city. The giving of their sons to the empire, in many instances their only child, the great work for the Red Cross, prisoners of war, etc., The brave nurses who have succoured the wounded on the battlefield and elsewhere, these and manw others are deeds which should be perpetuated in some worthy form along with the valient deeds of our soldiers.

That it may record the noble deeds of our soldiers, the heroic sacrifices of the women of this city and the patriotic spirit of the civilian population in working and giving so that our empire might live, I am in favor of erecting a monument which should be in my opinion of an imperishable nature, far rather erect a huge rough hewn block of granite recording its purpose, than some fantastic architectural monstrosity constructed from artificial stone or marble.

Yours Sincerely,
W. H. BARRY.

ALCOHOL AS STIMULANT.

LONDON.—Sir Alfred Pearce Gould, the well known surgeon, writes, with reference to the statement of a physician that "the want of a powerful and agreeable stimulant has opened a chink in the protective armour of a number of people," is unsupported by a single fact. "The opinion that alcohol is a stimulant," says Sir A. Pearce Gould, "is entirely at variance with the teaching of physiologists and pharmacologists as given in the recently published report of Lord D'Abernon's Committee on Alcohol in its actions on human organisms."

PLAN FOR RESUMPTION IN WOOLLEN BUSINESS.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Representatives of the woollen and worsted industry are working out plans for the resumption of business out from under Government control. Regulation of the trade from the raw material to the finished product, demobilization of temporary workers, re-instatement of men from the army and women from munitions work and adaptation of machinery to changed conditions are some of the problems under consideration.

Canadian Grain is Held Up, Charges a Port Arthur Paper

Calls Upon Julius Barnes, Assistant to American Food Controller, for Explanation.

Daily News-Chronicle says:

"The other day the Minneapolis papers commented on the rapidity with which grain, especially wheat, is being moved from the terminals at that city and Duluth-Superior. It was noted that there would be great activity during the balance of the season, in order that the big houses should be empty, so far as possible at the close of the season of navigation.

"If only some such message were given to Canadian grain interests there would be much rejoicing, but while that is the programme for the United States side of the lakes, it appears to be the policy to pursue an entirely different course towards Canada. Here the total shipments for the week ending Friday last were just over three million bushels of all kinds of grain, or an average daily shipment of less than half a million bushels.

"It appears that there is no shipping, or a very limited capacity, for Canadian elevators, and no reason for the embargo placed upon Canadian ships coming to Canadian ports and taking Canadian grain to Canadian receiving elevators has been vouchsafed.

"We are left to conjecture what the cause can possibly be. In casting about we find many of the largest of our fleet engaged in carrying iron ore from the head of the lakes to Cleveland or Erie, and we find our receiving elevators on the Georgian Bay have been utilized for the storing and transfer of grain coming out by the south shore route. With the activity prophesized at Minneapolis, it looks as if the Canadian crop is to receive as little attention as possible during the season of navigation and that what has to go will go on rail entailing extra work on the part of the railways and saddling Canadian interests with an expensive railhaul.

"In view of the fact that Canada has the grain waiting to go forward, and the facilities for handling it without trouble, it does appear as if somebody had put something over. A letter which recently appeared in the press placed the responsibility for the condition upon Jules Barnes, aide to Hoover, food controller, and one of the biggest grain dealers in the United States. If that is the fact, Mr. Barnes certainly owes an explanation to Canadian interests, now chafing under restrictions which prevents them shipping even the coarse grains which they have sold. The trade is being held up, buyers and sellers are debarred from doing business, for the reason that neither know when delivery can be made, notwithstanding there is ample shipping of Canadian register on the lakes."

WAR SAVINGS STAMP CAMPAIGN IS COMING

Total Issue Will be Fifty Million Dollars; Plan is Announced.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—Announcement is made that the government will inaugurate a war savings stamp campaign. The first war savings stamp has just been issued to His Excellency the Governor-General.

The government will become the repository of the nation's savings up to a total of $50,000,000. Savings will be placed with the government by means of the purchase of war savings stamps. The stamps are to be redeemable in January 1924.

They are to be sold by the Government at a price which works out to an interest rate of somewhat better than 4 1-2 per cent. compounder semi-annually or five per cent. simple interest if computed at the end of the period. Thus in December, 1918, or January, 1919 a five dollar war savings stamp may be bought for four dollars. After January the purchase price of a war savings stamp will be increased month by month but at the end of five years from December, 1918, all stamps will be redeemed at $5.00 each.

Stamps of lower denomination, to be known as thrift stamps, will be on sale. When sixteen of them have been accumulated they can be exchanged for a war savings stamp worth five dollars at the end of the period. The plan is expected to work out to the great advantage of both the people and the nation.

In all the nine provinces strong local organizations are being formed. They will, in turn, organize the municipalities, and the process of organization will be further carried out until it will embrace, so far as possible, every individual in the country.

French Have Occupied Budapest

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The French occupied Budapest, capital of Hungary, on Sunday, it was announced here today.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.— French troops occupying Budapest, the Hungarian capital, included a division of 8,000 men, while two other divisions are to hold the important rail heads, a semi-official despatch from Berne stated.

The occupation of Budapest by the French evidently is in accordance with the provisions of the Austrian armistice, which included the right of occupying all strategic centres in Austria-Hungary.

THESE POOR HEATHENS ARE LEARNING RAPIDLY

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—If you seek to escape the rent profiteer and the housing problem, don't migrate to Hongkong.

Reports of the department of commerce show these evils evist almost to the same extent in Hongkong as they do in Washington, which is generally conceded the championship.

Rents have moved skyward so rapidly that they are almost prohibitive to the man of modest means, the report says. And it's next to impossible to get a place to five. Influx of persons of wealth from other parts of the country is said to be responsible for this situation.

Seven Thousand Were Demobilized

Special to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 21.—This morning 7,000 men at Minto Barracks and other points in the City of Winnipeg's garrison were demobilized, thus saving $350,000 a month to the government, although three months' pay and $35 for clothing be given each soldier.

TOO MANY BURGLARIES.

Port Hope Needs a Detective Newhall.

Burglaries are becoming very numerous and the unfortunate part is that the thieves so far have evaded the police. After every burglary the victims will tell you that they have a good idea of who the thieves are. The names of these suspects should be given to the police and of course the information will be treated with every confidence. Our police should be in a position then to keep a watch on these men and probably be successful in rounding up the gang. Something must be done even if we have to call in the services of some secret service men.—Port Hope Guide

Voice of The People

Dear Sir,—I would like to ask the public generally, also our valuable M.H.O., Dr. Amys, if it is healthful and right while this epidemic is still prevalent, for the night soil to be collected at mid-day. This is the case in East City, and one complaint out of a good many to which I sign my name to, as—

AN OBJECTOR.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—In the report of the special Thanksgiving service in St. John's church in your issue of Monday, you stated that President Staunton asked the Veterans to rise and bow their heads in silent prayer for their departed comrades. I understand that the Veterans do not do this, but rise and bow their heads in memory of their departed dead. Is this not correct.

ENQUIRER.

Peterboro,
November, 20, 1918

Sir,—There appears to be two different ideas brought forward as regards, —Honouring our dead heroes, i.e., Those killed in action, died of wounds, or died on service. (1) A substantial and artistic monument to be erected in one of the parks. (2) A memorable hall for the use of the G. W. V. A.

As regards a building or hall for the use of the veterans, I feel like the majority of the citizens do in this case —they have earned it.

They should have one erected by subscription or other means, and free from all taxes, whilst they can form a quorum.

If other cities can do it for the Veterans, Peterboro should do it also.

Still I look at the two ideas in probably a different light to Capt. Morrison

If it is to be a substantial and artistic monument, I agree that Peterboro should have a public monument —having the names of its killed in action, died of wounds, died on service, engraved on it.

Let the people of Peterboro and visitors from all parts, gaze on our heroes names; and note what Peterboro has lost in the Great War.

Not only that but the people of Peterboro and visitors will be reminded at all times of the heroes we have lost.

As regards a park—I do not think a more befitting place could be chosen than the one the majority of our heroes drilled upon—Central Park. And would suggest it be placed close behind the drinking fountain there.

A committee should be formed at once and something done as regards this proposition. I quite agree with the sentiments of Mr. E. G. Patterson.

Yours,
C. DUGGAN

He hath put down the mighty from power,
He hath humbled the proud in the dust,
He hath made the oppressor to cower,
And exalted the lowly and just.

He hath smitten the king from his throne,
And the princes are scattered afield;
The hand of the Lord hath been shown,
And the wounds of his people are healed.

The Lord, who is righteous and great,
In his wrath hath laid tyranny low;
Henceforth let the cohorts of Hate

Former Bank Manager, Advised It Is Never Too Late To Mend.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Yesterday afternoon Chief Justice R. M. Meredith acquitted Wm. R. Travers, the former general manager of the Farmers' Bank, of a serious charge. He said: "They say it is never too late to mend, and I hope it may prove to be so in your case."

"As Mr. Roebuck says," said his Lordship, "this is a crime which was committed at the instance of the lady. I admit that the man was an unmitigated blackguard, but what I feel is no reason why I should stretch the law. The prisoner was induced to do what he did, even if it were with the purpose of obtaining a conviction." Chief Justice then instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, which they did immediately. His Lordship then acquitted Travers.

A Card To The Public

To-day I make the most important theatrical announcement ever made in this city.

I have just contracted with Messrs. William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest to bring their big original company and production of "EXPERIENCE" to THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE for an engagement of two days, beginning FRIDAY, NOV. 29th.

"EXPERIENCE" is without doubt the greatest success of this day and generation. It ran nine months in New York, seven months in Chicago, five months in Boston and five months in Philadelphia. In every community where it is presented it invariably receives the enthusiastic endorsement of the clergy of all creeds and denominations.

"EXPERIENCE" is a modern morality drama by George V. Hobart, telling in ten vivid and powerful scenes of the temptations confronting youth—the average young man—going forth into the world for Fame and Fortune.

"EXPERIENCE" is properly called "The Most Wonderful Play in America." I know of my own knowledge that this play has been a sensation everywhere presented. I am sure it will arouse enormous interest here. It is the biggest dramatic offering announced in the past ten years. I don't believe another one as big will come along in the next ten years.

The price for this engagement will be Evenings 50c to $1.50. A bargain matinee will be given Saturday, when the best seats will be only $1.00. Mail orders are now being received. Send proper remittance, including war tax, made payable to the order of THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE, and enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for return of tickets. Specify plainly date for which tickets are required.

We are proud and happy to be able to bring "EXPERIENCE" to the theatre-goers of Peterborough and vicinity.

Germans Would Have Demanded Entire Continent

Striking Statement Cr. dited to Late Albert Ballen.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, November 21.—The late Albert Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company, in discussing the indicated armistice terms to be given to Germany in a letter to the editor of the National Zeitung, of Berlin, shortly before his death, said:

"The indicated military, economic and political conditions of the entente are much more moderate than might have been expected from our situation. We need only think what our terms would have been had we been victorious. We would have demanded the occupation of Paris and London. We would have dictated peace at Buckingham Palace, and annexed the entire continent from the Ural Moutains to the Bay of Biscay."

It is difficult to reconcile the above with the report that Ballin, who was managing director of the Hamburg-American Steamship Lines, committed suicide when he learned of the allied armistice terms. That report followed by a few days the announcement that Ballin had died suddenly.

LOCAL LABOUR TO GET PREFERENCE IN BRIDGE WORK

Tenders for Hunter Street Bridge Will be Received Up to December 20th.

The plans and specifications of the Hunter street bridge were laid before the Council last night by the designing engineer, Mr. Frank Barber, and were subjected to the closest scrutiny the aldermen could focus upon them. After a lengthy discussion Ald. M. McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Weir, that the plans be approved and signed by the Mayor and City Clerk, after they had first received the approval of City Engineer Parsons, and that Mr. Barber be authorized to advertise for tenders for the construction of the bridge, the tenders to be submitted up to December 20th.

The plans are now in the hands of the City Engineer, who will report on them to the Council before they are officially signed. If any alterations are required the changes shall be made by Mr. Barber.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald A. A. McIntyre, that a clause be added to the agreement to provide that the contractor shall employ residents of this city so far as possible, and in all cases Peterborough men, either for skilled or unskilled labour, shall have preference, other things being equal.

Daring Aviator Returns Home

LIEUT. P. J. MALONEY OF ENNISMORE, BRINGS DOWN MANY ENEMY PLANES.

Lieut. P. J. Maloney, M.C., has just returned from three years overseas fighting, and is in Toronto for a few days. Lieut. Maloney, who is a nephew of Lieut.-Col. P. J. Maloney of Cornwall, is a son of Mr. Eugene Maloney, Ennismore. He enlisted early in 1915 with the Canadian Field Artillery, but upon arriving in England transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and after receiving his commission went to France in January, 1916, as pilot of a scout plane. He won the Military Cross in November, 1917, when attacked by heavy odds he bagged to Hun planes in the one morning and was himself shot down and wounded. After convalescing he again took up scout fighting in January, 1918. He has a good bag of enemy planes to his credit. Before returning to Canada Lieut. Maloney was attached to the Air Ministry in England.

Plants That Poison Stock

It is impossible to say with exactitude how much damage results from cattle, and live stock generally, eating poisonous plants. It is, however, certain that the waste thus caused amounts to serious proportions annually. Cattle, sheep, and swine are taken ill, and frequently die from trouble attributable to the consumption of poisonous plants when other things are supposed to have been the cause. If it were the custom in all cases of this kind to call in a veterinary surgeon to investigate it would be discovered in many instances that the consumption of poisonous plants was at the foundation. Some of these plants are common to every province in the Dominion, others are only to be found in sections of the country. The Agricultural Gazette of Canada in the September and October numbers deals with this matter in a very lucid way and supplies accounts of the most troublesome of these weeds in seven out of the nine provinces.

In Ontario it would seem that there are only two poisonous weeds that cause farmers serious trouble. These are Spotted Cowbane or Water Hemlock (Cicuta maculata) and the Common Horsetail. Both these plants are found in low places, or in sandy land which has a poorly drained subsoil, the Cowbane being especially poisonous to cattle and the Horsetail to horses. There are other poisonous plants found in the province such as Sneeze Weed, Sheep Sorrel, or Lamb Kill, Stinking Willie, and Purple or Corn Cockle. The last named is hurtful particularly to young chickens.

FREE AS BEFORE WAR.

Travel from Canada no Longer Subject to a Permit.

OTTAWA, Nov. 21. — On May 24, 1917, with the object of preventing an exodus from Canada of persons likely to be affected by the Military Service Act, the government passed a regulation providing that males between 18 and 45 desiring to travel must first secure a permit authorizing their departure. As this regulation imposed some hardship on the travelling public, and as the conclusion of hostilities seems to render unnecessary the further enforcement of the regulation, the government has rescided the same, and people are now as free to leave the Dominion as they were before the outbreak of the war.

FACTORIES MAY CLOSE.

Winnipeg Concerns say that they Cannot Compete with East.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20. — Although few Winnipeg clothing factories have received contracts for the supply of clothing to the Canadian army, the end of the war will likely cause them to close, factory managers asserted to-day. They may continue as jobbing concerns, handling eastern goods as agents. They say that the Provincial minimum wage law makes it impossible for them to compete with the eastern factories. Should the factories close down here it will put 500 girls out of work who earn $7500 weekly.

We Must Guard Victims of Whining, Cruel Huns

Germans Show Neither Pity Nor Common Prudence Toward Unfortunate Prisoners in Their Power—London Times Demands That Monstrous Abuse Shall Cease.

AFTER SEA OF BLOOD HAS DELUGED WORLD

London, Nov. 22.—The Times, in discussing the casualties during the war calls on the allied Governments to compel the Germans to treat the prisoners in their hands without abuse. It says that the losses in the war are the greatest since Asiatic barbarians carried on wars of extermination.

"Now for the first time," it says "we begin to learn officially at how great a cost the victory has been won. Our casualties on land amount to the enormous figure of 3,049,000. To judge the full sum of bloody sacrifice the casualties of our allies and the murders Germany has done must be added. Since wars of extermination were carried on by the barbaric conquerers of Asia, no such sea of blood has deluged the world. These published casualties are more than double the entire white population of New Zealand or of the Union of South Africa. They are far greater than the population of any city in the world except London and New York.

"Even now, when the Germans are whining and clamoring for the mortification of conditions incomparably milder than those they forced upon Russia and Rumania, they show neither pity nor common prudence toward the helpless victims still in their power. The brutality they are showing our unfortunate prisoners almost exceeds belief. They already have reduced the numbers by systematic cruelty and starvation. They are now turning them adrift without food, warm clothing or money to find their way through hostile populations to the frontier as best they can.

"It is time and high time for the allies to tell the Germans that this monstrous and inhuman abuse must cease promptly. They have the right to make the demand and the power to enforce it. Their own peoples fiercely resent any hesitation in the exercise of either."

The Daily News urges that the names of commandants and all officers in the German camps which release prisoners in a helpless condition should be demanded at once "preferably by wireless," so that they may be made to answer for their behavior. It adds that the allied Governments should establish at once who it is that is now responsible for the conduct of affairs in Germany and what is the exact position of the new Government.

The Iron, Steel and Metal Markets

Slight Reduction in Price of Plate —Scrap Dealers Up in the Air.

Munitions business is practically at an end as far as the sale of machinery is concerned. There may be some business yet in connection with American orders, and Canadian firms are sharing in it, in fact one firm was shipping this week on an order it had secured for a quarter of a million in equipment, delivery to be made at an American shop.

Canada's record in the output of munitions is one that can hardly be appreciated. This country has been the outstanding success in the turning out of all sorts of munitions and fuses. In the making of airplanes as well the record has been well sustained.

The disposal of machinery that has worked in shell shops is a big problem. This machinery divides into three parts—(1) the single purpose machines that are good for nothing but certain shell operations; these will be scrapped; (2) standard machinery that has been fitted with special attachments for the turning out of munitions—these fittings can be stripped and the machine brought back to its original capacity and style: (3) the general purpose machinery that has been used will, if it has withstood the working of continuous operation, be used in regular production and shop practice again.

A REDUCTION

There has been a slight reduction in the ware-house price of plate. The price is to-day put at 8c per pound, as against the 10c mark that has prevailed for some months. Ten cents was a ficticious price, and even eight cents is a figure that cannot be maintained when steel gets on a competitive basis once more.

Scrap metal dealers are practically out of the market this week. They do not want to buy anything because they cannot see where they are going to find a ready market for it, and it would be suicide for them to buy for stock out of the present high market and run chances of disposing of their material in a lower market.

There is a tendency on the part of many whose previous training has fitted them only for laborers to want machine positions in the shops now, relying on their war work experience to see them through. In some cases they may be able to do this, but it will not be on work where the training of a machinist is required.—Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News.

IN FLANDERS FIELD

In Flanders fields is where he lies,
Beneath the sod and thundering skies
One whom we loved and longed for in vain,
He now is numbered with the slain.

Where mothers' sons, so brave and true
Have sacrificed their lives for you.
Men who saw that honor would fall
If they refused to heed the call.

So far away from us he lies,
And severed are his earthly ties;
Far from us in the battle fray
He was wounded and passed away.

Passed away to that land beyond,
To dwell amid the eternal throng,
Where peace and joy and happiness
Will crown his home—his home of rest.

One memory that our loss will give,
He gave his life that we might live;
That Freedom, Peace and Right unite
And not be ruled by a tyrant's might.

HIS SHARE OF WAR

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.) — Some Englishmen have had more than their fair share of soldiering during these last four years. This is the career of George Clark, a young soldier from Ilford.

Clark joined the border regiment August 5, 1914, and received his first wound in France, October 9, 1914.

He remained in hospital until April, 1915, and then was transferred to the Essex regiment and was sent to the Dardanelles.

The transport in which he sailed was torpedoed, and Clark with 30 others got into a boat which received a direct hit from a Turkish shell. Clark and one other soldier swam ashore.

He assisted in the Gallipoli landing, and was wounded again on June 29. He rejoined his battalion Nov. 1, and was sent to France, where he was wounded Feb. 13, 1916, by an explosive bullet.

He underwent an operation which necessitated the insertion of silver tubes into his stomach, but by April, 1917, he had recovered and was transferred to the London regiment and again sent to France. He took part in the British offensive, and went over the top 18 times in 10 days.

He was wounded in October, and remained in hospital until April of this year, when he was discharged from the army.

Now he is having a struggle about his pension.

THOUGHT IT WAS A BOIL
Doctor Said Abscess.

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft, N.B., under date of Feb. 9th, 1918, writes us as follows: "About five months ago, a lump came on my jawbone. I thought it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbour advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh. So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps, a sore full of pus.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BRUSSELS HAD BIG FIRE.

Explosions at Station Puts Wide Area in Ruins.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10. —The fire in the east-central portion of Brussels resulting from explosions at the Midi station lasted eight hours and all the buildings in the streets nearest the station are in ruins. The region near the station has been evacuated in a radius of more than one mile.

Many of the brave women who attend our wounded heroes in this war are women who have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, or who recommend it. The hospital, with its work and long hours, imposes extreme hardship on a woman's strength. Every woman should make herself fit for war's call at home or abroad. She should obtain a book called the "Medical Adviser," either at her nearest drug store or by sending 50 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg Ont., for this book which tells about Nursing, Bandaging, Anatomy, Physiology, Marriage.

Thousands of women in Canada have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills, by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Sold by druggists in liquid or tablets. Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial pkg.

Chatham, Ont. — "I am very glad indeed to add my recommendation to the many others that have found relief in 'Favorite Prescription.' After undergoing a severe operation, I could not properly regain my strength. I was weak and nervous, and had a terrible cough. I was very miserable when I began taking the 'Prescription.' It soon relieved a severe cough and finished my health. I found up for me and was completely rid of my cough and it built me up in a good healthy state. Favorite Prescription is one of the best medicines for women."—Mrs. Geo. Hall, 210 Wellington St. E.

HER DAUGHTER WAS SAVED FROM OPERATION

Mrs. Wells of Petersburg Tells How.

Petersburg, Va.—"For two years my daughter suffered from a weakness and pains in her right side; at times she was so bad she could not do any work. For two years she was attended by the best physicians here, and both agreed that she would have to be operated on. I suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at first she refused to take it, but finally consented. From the very beginning it helped her, and now she is entirely well, and tells everybody how much good it has done her."—Mrs. W. D. WELLS, 226 North Adams Street, Petersburg, Va.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Wells did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, sideache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

BRIAN SPENDS ANOTHER EVENING WITH MOLLIE KING

CHAPTER XLV.

The first night of Ruth's absence, Brian dutifully went home to his dinner. After he had finished, he tried to interest himself in a book; but his mind insisted upon fixing itself upon what he considered his grievance.

"Ruth's place is home with me!" he declared aloud.

"Did you call, sir?" Mrs. Crawford appeared in the doorway.

"No—yes, while I think of it, you need not prepare dinner while Mrs. Hackett is away. I will dine out with friends."

"Very well, sir."

Brian eased his conscience by saying:

"No use cooking a big dinner just for one. It will be cheaper for me to go to a restaurant," knowing all the time that it would not be cheaper for the simple reason that he had no slightest idea of going alone. He would be just as lonely eating alone in a public place, as at home.

The next morning he took longer than usual to dress. He wouldn't be able to freshen up for dinner to the same extent as when he dined at home.

Frequently during the day the thought of Mollie King would come to him, always followed by that hurt feeling he had because Ruth had left him alone. Finally he went to the telephone and called Mollie up.

"Take pity on a fellow again and eat opposite him?" he asked.

"I sure will Brian if you'll promise to look pleasant! What's the reason? Alone again?"

"Yes, Ruth is off to Chicago, or somewhere near there," he imagined he heard a little gasp of delight, and it thrilled him pleasantly. So Mollie still liked to be with him, even if Ruth did neglect him shamefully.

"All right, Brian, where shall it be?"

"Meet me at the Thirty-third street subway. We'll go up town. Get away from the old crowd."

"Too much talk, eh?" she laughed gayly.

"You bet there was! It's no one's business. That bunch make me tired, sometimes."

"Look out! you're treading. I'm one of that bunch, you know."

"A mighty little you are like some of them. Meet me at six-thirty.

"I'll be there with bells on."

"Good little soul." Brian smiled as he hung up the receiver. "Bully company, too. Where'll I take her? Oh, shaw! I don't have a lark every night! I'll take her to the Vanderbilt. Only swells go there to eat. We won't run into anyone we know."

All the afternoon Brian smiled or whistled while poring over dry briefs. Not once did he think of his grievance against Ruth; in fact he did not once think of Ruth herself. His thoughts were of Mollie and the pleasant evening in store for him.

He counted his money before he left the office. Yes, he had plenty. Ruth had paid the first month's rent of the apartment in advance without consulting him, when she engaged it. He would have no rent to pay, so he and Mollie could be a bit extravagant if they wished.

Seated opposite her in the Della Robia room of the hotel, he felt very much satisfied with himself and the world in general. It was fortunate he had no rent to pay, he though as he scanned the menu. Well, never mind. He knew Mollie's tastes, he would order her a good dinner.

One could scarcely blame him. Mollie seldom came to such a place to dine, and the novelty of it all, the beautiful room, the music, the well-dressed people acted like a tonic to the Greenwich Village artist. She laughed and chatted merrily, her eyes shone, she was so altogether attractive that several people looked enviously at Brian. He noticed and it increased his pleasure.

"Having a good time, Mollie?" he asked after a while.

"Such a good time, Brian. I am almost afraid it is a dream and that I shall wake up and find myself in the studio. Pinch me so that I can tell if it be I?" and she held out a plump arm across the table.

Brian gave it a little pinch noting at the same time that a man at a near by table was watching them curiously.

"Envious dog," he muttered.

"What's that you said?" Mollie questioned.

"Oh, nothing, only I'll tell that fellow over there what I think of him if he doesn't stop staring at you. Trying to attract your attention probably."

"Never mind, Brian! It won't do any good. A cat can look at a king, you know," she laughed at her version of the old saying. She knew something of Brian's jealous nature. She also knew how to manage him.

It was rather a pity Ruth didn't know it also

The dinner over, Brian proposed they take a "one hose shay" and go for a drive.

"I can't afford a taxi" he said as the dark, well-groomed man whom he had noticed looking at them in the dining room passed them.

Come, Let Mother See!

When the child droops, won't play or is restless, pale and grunty, look to see if the tongue is white, the breath feverish, the stomach sour. Then hurry, mother, but don't worry! Give Cascarets, the harmless candy cathartic. Children take Cascarets without coaxing—only 10 cents a box!

TO MOTHERS! Nothing else "works" the nasty bile, the sour fermentations and constipation poison so gently but so thoroughly from the little stomach, liver and bowels like harmless Cascarets. While children usually fight against laxatives and cathartics, they gladly eat a candy Cascaret. Cascarets never gripe the bowels, never sicken, never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contains directions for dose for children aged one year old and upwards.

GENERAL GAVE GARAGE.

To Be Used as Salvation Army Hut for Soldiers.

How a general gave up his garage so that it might be converted into a Salvation Army Hut somewhere in the Toul sector, is told in an interesting letter from a Salvationist in France.

When Staff-Captain Coe and Adjutant Case reached A—, some five hundred French soldiers, who had been gassed a short while before, were being removed from the dismantled town. The appearance of Salvationists was greeted with cheers by the troops, and they were offered quarters without delay, but the only place available for use as a Salvation Army Hut was a commodious barn which was used by the commanding general and his staff as a garage.

The Salvationists sought the general's headquarters, determined to obtain possession of the barn at any cost. The general greeted them cordially, and his manner left no doubt as to his sentiments regarding the utility of The Salvaion Army workers at the front.

"What can I do for you?" asked the general, smilingly.

"That colonel of yours," responded Captain Coe, jovially, "when I asked him what structure is available in this town for a Salvaton Army Hut, told me it was your garage. I'm afraid general, I'll have to ask you and your staff to remove your motor cars and let us get to work."

"You gentlemen can have anything you want that is mine to give," answered the general. "The barn is yours!"

The repairing of the old barn was no easy task, but with the aid of the troops and some canvas, the place was rendered habitable. The Hut was for month the target of enemy marksmen, but whenever a shell burst in the vicinity of the place, the Salvationists and troops would seek safety in dugouts until the shelling ceased. The Hut was severely damaged by shell-fire on more than one occasion, but repairs were hastily made and business proceeded as usual.

WATER DAMAGE TO FLOUR.

It is a well known fact among sailors that flour will not only float after immersion in water but suffers very little damage. To ascertain the actual damage, says the Northwestern Miller, a baker in New South Wales submerged a 150-lb. bag of flour in the ocean, and left it in the water for 67 hours. A 98-lb. weight was necessary to sink the bag which would have supported about 75 lbs., or half its own weight, on top of the water. When lifted and weighed the bag scaled 155 lbs. It was dried for four days and yielded 120 pounds of perfectly dry flour, the bag and the waste weighing 28 lbs. Baked into bread, it gave perfect results.

The rolling stone sees its finish when it strikes the up-grade.

Sunday School Lesson Questions

November 24, 1918.

Jacob wins Esau. Gen. 33:1-11.

Golden Text: A soft answer turneth away wrath. Prov. 15:1.

1. Verse 1. What experience had Jacob just passed through?

2. If Jacob had obtained his victory with God before sending ahead such mammoth presents for Esau, what change, if any, would that have made with the presents?

3. Notwithstanding Jacob's great blessing, and God's promise, he was still mortally afraid to meet Esau; how do you account for it?

4. Verse 1. How does God look upon a Christian who prays daily for protection, but still lives in dread of some evil befalling him?

5. Verse 2. Is it wise or otherwise, and why, for parents to think more of some of their children than they do of others?

6. Verse 3. Why does God allow the fear of the consequences of forgiven sin, in after years to haunt us, as Jacob's sin of years before haunted him?

7. Verse 4. Would you say that Esau manifested this affection for Jacob, from his own original choice, or had he been influenced by God or Jacob's presents?

8. If Jacob had not prayed and wrestled with God the night before this meeting, what probably would have been the difference in the way Esau greeted him?

9. If Esau had originally intended to meet Jacob in this affectionate manner why did he come attended with 400 men?

10. Verse 4. If we truly commit our cause to God, why have we the right to meet any impending calamity with confidence and assurance?

11. Verses 5-7. Why have parents the right to regard all their children as a blessing sent to them by God, as Jacob did?

12. How many children did Jacob have at this time, and how many children should be considered an ideal family in these days?

13. Verses 8, 9. — Why did Jacob send to Esau such princely presents, and why or why not is Jacob's motive an example for us to imitate? — (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the Club.)

14. Esau said: "I have enough, my brother," when Jacob's presents were offered to him, what suggestion is there in that statement for us?

15. When has a man "enough" of worldly goods?

16. Verses 10, 11. When we meet a man whom we have reason to fear is an enemy, and he greets us instead with gladness, why should his face seem to be "as the face of God"?

17. What ground have we for believing that God always in effect, turns our enemies into friends, and our disasters into blessings?

18. Jacob clearly took a lot of delight in making substance, what is the evidence that in this case at least, he took more delight in giving it?

RAILWAYS' NEED OF MEN.

Grand Trunk Short 500 in Toronto—Women To Be Replaced In the Offices.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Normally at this season railways usually lay off men, but this year under the reconstruction prospects they want them. Orders for such changes came from the head offices in Montreal, but the Toronto offices of the Grand Trunk say they are in need of about 500 men. Of these about 150 are wanted as office help to replace the women which it is not the intention to retain. Others needed are 50 yard men, 100 shopmen and 150 trackmen.

Another feature of the reconstruction work is the amount of material which must be manufactured and heavy orders for new machinery of all kinds will be placed by the buying agents of the railways at Montreal.

A motive power official said that a great amount of material which might be manufactured by the makers of munition is required.

OLD FLAG FOR STRASSBURG.

French on Their Re-Entry Will Fly Standard Lowered in 1871.

PARIS.—When French troops, under General Mangin, go to Strassburg, as they will within a few days, according to a report in Paris, they will carry back the same flag that flew from the citadel of that town up to the last moment before its capture by the Germans in 1870. The flag, saved by a French soldier, has been preserved in Paris ever since.

NINETY MILLION BUSHELS FOR EXPORT

Western Canada will have from 90,000,000 to 95,000,000 bushels of wheat for export and for the use of eastern milling companies this year. Thrashing is practically completed all over three provinces, and a careful estimate made of the total yield, the quantity required for western mills and for seeding places the quantity available for shipment east at the above figures. It may run to 100,000,000 bushels, or may even run slightly higher than expected. The movement to Alberta and Saskatchewan has gone higher than epected. The movement of grain to the east has been delayed a good deal as a result of strikes, but efforts are being made to speed up shipments before the close of navigation.

BE READY FOR EMERGENCIES.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when croup or colds come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25-cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

$20,000,00 Gone, Aged Man Now Has to Count Pennies

A former cattle king of Mexico, once worth millions, to-day lives in exile on the border, and is forced to count his pennies.

His name is Gen. Luis Terrazas. He virtually lost all of his $20,000,000 fortune in the revolution of Madero and Villa. He was called "Don Luis," and his estates stretched from the Rio Grande to Chihuahua City. He could ride for 24 hours by train over his own acres, which numbered more than a million. With his family he lived in a marble palace on the Alamada or at Quinta Carolina; his summer home on the plains.

To-day Terrazas and his family occupy a rented house on Golden Hill. He rides to his office in an old automobile and buys his groceries at a cash-and-carry store. He has ten sons, seventy-five grand children and is 89 years old.

The revolutionists killed the old man's cattle for food, burned his ranch buildings and looted his stores. Later Carranza confiscated Terrazas' holdings and banished him from Mexico.

BURN MORE AIR
SAVE COAL
BY INSTALLING IN YOUR FURNACE

Economy Air Burner

THE ECONOMY AIR BURNER is a patented device which can be placed in the fire-box of any Hot Air, Hot Water, Marine or Upright Boiler and is attached to a pipe on the outside of the furnace into which the air is drawn and becomes heated in the centre ring to a high degree before coming into contact with the unconsumed gases.

Why not reduce your coal bills by scientifically feeding the fire with this Air, taken in, PRE-HEATED and sprayed over the surface, and thus assist in completing combustion and consuming all your gases that would otherwise escape out of your chimney.

Just read one out of many.

TESTIMONIAL

138 Avenue Road, Toronto, July 30, 1918.

The Economy Sales Company, Ltd., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—I have pleasure in heartily endorsing the Economy Air Burner because of the actual results I derived from it. We heated an eight-roomed house with five tons of coal per winter and the house was very comfortable even in the severest weather. Before the Burner was put in it required nine tons to heat the house. We also had trouble with escaping coal gas, but after installing the Burner we never detected the odor of gas at all.

Yours truly, R. L. SHRINER.

Report on Farm Conditions Summarized by Department

Marketing of Grain and Other Produce Has Been Slow—Fall Wheat is Looking Thrifty.

The following is a summary of reports by Agricultural Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Cattle are described as being in good general condition. Brant states that many herds are still grazing, but that butchers say that good killing cattle are scarce. While Lanark reports droves of young cattle going on the market, Halton tells of a few carloads of feeders being brought in. Milch cows are selling at from $100 to $130.

More than the usual number of brod sows are claimed in Brant, brod sows are claimed in Brant, price of little pigs, Halton also states that hogs are on the increase. Prices for bacon animals range from $17 to $17. 55 per cwt.

A considerable number of sheep and lambs are being shipped from Muskoka and Parry Sound.

Gray, Halton and Norfolk report activity in the apple market. About twenty cars were shipped during the week by the Norfolk Fruit Grower's Association, which practically completes the shipments West for the season. A larger quantity of cider than usual has been made in Norfolk this fall, one man having already made over 6,000 gallons. Less peelers or jam apples have been sold to the canners this year.

The marketing of grain and other farm produce has been slow as farmers are finishing up field work owing to the favorable weather. Hay is still climbing in value, ranging from $18 to $25 a ton, according to locality, although the unusual price of $32 a ton is reported from Port Arthur district.

Belated corn cutting and silo filling is reported. Some of the silage in Eastern Ontario will be interior in quality, as the corn has been out in the rain for a length of time and a portion of it has rotted.

A large number of farmers have been trying to complete their fall plowing, as the weather has been very suitable for the work.

The Muskoka and Parry Sound Representative reports that a number of men cutting chemical wood have had their contracts cancelled since the signing of the armistice.

Fall wheat is looking thrifty. If anything, it has too much top in many fields.

HAD TO LEAVE THEIR OFFICES IN CANOES

Quebec Business Men Find the Streets Again Flooded—Loss Near $1,000,000.

QUEBEC, Nov. 20.—All the waterfront was again flooded yesterday evening, and even St. Peter street, Quebec's "Wall Street," was flooded just at the time business offices were closing down. Among the people that had to leave their offices in canoes was part of the staff of the American consulate here. It is estimated that the material damage in wholesale stores here through the floods of the past two days will amount to nearly a million dollars.

Advices received to-day at the offices of the owners of the steam barge Tremblay, reported in distress in the Gulf yesterday, says the craft has reached the wharf at Fox River, on the Gaspe coast

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL IS A PROBLEM OF PEACE

(By United Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—One of the greatest reconstruction problems facing the nation, now that peace has come, is the problem of bettering public education, according to leading educators here.

The public schools, as well as most private schools and colleges, have suffered severely on account of the war. Many American cities had just formed plans involving large expenditures for education, when the United States entered the war, and the plans have been held in abeyance since. Great school construction programmes were postponed, and will be resumed with many difficulties.

In New York City several million dollars' worth of construction was planned for the public schools, and the money has been available throughout the war, but the government would not permit labour and materials to be diverted from war work. Just as soon as the ban is lifted the construction of new public schools will begin, even though materials stall are very high. Thousands of children are unable to attend school for a full day because of lack of space.

Similar conditions exist in most other large cities. Surveys show that the greatly under-constructed public school plant is the rule in American cities. The fairly complete plant is a happy exception.

Other Problem Bigger.

But the physical plant is a thing that can be built up with a fair degree of promptness if the people want better facilities and are willing to vote the money. It is the problem of training teachers and improving methods of instruction that is worrying the educators most of all.

Half the school children in the United States are attending schools taught by untrained or badly trained teachers, according to a commission of educators headed by G. D. Strayer, president, National Education association. This commission has completed a study of national educational conditions, and its conclusions are none too flattering to Americans who believe that the fate of a free people rests largely upon the widespread diffusion of sound education among the people.

Concerning conditions in the rural and village schools, the commission says:

Teachers Lack Training.

"It is in the little schools of the villages and the rural districts that the youngest, most inexperienced, and least well trained teachers are to be found. Little schools they are individually, but large in the aggregate and big with national significance, for in them more than one-half of the nation's children are enrolled. And of all phases of the teaching service that which is represented by these rural and village schools is the most exacting, the most arduous, and in many ways the most responsible. While the teacher of the graded city school instructs a single group of children approximately equal in age and attainment, the rural teacher must cover a wide range of subjects with many groups, adapting himself a score of times each day to the varying levels of growth and attainment. While the city teacher is helped by expert principals and supervisors, the rural teacher is all but absolutely isolated and must supply through his own initiative, enthusiasm, and resourcefulness many of the elements of good teaching that one working in an urban community gains through contact with his fellows.

"And yet the environment of these small and isolated schools is in many ways the best that could be provided for the education of boys and girls. The equipment of libraries, shops, and laboratories may be lacking, but potential resources in abundance lie round about. What is needed is the mind to interpret them and translate their lessons. But this is the hardest kind of teaching, far harder than to assign lessons in books and hear recitations. It is a kind of teaching that requires knowledge, insight, and skill to be obtained only through a broad and thorough training followed by a faithful and carefully supervised apprenticeship.

Teacher Should Lead.

"Nor does this tell the whole story of the possibilities and difficulties of rural-school teaching. The right man or the right woman in this office may become a real leader in the community, knowing its people intimately and sympathetically. Under his or her tactful direction, the schoolhouse may become a true community centre, enriching the social life with a round of wholesome activities. It would be hard indeed to overestimate what two hundred thousand mature, well trained, and permanently employed teachers in these small schools would mean both to rural America and to the nation as a whole. They could do for America and American democracy what the village dominies have done for Scotland and what the rural schoolmasters have done for Denmark and Norway. They could make these lonely outposts of culture what they should be, strategic centres of national strength and national idealism.

"It cannot be a source of pride to our people that the United States gives less attention to the training of teachers than does any other great nation. It cannot be a matter of pride to our people that, of all our professional institutions, those that have been intrusted with the preparation of teachers for the public schools are the most penuriously supported and the least attractive to ambitious youth.

"Nor can these normal schools with their inadequate support supply more than a fraction of the teachers annually needed for the public schools. Their total output each year is scarcely enough for the needs of the urban communities, leaving the rural and village schools almost entirely dependent upon untrained recruits. In a typical state — a state that is perhaps midway between the most progressive and the most backward educationally—eighty per cent. of the rural-school teachers this year are boys and girls fresh from the eighth grade of the common schools—and even under these inadequate standards this state reports a shortage in teachers, so keen is the demand for their services in other occupations.

"For the national government generously to co-operate with the states, first in meeting the emergency which is drawing so many teachers away from the schools, and then in supporting institutions and agencies for the preparation of competent teachers, would be to raise at once the status of the teaching profession and thereby enhance the efficiency of the schools throughout the land. Without encroaching upon the autonomy of the several states, co-operation would recognize in a most effective way the dependence of the nation's welfare upon the public schools and the significance of the teacher's service to the nation's life."

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughnes of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

Mars Supplanted by Marital Zeal

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Marital ardor has been supplanted by marital zeal in Germany. This is evidenced by the advertising columns of German newspapers received here. Matrimonial "ads" cover whole pages and inserted by people of all ages and walks of life.

A special feature of these advertisements is that many make appeals for husbands or wives for relatives. Parents, brothers, sisters and even friends of those who seek mates invite correspondence from those matrimonially inclined. War invalids, wealthy physicians, manufacturers and rich widows are among those who resort to publicity.

One advertiser says he is a widower who has property amounting to several million marks. He admits he is 58 years old, but says he "looks younger." A physician who has an annual income of 100,000 marks, seeks to arrange a meeting with "A beautiful, stately woman, object matrimony."

Scarcity of tobacco in Germany is shown by the large number of advertisements offering to purchase cigars and cigarettes in any quantity offered.

That the Germans are preparing to embark on large commercial campaigns in the east is inferred from advertisements asking for salesmen to find purchasers for German products in Poland and Roumania. Other announcements request manufacturers to submit samples of articles which are "suitable for eastern countries."

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

All clothing should be carefully repaired so as to last as long as possible.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

"Only a Girl"

By Alvah Jordan Card.

"A ring?"

"As you see—in fact, it's an engagement ring."

"Why, Marvin! Who are you engaged to?"

"Nobody, as yet. The ring was offered at a bargain. I might need it some time. Now I've got it, I want to give it to some worthy girl who knows how to love. Find her for me."

"Well! I must say you have a queer way of going about it," commented Elvira Mason, the married sister of Marvin Trask.

He was independent, rather than queer. He worked hard and earned money. His thrift and capability, however, did not seem to weigh against the young sprigs of society of Rossville. His sister duly advertised the fact that her brother carried a ring ready to slip on the finger of the young lady who would link her fate with his. His fellows jollied Trask unmercifully, but he never flinched. He had charge of a signal tower at the limits of Rossville, wore overalls when on duty, and was a valued expert in the estimation of his employers.

After working hours, well-dressed and a man in every sense of the word, Trask mingled in local society. He was blunt, never trivial, but entered into all rational sports and pleasures with zest and skill. There were two or three young ladies who had attracted him especially. Ellice Austin was one of them, Hettie Worth was another and Alice Woods a third. The first-named was flattered by his attentions, but it did not take Marvin a week to fathom her shallow, selfish nature.

As to Hettie, her one ambition in life was to keep a string of admirers in tow and suspense. Marvin would not play second fiddle, and promptly dropped her.

Marvin gave up all social connections, was tempted to fling the ring into the river. One day he lost it while on his way to the tower, a short cut past Elsmere, a country mansion.

Elsmere was an old palatial house with extensive grounds, for a long period vacant and recently leased by an old man and his daughter, strangers to Rossville. Mr. Duncan was an invalid, and Elsie Duncan reported to be his constant and devoted nurse. Once, through the palings of the park-like place Marvin had caught sight of a graceful, fairy form gamboling with a pet collie, and had a swift glimpse of a face sweet and lovely. Then, a week later, he had been passing the place when he noticed Mr. Duncan totter and fall while taking his exercise. Marvin helped raise him up, led him to the open doorway and received a grateful glance from Miss Duncan as he delivered the aged invalid to her charge.

Marvin was on night duty, amid a fearful storm of wind and rain. The situation was one requiring quick and accurate decision in keeping trace of trains. He had gone down from the tower to see that all the signals were set, when he made a discovery that electrified him. One signal was missing—just at the bend of the main tracks from the West.

In an instant Marvin, from long experience, realized that the fierce tempest had blown out, or had broken down the lamp set red to the west to halt train 2, for the east tracks were clogged with trains. He knew that the signal was missing, for its reverse white light did not show.

"She's due to arrive in five minutes!" he gasped, and made for the tool shanty. Hastily he seized and lit two red lanterns, dashed out and started down the tracks when his foot caught in a switch base and he went headlong. He tried to rise, but found one foot helpless. Marvin rolled off the rails. Then he looked up with hope and eagerness. A form was swaying toward him.

"I got off the train at the crossing," spoke a feminine voice. "Oh, sir, are you hurt?"

"Miss Duncan!" gasped Marvin, recognizing the speaker. "Those lanterns—you are only a girl, but you may save a hundred lives," and poured out a rapid explanation of the situation.

Elsie Duncan threw off her hat and enveloping gossamer. Her eyes flashed with a true conception of what was required of her. She seized both lanterns and darted down the roadbed.

The train was halted, its crew advised of the situation, a substitute sent for and Marvin was conveyed to a doctor's care. He lost sight of his brave assistant amid the confusion, but she came to his sister's home the next day.

"And they made me blush—the telegram they have sent broadcast about a young girl's heroism, when all the credit belongs to your brother," Marvin heard her tell his sister, and then he fancied he had never known a real woman before, when Elsie came into the room where he lay, tenderly solicitous as to his condition.

He gave a great start as his eyes chanced to fall upon her hand. One of its fingers bore his lost ring. Elsie had found it two days before, lying in the path that Marvin took to his work.

He said nothing, but his eyes glowed with a new determination. "Is this a fair omen?" he whispered ardently to himself.

It seemed so, indeed, for a month later Elsie Duncan listened to the story of the ring, told in the enticing moonlight by Marvin and supplemented by his avowal of love.

Don't you find out, afterwards, that your bowels were not acting freely and naturally?

Due, of course, to a liver gone on a strike.

You'll find Sloan's Liniment softens the severe rheumatic ache

Put it on freely. Don't rub it in. Just let it penetrate naturally. What a sense of soothing relief soon follows! Sloan's Liniment Kills Pain 30c., 60c., $1.20.

Simple Rules for Economical Feeding.

1. Grow as much of your own feed as possible.
2. Utilize roughages to the greatest degree possible.
3. Keep feeding stalls and pens well lighted, dry, clean and well ventilated.
4. Feed regularly.
5. Make changes in rations gradually.
6. Feed only what is eaten up clean and quickly at each feed.
7. Have clean fresh water before the stock at all times.
8. Study the individuality of each animal.
9. Feed mixtures where possible, as a variety of food is more palatable, and palatability is a factor in digestibility.
10. Cut feed to avoid waste.
11. Make a wide use of oats which should form the basis of all our grain rations.
12. Always be kind and quiet with the stock. It pays.
13. Study market values of feed, and compound balanced rations accordingly, in order that the cheapest available be used.
14. See that the stock gets regular and sufficient exercise.
15. Keep all feeding troughs, mangers and utensils clean.—Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

A Scotch Caddie.

A Scotch caddie is almost certain to be a shrewd observer of men and things and he is frequently gifted with a sharp tongue. Mr. Andrew Carnegie tells of "Lord Willie," who was for many years a well-known figure on the St. Andrews golf links. A public dinner was to be given in honor of a very distinguished foreigner on the occasion of his first visit to St. Andrews, and Willie applied for a ticket to the bailiff who was in charge of the arrangements. The worthy man curtly refused the application, telling Willie that it was 'no place for the likes o' him to be at the dinner." "Not for the likes o' me!" was Willie's indignant rejoinder. "I've been in the company of gentlemen from 11 to 4 o'clock maist days for the last thirty years and that's mair than you can say!"

Some Mule!

An Alabama citizen had troubles of his own with a mule. "I just couldn't take no interest in dat mule. De others was all right. Dis one, first crack out de box, done bit me in de finger. While I was 'zaminin' mah finger it up 'n' kicked me in de pants. Den dem bush Germans started a gas attack. I was 'posed to put de masks on de mules and den on me. I put masks on two of 'em. Den I 'd dis one around in de gas for two hours, and dog my cats! nuffin evah happened to dat ornery mule at all."

ALICE VERLET
Coloratura Soprano proving there is no difference between her own voice and the New Edison's 'Re-creation' of it.

I wish I could tell you what entire contentment there is in owning a New Edison.

We put on a piano selection by the celebrated Andre Benoist. It is Godard's "Second Mazurka." What we hear—those mighty chords, those runs of stirring crescendo, those soothing modulated passages—ah! what we hear is not a mere resemblance, not an imitation of piano tone. It is as much Benoist and his marvelous playing as though the great French virtuoso was sitting there at our own piano. Only this is Music. There is nothing more in music to wish for. There is nothing more to be obtained.

Hear the New Edison yourself. Its "Re-creation" of an instrument or the human voice is really marvelous. Has permanent diamond point, no needles to change. Plays all makes of records. Easy terms if you wish.

THINGS GERMAN HAD DONE.

French in Metz Found Kaiser's Statue With Hands Enchained.

METZ, Nov. 20.— A historic event was accomplished at two o'clock yesterday afternoon when Marshal Petain, Commander-in-Chief of the French armies, made his entry into Metz, the greatest stronghold of Lorraine, and gave rise to one of the most picturesque demonstrations ever carried out by the people of Lorraine.

Things German had disappeared over night, including the statues of the German rulers, which had been hauled down by the citizens. William I. had toppled over from the horse of his equestrian monument, while Frederick III., who for many long years had pointed a menacing finger at France from the pedestal upon which he stood, had come down with a rope around his neck. Former Emperor William II. was still left to figure grotesquely as a statue on the facade of the cathedral. His hands had been chained during the night with this inscription: "Sic transit gloria mundi."

Gray Hair use Hay's Hair Health

A preparation for restoring natural color to gray or faded hair, for removing dandruff and as a hairdressing. Is not a dye. Generous sized bottles at all dealers, ready to use. Philo Hay Co., Newark, N. J.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While many, may, indeed, fear it is sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

GRAIN MARKET

The option grain markets picked up again a little yesterday, but trading is rather lifeless, neither the bulls nor the bears feeling very confident in their positions. In the meantime, and probably with a view to putting a little more activity into trade, the Chicago Grain Board directors have obtained permission from the Food Administration to extend the time for trading in coarse grains one month, commencing to-day, so that sales can be made for February delivery, instead of being limited to the end of January. Cash markets quiet.

Deputy Would Have Peace Delegates Visit Invaded Areas.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—All the delegates to the Peace Conference should be asked to visit the departments of France invaded by the Germans and see for themselves the damage and devastation committed by the enemy, declared Raoul Peret, President of the Budget Commission of the Chamber of Deputies, and Deputy Louis Dubois. The deputies have just returned from an official visit to the liberated regions and express the belief that France must exact from Germany not only reparation in money, but also the restitution of tools and raw materials carried away.

Frail, Sickly Children Improve Rapidly on Vinol
The reason we so strongly recommend Vinol for frail, sickly children is because it is a non-secret remedy which contains Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycerophosphates — but no oil — the very elements needed to build them up. It is delicious to the taste, and children love it.
These Two Mothers Have Proved This.
Bainbridge, N.Y. "My little daughter, 13 years old, overworked and was run-down, tired all the time, nervous, had headaches, couldn't eat and had to stay out of school. Vinol has built her up. She has a good appetite, no more headaches and has returned to school again."—Mrs. Lester Andrews.
Williamson, W. Va. "My little boy was weak, puny, and tired all the time, did not want to do anything. Vinol was recommended and it built up his strength and made him healthy. Now he romps and plays like other children. We certainly believe in Vinol for children."—Harley Clay.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1918.

Germany Has Ceased to Exist as a Naval Power

The Heart of Her Mighty Fleet is Now Under Guard—All Naval Traditions and Ideals Shattered by the Surrender.

FLAG HAULED DOWN

Associated Press.

EDINBURGH, November 21, 8 p.m. —Germany as a naval power ceased to exist to-day. The heart of her mighty fleet, fourteen ships of line, seven light cruisers, and fifty destroyers, surrendered to an armada of British, American and French vessels, the greatest fighting force that ever stood out to sea.

The minutely detailed programme of submission laid down by the commander of the British fleet, was carried out strictly according to plan. The German war ships, strung out in single column, almost twenty miles long, appeared at the rendezvous at the appointed time, and were led into the Firth of Forth between twin columns of allied ships, which overlapped the Germans at each end. To-night the enemy craft are anchored in the Firth, under guard as prisoners.

TRADITIONS SHATTERED.

A surrender on such a gigantic scale has no precedent in naval history. Although the wonderful naval spectacle was the same as a peace time review, and evoked little enthusiasm, a haze blotting out the horizon, the officers could scarcely credit the evidence of their eyes. It was an event which shattered all naval traditions and ideals. For the most part, both officers and men of the allied ships were silent. They realized that they were witnessing the climacteric act of Germany's downfall.

King George's visit to the American flagship New York on Wednesday was a notable occasion throughout. As soon as the royal party stepped aboard, the Royal Ensign was hoisted at the masthead.

This was the first time since the United States entered the war that any ceremonial punctilio has been observed.

TOUCHED BY SIGHT.

King George was touched by the sight of his ensign snapping in the breeze above the Stars and Stripes, and expressed his appreciation. King George, the Prince of Wales, Admiral Beatyy, and the other members of the visiting party were received by Admirals Rodman and Sims, and other officers of the fleet. The party then went below to the Admirals' cabin, where it visited for half an hour.

The King appeared to have a fine time. Formalities were abandoned. Admirals Beatty, Sims and Rodman were in high spirits, and their good-natured bantering kept the whole party laughing. During his call King George voiced the brotherly feeling of the two navies, with the suggestion that arrangements might well be made for joint manoeuvres every year by the American and British fleets. His proposal was quickly and heartily seconded by the American officers.

MINSE SWEEPERS WERE TURNED OVER.

LONDON, November 22. — Twenty-seven mine sweeping vessels passed out of German possession on Monday. They arrived in Dutch waters from Belgium and were interned.

(Canadian Press.)

EDINBURGH, Nov. 21. — Admiral Beatty's historic signal after the German fleet had been moored at the Appointed place was:

"The German flag is to be hauled down at 3.57, and is not to be hoisted again without permission."

After the ceremony of surrender, Admiral Beatty sent messages to the allied fleet recommending that a service of thanksgiving be held at nine p.m., on every ship, offering homage to God for victory.

The pent-up feelings of the fleet were loosened when the flag ship passed back through the lines. Men and officers wildly cheered. A French cruiser following the Queen Elizabeth was also received with cheers, while French, British and American sailors joined in singing the Marseillaise."

DRASTIC CEREMONY

Surrender of the German Battleships Witnessed by United Press Correspondents—Famous British Battleships Took Part.

SUBMARINE LOSSES

(By Lowell Mallett—United Press).

ABOARD THE U. S. S. ARKANSAS, Nov. 21.—(3 p.m.). — Seventy German warships lie in sulky silence in the Firth of Forth. They are surrounded by more than two hundred Allied battle craft, which are prepared to guard them until peace is signed.

German officers command and German seamen man the vessels, which are minus munition and otherwise emasculated.

At 9 o'clock this morning German naval officials, carrying out the distasteful order, delivered this powerful fleet. The Allies, who are represented principally by the British Navy, five American dreadnoughts and three French warships, assisted in the ceremony. As seen from the crow's nest of the Arkansas, this spectacle was most dramatic. First there appeared off the port bow, in a direct line with the rays of the sun, the British observation baloon, towed by the cruiser Cardiff, which went yesterday to escort the Germans to the rendezvous. A few seconds later, thorugh the haze across the sun's path, appeared a low black shape, which gradually took the form of a battle cruiser, the smoke pouring from her two funnels. This was the Seydlitz.

All Looked Alike.

The Seydlitz passed out of the paths of the sun, growing indistinct, though still remaining visible. Another appeared, the Motlke. Then came the Hindenburg, the Derfflinger and the Vonder Tan, in single file. They all looked alike to the layman at that distance, but the enthusiastic ensigns in the crow's nest promptly identified each one. The Germans found themselves passing between two lines of warships, six miles apart. Each line was fifteen miles long. The line of German ships was only slightly less.

The Allied Fleet was divided into squadrons, according to the ship's class. The German corresponding squadrons came alongside. The Allied warships counter-marched and escorted them to the Firth of Forth.

Thus, our ships — nick-named by the British the "Death or Glory Squadron" — in counter-marching, brought the Arkansas broadside to the Hindenburg, her particular charge, to get her with the British dreadnoughts, six miles distant.

The Cruisers.

While the Arkansas was turning the Friedrich Der Grosse, leading the battleship squadron, came in sight, she was followed by the Kaiser and the Koenig Albert. Then came the Bayern, the Grosser Kurfurst, the Markoraf and the Kronprinz.

Next was the Karlsruhe, leading the cruisers. Somewhere, hidden in the haze, trailed fifty destroyers, escorted by one hundred and thirty British destroyers.

The Queen Elizabeth, Admiral Beatty's flagship, was seen dashing eastward, then returning.

Admiral Rodman, commanding the American squadron, was aboard the New York, with Admiral Simms as his guest. The other American dreadnoughts, in addition to the Arkansas, were the Florida, the Texas and the Wyoming.

Famous British vessels included in the fleet were the battle cruisers Lion, Tiger and Princess Royal, all heroines of the Jutland battle. Their crews were probably the happiest participants in to-day's event, though many of the officers and men averred they were sorry the finish came in such a fashion.

Nothing Happened.

The feelings of the sailors apparently were chiefly confined to the most intense curiosity which increased with a leap at eight o'clock when the battle flags were hoisted to the top of the graceful "basket masts" of the American ships, preparatory to the reception of the surrendering fleet. This curiosity gradually subsided as the long line of German craft steamed monotonously by and nothing happened. Secret hopes that something might happen had been entertained by many.

King George, reviewing the Grand Fleet yesterday, visited the New York. He expressed to Admiral Rodman the hope that the working arrangements of the British and American navies could be continued in some manner after the war, possibly through some American ship being attached to the British fleet and vice versa.

It was revealed to-day, in connection with the armistice negotiations, that Germany had lost eighty more submarines than the Allies were certain had been sunk.

Some men are born lucky and some men are lucky to have been born at all.

Entente Troops are Marching on Kiev—Provisional Government Has Been Established in Ukraine—Anti-Bolshevik Troops Reported to be in Control of Kiev.

(Canadian Press.)

BASEL, November 22. — Philip Scheidemann has resigned as Minister of Finance in the new German government and his place has been taken by Herr Landsberg, Secretary of Publicity, Art and Literature.

Entente troops are marching on Kiev, according to newspapers in Switzerland. General Denikine is in control of Ukraine, with the consent of the entente nations.

The overthrow of the Ukrainian government and the capture of Kiev by anti-Bolshevik troops, was reported through Copenhagen on Wednesday. It was added that Ukrainian national assembly had fled, and that a provisional government had been established by Denikines. General Skoropadski has been dictator of Ukraine, with the help of the Austrians and Germans, since last May.

German Troops Are Stampeding

Soldiers Seize Railway Trains Headed For Berlin.

Special to The Examiner:

THE HAGUE, Nov. 22. — German troops are stampeding from the battle-fronts toward Berlin, in order to see the revolution, according to German newspapers received here to-day. The soldiers are seizing railway trains which had been intended to convey the troops to different parts of the empire, and forcing the engineers to take them to the German capital. The roofs, platforms and brake rods are loaded with returning soldiers. Many of them are suffocated and brushed from the roofs when the trains pass through tunnels.

Troops have been stationed outside Berlin for the purpose of disarming the soldiers and diverting them from the capital to their home cities and towns.

PROGRAMME IS HELD UP

Considerable Speculation Regarding the Final Disposition of the Grand Trunk Railway.

NO MORE MONEY

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—With the bringing of the 14,000 miles of Government owned railway under the corporate control of the Canadian Northern Board of Directors, considerable speculation has arisen regarding the final disposition of the Grand Trunk.

The failure of the negotiations carried on by Hon. Messrs. Calder and Meighen in England last summer has left the question pretty well in the air. Chairman Smithers was expected in Canada some time ago, but he did not come, and it has been recently stated semi-officially that negotiations would be renewed by Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues who are now overseas. Meanwhile the situation is exactly as it was when Messrs. Meighen and Calder returned, with the exception of the fact that the Grand Trunk succeeded in floating a $15,000,000 loan in London since that time.

Will Be Held Up.

A certain portion of the Canadian Northern betterment and extension programme will be held up, pending further information regarding the Grand Trunk's intention. The Canadian Northern has an entry to the United States and is losing business as a consequence. Should the Grand Trunk be acquired, such entry would be secured by the Niagara gateway, and it would not be necessary to extend the Canadian Northern in that direction. One thing appears to be certain, the Government has decided that no more financial assistance shall be accorded the Grand Trunk. The cards are all on the table. If the Grand Trunk desires to continue a separate corporate entity it must finance itself. Representatives of the road declare that all the money required can be raised in London; that remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, it is stated, no immediate programme of betterment of extension is contemplated by the company.

WILL FIGHT BOLSHEVISM

This Will be One Phase of President Wilson's Mission to France —Russia Wants Place at Peace Table.

RESTORING ORDER

(By Robert J. Bender—United Press).

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — That President Wilson will participate actively in the campaign against Bolshevism while in Europe was the intimation of his friends here to-day.

He is expected to make speeches, not only in France, but certainly in Italy, and probably in England, setting forth the aims of the associated Governments to upset the cause of free peoples and support law and order that the world may resume its normal course again.

Russia is striving to be represented at the Peace Conference as a stable nation.

Diplomats here see this angle in Admiral Kolchak's seizure of the Omsk Government, for they believe he is seeking to bring order in Russia to dodge the Bolshevists and to have Russia do her own polishing. If he can succeed in getting stability, Russian authorities hold that the nation will seek a seat at the peace table.

Prince Lvoff is consulting the President and Secretary of State. Russia wants economic aid, and is opposed to increased associated policing.

Another phase of peace speculation here among diplomats concerns the Rhine land. Diplomats declare Prussia is willing to sacrifice this territory to avoid some of the indemnity burden Germany is destined to have. As seen here this sacrifice would leave her gold free for development purposes, and, later, the militarists will arouse the old war spirit by making the martyr-like appeal of "lost provinces."

After Former Kaiser's Scalp

Sentiment Increases in Favour of Punishing the Author of the War.

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Allied action toward inflicting punishment on the former Kaiser is daily becoming more probable. The "Temps" says: "France particularly has the most cordial sentiments toward Holland. The more, it, in sincere friendship, advises the quickest possible elimination of the Kaiser as an irritating problem. The Hague Jurist has rendered an opinion that the Dutch law does not permit extradition. We do not hazard a contrary opinion, but we suggest a much simpler solution, namely, expulsion as an undesirable. If put aboard a ship or conducted to the Belgian frontier, the Allies will see what disposition is to be made of his case. If conducted to Germany the Berlin government will be in a position to show the measure of its republicanism by its ardor in punishing the author of the war."

MEATLESS WEEK ENDS.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 22.— The Berlin "Tageblatt" says next week will be the last meatless week, and that the bread ration will be raised to five pounds a week.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22ND, 1918.

THE CHRISTMAS TREAT

Everybody who possesses a spark of human kindness welcomes the opportunity that Chrismas affords of playing Santa Claus and bringing brightness and cheer into young lives. This year the Christmas treat that is being arranged by the War Veterans offers the people of Peterboro a chance to be Santa Claus to hundreds of little folks, the children of soldiers from this city who are with the forces overseas, and some the children of brave me who will never come back and who gave up their lives that the world might be saved for democracy.

Arrangements are being made by the Veterans to entertain all these little ones on the 21st of December. There will be a programme of a nature to amuse children, some refreshments, it is expected and Santa Claus will of course be there to present each youthful guest with appropriate gifts. Efforts will be made to make the event a red-letter one in the lives of the soldiers' kiddies.

Citizens who were present last year at the Christmas treat still remember the animated spectacle of hundreds of children welcoming Santa Claus with shouts of childish joy. The little ones will be looking forward to the re-appearance of the benevolent old gentleman this Christmas and the people of Peterboro are asked to see that they are not disappointed. Donations of cash or of toye, candies, oranges etc., are requested by the War Veterans to assist them in carrying out their programme. Mr. G. N. Gordon who made a similar contribution last year opened the list on this occasion with a splendid donation of $50.

In some cases this will be the fifth Christmas that the head of the family has been away. In many other families the children have not seen their father for over three years. Fortunately the shadow of war has been lifted from the coming Noeltide, but the soldiers will be forced to spend the holiday season away from home because it will be impossible to have many of the overseas army back in Canada for some time. Peterboro must therefore play Santa Claus again this year and the Veterans treat affords an effective means of doing this.

The Examiner will be glad to receive contributions and hopes that there will be a liberal response to this altogether meritorious appeal.

SAVING BY STAMPS

There has been for some time considerable speculation as to why the Canadian Government had not seen fit to adopt the war savings and thrift stamps plan of raising public funds used so successfully in the United States. Accross the border, these stamps have proved a wonderful incentive to thrift, and besides inculcating into the people the habit of saving, have ben instrumental in securing a vast sum of money for public purposes. The plan is at last being introduced into Canada, and although now that hostilities have are over the name "War Saving Stamp" may be a misnomer, yet there is no reason why the stamps should not sell as readily in times of peace as during the war. Thrift will be as necessary during the period of reconstruction as it was desirable during the war years, and the thrift and war savings stamps afford a splendid opportunity to save the small sums that quickly grow into large ones. It is expected to raise $50,000,000 through the Stamp method and the experience of the United States can be accepted as a criterion there is every reason to expect that the maximum amount aimed at will be realized. The Saving Stamps are easily converted into cash if needed, while as they pay an interest rate of 4½ per cent and are redeemable in five years they form an attractive proposition for the small investor. Children, it was found in the United States, took readily to the plan and the small change that used to be flittered away has been put into thrift stamps, with the result that in many cases a splendid start on a savings account has been accomplished.

OUR NEIGHBOR'S APPEAL.

If Peterboro can spare a car of coal at the present time and if there are over three hundred families living just outside of the city limits who are without fuel of any kind, it seems as a pity that a helping hand cannot be extended to those who are in need. A cold wave is on the way and most of the houses affected, the homes of workingmen, many of whom are employed in the city, are not in the main substantially or warmly constructed and they will be almost uninhabitable without fuel under winter weather conditions. The people of Peterboro are surely not so utterly devoid of "the milk of human kindness" that they can sit complacently in their own warm houses and let their neighbors suffer and the City Council should reconsider their descision of Wednesday night and see if some way cannot be found to aid those who are appealing to us for help. The families who need fuel are not the farmers of North Monaghan, they are the people living just beyond the city's borders, people who spend all their money in Peterboro. It is not any easier for them to get supplies of wood than it is for the residents of the city, and it is unfortunate that they should be in their present pridicament as regards fuel.

Prudence in looking after the interest of the rate-payers of Peterboro, is commendable, but prudence which is carried to a point which means fire suffering for our neighbors is unnecessarily heartless.

THE WAR MEMORIAL

Enough has been written and spoken about the question of the best method by which Peterboro can do honor to the memory of her sons who have perished in the great war, to show that there are two sharply divided propositions being mooted among the citizens. One plan is advanced by the returned soldiers who seem to be a unit in advocating that a Memorial Hall, dedicated to the memory of Peterboro's dead, should be erected and placed at the disposal of the men who have come back or who will come back from the battlefield. The other proposal, just as heartily supported by those who favor it, is to erect in one of the public parks an appropriate monument, one beautiful and artistic enough to be worthy of the men in whose honor it is designed.

The advocates of this latter plan argue that a monument of this kind would be permanent; a memorial that would show future generations how Peterboro showed her gratitude to her sons who had given up their lives in order that the menace which overhung civilization might be lifted.

The returned soldiers, on the other hand, take the ground that Canada can best honor its dead by taking care of their dependents and keeping them from undergoing suffering and want and by looking after the comrades of the fallen who are disabled by reason of their service at the front. A Memorial Hall, they point out, would enable the men who have come safely through the perils of the struggle to maintain a brotherhood that would undertake to see that the dependents of the dead and the men who have been incapacitated were not neglected.

It is a question that will require careful and earnest consideration and in view of the two plans that have already been suggested, it is hoped that the civic authorities who rightly should take the lead in his matter will not be tardy in taking the first steps to decide upon a question of policy. As a preliminary measure a public meeting might be called at which the adherents of the different plans proposed should have an opportunity to discuss the details. It is a matter in which there should be no undue haste in settling which is all the more reason why the consideration of a solution of the problem should be commenced as soon as possible.

There is no one in Peterboro, surely who will be opposed to honoring the memory of our brave men in some way or another. There is, however, much difference in opinion as to the best method and the issue might as well be faced at once.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The German Navy has at last found the way to invade England, by the white flag route.

Many a German sailor yesterday must have gazed in wonder at the British Grand Fleet and thanked his lucky stars that the war was over.

The Hearst newspapers will probably tell their readers that the German navy surrendered to the American fleet. Yellow Billy only gives Great Britain credit for her mistakes.

The greatest bet ever made was the alphabet.

German Plants All Employed

Have Enough Orders to Keep Them Busy Two Years.

WORKMEN SATISFIED

Full Dinner Pail Will Abolish All Thoughts of Bolshevism.

BERLIN, Nov. 22. — Most of the large industrial plants in and about Berlin already are working. No unemployment is reported as a result of the cessation of war industries work. Sigismund Bergmann, who is said to have once been connected with Thos. A. Edison, and to have been one of the founders of the General Electric Company in the United States, but who is now one of the leading industrialists in Germany, said to-day:

"On the second day of the revolution we started into work on peace orders, of which we have enough booked to keep our 60,000 employes busy for two years.

"This holds good for virtually every plant of any importance in Germany. The country has been literally worn threadbare in all lines. Just as we have been turning our garments inside out we have helped ourselves along with a multitude of substitute devices in other directions.

"We are badly in need of rolling stock, agricultural implements, turbines, and a thousand other things in the line of heavy steel construction. Our houses need new roofs and new paint. We must start in making everything fresh, from the clothes-pin to the automobile. We also are a ready market for finished products."

Herr Bergmann was not apprehensive of disturbances if the food situation holds out.

"If the 5,000,000 or more men now returning from the front are given three square meals a day and steady work," said Herr Bergmann, "there will be no Bolshevism in Germany. The German workingman will not think of michief so long as he has a comfortable fireside and something to keep him busy.

"The fighting men, too, are well disciplined. I have implicit faith in their ability and willingness to adjust themselves to normal life after four years of war. All that is needed is to keep them healthy, and well colthed.

"We are in urgent need of copper, leather and cotton; but the 'full dinner pail' is the first consideration. Germany has the money to pay for the food and everything else she will be compelled to buy abroad."

FALL FROM HORSE HURT GEN. MANGIN.

Was Not Able to Take Part in Entry Into Metz.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—General Mangin was injured by being thrown under his horse while reviewing a brigade of French troops on Monday, the day before the French army entered Metz.

The General's horse, a thoroughbred and unused to noise, was frightened by a band of trumpets. The animal reared and fell on its rider. Gen. Mangin was unconscious when picked up, having been injured about the head and legs.

The Intransigient says the officer, after being taken to a hospital, remained in a state of coma for twelve hours, but news from the institution this morning is to the effect that no more uneasiness need be felt. It is said the General is making excellent progress, and that no after-effects are feared.

MEETING OF ENGINEERS' CLUB HELD LAST NIGHT

Interesting Papers on Various Subjects Were Read—Resolution of Confidence Passed.

At the meeting of the Engineers' Club held last evening, in the Empress Hotel Parlours, a resolution of condolence was passed to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Denham, on the occasion of the loss of their son, Donald. Many expressions were made by various members of the club of their former member's worth and good qualities ,and of the loss of the Club, has suffered by his untimely demise.

Affairs of the club were the principal topics of discussion, and the papers and entertainment committees reported on a suggested programme for the coming season.

Papers on the following subjects are promised: Peat, Concrete Bridges, Good Roads, Forest Conservation, Ontario Water Powers, Technical Education, Pulp and Paper Making.

Four amendments to the constitution fathered by Mr. Wm. Saugster, were passed, but one moved by Mr. Killally was defeated.

After discussion it was decided that it would be in the interests of the city to have an engineer on the City Council, and also the Board of Directors, in view of the many technical problems coming up before these bodies during the coming year. The club will enegetically support any engineer that may appear.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

No Definite Action at the Good Roads Meeting in Keene

The meeting held at Keene last night by the Farmers' Clubs of Otonabee to discuss the question of good roads, was well attended, according to reports from several of the farmers who were there. Ex-Warden W. G. Porter was appointed chairman, and conducted an interesting discussion that went into the details of the good roads problem as it is viewed locally. While there was no definite action forthcoming embodied in resolutions the consensus favoured local control and administration, providing the municipalities could obtain Government help.

PARCELS STOPPED

A cable received from the chief commissioner of the Canadian Red Cros overseas announces that all individual parcels to prisoners in Germany have been stopped, and that food is now being sent in bulk. Owing to the present conditions, the former method of addressing parcels to individual men is now unnecessary. This will apply to all parcels for prisoners. Any money subscribed will be used for food and clothes.

TOTAL COST OF WAR TO ALL BELLIGERENTS TO END OF 1918 IS PUT AT 200 BILLION DOLLARS

Federal Reserve Board Estimates Figure Up to May 1 Last Was $175,000,000,000—Interest, Sinking Funds and Pensions to Entail Yearly Burden of $10,000,000,000.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 22.—The direct cost of the war for all belligerent nations to May 1 last was reported at about $175,000,000,000 by the Federal Reserve Board bulletin, issued yesterday, and it is estimated that the cost will amount to nearly $200,000,000,000 before the end of this year. These calculations were compiled by the Board from various sources and while their accuracy is not vouched for, the Board believes the figures are substantially correct.

For purely and military and naval purposes it is estimated that all belligerents had spent about $125,000,000,000 to May 1, or about three-fourths of the total war cost. The balance represented interest on debt and other indirect war expenses.

How the cost mounted as the war grew in proportion from year to year is illustrated by tabulations showing that the mobilization and the first five months of the war in 1914 cost all belligerents about $10,000,000,000. In 1915 the expenses jumped to $26,000,000,000. In 1916 they increased to $38,000,000,000, and in 1917 they were estimated at $60,000,000,000. This year expenses have run only a little above the rate of last year.

About $100,000,000,000 of the total war cost has been raised by war loans of various nations and comparatively little by taxation. The public debt of the principal Entente Allies is calculated at approximately $105,000,000,000, or more than twice as much as the aggregate debt of the Central Powers, set at $45,000,000,000. This does not take into consideration debt incurred since last May.

The enormous size of the war costs and debt is illustrated by comparison with the ante-war debt of the seven principal belligerents which did not exceed $25,000,000,000. The cost of supporting this debt was only about $1,000,000,000 a year. Hereafter the annual burden to pay interest and sinking fund allowances will be not less than $10,000,000,000 and probably much more.

BOMBARDED BY RUSSIAN WARSHIPS.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 22.—Three Russian warships, carrying the red flag of the Kronstadt Revolutionists, violently bombarded Vitikalla, Finland, for three hours.

URGING YOU TO DO YOUR SHOPPING EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

Reporter Mired in a Mud Hole on Way to a Good Roads Meeting

Below Downer's Corners, Otonabee, Road Builders Had Plowed Up a Long Stretch of Road They Were Re-making—Impassable and Unchartered Expanse of Mud.

AN OBJECT LESSON

By that mocking perversity that often upsets the best laid plan, an Examiner reporter, who was sent out to attend the good roads meeting at Keene last night, foundered in a gulch of mud on the road east of Downer's Corners, and spent several futile hours trying to extricate a car that puffed and pawed in the puddle, but was hamstrung and helpless in the slush of mud. The irony of the situation was more than illuminating, and the rather obvious humour of the sudden end of a mission that was directed to a good roads conference offered some slight compensation for the ineffectual labour that was for a time feverishly expended on the stranded car, until the moon came up, and lights in farm houses moved from first to second storeys and then flashed out, and a distant clock sounded through the cool, fresh air the nine slowly measured strokes of the first call for bed. After that, it was not a question of the good roads meeting, nor even of a good road, but simply of getting out of the quagmire and home on any kind of a road. And that road last night defied description. In the glare of the head lights it looked like the horrible example in a Tarvia advertisement, or a nightmare of a motor fiend.

It must be said for the Municipal Council of Otonabee that their intentions were excellent. They have been engaged in rebuilding it, and doubtless expected to make it a regular sixty-mile an hour highway. A number of citizens who have the automobile habit had been bringing reports that were anything but complimentary to the road-building methods of the township's employees, but their allegations were so extreme as to be almost unbelievable. But in the light of last night's struggle their expressions were modest and reserved. They alleged, for example, that the road had been plowed up and graded, which they explained by saying that the loose earth had been rolled up onto the crown of the road, and that broken stone was being spread on this foundation. That may be a perfectly good plan of road-making in a summer drought, but it seems a questionable procedure in a rainy season such as this. The road had not only been plowed up at each side, but one might have believed that even the very centre had been torn up. If a "no thoroughfare" sign, such as Street Commissioner Evans uses, had been set up at each end of the tortured stretch it would scarcely have been amiss, unless one of the big automobile companies wanted a testing course for new cars. And while the intentions of the road employees were beyond question, one might have fancied that this piece of highway had been doctored for the purpose of driving the farmers at last into the Ontario Good Roads fold.

There is every assurance that the other roads in the township, while they may not be speedways, meet all the requirements of ordinary traffic, with here and there a rut or a string of them to emphasize the smooth spots. Going east you strike this link on which the township is operating a short distance beyond the G.T.R., and suddenly you splash into the harrowed part before you recognize it. Then it is too late. Going back were worse than going over. Perhaps those who are familiar with the present condition can follow the solid waggon tracks, under their layer of mud, that have been hardened by past treatment and traffic; but last night it was an uncharted sea, a Saragossa for straying "jitneys." It was evidently possible to have followed the submerged ruts, not so wide as the cement wheel-paths to a backyard garage, but, as before stated they were hidden under the top-dressing of mud that was spread uniformly over the whole surface and ran down on each side. Early in the week a pathfinder who had picked out a route on one side, suggested that this was the only way, but last night it proved to be a cul-de-sac. Following the wheel marks that lead out from the centre of the road, the car bumped along on fairly hard ground for a short distance, only to bring up in a fine sample of a bog. Coaxing, urging and all the blandishments that are used to get an extra effort out of a car, that had worked all day and has a night job ahead of it, were of no avail. The mud was ankle deep, juicy and sticky. Somehow it spread to hands and face, and after floundering in it and awkwardly using a fence rail as a prod, you sympathized with the old car, and let it lie there until a tardy, garage tug, roused by telephone after a half-mile trudge through the mud and dark, came to its rescue.

By that time the meeting must have been over, and Otonabee's progressive farmers had probably decided that, by whatever system they launched on a good roads programme, they were determined to have a network of highways that would compare with any in the Province.

However, if inexpert suggestions were acceptable, it might be suggested that November's stars are inauspicious for road-making, and that loose earth is scarcely a good binder for broken stone.

FLU SPREADS OVER CIVILIZED WORLD

Germ Eludes Bacteriologists and Health Authorities Are Baffled

The influenza epidemic continues unabated. Its ravages are not confined to this city or province or even to Canada and cable reports indicate that it is rapidly spreading over the civilized world. It has baffled medical skill to an unusual extent and has claimed more victims perhaps than any other epidemic in a score of years. The germ has eluded the Bacteriologists and medical men now agree that the best cure is prevention.

The surest prevention is to build up the body powers of resistance and to get the system in the best physical condition possible. It is now universally agreed that it is possible to perfect the powers of resistance of the human system so that it can throw off almost any infection not excepting Spanish influenza.

It has been discovered that persons who are weak and rundown are the earliest victims, and if you find yourself tired and weak and losing flesh, or if you are in a general rundown condition and below your normal weight this warning should be heeded promptly.

If you are in this condition nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, which contains the most powerful tonic properties known to science. As a reconstructive tonic and system builder it is without an equal and contains the very elements needed by the system to give you fighting strength to ward off the influenza germ. This is a statement of facts and is supported by the recognized authorities and reference works, including the United States Dispensatory and the Encyclopedia Brittannica and the leading text-books used in the school of Medicine. This statement is further proven by the fact that millions of people who have actually taken Tanlac have testified to its extraordinary merit as a medicine, and the fact that Tanlac is to-day having the greatest sale of any tonic on the market, over eleven million bottles having been sold within the past three years.

Tanlac is also the ideal strengthening tonic for persons who are suffering from the after-effects of Influenza, Grippe or bronchial troubles and hundreds of thousands are using it daily with the most gratifying results.

In connection with the Tanlac treatment it is necessary to keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included with every bottle of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. H. Warne Drug Co., Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd. In Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

County Court Case Disposed of Child Was Run Over by a Buggy and Severely Injured.

His Honour Judge Huycke has delivered judgment in an interesting case in the County Court, tried without a jury, in an action brought by Joseph Tierney, an infant, and his father, James Tierney, both residents of Peterborough, against Robert Fulton, of Lakehurst, in the Township of Harvey, for $1,000.00 damages for injuries sustained by the infant plaintiff, Joseph Tierney, caused by the alleged wrongful and negligent driving of the defendant on July 5th, 1917. The evidence at the trial was that the infant plaintiff was playing on the sidewalk, and that the defendant drove by in a farm waggon with a top buggy fastened to the rear of the waggon, and that the infant plaintiff ran out on the street and climbed on the top buggy, getting his left leg in the wheels and being severely injured. The defendant contended there was no negligence on his part and that simply driving through the streets with a buggy fastened to the back of the waggon was not in itself an act of negligence.

His Honour, Judge Huycke, has sustained the defendant's contention and has dismissed the action. Mr. G. N. Gordon for the plaintiffs and Mr. F. D. Kerr for the defence.

The Death of Pte. McIlmoyle

The following correspondence has been received from Pte. George W. Long concerning the death of Pte. McIlmoyle. The first letter was addressed to Pte McIlmoyle's mother, the other to his sister:

France, October 11, '18.

Dear Mrs. Downie,—Just a few lines in answer to the lovely parcel which I sent to your brother. I am sorry to say that he was killed, but I am glad to say that he got a good burial. Our chaplain, Captain Miller, officiated.

Pte. McIlmoyle played his part like a man and always did what he was told to do. I remain,

Pte. George W. Long,
38th Canadians.

France, October 11, '18.

Dear Mrs. McIlmoyle,—Just a few lines to express the deepest sympathy for your beloved son, who gave his life for his King and country, respected by his company. I can truly say that he was a credit to his country for the way he worked. Hoping that you will accept these few lines, I will close. From a Canadian soldier,

Pte. George W. Long,
38th Canadians.

DONATIONS OF CLOTHING HAVE FALLEN OFF.

One result of the war is that donations of clothing previously made on frequent occasions to the Peterborough Protestant Home have fallen off. This is not due to lack of sympathy but for reasons that are obvious. In the report of the annual meeting it was stated that the expenses for clothing for the inmates was $16.88. This should have been $36. During the year the doctors of the city have given generously of their time and skill without remuneration.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Women's Council Interested in the Appointment of a Police Matron for This City

A Trained Woman Who Can Give All Her Time to the Work May be Appointed—Conditions Revealed During the Influenza Epidemic.

A courteous and encouraging reception at the hands of Mayor Duncan was the report at yesterday's meeting of the Council of Women, of the committee that recently asked that a police matron might be appointed to the vacancy left by Mrs. J. A. McElhiney.

Mrs. A. Stevenson said that the Mayor made it evident that a trained woman who can give all her time to the work will be appointed presently. The Council has already been assured of the sympathy of the W.C.T.U. in the request.

Teach Domestic Science.

Following the reading of a resolution from the Renfrew Council of Women asking the Local Council for their support of a resolution they recently passed, "That the Renfrew Local Council of Women request the Provincial committee to petition the Department of Education of the Province of Ontario to make compulsory the teaching of Domestic Science, including sanitation, the care of home, values and expenses, plain cooking, etc., to girls in the 3rd and 4th forms of the Separate and Public schools in Ontario," an animated discussion arose over ways and means of doing this, and the advisability of introducing such a course.

Mrs. Stevenson said that the recent V.A.D. work during the influenza epidemic had thrown a light upon the need of such instruction. The only way to counteract such lamentable conditions as were found, she said, is to teach the children what the resolution demands at the schools.

Dr. Jessie Birnie thought that such teaching should be done at home or, if it was to be added to the present almost overwhelmingly long list of studies, done so in a special school. Such a course would add to the already overburdened teachers responsibilities when, apparently, at present the need is to take from the load. Mrs W. R. Morris said she was confident that Dr. Cody will revise the curriculum directly. Some discussion arose over the average age of the school child who would come under the teaching stated. The matter was finally left for further investigation by a member appointed, before the Local Council will decide to take any action.

Forward Movement.

Miss Lundy proposed that the Council of Women be placed on record as in sympathy with the Forward Movement now on foot amongst the churches over the entire Dominion for the purpose of directing the energy used during the past four years in war work into the channels of Social Service and Missionary work.

Vote of Thanks.

A vote of thanks will be extended to the committee of the Chautauqua gratefully acknowledging a gift of $50 to the Playgrounds committee of the Local Council.

Resolution of Sympathy.

A resolution of sympathy to the 1st Vice-President, Mrs. James Kendrey in her recent bereavement, was passed.

Must Hold Meeting.

Contrary to the usual custom the regular meeting of the Council will be held in December, as many urgent matters must be decided upon at once.

Taxation Committee.

Mrs. W. C. Morris was appointed convenor of the Taxation committee, which will make a research of how municipal funds are raised and how spent.

Founders of Canada.

Mrs. A. Mowat read an interesting paper on the founders of Canada.

OCCUPYING BELGIUM.

Fully Two-thirds of Stricken Country Occupied.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 22. — Fully two-thirds of Belgium has been re-occupied by the Allied armies. At no point are the Allies now more than 100 miles from the Rhine.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue, or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

If you are fortunate enough to have a piece of hand-spun linen, treasure it like gold.

If you don't like to have cocoa stick to the inside of the double boiler, butter the boiler.

TO MOTHERS AND FATHERS

Tradition says that experience is the champion school teacher of the world, yet how many people ever profit by the experience of others? Have you, fathers and mothers, ever given your children the benefit of your experience in life?

In a few days a play will be presented in Peterborough which should interest the citizens of this community. There are thousands of fathers and mothers in this city who should send their children, their sons and daughters, all ignorant of the snares and pitfalls of life, to see this play.

This play, "Experience," is the Eternal, Never-Dying story of Youth, His Early Struggles, His Venture into the Great World to Seek Fame and Fortune, His Trials and Temptations, His Triumph Over Evil and Wickedness through the Everlasting Influence of a Woman's Love; just the sort of Experience that YOUR boy may be about to endure.

"Experience" teaches a great moral lesson. It has been indorsed by clergymen of all denominations, wherever presented. It has a wonderful effect upon the audience, because it points out to every man, woman and child the evils of a life of Pleasure upon the Primrose Path, and brings home to every heart the old, old story that the Straight and Narrow Path is the Road to Happiness.

The play is presented in ten scenes by a company of eighty-two people, and comes here direct after a phenomenal engagement of nine months in New York, seven months in Chicago, five months in Boston, and five months in Philadelphia.

Messrs. William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, owners and producers of this wonderful play, are sending to The Grand Opera House the entire original company of eighty-two people that appeared in all of the above named cities.

The engagement is for two days, beginning Friday, Nov. 29th. Evening prices will be 50c to $1.50. Bargain Matinee will be given on Saturday, when the best seats will be only $1.00. Local and out-of-town mail orders, when accompanied by proper remittance, including war tax, are now being received and will be filled in the order received at the box office of The Grand Opera House. Patrons are advised to make reservations at once or you may miss seeing this, the greatest play of this day and generation.

Died Before Letters Arrived

Information Concerning Death of Bandsman Preston Grange.

Chief Grange of the Fire Department, has received the following letter from the chaplain of the regiment to which his son, Bandsman Preston Grange, was attached. The letter refers to his sickness and death:

3rd Reserve Battalion,
Witley Camp,
October 3, 1918.

Mr. George Grange,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,— Long before this letter reaches you, you will have received the news of your son's death from the influenza. I regret that it was not my privilege to see him after the disease developed, since he was sent from here to Bramshott. But I am glad to say that I knew him very well and saw him before he was taken away. While he was lying sick in the sick detention hut here.

I would like to pay a brief tribute to the worth of your son "Pat," as he was called by his comrades, and I assure you he was a soldier and a man.

The consolation is he died while doing his full duty and that he was a true man while he lived. May the God of all mercy comfort your heart and that of his mother and of all who mourn his loss.

Please find enclosed two of the last letters that came for him and which he never received.

Yours sincerely,
J. M. MacGillivray, Captain.

Over Thousand Lives Were Lost

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 22.—An explosion of a munitions train in Belgium Thursday caused casualties estimated to be between 1,500 and 2,000. One hundred and fifty dead already have been counted, according to a Central News despatch. The injured are being taken to Budel, Holland.

Trains Caught Fire.

Trains were standing at the station of Hamont, Belgium, when the explosion occurred, and the entire region was soon a sea of fire. Neighbouring houses collapsed, burying their occupants. Three German ambulance trains caught fire and one was destroyed, eighteen of the occupants being burned to death. Most of the victims were German soldiers who had been plundering trains. A few Dutch soldiers were also killed. It is reported that the cause of the disaster was a bonfire built by children, which spread to two German munition trains nearby. The destruction in the vicinity, the despatch says, was enormous. Assistance is being sent to the stricken region from all directions. Dutch military aid has been sent across the border.

Hamont is in South-eastern Belgium, directly east of Antwerp, and is the customs station on the Dutch-Belgian border. The main railway line from Antwerp to Dusseldorff runs through the town.

DID NOT KNOW THE DOCTOR

Owing to the sickness of Dr. Thorne, the local Board of Health sent a S. O. S. call to the Provincial Board asking for medical assistance, and a telegram was sent to Peeve Brock to meet Dr. Brown on the noon train on Thursday. The Reeve was duly on time when the train pulled in and asked every stranger who alighted if he were Dr. Brown, only to receive a negative answer. It is reported that he thus interviewed five commercial men. He was turning away disappointed when a lady stepped forward and confessed that she was Dr. Brown. The Doctor is now hard at work, and report sayeth that our estimable Reeve is not well—some cardiac trouble.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

ITALY WILL REBUILD HER MERCHANT FLEET

By Henry Wood
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Nov. 23.—Italy is making it a point of national pride and honour that she will rebuild her mercantile marine fleet entirely in her own yards and with her own resources.

A programme to this effect is now meeting with the most remarkable nation-wide support since cessation of hostilities.

To date there has been invested over 1,000,000,000 francs in installing 88 new ship-building yards, and the number before the end of the year will be increased to over 100.

Italy estimates she will need 4,000,000 tons of shipping with which to replace her boats lost during the war and bring her entire mercantile fleet up to the capacity necessary to handle the business that it is now certain will come.

Add two tablespoonfuls of tapioca to one quart of clear hot soup stock and cook about fifteen minutes.

A STORY OF WAR RECOUNTED IN BRIEF

Important Dates in Great World Struggle—The Fall of Autocracy—Close Study of the Past Four Years Shows That Democracy Won the Victory Because the Foes of Civilization Were Never Able to Drive Home a Blow of Vital Strength.

DURING the first two weeks of last July, the Allies were facing the darkest days of the war, and the German war lords were proclaiming triumphantly that they were about to achieve the victory that would bring them the world domination, which was the Kaiser's ambition. The British troops with their "backs to the wall," to use the phrase of Field Marshal Haig, were fighting to keep the Teutons from reaching the Channel ports, and farther south, the French army struggled grimly to hold the beast back from Paris. Little did the Allied world dream in those terrible weeks that in less than four months, the forces of democracy would be triumphant. No prophet could have foretold that during the second week of November the armistice would be signed which meant the complete surrender of Germany. With this collapse came the end of militarism, and the great autocrats of Europe were all overthrown. Men who, in July, believed that they were about to dominate the world were fugitives in November, flying from the execrations of their former subjects.

Now that the war has become history, it is interesting to look back at the important dates of the past four years and to trace the gradual growth of the omens that pointed towards the final victory of the Entente Allies. There were two great factors in the success of the defenders of civilization. The first was the invincibility of the British navy. At no time since August, 1914, has it failed to do all that was expected of it. Britannia drove Germany from the high seas, and slowly but surely strangled the Central Powers. The second factor was the military genius of the French. When the great armies of the Allies were finally organized, Generalissimo Foch took them in hand, and by wonderful patience combined with magnificent strategy, he secured the victories on the field that finally smashed the German morale at home, which had been gradually crumbling. Political causes in the Central Powers precipitated the collapse that has left the world gasping, but it was the British navy and the French military prowess that produced these policial causes.

Some persons may ask what names history will remember most distinctly in connection with the great war. The name of the Kaiser and his chief tools will be remembered with loathing. But in the nobler niches of fame may be placed the names of Generalissimo Foch, who ended the war that the Kaiser commenced, and Premier David Lloyd George of Great Britain, the greatest single dynamic force in organizing the resources of the British Empire. Foch has also given Lloyd George the credit of having made possible the choice of the French general to command the united forces of the Allies.

Looking back over the important incidents of the war, it will be noted that the victories of the Germans were all of secondary importance. The war lords were never able to deliver a vital blow that would have given them a peace based on pan-German ambitions. In 1914, they almost achieved a swift and complete victory. If the Allied world had realised in August of that year how close the Central Powers were to crushing the defenders of civilization, they would have known that only a miracle could save them. The miracle happened at the Marne, when Joffre and Foch broke the first onrush of the Hun. The Battle of Verdun was another attempt to score a knock-out blow; the Battle of Jutland was the big German effort to break British sea-power; the submarine warfare which the British navy handled in a manner that justified the highest faith of the Empire, looked like the strongest weapon of a pirate nation; then came the terrible offensives of the early summer of the present year. In all these life and death struggles, the Allies came out victorious. They made it certain that the ultimate destination of the Germans was downfall, and not world domination.

Even though the Central Powers could not score a decisive victory, they were able to win spectacular campaigns enough to buoy their people up with hopes of final triumph. Each summer of the war was ended by them with something that looked like a brilliant feat of arms. In the autumn of 1914, they massacred the Russian armies in East Prussia, and ended the only invasion of German soil; in 1915 the great Russian retreat, after a winter of victories against incompetent Austria, took place; in the autumn of that year little Serbia was completely crushed; in the autumn of 1916, Roumania was smashed in a swift and cruel campaign; and then followed the Russian revolution and the melting away of the cumbersome but important armies of the Slav. The Russian revolution, which was intended to create democracy, brought forth Bolshevikism, the most important menace that modern civilization must face now that the war is over. The defection of Russia brought another black period in the affairs of the Allies, but this was offset by the coming into the war of the United States, bringing with them the man-power, the morale and high ideals of the world's biggest republic. Last October, the Germans used the troops secured from Russia in an effort to knock Italy out of the war. For a week it looked as though the story of Roumania and Serbia would be repeated, but the crisis passed, and Italy more than retrieved herself in the two great battles of the Piave, fought in June and October of the present year. Germany found food for exultation in the failure of the Gallipoli campaign and the defeat of the British at Kut-el-Amara. The Allies met with these disasters at the hands of the Turks, but the British, with characteristic persistence, went at it again, and the brilliant victories in Mesopotamia resulted in the collapse of Turkey. It was in the east that the first signs came, about two months ago, that the Central Powers were going down to ignominious and humiliating defeat.

It is possible now to look over the war and to place our fingers on the black periods of depression, but it is also easy to follow the golden line that led to the final victory of the Allies. The ultimate good of civilization made it necessary that the Entente should win. It was a struggle between reaction and progress, and the purpose that one can trace in history made thoughtful men feel that it was impossible for reaction to triumph in the long run. The Prussian war lords made complete plans to conquer the world, and at times it did not seem possible that they would fail, but they reckoned without the eternal purpose in history. As Hilliare Belloc said of the first Battle of the Marne. The Germans had made every calculation that the human brain could devise to make certain of victory, but "It was not to be."

The effect of the Great War on Canada has already made itself apparent. Our Dominion entered the conflict as soon as the Germans threw down the challenge of battle. Canada may be proud, chiefly because her record is the record of the Canadian people. They rose to the call, and gave of their money and their young life in the cause of civilization. To our armies history will give the credit of several of the most vital victories on the Western front. History will doubtless also say of the Dominion that the great mass of Canadian citizens proved true to their loftiest ideals of devotion and self-sacrifice. If we did not have the inspiring leadership that guided some people, like the Greeks, almost unwillingly to do their duty, that fact makes the achievement of the Canadian people all the more notable. History will say that in this struggle our young nation found its soul.

GRAIN MARKET

A peculiar situation exists in the oats market. As a result of the present high price of oats in the Winnipeg market, due in part to an attempt at cornering the market for Canada Western oats, as against the comparatively low prices of oats at Chicago, and Ontario oats, there is no market here for the Western oats. One firm, in fact, has reshipped Western oats back into the West from Fort William, and sold at a profit in the Western interior. The eastern markets were from 1c. to 2c. easier on corn yesterday, and oats 1-2c. easier.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

A 'Bus Drive Helps While Away the Evening

CHAPTER XLVI

"Who wants you to get a taxi? You extravagant boy!" Mollie had replied. "Taxi's fairly eat up money. We ate up enough without giving them any. Come on let's walk over to the Avenue and ride on the bus," then, as Brian hesitated, "There are other evenings coming, Brian Hackett. Didn't you ask me to eat with you again to-morrow night? Or did I dream it?"

"It was no dream. Perhaps we better take the bus," and, with rather a shamefaced laugh, Brian put his hand under Mollie's elbow and walked toward the Avenue

On top of the bus riding up-town he soon forgot his embarrassment. In fact no one could long retain such a feeling with Mollie King. It was after ten o'clock when they finally climbed down at the end of the route in Washington Square having ridden as far as the bus went up-town, then down.

"Come in and smoke, if you like," Mollie said as they reached the red brick building that housed her.

"May I? That will be fine! It's awful stupid up home alone, and it is too early to turn in."

They smoked and "reminisced" until nearly two o'clock when Mollie "shooed" him out as she said.

"You'd never think of going," she laughed, "you haven't the slightest idea of time."

"Not when I'm with you, Mollie. It drags awfully sometimes," meaning when he was alone; and Mollie taking it to mean that it dragged when he was with Ruth; and so, her warm heart filled with pity, she said:

"Come as often as you like, Brian."

As before Brian would have been shocked could he have known what was in Mollie's mind, and to do him justice he would quickly have disabused her of the notion that he wasn't happy with Ruth. It was only that he was aggrieved at her absence. But Mollie had no idea but that "poor Brian" was unhappily married to a "high brow girl."

Gee! but Mollie's a peach!" Brian said as, once again, he took the bus to ride home. It happened to be the same expression he had used the last time he had taken her to dinner, and then he had gone home the same way.

He counted his money before he went to bed. A smile twisted his mouth when he saw what a hole the dinner had made in the little roll.

"Good thing Mollie set down on the one hoss shay,' he mumbled. "I get foolish sometimes, I guess. Bus rides for us, Mollie, unless we cut down on the eats," he said as he put his depleted roll back into his pocket.

Then idly he wondered who that "bloke" was, who had stared at Mollie so.

"Can't blame him much! she looked sweet enough to kiss to-night." Then as Ruth's picture caught his eye "But Ruth has it all over them all for style. She ought to, too! two hundred dollars for a dress! I don't believe Mollie spends that much in a year on her back," in which surmise he was right. Mollie didn't! She didn't have it to spend.

The next morning he received a night telegraph letter from Ruth. She had arrived safely, had found everything alright, and would hurry back as soon as possible. She gave her address and asked him to write her.

Brian fully intended to write that morning. But when he reached the office he found some extra work—which meant extra money—so he sent her a wire instead. He needed the money. That Ruth might need the letter never occurred to him.

That night too he dined with Mollie and then they went to the movies. She had insisted that they eat at a little table de hote place where the dinner was only sixty cents.

"Quite a come down," Brian had said laughingly, yet his heart glad that she had proposed it.

"We mustn't spend money every night like we did last night," she had said in a way that made him feel she was looking out for his interests—which she really was.

"You're a good little scout, Mollie! Some girls wouldn't care if they broke a fellow, as long as they had a good time. I made some extra money to-day, hustled like the old scratch to make it, too We'll blow ourselves to-morrow night. Go up on the bus to Claremont or something like that."

"Who said I was going to dine with you to-morrow night? I like the way you dispose of my time."

"I did! and you will, won't you, Mollie? Please take pity on an old married man. Ruth will be home in a few days then I won't ask you to make a martyr of yourself any longer."

"Martyr! you goose! Don't you know I am having the time of my young life! Of course I'll dine with you to-morrow night!"

To-morrow—Ruth Receives Brian's Message And Worries Over It.

Local Boards Now Recruit Labourers

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—American labor's voluntary response to the U. S. employment service program has been one of the most gratifying features of the war. There is no atmosphere of glory about hard, unremitting toil in the factory and shipyard. The soldier's uniform is a patent indication of his work to make the world safe for democracy, but the workman in overalls and jumper is far less impressive.

Yet the workman is quite as important in his own job as the soldier is in his. American workmen have given their labor without reservation of any kind. They were appealed to, as patriotic citizens, and the appeal was not in vain. At no time has there been any thought of compulsion about the labor recruiting program; in the first place, it has never been necessary, and secondly, it would have been far less effective than the method that was used.

The actual recruiting and distribution of labor power is now pretty much in the hands of the community labor boards. They have no executive power, but it is their duty in recruiting labor to obtain the effective co-operation of the local employers and workmen they represent.

Chief among their duties, perhaps, is the transfer of workers from non-essential to essential jobs. The power to close nonessential industries is confined to the President, but the community labor board can and do fulfil a patriotic duty by listing the non-war jobs in their own localities.

To aid them, there is the great force of public opinion, which may be depended upon to deal rigorously with any employer who places his own interest above that of the nation.

One of the duties assigned the state advisory boards is the checking of the efficiency of the personnel of the local employment service offices. These boards may recommend dismissals from office to the administrative headquarters at Washington. Moreover, all main office appointments in each state must be chosen by the state director from a list of applicants presented by state advisory boards, and all local branch appointments from lists presented in the same way by local community boards.

Women members of boards have full voting power on all questions, whether involving men or women workers.

LLOYD GEORGE ISSUES ELECTION ADDRESS TO COUNTY

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 22.— David Lloyd George and Andrew Bonar Law have issued a long election address to the country. For the most part, it follows the lines of speeches made recently by two political leaders in outlining plans for preference. It says, however, that until the country has returned to normal industrial conditions, it would be premature to prescribe a fiscal policy intended for permanence.

READY FOR TABLE.

Sometimes a really good laugh strays overseas from the grim field hospitals. This one comes from No. 1, founded by Mr. Vanderbilt, near Paris:

"Nurse," said the soldier when he recovered consciousness, "what is this on my head?"

"Vinegar cloths," she replied. "You have had a fever."

"And what's this on my chest?"

"A mustard plaster; you've had pneumonia, too."

"And what are these things at my feet?"

"Salt bags; you were badly frost-bitten."

At this point up spoke a convalescing Tommy on the next cot:

"Hang a pepper box on his nose, nurse, and he'll be a cruet."

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy. NAVVYS' M.P.'S EXPLOITS.

Col. John Ward Foils Bolshevik Force in Siberia.

LONDON.—Col. John Ward, the navvys' M.P., hero of the sinking transport on which the Middlesex battalion, of which he is in command, sailed, has won fresh recognition of his soldierly qualities.

A representative of the Daily Chronicle was informed that Col. Ward was in command of an allied force which was temporarily held up by Bolsheviks at Zima, on the Ussuri front, whilst travelling west on the Trans-Siberian Railway. Col. Ward occupied the town and railway station, proclaimed martial law, and arranged for the safety of his force and maintenance of order. It was only later that he discovered that the railwaymen who had held him up, and taken possession of the line and town, were acting in conjunction with a Bolshevik force scattered through the surrounding country, waiting their opportunity to strike.

Herewith will be found the picture of an Aviator who has just dropped a bomb on a pile of Shells. At first glance the Aeroplane and the Explosion appear to be all there is in the picture, but by careful study the faces of several soldiers will be found. There are 7 of them in all. Can you find them? It is not easy task but by patience and endurance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses which we will send you. If you find the faces mark each one with an X, cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness are considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time but as TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and many merchandise prizes are given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

WE DO NOT ASK YOU TO SPEND ONE CENT OF YOUR MONEY IN ORDER TO ENTER THIS CONTEST

Send your answer at once; we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. against using dangerous Hair Preparations

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and rendered incurable by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant), which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that, aside from cleaning the hair thoroughly, will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form, never spoils and will keep forever.

MENACED SHRUBB'S RECORD.

When George McCrea, the Scotch professional runner, set a new professional record for ten miles recently, he came within a second of breaking the world's professional record, held by Cannon, in a race shortly before he ran his ten-mile test. McCrea covered two miles in 9 minutes 12 seconds. The world's amateur record is 9 minutes 3 3-5 seconds, and was made by Alfred Shrubb, of England, fourteen years ago. The American record is 9 minutes 11 2-5 seconds, which Joie Ray made in Madison Square Garden in the early spring of 1917 in a race against the late John Overton.

TELLS LADIES HERE "WATCH YOUR STEP"

Can not camouflage a touchy corn but says they lift right out

A brisk, lively step is what charms more than a lovely skin, but your high heels have caused corns and you you know it. Corns destroy beauty and grace, besides corns can be lifted limp a little. That's bad, girls, and out with the fingers.

Rid your feet of every corn by asking at any drug store for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, touchy corn relieves the soreness and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out without pain.

This freezone is a gummy substance which dries instantly and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding skin.

Women must keep in mind that cornless feet create a youthful step, which enhances her attractiveness.

MACHINE SEWING FOR MACHINE GUNNERS.

Salvation Army Worker Turns Tailor When Uniforms Don't Fit.

A sewing machine worked by a devoted woman, just behind the firing line in France, has won the admiration of hundreds of soldiers, while the woman operator has gained the love of all who have occasion to solicit her good offices. The woman is Mrs. Springer, a Salvation Army worker, who has been frequently under fire.

Mrs. Springer's workroom is the wreck of a once-spacious home, one corner of which affords her a pretty tolerable refuge from the rain and fogs that make things miserable all along the front at intervals. She announces her willingness to sew up the ripped uniforms of the troops, and, of course, her hands are full all the time.

"I am the only tailor with this outfit," she told a Salvation Army representative who visited her. "Most of our boys lost their uniforms in the fighting about Soissons. They chased the Huns so fast that their coats wouldn't stay with them. It is only two weeks ago that their new uniforms arrived, but some of them fit badly, and I am doing my best to help the boys out. I altered thirty-three uniforms this week and am ready for more."

"What do you charge the boys for altering their uniforms?" was asked.

"Charge?" she echoed in surprise. "Charge our soldier boys for such service? Not a cent! We even donate the thread."

Is it any wonder that the Salvation Army is popular among the troops? Stop any returned man you see on the street and ask him to tell you all about it.

...leaflet circulated in exposition of ...league sets forth the theory that ... you catch your naughty child and ...n you whip it. The founder and ...ector apparently thinks the child's ... should be spared for he says:

...He realizes that children are regu... little gluttons for information. ...his mode of punishment is to be continued until the child attains 14 years of age, and the founder of the league asserts that "these whippings are sure to bring increased peace into the home, and so keep down worries."

In this connection it is comforting to recall that Charles Lamb, the famous essayist, used to drink in silence to the memory of King Herod every time the children came down after dinner, which goes to prove that youngsters were youngsters long before there were movies.

TIRED AND DISCOURAGED

Mrs. Warren Randles, Bothesay, Kings County, N.B., "I have three small children and had to stay in the house all winter. So when spring came I was all run down doing all my work and looking after the children. I felt all tired out, and looked on the gloomy side all the time, I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the results were most satisfactory. I feel fine now, and am recommending the Nerve Food to others."

PEACE PARLEY BY JAN. I.

IF LLOYD GEORGE DECIDED, IT MAY BE OPENED DECEMBER FIFTEENTH.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Convening of the Peace Conference in France is now virtually up to Lloyd George.

The British election is December 12. If the Premier feels he can leave England before that date, the conference should get under way by the middle of December, it is said here. If he cannot leave, however, until after the elections, the conclave probably won't begin until the end of December or the first of January. President Wilson will make his sailing arrangements accordingly.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

NO PLACE LIKE HOME.

The best of us are like animals—we rush into holes for shelter. Home is such against the hardness of the world.

Margery Bell, the Cleveland girl who ran away, said on her return home: "You'll never know how much you want and need your mother, or your brother, or your father, until you're away from them."

Ah, how strong, how unerring, are the fundamental instincts of human nature; we can never outlive them. The joyous child allured by the bright flowers, the butterflies, the rainbow, may forget and wander far. But when the feet are bruised and the limbs weary and the heart sore, and it seems naught but strangeness, it cries for home.

Men and women have a little stronger limbs and a little stronger hearts; they can chase the butterflies and the rainbows a little farther, and then they, too, must like the little child, see the mocking folly of it all and, weary, heartsick, cry for refuge—home.

For many of us the old home may no longer exist except in memory, but if in memory it is enshrined then, whatever the disappointments, the deceptions, the despairs of life, we still may turn new hope, new courage, and new inspirations, as did this poor girl, back to the old home, where love glows against the world's coldness.

Misfortune has its recompense when it turns us back to set our lips once more to the spring of love that is pure and undefiled.

Amid joys and successes our surroundings seem not so near to us; they are remote in their unreality; their glitter and abundance. And when sorrow comes it finds us sick with loneliness, it is then that in the lowly home of childhood every table and chair and pictures seems to take tongue and call and call, and call to us. And the call comes through the distance and through the years like strains of deep-loved and never-to-be forgotten music, filled with multitudes of sweet associations that make the heart beat quick.

Hold up your head, girls! The ugliest of you may have the beauty of health and purity and innocence. The plainest may make herself so beloved that the hearts of those who know her will long for her presence, and to them she shall seem the very queen of beauty. If your lips are too thick and lacking in curves, teach them to utter sweet words of sympathy and noble words of inspiration. If your hands are too large, let them ever be ready and helpful, the glad almoners of a generous heart. It will shine through and be apparent to the dullest eye, and while making the mind and heart beautiful, do not forget the body. Keep it clean, wholesome and pure, and you will be a delight to yourself and those about you. No matter how bright the eyes may be, if they reflect unkind, unlovely thoughts they are not beautiful. No matter how soft and white the hands may be, if they cannot work they are useless members, commanding no respect.

There are a thousand ways in which we can add to the peace and leisure of our homes. Let the house all day long be the scenes of pleasant words. Let us have music, for truly is it said that a home without music is like springtime without birds. Cultivate vocal music in your family if you cannot have instrumental. At night when all are gathered around the fireside what can be more pleasant than to sing the sweet songs.

WANTED—A BOY.

A jolly boy.
A boy full of vim.
A boy who scorns a lie.
A boy who will never smoke.
A boy with some "stick to it."
A boy who takes to the bath tub.
A boy who is proud of his big sister.
A boy who thinks hard work is no disgrace.
A boy who does chores without grumbling.
A boy who thinks that an education is worth while.
A boy that plays with all his might—during play hours.
A boy who listens not to unclean stories from any one.
A boy who thinks his mother above all mothers is the model.
A boy that does not know more than all the rest of the house.
A boy who does not think it inconsistent to mix praying and playing.
A boy who does not need to be called a second time in the morning.

There are hundreds of young men in every great city, in the ... lowest depths of degradation, whom the home influence carefully and prayerfully extended through tender, affectionate, womanly letters, might have saved. There are hundreds of others, just taking their first lesson in vice, who may be brought back to purity by loving words from mother, sisters, or sweethearts. Until a man becomes thoroughly vicious, the thought of a pure woman's love will do much to restrain him from iniquity. If that love grows careless of him, he grows careless of himself. Think of this, you who have sons, brothers or lovers away among strangers. Remember that you owe them a sacred duty; and give them frequent missives from home, freighted with love and accompanied by earnest prayer.

"A good wife"—how much happiness is contained in these three short words. Her power for good is perfectly irresistible. It does not matter how energetic or industrious a man may be, with a careless or spendthrift wife his best efforts are in vain.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleasing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the California Fig Syrup Company."

COMFORT SOAP

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me a small space in your paper to speak my mind as regards the men (or cowards, I ought to say, for they are not worthy of the name of men), who should have reported under the Military Service Act but did not do so. They preferred to hide themselves among the back woods and let anyone else do the fighting part. Now the war is over, these brave cowards are to be allowed to come out of their hiding places and go free to have a good time for doing nothing. Why are they not to be punished for defying their King and Country when they needed all the help they could get to defend our Empire, our Liberty. In olden times they would have been shot for such a crime. It is not fair to the poor men who have done their bit and given their lives for us and these cowards also. Are they worthy of the sacrifice? Certainly not. It is not fair nor just either to those brave men, who are still overseas and have been fighting and suffered great hardships and wounds who will soon be coming home to their friends. How will these brave fellows feel about it when they are told how easy these shirkers, slackers, cowards (no name is bad enough for them) got out of the fighting and fooled the government and now are to be allowed to enjoy the liberty, justice and freedom that they were too cowardly to fight for. Will our returned soldiers feel that it is justice to allow these slackers to go unpunished. Will these cowards have the nerve to show their faces when the boys come home? They had better stop in their hiding places, for if they catch eight of some of the poor wounded soldiers they will haunt them for the rest of their lives. These cowards should be made to parade the streets with a large placard on their backs with cowards (no name is bad enough for on it. Where would the British Empire be to-day if they had depended on the likes of such trash for help? We should have been in the hands of Germany long before now. Certainly they should have some punishment if only to let them see they cannot defy the Government, and to be an example to others who might do the same thing if they are needed any time, if they find they can get off so easy and let anyone else fight but themselves. Thanking you for taking up so much of your paper,

A Soldier's Widow.

What is a double acting baking powder?

A double-acting baking powder is one that starts its action in the mixing bowl and finishes it in the oven.

Ordinary baking powders develop their full strength in the mixing bowl and you have to hurry your cakes into the oven. Then, you are always afraid that the oven is not just hot enough, or that a door will slam or something else happen to cause the cakes to fall.

You don't have to hurry or worry when Egg-O Baking Powder is used. Egg-O rises only partly in the bowl. You may let the dough stand 15 or 20 minutes or longer—doing so will give better results. When put into the oven, Egg-O continues its action—this second action being so steady and strong that a cake is not likely to fall even if it does get an unexpected jar.

EGG-O Baking Powder

is double acting and just what is needed to make the heavy war flours light.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Blighted Tree

By Saidee Estelle Balcom

"As this tree shall blossom, so shall your life be fair and happy and beautiful."

Alice Clyde blushed and looked happy just now. Why should not the clever fortune teller use the tree as a simile, for had not the shrewd gypsy woman seen Alice's lover, brave, handsome Wylie Davis, leave its shade with a kiss for Alice, and was it not under that same graceful cherry tree their mutual troth had been plighted?

And with the radiant future thus outlined, Alice devoted the week to tender attention for the lover who was going away for a few months to close up some business in war-ridden Mexico.

He had been left some Mexican mining interests by an uncle; insurrection had disturbed its regular operations and Wylie was anxious to dispose of it.

It was a solace and a pleasure to Alice to sit under the tree often after that. The blossoms came and the spot where fond memories clustered became a cherished oasis.

One morning Alice took the daily newspaper and proceeded to her favorite seclusion. Her mother, working about the house, ran out quickly as from the garden there rung out a shriek, shrill and echoing.

As she reached the open doorway she made out Alice, lying prostrate under the tree. A young man, passing along the street, leaped the fence and was at the side of the prostrate girl almost as soon as her anguished mother.

"Oh, Mr. Trumbull help me get her into the house," breathed the distracted mother. Just then Alice's sister, Rosamond, joined the others. A newspaper was tightly clasped in Alice's hand. They lifted her and bore her to a couch in the sitting room.

"Will you hurry for a doctor, Mr. Trumbull, please?" spoke Rosamond. "This is something more than a faint."

The young man departed on wings of fleetness. The anxiety in his grave, earnest face was as intense as that displayed by mother and sister. It might well be, for he had been an aspirant for the love of Alice before Wylie had supplanted him.

Like the true man that he was, although hurt to the soul, Trumbull had accepted the award of fate. Alice had continued to be kind to him.

Within the hour the cause of Alice's collapse was known. In the newspaper she had read an item telling of an attack of insurgents upon the mine owned by Wylie. Ten of the workmen had been massacred, a number of others carried away as prisoners and Wylie Davis was missing.

The shock prostrated Alice utterly. For two weeks she lay torpid, fevered, and came back to life weak and broken. She spoke calmly but despairingly of Wylie. "He is dead, she said—my soul tells me I shall never see him again." Then one day she proffered a request that blanched her mother's face and caused Rosamond to quiver with dismay.

"Mother," spoke Alice feebly, "it would be a comfort to me to sleep in the north room, where I can see the cherry tree where I stood with Wylie."

"My dear Alice," quavered the perturbed mother, "the doctor insists that the light, sun and air are just right for you here."

"I shall die if you don't do as I say," said Alice. "I want to die anyway, now that Wylie's gone."

For hours Alice moaned out her desire. The doctor told Mrs. Clyde that they must do something to answer her wish.

"But the tree was rooted up in the storm two weeks ago," sobbed the anguished mother, "and when Alice sees this she will regard it the final omen of fate."

When Dale Trumbull called to inquire about Alice that evening Rosamond told him of their new anxiety. Her grief appealed to him and aroused his deepest compassion.

"Something must be done," he spoke after a period of deep reflection, "yes, I think I know what, but Alice must never know."

For two nights, with the aid of others, Dale Trumbull delved and worked to remove from his own orchard a flourishing cherry tree, as near the prototype of the one that had been destroyed as could be found. When, two days later, Alice was removed to another room, her eyes rested seemingly upon the tree she so cherished. The sight of it seemed to quiet, to console her, and Dale was glad, and Rosamond looked up into his honest eyes with a gratitude that somehow seemed to give him a new interest in the sister of the woman he had loved and lost.

One day he arrived, flushed and breathless at the Clyde garden gate, where Rosamond stood. He had news—great news! Wylie had escaped from his captors and he was coming home! A true man, a good man, if Dale was a trifle sad, he was also happy as he saw the old light of hope come back to the wan face of Alice.

And once more the reunited lovers stood under the cherry tree shade. And later, after they had married and gone away, at the self-same spot Dale Trumbull, who had learned to cherish the sterling, kindly impulses of the loyal sister, asked Rosamond to become his wife.

Explorers on Murman Coast.

The landing of allied troops on the Murman coast would have greatly interested the seamen of the sixteenth century, when so many attempts were made to discover a northeast passage to Asia by rounding the north coast of Norway. After several futile schemes had been discussed, Sebastian Cabot promoted a movement which eventually resulted in the despatch of three ships and more than 100 men, in May, 1553, Sir Hugh Willoughby, to whom was entrusted the command of the expedition, got as far as the entrance to the White Sea, and eventually landed at a suitable place on the Murman coast. He decided to winter there, but he and his men succumbed to the Arctic conditions.

However, another member of the expedition, Chancelor, whose ship became separated from the other two, finally landed on the shores of the White Sea, where Archangel now stands. From that place he actually went to Moscow, returned to his ship, and eventually reached London again. Chancelor endeavored to repeat his Russian trip, but perished by shipwreck on the return journey.

The Wig.

Now, why did I buy it, I wonder?
I must have been crazy, I know.
But the papers are full of the fashion,
And the saleswoman flattered me so!
I dread for my husband to see it.
He's certain to grumble and scold.
He used, in the days of our courtship,
To liken my tresses to gold.

How Madge and Louisa and Gladys
And the rest of the women would stare
If I should appear in the tango,
Oh, caramels, out of my hair!
But I'll bet they would go in convulsions
Of jealousy over my rig.
And I guess, after all, that I'll wear it
To spite them, my new purple wig.
—Minna Irving in Judge.

"This Typewriting Gets On My Nerves. I Wonder Why"

"I ALWAYS used to like running the machine, and took a pleasure in turning out good, neat letters.

"But I must say I cannot feel that way lately. Hitting the keys seems to jar my whole nervous system, and the noise of the machine annoys me.

"I wonder if I am getting nervous. There must certainly be something wrong with me, for I am so tired in the mornings and do not seem to have the energy to transcribe the bunch of letters which I get every day.

"Of course, I have been working harder than usual to make up for those who have been away sick. Then I have been helping more at home while mother was sick. I suppose it all helps to tire one out and exhaust the nerves.

"But what was that I was reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food building up the nerves? Perhaps that is what I need. There was something about worry and anxiety breaking down the nervous system, and I have surely had my share of worry.

"That may account for my headaches and sleeplessness, as well as for the tired feelings which I have all the time. Well, I am going to get some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to-day and give it a tryout."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so gentle in action and yet so potent as a restorative that it is a great favorite with women of all ages. It seems to be admirably suited to the needs of their delicate nervous systems, and on this account it has come to be universally used as a means of restoring vigor and energy to a run-down, nervous system.

The healthful color and appearance of people who have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—the elasticity and vivacity of their movements—is the best evidence of the benefits they have attained. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. TIME FOR WINTER FLOWERS

HYACINTHS AND NARCISSI OFFER BEST PROMISE FOR THE AMATEUR.

Now is the time to prepare to have blooming bulbous plants in the house in the late Winter. For the nonprofessional grower of flowers nothing is more likely to give good results and repay a moderate amount of effort than hyacinths and the various narcissi. The bulbs of all these plants are scarce this year and the prices are high, the authorities at Washington having put flowers on the luxury list and all but prohibited their importation. Besides, even if there were no shipping restrictions, the Dutch have been too busy to give the usual attention to the production of bulbs, and for many years the great bulk of this stock has come from Holland. However, even a twar prices a few for home decoration when the ground is white with snow will repay some expense and effort.

The essentials for growing bulbs indoors are that they shall become thoroughly rooted before the tops are permitted to grow. This is done by planting the bulbs in suitable soil, either in pots or what florists know as "pans," which are shallow pots, or in boxes. The soil should be light, but retentive of moisture. A rich, light, garden soil may be used if mixed with equal parts sand and woods earth.

The planted bulbs then are placed in a cool place in the dark for a period of two to six or eight weeks, or even longer if desired. They should be left there until the roots are well started. In the case of bulbs planted in pots, the pots may be inverted and gently tapped, when the bulb and soil will come out in a mass. When the bulbs have been sufficiently long in the pots the earth in the bottom of the pot will be completely covered with rootlets. The bulbs should then be brought into a slightly warmer place with some light for three or four days and then gradually brought into greater warmth and full light. During all the period of growth the ground should be kept moist without being water-soaked.

Narcissus takes about five weeks to develop from the time it is brought into full light. Hyacinths take a larger time, and tulips about same time as hyacinths. The Roman hyacinths come in a little less time, while the paper-white narcissus takes only about four weeks. It is hard to hold the paper-white narcissus for late Winter. Hyacinths are hard to bring into bloom before February. the various forms of the yellow narcissus can be brought into bloom from December until the time for outdoor blooms by starting the bulbs early and bringing them into the light at intervals of a week or ten days. For the earliest bloom it is desirable to get the bulbs started as soon as the first frost, and all of the bulbs should be planted before the ground freezes.

Tulips are difficult to get to flower but it may be done by February or March by special care and attention. It is best to place the pots or pans in a box and cover the whole pot with at least two inches of additional soil or ashes and leave them there until the bud has pushed clear above the pot, otherwise the bloom will be strangled in attempting to get out of the bulbs.

RATS ARE BIG EATERS.

Experts have estimated that one rat will consume 40 to 50 pounds of food in a year. It has also been figured that it requires the continuous work of about 165,000 men with farms, agricultural implements, and other equipments to supply the foodstuffs destroyed annually by rates in the United States and Canada. In addition rats destroy other property, mainly of agricultural origin, the production of which requires the work of about 55,000 men. This gives a total of 220,000 men whose economy output is devoted solely to feeding and otherwise providing for rats.

RELIGION AND WAR.

Atlantic Monthly: No one can tell yet whether there will be a shrinkage or an enlargement of the content of faith as a result of the war, but there are certain to be many sharp reactions against ecclesiasticism. No foible of our intricate social structure has been hit harder than sectarianism; wherever the frightful drama which is to reshape the race is being played out, such things as Presbyterianism, Methodism, Episcopalianism — yes, even Protestantism and Catholicism—seem to be an irrelevance and an impertinence.

WONDERFUL BILIOUS REMEDY ACTUALLY PREVENTS ATTACKS

There are two great causes of biliousness—they are constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken, they are not only correct constipated bowels, but act upon the liver as well.

Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the conditions which cause biliousness, and thus permanent cures are effected. No person who occasionally uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills will ever suffer from the headache, bad stomach, or mild but thorough in their action; do day.

Brewers' Blacklist Before Committee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The so-called "brewers' black list" cropped up again to-day at the meeting of the Senate Judiciary Sub-committee, investigating brewers' activities, when Hugh F. Fox, secretary of the United States Brewers' Association, admitted that the members were advised to give trade preferences "to those who were their friends."

Major B. Lowery Humes, former United States District Attorney, who conducted the examination, submitted correspondence tending to show that a number of automobile concerns, various large business enterprises, and the Western Union Telegraph Co. were placed on the "black list" because of utterances of some of their executives, who the brewers believed were unfriendly to their interests.

Among those were the Packard, Cadillac, and Reo Motor Car Companies; Proctor and Gamble, Cincinnati soap manufacturers; the Sherwin Williams Co., Cleveland paint manufacturers; the Maryland and Baltimore Casualty Co., the Grasselle Chemical Co., Cleveland, and the H. J. Heinz Co., Pittsburg.

Fox also admitted authorship of a letter written to Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union, protesting the attitude of the company in refusing to employ men who were not total abstainers.

The reason for the placing of H. J. Heinz Co., pickle concern, on the unfair list, was because of Heinz's activities in the Pennsylvania Sabbath School Association, which declared for prohibition, Humes declared.

Fox said the brewers "had a lot of trouble" with the Goodyear Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, which finally was adjusted, he said, when the concern agreed to maintain neutrality.

What 7,000,000 Weeks Mean

IF you would add only one week to the life of your shoes, and if all Canadians would do the same, think what it would mean! It would mean the saving of enough shoes to last 7,000,000 weeks. It would equip a million soldiers for more than a month. It would help to check rising prices, and to increase the purchasing power of every dollar that is spent for shoes.

Get this added service out of your shoes. It is easy to add much more than a week to their life if you will buy for service rather than merely for appearance. Go to a responsible dealer and profit by his knowledge of values. Look for the manufacturer's trade-mark on the shoes you buy.

If you will do these things you will sacrifice nothing in neatness and attractive appearance, and you will gain immeasureably in satisfaction.

A.H.M. War-Time Selections offer special Service Value for Men, Women and Children. Ask your dealer for them.

Rheumatism Every Winter

To be crippled by Rheumatism is to have life become an intolerable burden, especially in the winter, when the persistent cold and damp aggravate this complaint till it is almost unbearable.

Can you picture the dread that any man would hold winter in when all it meant to him was a yearly return of his Rheumatism and the agonizing pains that it brings?

Such was the case of Mr. A. Beaudry of Bedford, Que. Each winter he was forced to undergo the torture of Rheumatic pains, until he discovered Gin Pills. Read what he says about these little doctors:

"Every winter I suffered from Rheumatism, and this is the first season I have been able to go through without a return of my old trouble—thanks to Gin Pills. The pills are all you claim for them, and more."

Testimony such as this should convince even the most skeptical that Gin Pills do remedy Kidney troubles.

If you have friends or relatives who suffer from this dread affliction, tell them to try Gin Pills. So many people have written us stating in glowing terms how Gin Pills have relieved them of Kidney troubles, that we are convinced that all any person needs to do in order to obtain relief is—try them.

CATTLE MARKET

Although it's "better late than never," surprise, and even astonishment, is expressed among men in the cattle trade that the proper authorities at Ottawa and the packing interests did not "get together" earlier in the day in order to prevent the wholesale depletion and slaughter of the young cattle stock of the country. Now that a considerable part of the mischief has been done the said authorities and "interests" suddenly wake up, and a vigorous, though belated, campaign is inaugurated from Ottawa in an effort to induce farmers and stock breeders to co-operate with agricultural and food boards in an attempt to conserve the meat food stocks of Canada and the United States, in view of the great shortage of cattle in European countries. For months past it has been evident to close observers that a terrible wastage of young breeding stock has been going on. The sudden ending of the war brought matters to a climax, when farmers, in a panic that prices would suddenly collapse, rushed their stock to market in such quantities that a state of congestion resulted, and temporary prices did, in fact, break. In part, as the result of the campaign started from Ottawa, showing the actual shortage in the world's supplies of cattle and the certainty that big demands for some years to come will be made upon all available supplies from Canada, and that consequently prices will continue at high levels, the rush of cattle to market has been halted, and during the past week supplies in the local market have been comparatively light. The result was an immediate advance in prices aggregating in the week's transactions a total advance of 75c. to $1.00 per hundredweight on good to choice grades of butcher cattle and good quality feeders.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were also light, with a corresponding advance in prices.

Hogs held generally firm and steady with last week's prices.

BATTALION WILL NOT REMOVE.

Only Catergory A2 Men will Leave For Siberia.

The report published in Belleville that the depot battalion at that city had been warned to prepare to leave for service in Siberia, possibly the latter part of this week, is incorrect. The facts are that a draft was warned but it will consist of only those men who are in medical category "A2." The unit contains only about 37 men in this class, the remainder of the members being in lower categories. Accordingly the depot battalion as a unit with its staff will remain at Belleville.—Port Hope Guide.

TOOK BRONCHITIS AFTER THE MEASLES

Measles is a disease that is very hard on children, and it generally leaves the system in such a debilitated condition that it is liable to attacks of some other trouble. One of the most common of these is bronchitis, which starts with a short, painful, dry cough, a feeling of tightness through the chest and difficulty of breathing, accompanied by a wheezing sound from the lungs.

There is a raising of phlegm from the bronchial tubes which is very often streaked with blood.

Bronchitis although not really dangerous, should never be neglected as some serious lung trouble is most liable to follow if it is.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will loosen the phlegm, soothe and heal the irritated bronchial tubes, and in a short time the bronchitis will disappear.

Mrs. Murdock McLean, Adanac Apts., Winnipeg, Man., writes: — "About two years ago my little girl had bronchitis; took them after having the measles. I tried several cough remedies, and oils of all kinds, but they all failed. At last I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After using three bottles she has never had any sign of it since. I can honestly recommend it as being a grand medicine."

The genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Rheumatism Every Winter

To be crippled by Rheumatism is to have life become an intolerable burden, especially in the winter, when the persistent cold and damp aggravate this complaint till it is almost unbearable.

Can you picture the dread that any man would hold winter in when all it meant to him was a yearly return of his Rheumatism and the agonizing pains that it brings?

Such was the case of Mr. A. Beaudry of Bedford, Que. Each winter he was forced to undergo the torture of Rheumatic pains, until he discovered Gin Pills. Read what he says about these little doctors:

"Every winter I suffered from Rheumatism, and this is the first season I have been able to go through without a return of my old trouble—thanks to Gin Pills. The pills are all you claim for them, and more."

Testimony such as this should convince even the most skeptical that Gin Pills do remedy Kidney troubles.

If you have friends or relatives who suffer from this dread affliction, tell them to try Gin Pills. So many people have written us stating in glowing terms how Gin Pills have relieved them of Kidney troubles, that we are convinced that all any person needs to do is order to obtain relief is—try them.

CATTLE MARKET

Although it's "better late than never," surprise, and even astonishment, is expressed among men in the cattle trade that the proper authorites at Ottawa and the packing interests did not "get together" earlier in the day in order to prevent the wholesale depletion and slaughter of the young cattle stock of the country. Now that a considerable part of the mischief has been done the said authorities and "interests" suddenly wake up, and a vigorous, though belated, campaign is inaugurated from Ottawa in an effort to induce farmers and stock breeders to co-operate with agricultural and food boards in an attempt to conserve the meat food stocks of Canada and the United States, in view of the great shortage of cattle in European countries. For months past it has been evident to close observers that a terrible wastage of young breeding stock has been going on. The sudden ending of the war brought matters to a climax, when farmers, in a panic that prices would suddenly collapse, rushed their stock to market in such quantities that a state of congestion resulted, and temporary prices did, in fact, break. In part, as the result of the campaign started from Ottawa, showing the actual shortage in the world's supplies of cattle and the certainty that big demands for some years to come will be made upon all available supplies from Canada, and that consequently prices will continue at high levels, the rush of cattle to market has been halted, and during the past week supplies in the local market have been comparatively light. The result was an immediate advance in prices aggregating in the week's transactions a total advance of 75c. to $1.00 per hundredweight on good to choice grades of butcher cattle and good quality feeders.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were also light, with a corresponding advance in prices.

Hogs held generally firm and steady with last week's prices.

BATTALION WILL NOT REMOVE.

Only Catergory A2 Men will Leave For Siberia.

The report published in Belleville that the depot battalion at that city had been warned to prepare to leave for service in Siberia, possibly the latter part of this week, is incorrect. The facts are that a draft was warned but it will consist of only those men who are in medical category "A2." The unit contains only about 37 men in this class, the remainder of the members being in lower categories. Accordingly the depot battalion as a unit with its staff will remain at Belleville.—Port Hope Guide.

TOOK BRONCHITIS AFTER THE MEASLES

Measles is a disease that is very hard on children, and it generally leaves the system in such a debilitated condition that it is liable to attacks of some other trouble. One of the most common of these is bronchitis, which starts with a short, painful, dry cough, a feeling of tightness through the chest and difficulty of breathing, accompanied by a wheezing sound from the lungs.

There is a raising of phlegm from the bronchial tubes which is very often streaked with blood.

Bronchitis although not really dangerous, should never be neglected as some serious lung trouble is most liable to follow if it is.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will loosen the phlegm, soothe and heal the irritated bronchial tubes, and in a short time the bronchitis will disappear.

Mrs. Murdock McLean, Adanac Apts., Winnipeg, Man., writes: — "About two years ago my little girl had bronchitis; took them after having the measles. I tried several cough remedies, and oils of all kinds, but they all failed. At last I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After using three bottles she has never had any sign of it since. I can honestly recommend it as being a grand medicine."

The genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

What 7,000,000 Weeks Mean

IF you would add only one week to the life of your shoes, and if all Canadians would do the same, think what it would mean! It would mean the saving of enough shoes to last 7,000,000 weeks. It would equip a million soldiers for more than a month. It would help to check rising prices, and to increase the purchasing power of every dollar that is spent for shoes.

Get this added service out of your shoes. It is easy to add much more than a week to their life if you will buy for service rather than merely for appearance. Go to a responsible dealer and profit by his knowledge of values. Look for the manufacturer's trade-mark on the shoes you buy.

If you will do these things you will sacrifice nothing in neatness and attractive appearance, and you will gain immeasureably in satisfaction.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1918

"I Always Thought They Would Come Out, But Not Like This," Said Beatty

"You Understand We Are Driven to This," Said the German Admiral as He Handed Over the Fleet—Dying of Hunger in Hunland.

BLOODLESS TRAFALGAR

Special to the Examiner:

(By James M. Tuohy).

LONDON, Nov. 23, (Delayed). — Just as impressively as she once goose-stepped across Europe at the pinnacle of her might, Germany grovelled in the sunny mist of the North Sea this morning, when, cringing like a dog with tail down, she came with her High Seas Fleet and surrendered her future on the water. With amazed contempt, the personnel of the British Grand Fleet looked on at the German sailors, men whom they could not even "kick into a fight," men they had watched as a cat watches a mouse, for four years, and whom now they were compelled to meet, not in the glorious uncertainty of battle, but by appointment.

"I always thought they would come out, but not like this, on a piece of string," said Admiral Sir David Beatty, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet, on his flagship, as we toasted the occasion at luncheon. While sailing along beside the Germans, we wondered what must be their mentality on this extraordinary day when, for instance, the British battle cruisers solemnly escorted into harbour the German ship they had pounded off Juiland, and when an American battleship kept level with the baby killers which had once bombarded English open towns. Such humiliation, such complete reversal of relation, character, is possible only with the Germans.

No Child Life Left in Germany.

"You understand we are driven to this," said the German Admiral, Mourer, to Admiral Beatty. "There is no child life left in Germany. All are dying of hunger. We ask you to accept the full crews instead of only half the personnel. We cannot feed them, and we dread more trouble."

Refused Request.

Admiral Beatty refused this request, whereupon the German commander produced a document for Beatty to sign, stipulating that the German crews would not be ill-treated.

"Tell them they are coming to England, that will be enough," Beatty replied, tearing up the document. Then followed the bloodless Trafalgar, in which the Allies' Grand Fleet received the submission of 13 German battleships and battle cruisers, six light cruisers and 49 destroyers, manned by 14,000 officers and men.

CUNARD LINE LOST 15 SHIPS DURING THE WAR

Canadian Press:

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. — Fifteen steamships aggregating 206,769 gross tons, were lost by the Cunard Line during the period of the war, it was learned here to-day. Nearly all of the Cunard Liners were well known as land greyhounds, the largest of which was the Lusitania, torpedoed on May 19, 1915. The Anchor Line, subsidiary of the same company, also lost heavily, eight ships, including the 14,340 ton Tuscania, falling victims to German sea depredations. The total tonnage loss of this line was 65,488.

King Albert In Brussels

Reviewed the Allied Troops, Which Formed a Line Ten Miles Long.

Canadian Press:

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23.—King Albert entered Brussels this morning at 10 o'clock. He was accompanied by Queen Elizabeth, Princess Leopold and Charles and Princess Marie Jose. The Royal party entered at Porte De Flanders and proceeded to the Place De La Nation, receiving a tremendous ovation along the streets. Entering the Parliament House, King Albert and his family listened to an address of welcome. Then followed a review of the Allied troops, which formed a line ten miles long. King Albert and his two sons were on horseback.

The return of King Albert to his capital recalls the King's prophesy in an interview with the Associated Press only a few months after the Belgians had been driven from their country.

"Your Majesty, it has been predicted that you will re-enter your capital within three months," the correspondent said.

"The King shook his head sadly, saying: "Not so soon, but some day I shall ride into Brussels at the head of the Belgian army."

CHAOTIC POLITICAL CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

WORKERS LEAN TO THE EXTREME SOCIALISTS.

LONDON, Nov. 23. — Chaotic political conditions in Germany are emphasized in the reports received here from Amsterdam and Copenhagen, purporting to reproduce direct telegrams from Germany. There is sharp divergence of opinion in regard to the make-up of the new Germany. There is a general lack of harmony in different parts of the country and a tendency towards separatism.

Bolshevik ideas are declared to be growing in the west, where the Rhenish republic is said to be planned. The Bremen Soldiers and Workers' Council at a meeting declared itself in complete accord with Bolshevism and r solved to call on the Bolsheviki in Russia to help introduce communism. The Spartacus group at Dusseldorff is reported t hav eproclaimed proletarian dictatorship and arrested the Burgomaster of the city. Dr. Karl Liebknecht, Radical Socialist, was acclaimed at a Spartacus meeting in Berlin which issued an appeal to workers to emulate the Russian Bolshevik. The meeting refused to listen to moderate Socialist speakers.

PRISONERS ILL TREATED

Many of the Returning British Prisoners Died on the Road—Left Camp in Droves.

HUNGER AND MISERY

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Pitiable conditions among the British prisoners of war who have been liberated by the Germans since the signing of the armistice are described by Reuter's correspondent at French Headquarters. Thousands of these men, mostly British, are entering France daily. The correspondent writes:

"I have never seen human beings in such state of raggedness, hunger and misery. When camps at Forbach, et, thirty-eight miles east of Metz, were broken up, those prisoners, some of whom were captured during the March offensive, were told to clear out. They started to walk 50 or 60 miles to the Allied lines, but were given no food and had no money. They were in shameful rags, the soles dropping off their boots.

"They left prison camps in droves of hundreds. Weather was very cold and many died by the roadside within a few miles from friends. When the survivors entered the French lines, French soldiers who, were hardened war heroes, were horrified to see men in such plight.

"It is not doubted that this suffering was intentionally imposed upon the British. Prisoners of other nationalities are agreed that the British were treated worse than others at all German camps."

The Allied Army of Occupation

Germany Territory Penetrated by the Advancing Armies.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 23. — Marshal Foch's Allied army of occupation continues with progress at all points. German territory has now been penetrated by columns of French, British and American armies. In Alsace-Lorraine, they are being welcomed with great celebrations in all centres, and in German territory the inhabitants show a tendency to regard the Allied occupation as welcome relief from the terrific strain to which they have been subjected. General Castelneu is scheduled to enter the German city of Strassburg to-morrow as Marshal of France.

Americans Advancing.

Special to the Examiner:

(By Webb Miller).

WITH THE AMERICANS ADVANCING TOWARD THE RHINE, Nov. 23. (10.50 a.m.).—The first and second divisions of the American Army are within a few miles of Prussian territory. If the advance continues at the present pace they will set foot in Germany before this evening.

Appeals Before Judge huycke

Four Appeals Against Judgment of Court of Revision.

The following is a list of appeals which will be heard on Tuesday, the third day of December, 1918, at 10.30 o'clock, before His Honour, Judge Huycke, from the Court of Revision of the City of Peterborough, and the grounds of complaint.

For a city of this size, it is a remarkably small number of appeals from the Court of Revision:

Quaker Oats Company, wrongly assessed for school purposes.

R. Sheehy, overcharged on land.

G. F. Smithson, wrongly charged for income.

ANXIOUS TO FEED THE FRONT LINE

Two Kinds of Rations in Use in Germany.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 23.—It is pointed out in connection with the appeal of Dr. W. S. Solf to the United States for food that there are two kinds of rations in use in Germany. That for the soldiers in the first lines has been much larger than that granted the rest of the nation. It is said that Dr. Solf appears anxious that the front line standard shall be maintained for the large body of troops returning from the front. This ration is considerably more generous than that to which the British people have been accustomed during the last four years.

WRONG WILL BE RIGHTED

President Wilson Will Insist That Schleswig-Holstein be Returned to Denmark.

FORMER POINTS

By Robert J. Bender
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23.—Freedom for Schleswig Holstein, wrested from Denmark by Germany in 1866, will be one of the specific demands of President Wilson at the peace table.

Answering the call of native Danes, both in Schleswig and in the United States, the President has assured these people that the wrong done them by Germany in 1866 shall be righted. The President's position was outlined in a letter, made public to-day, replying to a petition recently presented by American citizens from Schleswig Holstein and others of Danish descent. The petition said:

"Speak and speak soon, in order that those of our young people who are less fortunate than we may be granted the simple elementary rights of self determination and of self-government for the preservation of which we and our children are now working at home and fighting abroad."

The President directed his reply to Rev. K. C. Bodholdt of Racine, Wis., a native of Schleswig and a leader in the fight of the Danish-Americans.

The President's position on Schleswig Holstein was determined upon by him with this country's entrance into the war. About a year ago the United Press was authorized to state semi-officially that the President was committed to four fundamental positions in the west: Return of Alsace-Lorraine; destruction of the Kaiser's power; the freedom of Schleswig Holstein and the complete righting of the German wrong done Belgium and Northern France.

Italy's Tribute to the Allies

"Republicanism Has No Chance in Italy."

Special to The Examiner:

ROME, Nov. 23.—Premier Orlando, in an address before the Chamber of Deputies, paid a tribute to the Allies for assisting Italy in the hour of her greatest danger.

This aid, he said, has not a counterpart in history.

Orlando urged the necessity for discipline and the maintenance of social order.

Former Premier Salandra said that "republicanism as no chance in Italy."

Public Meeting Will be Called in Peterboro to Deal With Two Vital Questions

A Suitable Memorial for Peterboro Soldiers Who Have Died on Active Service and a Fitting Reception to Those Who Will Return.

COUNCIL MEETING

The question of a suitable memorial for Peterborough's heroes who have died in the service, and a fitting reception to the returning soldiers, was discussed at last night's meeting of the City Council.

Mayor Duncan in addressing the aldermen on this subject said:

There are a couple of subjects which I wish to bring to your attention which are closely related to each other. They are the reception of the returning soldiers and a memorial of the brave men from Peterborough who have fallen in the defence of the liberties of their country and of the world. A number of the soldiers have returned; and they have usually come a few at a time, sometimes one, and sometimes two to five or six. The Council has invariably had representatives meet these men when they had information as to the time they were expected to arrive, and they have been welcomed and taken to their homes. The Reception Committee has done good work in this way cheerfully and will be glad to continue to do so. But the soldiers will now be coming in larger numbers, and it seems to me that it would be well to have a larger and more general organization to prepare for this reception.

Public Meeting.

For this purpose I would suggest that a meeting be called to form such an organization—a public meeting at which the various patriotic societies which have done such excellent work in the past four years should be specially asked to be represented. We do not yet know, said the Mayor, whether our boys will come home in large units or in smaller ones, but adequate action should be taken for their fitting reception. It is natural that the Council, as the elected representatives of the people, should take the lead in this, but the public generally will be glad to have an opportunity to unite in the matter. The other subject of a memorial could be considered at the same meeting. Whatever form it will take it should be one worthy of the men we wish to honour—or as nearly worthy as we can make it. My own opinion is that a final decision in this matter should not be made until the rest of the soldiers are home, so that they may have a voice in deciding how their fallen comrades should be honoured and remembered. This should be considered at the suggested meeting. If you agree with the proposal to hold such a meeting I shall be pleased to call it if you so direct.

Meeting Authorized.

Alderman Edgar moved that the Mayor be authorized to call a public meeting to consider the formation of an organization to receive the returning soldiers and to consider a memorial for the soldiers who have fallen. The move was seconded and carried.

The Hunter Street Bridge.

The first reading of the by-law to construct a sewer on McDonnel street from Cambridge street to the Monaghan Road was lost.

Moved by Ald. M. McIntyre and seconded by Alderman Weir that a ramp 20 feet wide be placed on the south side of the high level bridge on Hunter street, west of the river. Referred to the Special Committee.

Present were: Mayor Duncan, Aldermen Saunders, Taylor, Dobbin, Edgar, Jones, Weir and M. McIntyre.

Boys Held a Social Meeting

Class Was Chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Middleton.

Last evening the boys of the "Anti-Can't" class of the George Street Methodist Church, all proceeded with their lady friends to the Empire Theatre. After the theatre closed they all united again at the Y.M.C.A. where the boys had prepared a repast in honour of one of their members, Gordon Lamb, who is leaving our city shortly. The president of the class, Mr. F. Doan, in a few well chosen words, expressed his regret at losing one of the boys who had been a great help to his class. Gordon expressed his regret on leaving the class, but said he had already made preparations to unite with a large class in the City of Toronto where he will reside. He also remarked that out of the six Normal boys this year, four of them had joined the class and another had taught in the Sunday School. Mr. Herman Hunter, chairman of the social committee, who presided for the evening, then called on Mr. Wooldridge, the president of the Normal School Literary Society, to give a few words which was done in a most fitting way. The boys appreciate very much the kindness of Mr. Roper in putting the Y.M.C.A. at their disposal. Dr. and Mrs. Middle chaperoned the class. The gathering dispersed after singing the National Anthem.

To Retrieve His Fortune

This is Reason Given by Secretary McAdoo for Resigning—Will Stand Pat.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Secretary McAdoo himself, and his closest friends stood pat to-day on his original declaration that he is leaving the treasury and railroad posts for just the reason he stated, and for that reason alone, to retrieve his fortune.

Resigning these two important posts, McAdoo declared late yesterday he needed to get back to private life to make sufficient money for family needs. He pointed out that his energy was drained, though his health was not actually broken.

PETERBORO VIOLINIST GAVE A RECITAL

Edwina Palmer, a promising young violinist, whose home is in Peterborough, Ont., gave a recital at the Toronto Conservatory of Music on Nov. 14, in which she made a distinctly favourable impression. Miss Palmer, who is a pupil of the distinguished violinist, Lina Adamson, showed a most efficient training, especially in her bowing, which was free and autheritative. Her technique is also excellent, and her fine temperamental gifts were apparent in the warmth of her ton. She game an excellent romantic rendering of the Wieniawski Concerto in D Minor, and also contributed a fine, broad rendering of Bach's Air on G string; in short numbers by Kreisler, Hubay and others. Among them was an interesting little romance by Dr. Healey Willan, whose wife made an efficient accompanist. In the Bach Concerto for two violins Miss Palmer had the assistance of another talented pupil of Miss Adamson's, Kathleen Reid.—Toronto Saturday Night.

LOCAL WORKERS ATTEND BANQUET

Complimentary Banquet to Victory Loan Workers.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, chairman of the Victory Loan Committee of this city, and Mr. V. Eastwood, vice-chairman, were in Toronto last evening attending a complimentary banquet given by the Ontario Executive Committee of the Victory Loan. Mr. G. H. Wood was chairman for the occasion. About two hundred and fifty Victory Loan workers were present from all parts of the Province. Canon Cody was one of the speakers. An idea of the work involved in the present loan is obtained in a comparison of the number of applications. For the 1917 Loan a total of 874,331 applications were received, and for the 1918 Loan 1,016,986 applications were received.

COMMERCIAL INTERCOURSE

Wide Difference of Conditions Among the Nations of the World Make Such a Scheme Impossible.

FAVOURS LEAGUE

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.— American manufacturers are heartily in favour of the proposed League of Nations for the prevention of future waste of life and property. But, according to President Stephen C. Mason of the National Association of Manufacturers, they do not believe it practical for the nations of the world to enter into any general agreement relative to commercial intercourse.

President Mason to-day explained that in the production of manufactured goods there is such a wide difference of conditions among the nations of the world that there "can be no practical method of equalizing such divergent interests" in the field of world trade.

SATURDAY, NOV. 23RD, 1918.

THE COAL SITUATION.

That there is still an imperative need for economy in the use of anthracite coal is the warning issued by Mr. E. L. Cousins, Associate Fuel Administrator for Ontario. In fact Mr. Cousins states that the people of the Province, to avoid a repetition of last year's scarcity and distress, must continue to exercise the utmost care. The warning should receive careful attention in Peterborough, for the citizens here seem to have got the idea that the danger of a shortage is over, and that there will be plenty of coal to meet every need. Such an impression would be decidedly dangerous if it leads to extravagance in the burning of anthracite. It is necessary to use substitute as far as possible, and the domestic consumer is urged to burn soft coal and the smaller sizes of anthracite. The Ontario Fuel Administrator makes the flat statement that this Province will not receive a sufficient quantity of anthracite to permit the same consumption as in other years, and this official message means that only economical use of the supply that comes in will avert a shortage.

A SPLENDID SHOWING.

No. 3 Military District, of which Peterborough forms a part, has every reason to feel proud of the showing it has made during the war in supplying men for Canada's army overseas. According to official returns, this district had, up to the 31st of October, secured a total of 64,128 men, a record that has been only beaten by three districts in Canada, the Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg districts being the onl ycentres to raise more recruits. The figures for the different districts are as follows:

No. 2, Toronto, 127,967; No. 10, Winnipeg, 73,413; No. 4, Montreal, 65,034; No. 3, Kingston, 64,128; No. 1, Victoria, 63,647; No. 1, London, 48,677; No. 13, Calgary, 44,677; No. 6, Halifax, 33,307; No. 7, St. John, 25,809; and No. 5, Quebec, 14,704.

In the raising of such a large body of men from a scattered district, with Ottawa as the biggest city, No. 3 district has made a record on which the people of Eastern Ontario may well feel gratified. And Peterborough can share in this gratification with a clear conscience, knowing that the men of this city responded to the call freely and that Peterborough's contribution to the grand total for No. 3 Disrict help materially in swelling the total.

CLOTHING ALLOWANCES.

The new arrangement in regard to clothing allowances for Canada's soldiers on their discharge will be welcome news to the men of the army. The allowance that was first granted to dischorged men was utterly inadequate, as it only amounted to $8.00 in the summer months and $18.00 during the winter, which was not enough to buy clothing for a South Sea Islander having consideration for the present prices. In April last the system was changed and a clothing allowance of $35.00 was made, but the order was laid down that before this could be paid, soldiers on being discharged must turn in their unoforms and great coats. The increase in the allowance was appreciated but returned men were reluctant to part with the uniform in which they had fought overseas and which they desired to keep in order that it be worn on special occasions, such as memorial services, veterans' church parades and similar events.

The latest order just promulgated does awa ywith this grievance as it permits the men with overseas service to keep all their military clothing and to receive a clothing allowance of $35.00. Men who have seen service in Canada only are allowed the same privilege provided they were issued with the outfits prior to July 1st, 1918.

There is one thing more the military authorities should do, and that is make the allowance retroactive. It is scarcely fair that men who have never been out of Canada should receive a clothing allowance of $35.00, while thousands of veterans who have returned from France have received only eight or thirteen dollars, according to whether they were discharged in summer or winter. It would be but simple justice to make the order apply to all men who have been discharged, so that the soldiers who received the meagre allowance first in vogue might be recompensed by being given the new rate.

THE BRITISH NAVY

(The Western British-American, Chicago.)

"British opinion is becoming acutely sensitive to the trend of the peace movement. This country and its Dominions have performed the lion's share of the work of winning the war. They cannot believe that this fact will be forgotten."

In these words Edward Price Bell, correspondent of the Chicago Daily news tells his paper of one phase of overseas Peace sentiment which we will do well to heed. As the great struggle approaches its finale, and the Hun's doom is no longer in doubt, the pioneer champions of Liberty, who bore the brunt of the ghastly conflict, and whose valor and sacrifice made certain Prussia's defeat, are in danger of being slighted by their benificiaries.

Uncle Sam's intervention hastened the end of the war beyond a shadow of a doubt. But the British Navy saved Civilization. The Yanks have worked military wonders on both sides of the Atlantic. But they were able to reach the firing line because Britannia paved the way for them with the blood of her sons and because for over four long years, her Iron-clad defenders of the faith have have been ceaselessly vigilent against a ruthless and remorseless foe.

The boss braggart of Christendom, William Randolph Hearst appears in his Chicago papers this week with another windy eulogy in which he credits Columbia with winning the war. This is the sort of boastful bunk that disgusts intelligent Americans. It also misrepresents us to our Allies. The rank and file of our citizens have brains enough to understand that, while our belated entrance into the war shortened it, the issue was decided by the British and French protectors of Right and Justice against whose bodies and souls German ferocity spent itself before we started.

When the Hun began to fight in 1914, his grand objective was not Paris or London, but New York and Chicago. What saved us from destruction and death, and our women from ravishment in these days of terrible crisis? The British Fleet! What made possible our methodical preparation for war and the training and transport of our troops to the battle front? The British Fleet! What kept watch day and night over the sacred principles for which we gladly gave our sons to duty that may mean death and in comparison with which our dollars seem but dross? The British Fleet!

Let us muzzle with outspoken contempt fatheads like Hearst, who, at this solemn hour, rush into print with cheap blarney about our military prowess, and let us remember and celebrate with thankful hearts the second savior of the world—the British fleet. Let Americans teach their children that, but for the Britich Navy the goddess of Bedloe's Island, whose ever-shining torch has beaconed the way to happiness for millions, might have been yanked from her pedestal by bloody hands and her light put out forever

"Getting down to brass tacks," is a famed American attitude. It means stripping realities to the bone, and stating wih Abe Lincoln-Ben Franklin bluntness outstanding facts.

Here is the outstanding fact of the greatest war in history:

The British Fleet won it!

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Nearly four hundred million people in Europe depend upon food imports to save them from starvation. Canada will have to supply a large amount of the food that is needed. And yet farmers are placed fourth in the list in the demobilization scheme announced by the Dominion Government.

It is not petty politics to plead for the early return to Canada of the men who have been fighting in France for years. Certainly not politics of the type that promised furloughs for the Canadians if they supported the Union Government.

"They never come back," but King Albert of Belgium has proved there are exceptions even to this famous old sporting adage.

"Let us always remember that, but for the British sailors and the French army, Germany to-day would rule the world, and we should be slaves."—New York Sun.

The weather man is reminding us that we will likely need some coal after all.

Now that the Kaiser is reported to be suffering from infiuenza the world will be able to find some good in the "flu" after al.

Wonler how the German navy liked "Der Tag?"

It was fitting that the most dramatic surrender of the war should take place on the high seas.

Peterboro people who read and enjoyed "Kitchener's Mob," will be glad to hear that its author, Capt. James Norman Hall was among the released prisoners who have reached Paris.

Cadets who have finished their training in the Royal Air Force are to be discharged without commission or without receiving any clothing allowance, says a Toronto report. There s not much justice in such a course.

Motorists who loyally obeyed the gasless Sunday request will be grateful to hear Lord Curzon's statement that the allied cause floated to victory on a wave of oil, meaning the great fleets of motor trucks used had been responsible for the military successes scored.

The problem of what to do with the defaulters has been solved by the Government. By removing the restriction at border, Ottawa has made it easy for the shirkers to follow the famous advice of a Conservative politician and "Skiddadle to the United States."

Toronto Fat Stock Show

All stock raisers and others interested should not fail to attend the Toronto Fat Stock Show which takes place at the Union Stock Yards, West Toronto, on Thursday and Friday, December 5th and 6th. See advertisement in our business columns. This show has been held annually for some years, improving with each year. The Stock Yard management have spared neither time nor expense to make this show the very best in the Dominion of Canada. The entries this year are larger than usual, and many fine specimens of cattle will be shown.

A little vinegar added to the water in which bacon or ham is boiled improves the flavour.

Nothing Like Internal Bathing for Constipation

If people only knew what Internal Bathing is doing for thousands of others there would be fewer Pills and Laxatives swallowed and very much less suffering from Constipation and the accompanying Stomach and Nervous troubles resulting from it.

Mrs. C. G. M. of Strathroy, Ont., writes: "I am pleased to have this opportunity of testifying to the merits of the "J. B. L. Cascade." I have been using it now for a year with satisfactory results. I am an old woman, but my health is so improved that I have a renewed lease of life. You are at liberty to give my address to anyone privately who may desire to write to me regarding the Cascade."

By the proper application of nature's cure, warm water, by means of the "J. B. L. Cascade," the lower intestines are kept free from all poisonous waste. Drugs force Nature. Internal Bathing assists her.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, a specialist on Internal Bathing, invented and perfected the "J. B. L. Cascade," which has done more during the past 20 years in restoring health and lessening disease than all other means combined. Ask Warne Drug Co., Peterborough, for Booklet, "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 per cent. Efficient." They will also be pleased to show and explain the J. B. L. Cascade to you.

Mass Meeting Sunday Evening

Addresses Will Be in Interests of Social Service

Dr. Gilbert Agar, B.A., General Secretary of the Social Service Council of Ontario and Rev. J. P. Shearer D. D. of Toronto, a member of the executive will speak in Peterboro tomorrow. Their theme will be the aims and objects of the Social Service Council showing the work that it has accomplished. The Council is a federation of churches and other province-wide bodies for united and co-operative efforts for the social betterment of mankind.

Among its successes Social Service Council counts the abolishment of the party patronage system, ameliorating the conditions of the toilers, a large share in the suppression of the traffic in strong drink, the censoring of moving picture shows in all the provinces and secured many amendments to the Criminal Code.

At 8:30 Sunday evening a mass meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. in the interest of the work.

Will Cost More to Collect City's Garbage This Year

An Increase of Twenty-five Per Cent.—Meeting of Property Committee.

The city will pay $9,650 for the collection of garbage for the coming year. Messrs. Mitchell and Turner, who obtained the contract last year, asked $9,700, but at last consented to accept $9,650 making a reduction of $50 in the new area in East City. This year's garbage area has been considerably increased. A new area has been added in the North Ward in the vicinity of Barnardo avenue, and also, a new one in East City, from Roger to Concession streets, including some twenty houses.

BIG INCREASE.

Seventy-five hundred dollars was the successful tender last year, but $9,300, or an increase of $1,800, or 25 per cent., for the same area, was obtained this year.

The north ward area will cost $250 and the East City area $100.

"I've never heard a kick about their work," commented Ald. Saunders at a meeting of the Property Committee last evening.

Mr. John Mitchell was present and showed clearly the reason for the increase, and would not think of $9,000, suggested by the Mayor.

Ald. Jones moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that the tender of $9,650 be accepted.—Passed.

"When is the city going to take down the Victory Loan Flag?" asked Ald. Jones.

"The full returns are not yet all in," explained the Mayor.

"We might have a crown on it yet," said the City Clerk, smiling.

Sad Circumstances Surround the Death of Mr. and Mrs. L. Wood Couple Moved to Peterboro a Few Days Before the Outbreak of Influenza—Two Local Societies Look After the Burial of the Mother and Prevented the Body From Being Sent to the Medical College.

A few weeks ago William Laurin Wood, a munition worker, his wife and three little children moved to Peterborough, where the father had obtained work. Full of hope of providing for his little family from the wages he was to earn at the Henry Hope Munition Factory, he rented a comfortable but unpretentious furnished home at Brownton, and went happily to his work. Just about that time, October 16th, Spanish influenza began to rage in the city, and Mrs. Wood contracted the disease. In three days her husband also became ill from the same disease.

Guaranteed Expenses.

Unconscious, the mother could do nothing for her husband or report the case. When at last it was discovered Mr. Wood was advised to go at once to the hospital. This he protested against. Not having any reserve fund he did not wish to run up expenses. The factory for which he had worked for the three days came forward and guaranteed his hospital fees, and he was at once removed, but being beyond medical aid, he died on October 25th.

A Quandary.

A quandary faced the authorities, as the wife being unconscious and the children too young to give any information, no trace could be found of where the family came from or who the relatives were. Search amongst his clothes at last revealed his marriage certificate, and his home town, St. Pierre, was communicated with. Shortly after the body was shipped to his people.

Mrs. Wood Dies.

Meanwhile Mrs. Wood's condition took a more serious turn in the hospital, to which she had been removed, and her parents came to take the children in case of her death, which occurred last week. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rohrs, who were unable to pay for the funeral expenses, left the body and returned to Eachine, with the three little orphan children.

The Law.

The law provides that the unclaimed body of any patient dying in an institution which obtains funds from the Government may be handed over to the Medical School.

Two Societies.

Days passed and, still unclaimed, the woman's body lay in a local undertaker's establishment, ready for shipping to Toronto if provision was not made otherwise. Two societies in the city, the Business Girls' Club and Peter Robinson Chapter, I. O. D. E., hearing of the case, came forward and guaranteed the cost of burying the body and a fitting interment was made with no publicity for the humane act done by the two societies, but a paper bearing evidence of the Christian burial was sent to inform Mrs. Wood's family of the final disposition of the body.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

2,295,000 POUNDS OF CHEESE PRODUCED HERE THIS SEASON

Estimated Value of the Output of the Factories on the Local Board is Placed at $516,375—Prices Made New Record.

"CO-BOSS" WAS NO SLACKER

The value of the cheese industry this year to the patrons of the factories represented on the Peterborough Cheese Board has been estimated at $516,375. An approximation of this season's production has been placed by Mr. G. A. Gillespie at 27,000 boxes which at an average of 85 pounds a box, means a total of 2,295,000 pounds. Sixteen factories boarded their cheese and several made their own arrangements of sale, but the above figures indicate the importance and value of the cheese branch of the dairy industry to Peterborough county. To secure complete figures of the milk yield in all the townships would be almost impossible. A large quantity is consumed in the city and neighbouring communities, shipments of cream to Toronto are heavy, butter-making requires a constant and copious supply and the Peterborough Milk Products Company diverts a considerable stream to its condensing plant. This demand for milk indicates the extent to which the "little red cow," or is it the black and white one now, has contributed to the supplying of essential fats and other food for the people at home and overseas, including the soldiers, during the past year. Practically all of the 2,295,000 pounds of cheese from Peterborough's sixteen factories were for export, and although shipping facilities were greatly restricted during the summer the congestion in the port warehouses has been steadily relieved. It is unnecessary to point out that the dairy cow has been a valuable factor in the provisioning of the soldiers, and though it will not be mentioned in despatches it must be recognized as an important link in the forces behind the lines. In this respect the co-operation of the farmer is revealed in its true light, and should be viewed not from the half million dollars that flowed back to Peterborough farms, but from the two million pounds of cheese that were produced from this county alone.

With the untrammeled shipments overseas since the signing of the armistice, it is likely that the supplies for Europe will be quickly delivered, leaving a small stock for Canadian consumption.

Prices Were Encouraging.

The 1918 prices will be remembered as having set up a new high record. At the first meeting on May 23rd the entire Board was cleaned at 22 7-16 cents. Until August 21st the remainder varied at 23 1-4 cents, and on that day dropped to 22 1-8c. The next quotation was 22 1-2 cents, but on October 1st the cheese commission advanced their maximum to 25 cents and the local Board saw 24 9-16 cents reached. The top price for the year was reached on November 6th when 25 3-4 cents was paid for urgent local orders by a Montreal house.

What of Next Year?

The prospect for next summer is regarded with confidence by those men who are in closest touch with the food requirements of the world. They apparently have no doubt but that the 1919 conditions will be entirely favourable. Mr. Herbert Hoover, the United States Food Controller, said recently:

"I doubt whether to-day the dairy production of Europe as a whole is 30 per cent. of the pre-war normal. After the war Europe must restock her diminished herds. She must look to America for a sufficient supply of dairy cattle to restore her normal percentage."

A writer in Farm and Dairy points out that this demand will strengthen the prices of American cattle, and it should follow that until the dairy industry is re-established in Europe the price of Canadian cheese will be maintained, if not at the level of this year, at least on a basis that should continue to be attractively profitable.

THE AFTER EFFECTS OF DREADED LA GRIPPE

Worse Than the Disease Itself—Victims Left Weak, Nervous and Worn Out.

La Grippe, or Spanish influenza as the epidemic now sweeping over all America is called, is one of the most dangerous diseases known to mankind. Anyone who has felt its pangs is not likely to forget the trouble. La Grippe, or influenza, starts with a slight cold and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the victim on his back, it tortures him with fevers and chills, headaches and backaches. It leaves him a prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, consumption and other deadly diseases. Its after effects are often more serious than the disease itself. It is quite possible to avoid la grippe by keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—a tonic medicine which enriches the blood and strengthens the nerves. If, however, the disease attacks you, the patient should at once go to bed, and call a doctor before complications set in. That is the only safe thing to do. But to recover your strength after the severity of the attack has passed, you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an unsurpassed tonic. Through the use of this medicine, all the evil after effects of this trouble will be banished. This has been proved in thousands of cases throughout Canada where in previous seasons la grippe has attacked them. Among the many thus restored to full health is Miss Irene Bootes, Portsmouth, Ont., who says:—I take much pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because I have proved their worth in my own case. Last winter I had a severe attack of la grippe and it left me weak and all run down. I had severe pains in the chest and under the arms, palpitation of the heart and attacks of neuralgia which left me with the feeling that life was scarcely worth living. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began their use only on the principle that I would try anything that would better my condition. I had only been using the pills a couple of weeks when the pains began to leave me. Gradually my strength returned, my appetite improved and in a little more than a month I felt all my old time vigor had returned. I am sincerely glad I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I shall always have a good word to say for them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only cure the disastrous after effects of la grippe, but are also a specific for all troubles due to poor blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, women's ailments, and the generally worn out feeling that effects so many people. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Tenders for the Firemen's Coats

Overcoats to Last Four Years Cost Nearly Forty Dollars Each.

The following clothing firms sent tenders for firemen's overcoats, accompanied by samples of the cloth:

H. LeBrun & Co., $39.50 each.

Merrell & Meredith, $37.00 1st grade, $35.00 2nd grade, $33.00 3rd grade; $30.00 4th grade.

Frank L. Jenne, $36.00; $38.00 with tweed lining.

Ald. Weir moved that the matter of selection be left to the chairman of the Board and the Chief of the Fire Brigade to decide. This was seconded by Ald. Jones and carried.

The coats are to last 4 years. The estimates allowed only for $34 a coat.

The coal situation was thoroughly discussed and seemed at present to be in a fair condition, although the citizens are very slow in placing orders with the City Treasurer.

POTATO DEALERS FACE A LOSS BY SHARP DECLINE IN PRICES

Huge Canadian Crop Pushes the Bottom Out of the Market—Prices Have Fallen From $2 a Bag to Nearly $1.50 and Weakness Prevails.

CONSUMERS CAUGHT, TOO

The potato market has been heavily depressed by the recent announcement of an immense surplus crop with an exportable oversupply of 28,000,000 bushels. The immediate effect has been a sharp drop in price from $2.00 to $1.50 a bag. It is common knowledge that many dealers and householders put in their supplies at the top price, and while the consumers are not actually losing by their forehanded action, dealers find little hope of escaping a rather serious loss. Quotations are already down to $1.65, and there has been some mention of $1.50 with a weakness pervading the entire market. The Canadian crop has been a huge one, and it is evident that the war gardeners have done their bit in this splendid production. Eastern and western jobbers report heavy supplies. At the same time there is every prospect of a big foreign demand of foodstuffs, including potatoes, but this may not have an appreciable or an immediate effect on local prices. Across the border prices have held more steadily. The Canadian public will be assured of fairly cheap potatoes this winter, according to the present outlook.

PETERBORO DAIRY MEETING ON DEC. 11TH IN LAKEFIELD

The annual meeting of the Peterborough County section of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association will be held in Lakefield on Wednesday, December 11th, at 7.30 p.m. Mr. G. A. Gillespie will preside. Inspector Ward will present his report, and Mr. G. G. Publow will address the dairymen on questions of first importance to their industry. The programme will include a series of motion pictures, showing the latest methods employed in dairying and other features that will be of general interest. A large attendance is requested. The meeting will appoint a representative to the Eastern Association.

MILK
Both Food and Drink

Milk is not merely a delicious beverage. It's a food.

Nature combines in milk all the food elements your body needs. Some produce bone and muscle. Some rebuild it. And some create energy. And they are carefully balanced. So that you get the right proportions.

Professor Rosenau of Harvard says you would have to buy and prepare ¼ pound of beef, or 8 eggs, or 2 pounds of chicken or codfish, to get the nourishment contained in a single quart of milk.

Milk is a concentrated food, you see.

EAT LESS—DRINK MORE MILK

Fresh milk is the ideal food for men and women who work with muscle or with brain—people who are doers. Milk drinkers are always temperate.

Milk drinkers seldom over-eat. They keep their bodies in fine physical trim. Their efficiency is 100 per cent. every day. They are ready for emergencies.

Then heed the advice of great food specialists. Dr. J. H. Kellogg says: "Most people will find that they can reduce their daily rations by one-third, sometimes one-half, without any inconvenience whatever."

FOR YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE

For the growing child, for the young man and woman, and for the maturer years, milk is a needed food.

Drink it slowly—eat it. That insures complete digestion. Consider milk in the place of the heavier, slowly digestible foods. Begin to-day to drink more milk. Teach every member of the family to know its value.

Vim depends on Victuals. PASTEURIZED MILK is the only Safe and Pure Milk. Clarified first, then Pasteurized. Clean, every drop, from the

LEMONS AND ORANGES DROP TO OLD LEVEL

The fruit trade has reflected the passing of the war cloud by lower prices for both oranges and lemons. Oranges are now on a retail basis of from 30 to 60 cents a dozen, and lemons are selling at 50 and 60 cents a dozen. The Florida oranges are said to be of fine quality, and it is expected that the demand will develop to normal proportions.

THE WEATHER

A sharp cold breeze from the north this morning, and with the thermometer standing in the neighborhood of 20 degrees, gave warning to prepare for the winter ahead of us. This was the lowest figure this fall, and the first time the ground has been frozen hard. The fall has been an open one, and even at the present time conditions are as yet comparatively mild throughout the northwest where winter usually sets in ten days to two weeks ahead of this section of Ontario.—W.P.

Lance Corp. A. MacNab Celebrated the Third Anniversary of His Arrival on Western Front

Peterboro Soldier Finds Life Very Interesting in a Fine French Home.

HUN PRISONERS

Following are some extracts from a letter from Lance-Corp. Alan MacNab of Canadian Corps Cyclist Battalion, who on Sept. 15th last, celebrated his third anniversary of arrival in France

The Cyclists were detained to keep in touch with the retreating Germans and post the advancing Canadians as to the movements of the Huns. Therefore, they were the first to enter the towns which had been occupied by the Hun Soldiery for four years. The feelings of the French people in these liberated towns, at the sight of the British soldiers, which meant liberty for them, can be more readily understood, when we remember how the dignified people of Peterborough cut loose on the day the armistice was signed.

"As soon as Heinie began his retreat on our front, our unit was called upon to furnish patrols, to follow him up, and keep in touch. Well you cannot imagine the reception we received from the French people as we progressed into the territory occupied by the Hun for so long. In every town they nearly went crazy with joy at being free once again, and as we were the first troops into most of the places, we got the cream of everything that was going.

LANCE-CORP. ALAN MACNAB.

"As we approached the town of S——, we saw some civilians, who ran into their houses when they saw us. As we were passing the first few houses, we could observe them peeking from their doors and windows. Soon they recognized that we were not Huns, but British soldiers, for they rushed out of doors in a wild mob, yelling "Soldat Anglaise" over and over again. They literally dragged us from our wheels, and everyone able to get near us was licking our faces, and jabbering like wild things. Then they brought out bread,—tins of condensed milk, glasses, coffee, wine, etc. and would listen to no refusal to eat and drink with them. It was next to impossible to continue the patrol, for we would no sooner break away from one crowd, before we were the centre of another, who wished to repeat the dose. They were laughing, yelling, singing, and crying, all at the same time, and believe me it was some row. We could hardly keep from crying ourselves.

WELL SCARED

But the huns had them well scared. At one time while we were so surrounded, we suddenly found ourselves deserted by the mob in a twinkling. Everyone of them had dodged indoors on the double. Looking around for the cause, we saw a lone Heinie coming along the street. We immediately grabbed him, but he was unarmed. He had dropped behind the retreating Huns, and had been waiting a chance to give himself up. He was a native of Alsace-Lorraine, and had been forced into the Germany army.

At the far side of this town Heinie camped for the night and as that left us free until the infantry got him on the move again, we went back to find quarters. Well, now, talk about your good times, we surely had one "tres bon" time that night. We were given the best beds in the houses, and the people were quarreling over over who should have the pleasure of our company. Wines and champagnes were produced from all sorts of hidden places where they had hidden it four long years ago. To refuse their hospitality was to insult them, and and we would have been huns not to rejoice with them. Flags were found in secret nooks, and the town was soon in holiday dress. Early the next morning we were off on patrol again. As we were leaving the town we met a party of Hun prisoners under an escort. In front of them was a mob of some 300 French children, waving flags, and singing "La Marseillaise" at the top of their voices. On both sides of the street the older people crowded upon the escort, trying to lay violent hands upon the hated enemy. they called them everything from snakes down, and besought the escort to use their bayonets on them right there.

We are now back in rest in a town where there are many civilians—one of the newly captured places. Our experiences are similar to those of our first day out. the best is none too good. We are all billeted n good houses, and given the best beds. You will understand why I put the emphasis on the beds. After more than three years close companionship with mother earth in all her moods—nuff said. I am billeted in a fine home Monsieur is about 45, Madame about 27, but looks younger. A case of May and December, eh—they treat us splendidly. We are not allowed to do anything. Our mess tins are put in shining condition for us. We go down street, and on our return Madame has a cup of steaming coffee ready. We have our army rations, but we must sit with them and share their meals, so we pool the whole and enjoy all together. So, between the army and our civilian friends we are faring very well.

I find that Capt. R. J. Tait's battalion is also quartered in this town and I will look him up first chance. Two days ago I met "Davie" Lawrence of Brooklin and Sergeant Beynon of Toronto. Both are fine and fit. Later, to-day, I persuaded mine host to allow me to beat a carpet. These folke seem to be fairly well fixed for this world's gear. Managed to hide most of their 'stuff' from Heinie. They have a suit case nearly full of bank notes and a sack of gold as well.

ITALY DID SOME PALMERING TOO

(By United Press.)

ROME, Nov. 23.—Up to the time of the signing of the armistice over 900 properties belonging to enemy subjects had been sequestered in Italy by the government.

Total value of these was estimated at $100,000,000. In addition, jewels and other personal valuables were sequestered to the extent of $250,000,000. These figures do not include stocks and bonds or current funds left by enemy subjects in safety deposit vaults in the banks of Italy. The directors of these banks assumed the responsibility of seeing to it that safety deposit boxes of enemy aliens were not opened except by the Italian authorities. It is estimated that property, stocks, bonds, jewels, and personal effects belonging to enemy subjects in Italy totalled one billion dollars.

ALL IN ONE CENTURY!

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(By Mail).—Should women be whipped?

Just a century ago wiseacres, politicians and noble lords of Great Britain were debating the point. It was quite a new idea to worry about what was happening to women, but after some discussion it was decided that they ought not to be whipped—that the best way to handle them was on the "gentle-but-firm" methods—and in 1820 the wiseacres, politicians and noble lords passed a bill known as the whipping act, prohibiting the corporal punishment of women.

Having made this exertion on women's behalf they returned to the discussion of things which interested them.

Fifty years passed. The seed which had been planted in 1820 began to take root in 1870, and the question of special legislation for women again bobbed up. This time an act was passed allowing women to be possessors of their own property—a magnanimous document known as the married women's property act.

Those two acts, small in themselves, were of great portent to women. They were the first admission that women had any rights or legal status.

In the last 50 years women have come to the foreground in leaps and bounds. By the interpretation act of 1889 the government went so far as to allow that "words in any act of parliament passed after 1850 imputing the masculine gender shall include females unless the contrary intention appears.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLES

Take a Glass of Salts Before Breakfast If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

EBBA ANDRUS—As "Frivolity," in "Experience," the big production at The Grand next week with a company of 82 people.

The "most wonderful play in America, "Experience," is now booked for an engagement of two days, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29 and 30, with matinee Saturday at 2.30, at The Grand, where it will be presented under the management of Messrs. William Elliott, F. Ray Comsock and Morris Gest. This is the fifth consecutive season for George V. Hobart's modern morality play as its success throughout the country has been phenomenal, having scored a record second to none known to the theatrical history of a generation.

The play teaches in one short evening the lesson that it takes so many a lifetime to learn, depicting as it does the temptations confronting "Youth"—or the modern young man of to-day who seeks fame and fortune in the great city. The production is brilliant and magnificent, in ten scenes, each one showing some different phase of the adventures of Youth. The Primrose Path is a brilliant cabaret and restaurant scene, where forty stunning young women are gowned in the latest creations from Paris. They present a dazzling scene in their low-cut gowns, and jeweled bare necks and arms.

Some of the noteworthy players who will be seen here are Raymond Van Sickle in the role of Youth, Marie Hone as Pleasure, Frazer Coulter as Wealth, Dorothy Newell as Passion, Duncan Penwardin as Experience, Dodo Bernard as Frivolity, Marion Holcombe as Opportunity, Ebba Andrus as Excitement, May McManus as Intoxication, Peggy O'Keefe as Beauty, Harry J. Lane as Poverty, Billy Betts as Grouch and many others. Incidental music adds charm to the piece and indeed the producers have endeavoured in every way to make this fifth year of the famous morality drama, a banner year indeed.

MOSSOM KILLABY FINDS TWO MORE HUMAN SKULLS

It will be remembered that a year ago, Mossom Killaby found a skull on his farm, Lot 5, Con. 13, Verulam, which is on display in the museum in Toronto.

On Tuesday evening, while plowing, Mossom turned up two more skulls, which were in perfect condition, and it is doubtful if they had been buried more than two feet deep, on a blow sand knoll, face down.

The teeth were intact and in perfect condition. Indications point to battle having been fought there before the white men invaded this district. — Bobcaygeon Independent.

Reception to Rev. F. E. Malott Pastor of Trinity Methodist Church

Mr. G. N. Gordon Was Chairman for the Occasion—Work of the Ladies' Aid Society.

If the saying that "coming events cast their shadows before" still holds good, Reverend and Mrs. F. E. Malott are bound to reach and even exceed the popularity gained by their predecessors, at the Trinity Methodist Church. This was indicated last evening at the formal reception tendered to the new pastor and his wife in Reid Street Sunday School Hall by the Ladies Aid. Practically all the large congregation and many from other churches came in to greet the new comers. Reverend and Mrs. Malott and Miss Malott received in front of the gaily decorated platform which was most made attractive with large Union Jacks and palms. Mr. R. P. Downey acted as master of ceremonies for the evening.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

An address was given by Mr. G. N. Gordon who acted as chairman and extended the welcome of the congregation to the Reverend Mr. Malott and his family.

He then called upon the ladies to come forward and give an account of how each raised her $5 towards the extra liability they have undertaken lately, that of redecorating the parsonage and providing the seats for the new church.

PICKPOCKETS AND BLACK MAGIC.

Whether it was the influence of the chairman who generally succeeds in making the guilty own up is not certain but some starling crimes were admitted by the ladies as to the way each made their $5.

Mrs. Cruikshank came by the money she dropepd into the jar honestly by painting pictures. Miss Mather made hats, Mrs. Mann picked berries, Mrs. R. F. Downey supplied at school teaching, Mrs. Jack Miller declared her method was a secret between her husband and herself, Mrs. Lyall grew and sold potatoes, Mrs. W. Green saved hired help expenses by carrying a cord of Maple Nuggets to the cellar and Mrs. Lillicoe grew and sold strawberries. Ignoring the honest efforts told of by these ladies, Mrs. Kidd made the bold confession she picked her husband's pockets, while Mrs. F. C. Neal confessed to using black magic—telling fortunes. Other equally effective efforts were told of by Mrs. Seton who taught scientific cooking, Mrs. Parker who sewed and knit and Mrs. J. J. McBain and Mrs. Jamieson and Mrs. Bugg who gave a tea. The rest of the ladies handed in their subscriptions without explanation. Mr. Soden advised the ladies that as they now have the vote to raise the old price from $2 to $10 and earn money easily. At the finish a total of $210 was found in the jar.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME

A splendid musical programme contributed to by Mr. Geo. King and Mrs. Cruikshank, a piano duet; Miss Mather, reading, Miss Young, solo; Mr. Soden reading; Miss Eva Waugh solo; was given after which Mr. Malott thanked the congregation for their kind reception and told of his appreciation of the Ladies Aid and the Church Board.

Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening by the Ladies Aid.

Enough New York Men in Army For 52 Mile War Front

Drafted Forces So Large They Could Have Taken Over Lines Held by General Pershing.

NEW YORK.—Testifying to New York State's loyalty and the results achieved through the selective draft, Lieutenant-Colonel Roscoe S. Conkling, of Provost Marshal General Crowder's staff, told several hundred enthusiastic members of local draft boards at a meeting here in the Bar Association, that sufficient soldiers were inducted through this system to take over the entire front of fifty-two miles held by American troops in France when the armistice was signed and have a reserve line of thirty-one miles.

"New York State alone furnished through induction 239,036 men, exclusive of those who enlisted in the regular army and the troops of the National Guard. This was approximately nine per cent. of the total army collected by the United States, and represented eight and one-half divisions of fighting men," said Col. Conkling.

"In our computations, which allow one man to a yard, which is the prevailing open order of the army, the New York State selective service troops provided a double line fifty-two miles long, which was the area held by General Pershing's forces on the French front, and had sufficient men left to guard a single line thirty-one miles long. Behind that we could have had the National Guard from this State, and the men who enlisted in the regular army.

NO WONDER THE HUNS TOOK LEAVES IN HASTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Bavarian school children are employed in the collection of leaf-hay, according to German newspapers reaching here. They are told the importance of the work, which is to supply food for army horses.

Voice of the People

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—I see in Thursday's Examiner that Ald. McIntyre and some other councillors are opposed to coal being supplied to the people of Brownton and Claraday, although these people have always obtained their supply in Peterborough. Most of these people are working men in the city, their wages are spent in the city, yet because the boundary road is between them and the coal supply, they must be refused it. Now on Thursday morning one of the local dealers' motor trucks, loaded to capacity, was delivered to the residence of Crown Attorney Hatton in the same township. Why should not the rest of the township have the same privilege?

E. Butler.

VOLUNTEERS SHOULD BE FIRST HOME

November 21, 1918

To the Editor of the Examiner,

I was somewhat disappointed to read in the paper about the soldiers who were to be returned first. Just fancy, the men who volunteered and have been three years or more in that hell out there have to stay there while the conscripts who have just gone over to England and have had a week or two's good time are to be returned. When they get back here, naturally I suppose, they will all have a chance for the best jobs. What chance will the poor devils have who volunteered and have been there from the start? I guess they will be offered jobs on farms. Just fancy, after being out there living like rabbits in holes in the ground asking a man to go on a farm. Some men may like it, but I don't think the majority will. I wonder how some of these A1 men who have been making munitions (and five to eight dollars a day) would like to do a little farming I have heard some of these men even boast of making five dollars a night and have slept pretty near all the time and here's poor Tommy been out in France dodging bullets and shells for one dollar and ten cents per day. Wonderful isn't it? It was just the same when I was over there. The more times you were hurt the more trips you got up the line. You see the old soldier did not take so much learning as the green one. But believe me some of them kept green and are green yet. When I was out there about a year ago we were told that if we voted Unionist (for conscription) and conscription passed the majority of Canadians would be released at the earliest opportunity and the conscripts would fill their places. Now it looks like it doesn't it? Of course there were lots of boys who volunteered but were under age and of course later came under conscription. I admire these boys and wish them the best of luck.

Yours,
"CASUALTY."

POLICE DUTY WON'T BE BAD WITH GOOD SMOKES.

THE BOBCAYGEON ROAD.

The government has recently commenced the construction of a colonization road, extending in a northerly direction from Bobcaygeon to Bell's Line, upon which free grants of land of one hundred acres each are given to actual settlers. At the first a very strong prejudice existed against the work, the country being regarded as utterly useless for agricultural purposes; but actual experience has changed the tone of public sentiment and now settlement is taking place very rapidly, lots being staked off for occupation five and ten miles in advance of the surveyors, even as far as Bell's line, 45 miles from the village of Bobcaygeon. A great number of new townships have been laid out, which by an Act of the present Parliament have been united to the Counties of Victoria, Peterboro and North Hastings.

The following is an extract from the report of M. Deane, Esq., a Provincial Land Surveyor, regarding the northern boundaries of Galway, Cavendish and Anstruther, the first of the new townships united to the County of Peterboro:

"The line generally would afford a tolerable route for a road, and though the country is interspersed with small lakes, only five occur on the line.

"The whole route is through the granite region, and from indications in the rocks, the redness of the soil, and the extraordinary fluctuations of the needle, I am of the opinion that there is abundance of iron ore in many places on the line.

"As a lumbering country, its resources are very limited, the pine generally is of an inferior quality, and none seen fit for merchantable timber."

The class of settlers that are taking up lots are such as to justify a hope of the rapid development of the resources of these hitherto unproductive townships. Young farmers and intelligent mechanics are taking up lots, determined to carve out for themselves a home and independence. They are well accustomed to the country and commence their work with full knowledge of the difficulties and privations incident to the life of the first settlers in the back woods. Although the lands have only been opened for nine months no less than 200 persons have already take up lots and commenced or are about to commence their settlement duties. Lots are located as far as No. 28 in Anson, a distance of 18 miles beyond the woods, and 37 miles from Bobcaygeon, while those in the rear of the free grants are being rapidly taken up, even before they are surveyed. In Galway alone about 40 free grants have been made; and about 100 applications have been made to purchase lots in rear of the free grants, so soon as the government regulations are issued. This region will become directly tributary to the advancement of the town of Peterboro, and promises greatly to enhance its prosperity."

Work Held Up by the War Faces the Council of 1919

Some of the Problems That Call for Attention in the New Year and These Simply Indicate the Opportunity to Bring Peterboro to the Fore.

IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED

An early effect of the reversion to the system of electing Aldermen by general vote is an outcropping of interest that is unusual in comparison with the public apathy that prefaced the elections of recent year. There are indications that this activity may materialize into real action, giving the January elections a warmth that may thrust a new and blinking Council into the frosts of midwinter to take hold of a municipal machine that has its work all piled up beside it and ready for the whistle to blow.

In short, the 1919 Council can go as far as it likes. Its opportunities are almost unlimited, and whoever the successful candidates may be, they might as well prepare themselves for heavy demands on their time. In fact, if they accept a programme that could be readily mapped out on the basis of the spirit of reconstruction that is abroad, apart from the cold fare that will be left over by the old Council, they might first of all turn the face of the Council clock to the wall and forget the dance of the hours.

Next year's Council, whether it is brand new or not, will be relieved of the Patriotic Fund, whose credit is sufficient to meet all the requirements of soldiers' dependents until March, when the Government takes over this obligation the public assumed as a sacred trust at the outbreak of the war. But there is every likelihood that the soldiers will be returned in large numbers as the new year reaches into its months, and Peterborough will gladly receive many of its own lads again. While the Government is engaged with the general problem of re-employing these home-coming heroes, Peterborough's Council has taken the initiative in a local effort of co-operation that these men may find every facility of resuming former occupations or other work for which they are fitted. By this venture, the Council's committee and representatives of the Board of Trade, War Veterans' Association and manufacturers may devise a scheme that will be helpful to the returning men and beneficial to the city. This is a new problem that might be turned into quite a success if to the needs of the retiring soldiers is given the same energy and solicitude that has been displayed in the campaigns to provide them with the sinews of the war they fought to victory. For the present it is sufficient to indicate the importance of this movement which, if properly directed, should anticipate the problem, that is giving governments so much concern.

The three-fold and closely related problems of light, power and transportation should be no longer toyed with. The general question of Peterborough's power resources is in itself one of the most important questions the Council could take hold of. Peterborough adopted the Hydro-Electric scheme with great expectations of electrical development from which it would gain enriching advantages, but there is scarcely a citizen who will deny that he has been completely disillusioned. With power going to waste at Peterborough's doors, the needs of this community were so neglected that only after Mr. R. R. Hall's letters published in the Examiner last summer, demanding that the Commission give this city at least a portion of the service to which it was entitled, did the Commission condescend to announce that they had under preparation plans for a new dam at Campbellford. However, this is matter too important to be thus dismissed, and the presentation it deserves is beyond the aim of these comments.

In brief, associated utilities of power, light and transportation provide for next year's Council a question that challenges their closest attention and likewise a tenacity of purpose that the appellation of "The Electric City" is not to become a mere joke.

When the Hunter Street bridge passes into a contractor's hands the Council's chief concern is passed, and the Aldermen need not expect any grave problem from that quarter. It will call for a more or less consideration as it progresses and begets minor problems, but the chief work will be concluded by the present Council.

Further development of the Fire Department has been proposed, with suggestions of a branch fire hall, the platoon system and other improvements that have been postponed under the stress of war.

These are some of the outstanding questions that confront the incoming Council, and with them is the routine of work, including the work of the Roads Department, that will admit of extention with more finances available.

Specks Floating Before His Eyes

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effette matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N.S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

John D. Rockefeller Jacob H. Schiff and Others Discuss the Temptations of Youth

A few days ago in the City of New York eminent sociologist, men and women prominent in reform work discussed the greatest temptations confronting young men of today.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said he believed bad companionship the worst temptation of youth.

Jacob H. Schiff said he believed alcohol and liquor are responsible for the downfall of hundreds of thousands of young men.

Another reformer declared frivolous and beautiful women distracted young men from the more serious pursuits of life.

Rev. Thomas Gregary, noted clergyman, declared that the evils of gambling started many on the downward path.

And so on. Different men placed the blame for the downfall of youth upon various temptations.

But—

While these eminent men differed as to the CAUSES, they all agreed upon the one REMEDY necessary to combat the forces of evil.

That remedy, all declared, is KNOWLEDGE.

Show a young man what will happen to him if he does not obey the laws of society, of sociology, of hygiene—point out the terrible consequences of his folly—and being forwarned and forearmed by KNOWLEDGE, he will know how to resist these temptations.

A certain play will be presented at THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE, for two days, beginning Friday, Nov. 29th. It deals in dramatic form with THIS VERY SUBJECT which was discussed so recently by those social workers.

The play is called "EXPERIENCE." It was written by George V. Hobart. It takes Youth—or the average young man—and shows TEN EPISODES in the life of such a young man. By showing in each case the evil results from a life of pleasure, recklessness, gambling, debauchery—even crime—this play makes every youth who sees it HESITATE.

In one performance he sees the lesson of a lifetime; in one evening he learns the wisdom of the ages.

You cannot afford to have YOUR BOY miss this play. You cannot afford to have ANYONE YOU LOVE miss such a great, fine, moral, dramatic play.

Let your boy gather KNOWLEDGE by "EXPERIENCE" and thereby be better fitted for his career in life.

NOTE TO PETERBOROUGH THEATRE-GOERS.

"EXPERIENCE," the Most Wonderful Play in America, written by George V. Hobart, will come to The Grand Opera House for an engagement of two days, beginning Friday, Nov. 29th. It comes here direct after a phenomenal engagement of five months in Philadelphia—the longest run ever known in the history of that city. It was presented for nine months in New York, five months in Boston and seven months in Chicago. The same company of 80 people which played these other cities now comes to Peterborough with the original production of ten big and brilliant scenes.

Prices for this engagement will be identically the same as charged during the run of the play in other cities. Evening, 50c to $1.50. A bargain matinee will be given Saturday, when the best seats will be only $1.00. Mail orders, when accompanied by proper remittance, including war tax, will be filled in the order received at the box office of The Grand Opera House.

Send money order for seats at once, as the history of this play elsewhere shows that it always PLAYS TO ABSOLUTELY BOX OFFICE CAPACITY.

Send 20 cents in stamps to Manager "Experience" Company, The Grand Opera House, for 150-page illustrated book of the play, Acting Version.

Nickle Declines the Invitation to Tory Pow-wow

Keep Up the Union Government Says the Kingston Member.

KINGSTON, Nov. 23.—In declining an invitation to dinner in Toronto to Hon. Robt. Rogers, W. F. Nickle, M.P., makes the following comment:

"While I appreciate the courtesy of being remembered, and rejoice with you that the great war is virtually over, yet I do not concur in your conclusion that we must expect an end at any time to the political truce which exists at present. In my judgment it would be most unfortunate if the political conditions that now exist, in regard to the maintenance in power of a Government representing both of the great political parties, should not continue.

"The problems of the war were great and experience demonstrated that this country could only be governed, if governed satisfactorily, by a Government representing all shades of political opinion, and it is not to be disputed surely that the problems of reconstruction, including in this term demobilization, will be so complex and far-reaching that it will be absolutely essential that as far as possible we forget past party differences and unite disinterestedly for the purpose of advancing the best interests of the people at large.

Irritate Liberals.

"Any attempt to organize, as distinct from the Unionist party, the Conservative party, must necessarily irritate those Liberals who so loyally supported the Union Government last year, and those members in the House who now support it, and raise in their minds suspicions as to the honesty of purpose of that branch of the Unionist party formerly known as Liberal-Conservatives.

"For these reasons I regret that the dinner to which you direct my attention is being held, and viewing matters as I do, you will readily see that my failure to accept the invitation tendered me is, from my point of view, for reasons of far-reaching importance. When the time comes that the Unionist party can no longer continue, then it will be time enough to consider what steps should be taken for organizing into groups those who may then hold different points of view."

LO, THE POOR ANZAC!

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 3.— (By Mail) — Many Australian soldiers now find themselves between the devil and the deep blue sea.

It has been arranged that those who have been over here since the beginning of the war shall be granted 6 months leave to enable them to go home and see their folks over Christmas. A great number of them, during the past four years have married English girls, and the question now arises as to whether they shall take their wives back home with them or leave them behind.

An Anzac may take his wife home with him if he pays the expenses of the voyage, but few have been able to afford the expense. As an alternative he can take 75 days' furlough in England on full pay, with an additional allowance of 75 cents a day. Those who have no strong ties at home have decided to accept this privilege but others who are longing for sight of father, mother, and all the rest of the old folks at home, are sadly torn between their filial and conjugal loves.

NO CHEAP FARES FOR CHRISTMAS

There will be no cheap rates on the railways this year for Christmas. The railways have all they can handle in the way of foodstuffs and other necessary traffic without encouraging passenger traffic.

CHILDREN MUST BE PROTECTED

The children must be safeguarded, for, if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds, it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being composed of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to taste. So much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them.

A man in trouble is apt to discover that his friends are not quite as friendly as they might be.

"A merchant who runs a general store in a town in the middle of my state, came in to see me one day.

"'How are things, Bill?' I asked him.

"'Fine,' he replied. 'I've just closed up the season's business and I've made twenty-two thousand dollars. I had some extra expense this year, too.'

"'What extra expense?' I asked.

"'Why,' the merchant replied, 'I had to hire a footman to stand outside the store to open the doors of the automobiles in which the farmers' wives brought their produce.'"

Wilhelm is Still the Kaiser in Eyes of the British Govt.

No Official Notification Has Been Received of Change in His Status—Not Believed That an Abdication Document Was Signed or Exists.

IS JUST AN IMPERIAL EXILED MICAWBER

London, Nov. 22.—"William II. is still the German Emperor and the King of Prussia so far as any official knowledge in our possession is concerned," said a distinguished member of the British Cabinet to-day.

"The Kaiser's status in our eyes is that of an Imperial exiled Micawber. he is waiting for something to turn up. The existing German Government has failed to notify either us or our associate, the United States Government, that William II. has actually abdicated in the accepted sense of the term in international law. Nobody, so far as we can ascertain, has ever seen the formal abdication document bearing the Kaiser's signature, for the good reason that, in our judgment, no document exists."

The official quoted said that thus far no formal steps had been taken by the allied powers to fix the Kaiser's status, though Holland has not been left in doubt that her action in granting the Imperial fugitive asylum is not understood or liked in the allied capitals. It is admitted that serious difficulties stand in the way of putting the former Kaiser on trial.

"Who is to try him?" said the official I interviewed. "On what charge is he to be categorically indicted? What sort of evidence is to be adduced for the purpose of indicting him? These are all questions which must be settled before we can attempt to take possession of William II. for the purpose of passing judgment on him."

The British Underseas Boats Were Effective

Sank 43 Enemy Warships During Hostilities, Besides 272 Other Vessels—Big Part In Convoy Work.

The Third Year of War One Commander Carried Out 24 Cruises, Totalling 22,000 Miles.

LONDON.—Details can now be given of the part which British submarines played during the war. This service destroyed two battleships, two armed cruisers, two light cruisers, seven destroyers, five gunboats, twenty submarines, and five armed auxiliary vessels. In addition, three battleships and one light cruiser were torpedoed, but reached port badly damaged. One Zeppelin also got back to port badly damaged after having been attacked by a submarine.

Other enemy craft destroyed by British submarines were fourteen transports, six ammunition and supply ships, two store ships, fifty-three steamships and 197 sailing ships. In no case was a merchant ship sunk at sight. Care was taken to see that the crews of all vessels got safely away.

In addition to carrying out their attacks on enemy warcraft, the submarines played an important part in convoy work. In the third year of the war one of the British submarine commanders carried out twenty-four cruises, totaling 22,000 miles, which probably constitutes a record for any submarine. In the first and second years of the war seven British submarine commanders carried out a total of 120 cruises, extending for 300 days, all of which were actually spent in the enemy theatre.

The Admiralty Board, thanking the mercantile marine and the fishing industry for their incomparable services during the war, says that without the loyal co-operation of the former with the navy and its indomitable courage the enemy's submarine campaign must inevitably have attained its object.

The success achieved against the submarine, the Admiralty says, was also largely due to the interest taken by the owners in defensive equipment for ships. Moreover, the convoy system, which played so important a part in frustrating the enemy's designs and in securing a safe passage for the army of the United States, necessitated practicing the new science of station keeping. The accuracy of this greatly depended upon the engineers' adaptability and skill.

The board also says that aboard all ships, from the largest dreadnought to the smallest patrol boat, there were found officers and men of the mercantile navy combining with those of the Royal Navy in fighting the enemy and defeating his nefarious methods of warfare. In the interest of the empire, the board's statement concludes, the close connection between the merchantmen and the Royal Navy must prove a lasting one.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—The Government is being flooded with requests from women who want to go to England. Many women want to go overseas and join their husbands, while others want to tour the war devastated areas. The soldiers will soon all be returning, while no tourists are wanted in Europe at the present time.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Receives Brian's Message and Worries Over It.

CHAPTER XLVII.

Ruth received Brian's short wire, evidently dashed off in a hurry, then watched the mails for the letter she was sure would follow.

"The dear! not waiting to write, just wiring first so I would not be disappointed," she said to herself as she read the message for the third or fourth time. "I'll get a nice long letter in the morning." But when morning came there was no letter, although she had spent her entire evening writing him. A long letter telling of the work she had to do, then how she missed him. A loving tender letter, expressive of her feeling for him.

"I wonder why it didn't come," she soliloquized as she dressed to go out about the business. "It will probably come on the next mail," and although she had not intended to, she went way back to the hotel at noon time to get the letter.

"No, nothing for you, Mrs Hackett," the clerk told her, then, noting the disappointment on her face added, "there's another mail in half an hour. You may get something on that."

The half hour gone, she asked again, still nothing.

Sadly, she returned to her task, trying to cheer herself by saying it would surely be there when she got back at night. But her disappointment was keen. She was nearing the third day of her stay and not a line from Brian save only that short wire.

The thought that he might be with Mollie King stung her. If that were the reason he was neglecting to write, he must care very little for her; and a good deal for Mollie King. This thought obtruded the entire afternoon, and when at dinner time there was no letter, she easily persuaded herself that it was Mollie King's fault.

She had intended going to a play to help pass the time, but now she had no heart for it. As she sat thinking of Brian, she remembered what a child he was in some things; just a big sulky boy when things went wrong, and of her determination not to allow herself to be angered by anything he did.

She wrote him again, touching lightly on her disappointment at hearing nothing from him save the short telegram. She told of what she had accomplished during the day and ended by saying she was very tired and was going to bed although it was only nine o'clock.

Could she have known that at nine o'clock Brian and Mollie King were sitting in a secluded corner of a Riverside Drive restaurant she would have perhaps have been even more miserable than she was. Yet she tortured herself with jealous thoughts until she went to sleep.

In the morning, the fourth of her stay, she received a short special delivery note. In it he told her nothing of what she wished to know, of what he had been doing; and where spending his evenings.

"A note he might have written anyone," she sighed, "and written as if he hadn't a minute to spare for me."

Even his sending it special, did not comfort her. He had forgotten her so long.

All the next day Ruth went about her work with an alert mind, but a heavy heart. The task Mr. Mandel had given her to do was a difficult one and needed all her attention. Resolutely she tried to put thoughts of Brian from her. But after she had finished for the day, she was so unhappy that she went to a theater and forgot, for a time, that here was such a person as Mollie King whom she believed was trying to inveigle her husband to spend his time with her.

Like most wives Ruth blamed the other woman, instead of blaming her husband. That Brian had sought out Mollie, not Mollie Brian, would go too.

She had found that she could get home a day sooner than she had expected to. At first she was going to wire Brian to meet her. Then she figured she would get up to the apartment just about the time he either came home to dinner or that he came in the dress to go out Either way she would just catch him. If he planned to go out she would go out too

She arrived on time and took a taxi to the apartment. No one was there.

"He is going out and has let Crawford go home," she said to herself as she hurriedly prepared her bath. She would be all freshened up by the time he came in.

But she had her bath, was dressed and waiting, and yet no Brian. She had eaten scarcely anything on the train and now hunger added to her impatience.

Where could he be? By and by she went to the ice box. It was almost empty. Evidently there had been little cooking done. But she made herself a cup of tea and some toast, then sat down by the window to wait for him. She would make him take her out to supper. She almost wished she hadn't tried to surprise him. She recalled hearing her aunt say once that surprises were vulgar; that they always reacted on the one who attempted them.

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

Pimples are a sure sign that the blood is not in its proper shape.

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated, and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davidson Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

B.B.B. is manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ITALY EARNED HER SHARE OF VICTORY

By Henry Wood
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Nov. 23.—With the end of the war, which renders no longer necessary secrecy regarding the mobilization efforts of the various Allied countries, the fact has just been made public that Italy's total mobilization reached just 14 1-2 per cent of her entire population.

This figure it is believed will surpass that of any other Allied nations.

Of a total of 36,000,000 inhabitants Italy called under arms over 5,000,000 men.

To do this it was necessary to call out not only all of her oldest classes that could possibly be of any service, but to send also her younger classes to the front in a greater proportion than any of the other Allies. Italy's class of 1899, comprising the 19 year old boys of the nation, were at the front a year before hostilities ceased, while all of the more important elements of the 1900 class or 18-year-boy soldiers have been under arms for the last six months.

In addition to the 5,000,000 men under arms, Italy had engaged in her establishments for the manufacture of war material 900,000 man and 200,000 women and boys. In addition France was supplied with over 70,000 Italian workmen for keeping up the civilian work of that country, besides thousands of auxiliary troops who were engaged in the construction of military defenses along the entire French front, making a total of war industrial mobilization of 1,300,000 Added to this was the agricultural mobilization, consisting largely of old men, women and boys who replaced the 3,000,000 Italian agricultural workers who were called under arms. Italy's military, industrial and civil mobilization thus reached a total of over 8,000,000.

LAVERY TO PAINT HISTORIC SCENE.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The historic scene in Sir David Beatty's cabin on the Queen Elizabeth when the German delegates arranged for the surrender of the German fleet is to be placed on canvas by Sir John Lavery, of the Royal Academy.

Sir John made a special trip to the Grand Fleet at the request of the British Admiralty, to make the preliminary sketches for the painting. He was present in the Admiral's cabin during the whole of the conference and painted a finished study of the scene, which will serve as a basis for the big canvas which he hopes to complete in the next few months.

There will be fifteen figures in the painting, including Admiral Beatty, Vice-Admiral Sir Montague Browning, Rear Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, and the five German delegates. If the painting is completed in time it will be exhibted at the Royal Academy next year.

PRICES ADVANCING FOR CATTLE FEED

Concentrates Sent to Europe By Americans Affect the Market.

The decision of the United States Government to divert for the use of the Central powers large quantities of concentrates used on this continent for cattle feed is expected to affect the feed situation in this Province. Already some of the prices have advanced. To discuss the relation of this action to the Ontario market the Feed Section of the Ontario Resources Committee is being called together for a meeting at Hamilton on Wednesday, November 27, at 2 p.m. The committee has invested about $1,000,000 in concentrates for the manufacture of standard dairy and hog feed to supply the needs of Ontario farmers. These concentrates, amounting to about 14,000 tons in all, are stored in Hamilton.

The question of storage, transportation, manufacture and sale of these concentrates is to be considered by the committee.

Romance Smooths Way to Death for Young Hero

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 2. (By Mail.)—A fair-haired, blue-eyed boy from the North Country lay dying for 6 months in an English hospital.

He had been brought back from France shot through the spine, and was a hopeless case from the beginning.

During those long dreary 6 months he never let one word of complaint escape him, and he seemed always to be smiling. He had one great consolation; he had become acquainted with the Waverley novels, and in his last days he was reading "Ivanhoe." Gradually he became too weak to read, and the nurse would take the book and read aloud to him.

She was reading on the last day of all when the "padre" came and his father and mother were at the bedside and being a good lad, he kissed his parents affectionately and listened very attentively to the prayers, but the moment they were over he turned to the nurse and said in a whisper, "Please go on reading, and as fast as you can, for I do so want to know the end."

And so she read him out of the world with the great fight of Bois-Guilbert and Ivanhoe, while the spirit of Walter Scott hovered about the deathbed.

CONTINUE INVESIGATION OF BREWERS' PROPAGANDA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Investigation of brewers' propaganda and the purchase of the Washington Times by Arthur Brisbane with money advanced by brewers, with special emphasis on the political activities of certain members of the brewing industry and their alleged efforts to boycott firms and individuals antagonistic to the liquor business, was continued to-day by the Senate Judiciary sub-committee.

Further efforts were to be made by Major E. Lowery Humes, former United States' District Attorney at Pittsburg, now of the Judge Advocate-General's office, who is conducting the inquiry for the committee, to show a connection between the United States' Brewers' Association and the German-American Alliance. Alleged political activities of the brewers through endorsement of certain slates of candidates, and the contributing of money to campaign funds, it has been indicated, would also be made the subject of further inquiry.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Anchored Treasure

By RALPH HAMILTON

"Out of the way there!"

"Hey, you can't catch that train!"

The well-dressed, business-faced man at the open window of the moving passenger coach laughed till his ut sides quivered, as he traced the ause of these wild outcries, uttered n the platform of the depot from vhich the train was just moving out.

At the last moment a young man, unspicuously arrayed in his best suit, ad dashed down the platform in pursuit of the train. He had nearly ained the last car when a truck loaded with trunks crossed his course.

Bang! He barely saved himself by werving to one side, but the satchel e carried in one hand met the truck dump. There was a crash, the bag plit open, and out upon the platform here poured shirts, collars, handkerhiefs. There was a sweep of the vind that sent them whirling up into he air. Disdaining all other personal elongings, the belated pedestrian ade a dive for a small package done p in tissue paper and swung to the ear platform of the last coach.

The man whose risibilities had been o excited had not yet ceased chuckling and grinning, when the hero of he grotesque episode came down the isle puffing like a grampus and lumped down into the seat by his ide.

"Whew!" he gasped. "but that was close shave! I made it, though, idn't I?"

"It looks so," replied the other quizically, "but what about the belongings you left behind?"

"Oh, them!" sniffed the belated one, ndifferently, "I got this all safe and hat's all I care about," and he aressed the tissue-covered package olicitously. "You see, I'm Steve Lincott, live nigh to the town, got an idea, developed it, and on my way to the city to find out if it amounts to anything. I'm an inventor, I am."

"So?" nodded the other indulgently. "Entertaining business, I should think."

"Well, pretty good," replied Dave, rubbing his chin complacently. "You going to the city, mister?"

"Yes," assented the other.

"I've got something precious here," and again Dave patted the parcel affectionately. "I see you've got a satchel there. Would you mind putting my little package carefully into it for safe keeping? I want to go ahead and have a smoke to settle my nerves."

"Why, certainly," courteously consented Daniel Stern, special salesman for the big jewelry house of Goldman & Co. in the city. "There's lots of room in the satchel."

"A queer fish, soliloquized Stern, smilingly, and opening the satchel that lay at his feet, under his feet, in fact, for so he had carefully kept it ever since coming aboard. Still more remarkable, a chain ran from the handles of the valise to one ankle.

At this a person not aware of his peculiar line of business would have marvelled. Stern's specialty was to carry samples of the opulent jewelry and rich gems needed for wedding occasions.

Twice during such missions he had been neatly robbed, but now the precaution of never taking his eyes or feet from the precious satchel safeguarded against any surprise.

Stern settled himself comfortably in the seat, still amused over the incident of the belated passenger. He hoped he would return soon, so he could put in the time bringing out the unique characteristics of this outspoken child of nature. Before he was aware of it he dozed. The next thing he knew he was wide awake with a shock.

The satchel under his feet was wriggling and quaking, and from the seat behind him there rang out the most frightful yells of pain. The occupant of that seat was half way to the floor, one arm apparently imprisoned beyond the foot rest. The fellow was writhing, yelling, with a face white as a piece of chalk and lips wreathed with a vivid expression of torture.

The other passengers crowded to the spot and Dave re-entered the coach. His shrewd eyes scanned the situation critically. "Why," he shouted out, "the man's got his hand caught in my patent trap!"

"Your trap?" echoed Stern, vaguely, and then he too made a discovery. The occupant of the rear seat was a professional thief who had been on the trail of Stern for hours. He had reached under the seat with a keen-edged instrument and had cut out one whole side of the anchored satchel. He had reached into it to secure its treasure, when—click!

Click!—in fact the rat trap that Dave had invented. It was made to kill a rat at one swoop of its pronged jaws. It had lacerated the hand of the thief terribly and would not let go.

So the treasure was saved, the criminal handed over to the police and Stern insisted on Dave accompanying him to the store of his firm, where he told his story. So manifestly had the trap prevented a heavy loss, that the house presented Dave with a reward of a thousand dollars.

And Stern, learning that Dave had a charming fiancee back in his "district," made him select an engagement ring that was a bewildering thing of tassie and beauty.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Help to Pass the Crisis Safely—Proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Can be Relied Upon.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to its annoying symptoms, I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—Mrs. FRANK HENSON, 1316 S. Orchade St., Urbana, Ill.

Women who suffer from nervousness, "heat flashes," backache, headaches and "the blues" should try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

STOP HEADACHES BEFOREHAND

You never had a headache when you were well.

To keep well is to keep clean, inside.

To relieve headache, and to prevent it, keep the liver active and industrious and the bowels as regular as a clock.

Two generations of healthy, vigorous people have done this by taking one pill at bedtime, regularly—a larger dose when nature gives the warning.

Weapons of War Different.

Weapons which were thought massive and powerful in 1914 are puny in 1918. Thus heavy artillery, whose weight tied it down to fixed fortifications, is now moving merrily over the field of battle. Where formerly we talked in millions now we talk freely in billions. Before the war twenty-five to thirty knots was battle-cruiser speed; to-day we have such ships of from 150,000 to 200,000 horsepower steaming at thirty-five to forty knots. A notable instance of this growth is in the field of aviation, where the British have airplanes of 600 horsepower, and the Italians have gone up to 1,000. And the end is not yet.

"The Vorwarts."

Under the heading "German 'Who's Who's,'" the Globe of London asks some very pertinent, not to say pointed, questions, and supplies the answer. "Who told us," it asks, "that France was bled, Italy exhausted, and Great Britain almost finished by the U-boat war? Who greeted America's entry into the war with a feeling of relief and a cry of 'God be praised'? Who told us that America would be unable to bring a single man or ship to Europe?" And the answer? The Vorwarts.

Their Intelligence.

A man in a country village was preparing for his fourth "flitting" in twelve months. The vicar happened to pass, and said, "What, moving again, John?"

"Yes, sir," replied John.

"You are taking your poultry, too, I see. Aren't they getting tired of being moved about?"

"Getting tired! No fear! Why, bless you, sir, they are quite used to it by now. Every time them hens sees a furniture van arrive they run into the yard and lie on their backs with their legs in the air, waiting to have them tied."—Tit-Bits.

Canada Needs Her Man-Power and Her Woman-Power.

Aye—and her child-power, too: she wants no sick, this winter—no offices made inefficient, nor homes disarranged, nor schools poorly attended—because of colds and grippe and tonsillitis, due to wet feet.

Wear rubbers and keep well. Get rubbers for the children so they can keep well.

To wear your $10 or $15 shoes in the rain or snow is poor economy when good rubbers that cost so little save your shoes so much.

There's a style and shape for every shoe—for men, women and children—in these six brands of reliable, well-made rubbers, sold by the leading shoe stores:—

FOND OF HIS FRIENDS.

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 3. (By Mail.)—For steadiness of nerve and concentration of purpose it is impossible to beat the flying men.

An airplane designer was flying as observer in one of his own machines in order to have personal experience of its working. He was many thousands of feet high when he saw that a couple of wires had broken loose and were swinging in the wind.

He got up, took out his camera, and photographed the flapping wires.

Afterwards he explained: "I thought if we crashed and were killed the camera's record would tell my friends what had happened."

MAY STRENGTHEN DOMINION POLICE.

Problems of Dealing With Defaulters is Occupying Cabinet's Attention.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—The Government has under consideration the best methods of rounding up the defaulters. The Government is anxious to demobilize the soldiers who have been hitherto engaged in this work, while the men themselves are clamoring to return to civil life. In addition the question is raised as to the advisability of continuing courts martial in time of peace.

However, the Government has no intention of permitting deserters under the Military Service Act to escape. A proposal which is being considered is to increase the Dominion Police Force and place the work in their hands, to set fixed penalties and to set up special military tribunals.

It is likely in any case the Dominion Police Force will be increased for the enforcement of Federal laws. Such a recommendation has been made by C. H. Cahan, K.C., Director of Public Services.

Man Power is a Problem the Railways Must Face

Ex-Official Declares That Aliens Who Have Done Work Are Going Home—Car Shortage Over-Rated.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Among the problems which the Canadian rialways have to face in the period of reconstruction, that of man-power is the most serious, in the opinion of Mr. J. T. Arundel, formerly general superintendent of the C. P. R.'s Ontario division, who retired from active service in the C. P. R. only a few weeks ago, his resignation preceding by a brief period that of Sir George Bury, whose assistant he was for many years.

"We are faced with a very peculiar situation,' said Mr. Arundel yesterday. "To understand it one must go back quite a number of years. When railroading was first undertaken in Canada the Irish supplied most of the track labor. Then the Irish got work which they considered better, and the construction work passed to the Swedes. In later years the work has been done by Austrians, Galicians, Bulgarians, Polacks and a few Turks. But I do not believe they are to continue to do it.

THINKS FOREIGNERS WILL LEAVE

"These men during the war have been making money, and to-day they have all a stake of $1,000, $2,000 and even more, and they are not going to stay in Canada much longer. Such a sum means that in their own countries they are consequential vien, and here they are aliens in a strange land.

"What are we going to do? Are we to bring more Southern European people to Canada or can we make the conditions of the work such that the British people will do it? I somehow do not believe we can get the British to do it, and I see great labor difficulties in the way of construction and repair work.

ARREARS IN STEEL

"As a rich company the C.P.R. is in good shape at the present time. Very little work has been let go, and the margin of safety on all roads has been maintained. The greatest arrears are in steel. According to the usual program of the company, a certain amount of tracklaying is done every year to replace steel that is damaged. This has not been done for two years, and the immediate task before the C. P. R. is to lay the steel which except for the war, would have been laid in 1917, 1918 and 1919, all in the latter year.

"Steel has been the greatest difficulty because it has been next to impossilbe to buy steel rails, which have been almost prohibitive in price.

"When we talk of shortages," remarked Mr. Arundel, "we must not suppose that the railway companies are all coming forward with rush orders with would keep up the price of materials of all kinds. I do not know how urgent matters may be with the Grand Trunk, but so far as the C.P.R. is concerned, the railway is in good shape right at the present time.

CAR SHORTAGE OVER RATED

"What is the general situation in regard to cars on all railways?" he was asked, to which Mr. Arundel replied that the present car shortage was in his opinion considerably overrated. At least thirty per cent of the cars of Canada are engaged to war service, and when this stopped the rolling stock should be able to take care of the requirements of the country. As with steel so with cars; the cost has increased greatly. So also with engines, which have made an even more remarkable rise in value than cars, and cost practically three times as much to-day as they did in 1913. The companies will naturally wait as long as possible for lower prices for stock which they can do without.

TRACK WORK KEPT UP

The C. P. R. track itself, in spite of the war conditions, has been kept up. ties have been steadily replaced as required on the whole system, the policy being that 'a stitch in time saves nine.'

Mr. Arundel pointed out that there has been a check in the natural growth of all railways during the war, which will be resumed now that the war is over. So far as Ontario is concerned the immediate work of the C.P. R. is the relaying of some 140 miles of track, but this cannot be undertaken until spring.

Regarding the rails which were torn up and sent overseas for service in France, Mr. Arundel said he did not understand that these rails were very material to the country. They were for the most part double track rails of the Government railways, which were needed during construction.

COAL SHORTAGE STILL ACUTE

"The anthracite coal shortage has not ended with the near approach of peace and an imperative need for conservation and economy still exists," declares Mr. E. L. Cousins, Associate Fuel Administrator for Ontario. We must continue to exercise the utmost care in the use of hard coal if we are to avoid a repetition of the distressing conditions existing a year ago. The exceptionally mild weather of late eased to some extent a serious situation, but decreased production at the mines due to the "Flu" and the peace celebrations has offset this, and the net position has not been improved to any marked extent.

"Consumers throughout Ontario must reconcile themselves to a period of coal shortage, and it will be necessary for the domestic consumer to continue to use substitutes, such as soft coal and smaller sizes anthracite while the larger consumers must do likewise to the fullest possible extent. This province will not receive a sufficient quantity of anthracite to permit consumption as in past years, and a saving must be made," Mr. Cousins concludes.

The fuel administration is taking a survey of the large users of coal in Ontario, and forms have been sent to local Fuel Commissioners instructing them to secure data covering consumption in all buildings other than residences using 20 tons of coal per annum.

Some time ago regulations were issued from Ottawa making all anthracite in public buildings equipped to burn bituminous available for the Fuel Commissioners who have power to divert such coal to domestic purposes. The information now being gathered will really be a census of the boilers and furnaces and their types and styles in the Province and with such information available the Fuel Administration will be able to judge whether a consumer can burn soft coal in his heating apparatus.

In a circular to the Fuel Commissioners the Fuel Administration says in part. When the forms are filled out and returned the proper regulations will be issued, but you should urge the owners of residences having more than 40 tons of coal in stock, and the proprietors and governing bodies of all institutions which have anthracite coal in stock, and who are able to burn bituminous, to take immediate means to dispose of their anthracite supply to their friends and neighbors so that they may at an early date, while there is a surplus of bituminous coal, secure their new stock of soft coal and place themselves in such a position that the new regulations will not apply to them."

WAR MAP—This map shows the German territory to be occupied by the Allies under the armistice agreement, including Alsace-Lorraine. The latter, together with the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, is classed in the armistice as "invaded territory." The narrow shaded strip on the right bank of the Rhine is the neutral zone (6½ miles wide) which is to lie between the Allied armies of occupation and the German armies. The semi-circles on the right bank are the bridge-heads to be established under the terms of armistice, at Cologne, Coblenz, and Meyence, to a depth of 18¾ miles.

"Conservation" is the popular slogan in these war times, and it is being applied in earnest in all directions. This conservation house dress is so called because it requires such a very small amount of material. It buttons from V-neck to hem at centre front and so it is very easy to iron. The dress hangs straight from the shoulders but is belted in at the normal waistline. The long sleeves are provided with deep cuffs which conveniently unbutton and roll back when necessary. The crescent shaped pockets are of contrasting material to match the roll collar.

The ladies' one piece conservation dress No. 8928 is cut in seven sizes, 36 to 48 inches bust measure. Width at lower edge is 1⅞ yards. The 36 inch size requires 3½ yards 36 inch or 3¼ yards 42 inch, with ⅜ yard 36 inch contrasting material.

Mangin, the Marvellous

A Bull-Dog Fighter Who Never Gives In.

General Mangin, whose recent brilliant fighting has made him world-famous, has been called "Foch's counterpart." And, indeed, there is a striking similarity between the two men. Both give the same impression of great mental force combined with physical strength. Each has the same cool, clever, calculating brain and inflexible will; the same gift of swift decision and indifference to what anybody may think about him; and each has made the science of war a life-study.

In appearance General Mangin is of middle height, with a square-built, powerful frame; keen, steely eyes, and a square, massive face —a bull-dog of a man who revels in fighting, and who, when he has "got his teeth in," will never let go until he has shaken the life out of his victim. He is a man of iron, to whom fatigue seems unknown, who rarely sleeps more than five hours a day, and knows no rest when he is awake.

Every morning he rises at five, and at seven is inspecting his lines. And through the long day, until midnight, his work is only interrupted by hurriedly-snatched meals. Map-reading is his special study, and he gives several hours daily to it.

Like most great men, he is sparing of words; his orders are brief, sharp and peremptory. He is a stern disciplinary, but he is just and patient, and his troops adore him.

In August, 1914, General Mangin commanded a brigade; three weeks later, so swift was his promotion, he was in command of a division. And from that day to this his work has been as brilliant as it has been successful.

ARNOTT RECOVERS AFTER SUFFERING FOR THIRTY YEARS

"Nothing on Earth Like Tanlac," He Says—Troubles Overcome.

"Well, sir, a neighbor of mine put me on to this Tanlac a few weeks ago ,and it is the finest thing that I have ever run across in the 67 years of my life," declared Thomas F. Arnott, of 124 South Ray street, Spokane, Wash, U.S.A.

"I have suffered for thirty years," he continued, "with a bad stomach and other troubles, and spent a large part of what I made for treatments and medicines, but never did get any better until I began taking Tanlac. Everything that I would eat hurt me and the gas on my stomach would rise up into my chest and cut my breath short. Sometimes my heart would beat so hard and fast that I would just have to gasp for breath. I was uneasy all the time for fear that I had heart trouble. I would have blind, dizzy spells when I could hardly stand on my feet. I also suffered with headaches and simply felt played out nearly all the time.

"I can now eat what I want without it hurting me, for the first time in thirty years, and since my food digests I don't have any more trouble with palpitation and shortness of breath. Why? Before I took Tanlac, the least exercise would completely tire me out, but now I can walk or work all day and feel none the worse from it. I guess I have taken a barrel of medicines of different kinds and lived on a diet, almost starving myself, trying to get rid of my trouble, but I suffered just the same until I got Tanlac. So I know what Tanlac has done for me, and I appreciate it enough to tell everybody about it. In my opinion there is nothing on earth like it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. H. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

FRITZ FLEES FROM FLYERS.

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.)—Two years ago the particular and extremely disconcerting form of warfare which consists of machine-gunning troops from low flying airplanes was almost unheard of. Nowadays, it has become an indispensable feature of allied offensive operations.

One of its chief objects, is the demoralization of the German infantry, and in this it is particularly successful. There is nothing so unnerving to men either in the trenches, or in open country, as to see a flight of machine guns pouring out a hail of death dealing bullets.

One has that curious illusion that the machines are diving straight at one, in a similar way that a machine in a spining nose dive, at a high altitude appears to be spinning down exactly over one's head although it may be some distance away. The choicest Prussian discipline collapses under these circumstances, and the column of infantry is immediately dispensed in a frantic and chaotic search for cover.

As an example of the panic-striking effect there is the story of the young English pilot who, having finished his job at high altitudes, came down to within 20 feet of a road, and, seeing a German staff car, chased and fired at it for about half a mile. The driver suddenly lost his nerve and the car turned a somersault into the hedge while those of the occupants who were hopelessly crippled, scuttled away in an undignified attempt to find cover at any cost.

A man never poses as a hypocrite when he is alone.

A preferred creditor is one who never asks for his money.

Speaking of votes, it isn't quality but quantity that counts.

Some of the narrowest new skirts are slit to make walking easier.

RATION ALL TOBACCO USERS IN ROTHERHAM

Rotherham, Eng., Nov. 23.—Tobacco users in this town are being registered and rationed and the scheme appears to be working very well. Already 14,635 smokers have been enrolled and obtain the supplies without difficulty. They take their national registration card to the police officer, are placed on a customer's register, and each receives a card which is taken to the tobaconist who accepts the customer.

Other boroughs and towns in the district are proposing to follow the same plan.

Emigrant from Russia Saw Four Generations of Descendants.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. — Mrs. Frieda Wallas, a centenarian, and the head of four generations of descendants, is dead at her home at 307 Christopher avenue, Brooklyn. She came to this country from Grodna, Russia, 25 years ago, and had four children, forty-three grand-children, fifty great-grand-children, and innumerable great-great-grand-children live here. She prided herself on the fact that so many of her male descendants were in the service of the United States that she lost count of them. Mrs. Wallas was in her hundred and fifth year. She came of a long lived family. A sister, Annie Cohen, died at the age of one hundred and two.

SASKATCHEWAN BANDITS ARE STILL AT LARGE.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 23. —The Gervais bandits, Victor Carmel and Jean Baptiste St. Germain, who murdered Sheriff's Officer James McKay last Friday at Steep Creek and yesterday shot and killed Corp. Chas. Horsley, of Clinton, Ont., one of the posse of soldiers, have escaped from the dugout in which they were entrenched and have eluded the police who were hunting for them.

Another man is missing, a farmer named James Suger, who lived half a mile from the Gervais cabin. He has not been seen since last Friday, and it is suspected that he has been murdered by the bandits following the McKay killing.

Mulcted in $400 For Having Illicit Still—His Father Acquitted.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 23.—William J. Moore, a farmer, living near Wiarton, was fined $400 and costs on the charges of having an illicit still and of making swamp whiskey by Justice of the Peace B. B. Miller, of Wiarton. The arrest of Moore and his father was made last Saturday by Inland Revenue Officer J. J. Johnston with a party of three, and at that time four tubs, containing about 75 gallons of partly fermented mash, were found in an unoccupied house; a complete still was also discovered hidden in the bush some distance away. Charges were laid against both of the Moores, but the father was acquitted.

SOLOMON IN ALL HIS GLORY, WOULD GO BROKE.

LONDON, Nov. 3. (By Mail). — Solomon's desire, "Stay me with flagons, comfort me with apples," would be quite out of the question if he lived in England to-day, unless he was prepared to pay war prices.

Flagons of Australian wine which used to be 42 cents are now $1.14, and edible apples are bringing 36 cents.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—In making his formal proposal that General Petain be given the rank of Marshal of France, Premier Clemenceau says:

TERMS NOT TOO SEVERE

ASQUITH WOULD TELL PRINCE LICHNOWSKY GERMANY BROUGHT THEM UPON HERSELF.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Herbert H. Asquith, the former Premier, in answer to the appeal for modification of the armistice terms made by Prince Lichnowsky, former German Ambassador in London, said here:

"If I had to make a reply to Prince Lichnowsky's letter or any similar appeal I should say that the terms of the armistice did not, in my judgment, in the least exceed the just necessities of the case. Germany has brought them upon herself."

Movements in Germany Characterized as Part of a Colossal Bluff

Germany Plans to Adopt Some of the Russian Bolshevik Measures —A New Agreement.

SYMPATHY OFFENSIVE

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 25.—This morning's London newspapers display prominently German advices regarding an agreement between the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council and the government which is regarded as the development of greatest importance and as tantamount to the overthrow of the Ebert-Haase combination and the adoption at least theoretically of the existing Russian system.

It is admitted that the German councils have not yet developed the extravagances which led to disintegration and anarchy in Russia, the council not being dominated by Bolsheviki element. Nevertheless the Daily Telegraph remarks that it is rather significant that Germany should have adopted, even as a stop gap, a measure which was one of Lenine's original and most characteristic contributions to legislative doctrine. The Daily Mail, while pointing out the analogy to developments in Russia, suggests that the new step is part of a "big bluff" aimed at persuading the Allies that the old Germany is defunct.

The Daily Express also thinks that the menace of extremism is possibly being exaggerated for the purpose of impressing the Allies of the difficulties of their position.

What Agreement Provides.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 25. — An agreement has been reached by the German Soldiers' and Workmen's Council and government, it is officially announced in Berlin.

The agreement provides:

First—All political power is to be in hands of a German Socialist Republic and Soldiers' and Workmen's Council.

Second—Their aim is to defend and develop what has been achieved by the revolution and to suppress all counter-revolutionary activity.

Third—Pending election of representatives of Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils to an executive council of the German republic, the executive council in Berlin is to exercise its functions.

Fourth—The appointment and dismissal of all members of various legislatives of the republic and until final constitution is established of Prussia are to be made by the central executive council which also has the right of control.

Fifth—Before the cabinet appoints assistant ministers the executive council must be consulted.

Sixth—A convention of deputies drawn from soldiers' and Workmen's Councils is to be summoned as soon as possible.

A CRITICAL STAGE.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(British Wireless.)—Latest reports received in London from Germany indicate that the internal situation is at a critical stage. Although a proclamation has been issued declaring that all political power is in the hands of the German Social Republic and the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council, opposition to such a government is growing outside Berlin. A German party in South Germany, including Wurtemburg, Baden and Bavaria, has declared it will not submit to terrorism of dictators in Berlin, who have replaced the Kaiser and militarism. An independent republic has been formed in Northwestern Germany with Hamburg as the capital. Even in Prussia, according to reports, the feeling against Berlin Soldiers' and Workmen's Council is gaining ground.

DEMONSTRATIONS POSTPONED

The demonstrations of the "White" Sewing Machine announced to take place this week in the Cressman store, have been unavoidably postponed.

Unfortunately when the demonstrator arrived in the city, Saturday night, she met with a bad motor accident which will prevent her continuing her work for a few days. Further announcements will be made later.

Fattening Up the Americans

Germans Are Ashamed to Permit Some of Prisoners to Return in Present Condition.

(United Press.)

(By Frank J. Taylor.)

STRASSBURG, Nov. 25. —The lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine are again wholly French through the formal occupation of their capital today by French troops.

The population received the Poilus with great enthusiasm. Evidence was obtained to-day that the Germans are taking American prisoners to the rear to fatten them up on good food before liberating them as the result of an investigation by a German Prisoner Commission, which was afraid to permit the return of the Yankees in their present emanciated condition. The Americans have been working for months in mines fifteen miles from the front, labouring eleven hours a day, without sufficient food or clothing according to officers who escaped, rather than wait for their delayed liberation. According to these officers, the conditions in enlisted men's camps and their treatment were atrocious.

Allied Troops Still Advancing

Maximum Distance Yet to be Travelled is 75 Miles

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The French now hold the line of the Rhine and Selz southward to the Swiss border, a distance of nearly a hundred miles. This is a little more than a quarter of the line to be occupied. The greatest distance yet to be travelled is about seventy-five miles from the French lines in Rheinish Prussia to Mainz. According to the latest official reports, the general line of the advance extends as follows:

The New Line.

East of Arendonck, east of Molt, east of Diest. (Occupied by the Belgians.)

Avennes, Huy, Bomal, Grand Menil, Beho. (Occupied by the British.)

Luxemburg — Prussian border to region of Diekirch. (Occupied by the French.)

LuxemburgtPrussian border to Lorraine frontier. (Occupied by Americans.)

Busendorff, Voldenken, Saarbrucken, Saargemund, Bitsch, Reinshshofen, Selz line of the Rhine to Swiss border. (Occupied by the French.)

CONSTRUCTION WORK TO BE RESUMED

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Nov. 25. — Premier Hearst intimated this morning that all work on good road and Hydro-Electric development in Ontario that had been suspended owing to the war, would be resumed at once. The great Hydro-Electric development plants at Nipigon and on the Chippewa river near Niagara Falls, would be pushed ahead as fast as possible. The same would apply to the good road movement, especially the great provincial highway, work on which would be gone on with at once.

THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT

Present Ministry Exercises Very Little Real Authority Throughout Germany.

BREAKING UP.

(United Press Service.)

(By J. W. T. Mason.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The first move in a German counter-revolution may be present in the proclamation of a Berlin Soldiers' and Workmen's Council claiming control over all Germany. There is no doubt but that the Ebert ministry exercises little real authority throughout Germany. It is not in a position to speak for the German people as a whole. The spread of the Soviet local government idea is extending especially in German cities. Ebert has shown no inclination to interfere with this movement. Whether or not Germany is on the verge of breaking up, as Russia has broken up, it is certain that in local governmental affairs the tendency of authorities in Berlin has been to let the people do as they like. The increasing popularity of Soviets is now causing alarm among Berlin statesmen.

Fate of Decree.

The Berlin Soviet's claim to paramount authority throughout the country is an effort to prevent the disruption of the Empire. It may even have been prompted by the Berlin ministerial council for this purpose. Whether the Soviets are to rule in Germany or not will be determined by the fate of the decree summoning a constituent assembly to decide upon Germany's future form of government. The Soviets oppose the assembly, because they favour in an extreme measure the right of every local community to do as it pleases, uncontrolled by majority votes in a central congress. If the constituent assembly is indefinitely postponed the Soviet system of government may become fixed through having nothing to replace it. But whether Germany has a counter revolution or not, and whether the Societ's or a central government exercise sovereign powers, there can be no safe trust in German ambitions.

Whatever method of government is now to be adopted by Germany, the spirit must prove itself before it can be accepted in confidence by the world which the Germans have so savagely wronged.

SENSATION IN THE ITALIAN PARLIAMENT

Former Premier Was Accused of Treason, But Subsequently Exonerated.

Special to The Examiner:

ROME, Nov. 25.— Former Premier Giolitti, accused of treason Saturday night by Deputy Marquis Centurione, was exonerated by special investigating committee last night which reported that charges were without foundation. Giolitti, who was head of the Italian government in 1914, was generally credited with keeping Italy out of the war during the early months of the conflict. His cabinet was overthrown and a new ministry formed by Premier Salandra. Another committee investigated the charges against Deputies Falconi, Sciorati, Degiovanni and Chiraniglio and Senators Panizzardi, Cefaly and Frassati, who were accused jointly with Giolitti. All are Socialists. The committee reported that the charges were groundless and other Socialist members demanded Centurienes' resignation.

The accusations created a tremendous uproar and the Socialist members tried to manhandle Centurione. A special session of parliament was held yesterday to hear reports of the committees.

Canada Will Offer Credit to Great Britain

OTTAWA, Nov. 25. — Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, denies the Montreal story that Canada will forego indemnity claims against Germany, if one billion dollars is expended in Canada for reconstruction materials for Europe.

Sir Thomas says the question of Canada's indemnity has no bearing on the matter at all. Sir Robert Borden took with him to the peace conference a memoranda offering extensive credit in Canada to be expended entirely in Canada for which securities of the International Commission would be accepted by Canada. Word has been received from the premier that this proposition has already been taken with the British authorities and it is believed will be well received.

THE GERMANS STILL JUSTIFY SINKING OF THE LUSITANIA

(By Edward Hullinger.)

HARWICH, Nov. 25.—The Germans still justify the sinking of the Lusitania because she had munitions aboard. She was given warning not to sail, declared Karl Obser, a machinist, on one of the twenty-eight German submarines which surrendered here to-day. The other members of the crews said they were ashamed of Germany's ruthlessness and many hoped to win back friendship.

WILL SUPPRESS ATTEMPT AT A REVOLUTION

Socialists in Berlin are Reported to be Planning the Formation of An Army.

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 25.—The Berlin Workmen's and Soldiers' Council has issued a proclamation claiming provisional control of the entire country for the purpose of suppressing attempts at counter revolution, a despatch from that city announced today. Other despatches report that Oldenburg, Bremen, Hamburg, East Friesland and Schleswig-Holstein have formed an independent republic, with Hamburg as the capital. A Geneva despatch said that all communication between Berlin and Switzerland has been interrupted. The Spatacous group has been warned by the Rotefahn Zeitung to beware of a counter revolution, declaring that troops had been brought into the city to provoke the extremists and then turn machine guns on them.

Will Form Army.

Socialists in Berlin are reported to be planning the formation of an army. Every soldier is to wear the same kind of uniform, only shoulder straps to designate difference in rank. Spread of Bolshevism is greatly feared, and authorities are taking every precaution, massing troops and machine guns in buildings overlooking the principal streets. Karl Liebknecht is urged by his supporters to take the same precautions. Chancellor Ebert declared in an interview that Socialist groups are united in the desire for peace, and that only "a handful of idiots want to continue war." It was officially announced that Socialists and Workmen and Soldiers have united, and that the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council in Berlin will co-operate with the government until a convention representing the Workmen and Soldiers can be summoned.

BOLSHEVIKI REPORTED MURDERING HUNDREDS

WASHINGTON, November 25. — Despatches reaching the State Department from Stockholm, say a Helsingfors newspaper prints an account of a terrific Bolshevik massacre at Petrograd. Five hundred former officers were reported marked for murder, and foreigners returning from the interior of Russia were said to be in grave danger.

A despatch from Riga, dated November 18th, states that 2,050 Germans, including several officers, are in great danger of starvation at Moscow.

EXTENSIONS TO THE COLONIAL HIDE CO.

The Colonial Hide Company have recently purchased the property at corner of Lansdowne and Haggart streets in the south end opposite their present plant and intend erecting a large wool and hide warehouse in the near future to accommodate their business which is rapidly outgrowing their present quarters.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—General March, United States Chief of Staff, announced that the total casualties in the American Expeditionary Forces up to the signing of the armistice were divided as follows:

Killed and died of wounds	36,104
Died of disease	13,911
Died of other causes	2,204
Wounded	179,625
Prisoners	2,163
Missing	1,160

The American forces in France, General March said, had taken 44,000 German prisoners in round numbers, and 1,400 guns.

TRAGEDY AT CROSSING

Grand Trunk Express Crashes Into a Motor Car at Crossing—Four Persons Killed.

TWO INJURED

BRAMPTON, Nov. 25.—Edith Sawdon, aged 21, killed; Ethel Gwilt, aged 20, killed; Pearl Bellas, aged 24, killed; Harry Sawdon, aged 14, died of injuries; Wiliam Sawdon, aged 29, seriously injured; Charles Sawdon, aged 17, left leg fractured in two places. This is the result of an accident at the Queen Street crossing of the Grand Trunk Railway in Brampton at 5 o'clock on Saturday evening, a place that has taken a large toll of lives in the history of the town. The Sawdon boys had come from their home in Britannia, six miles from Brampton, to take their sister home from her work in the Dale Estate, this being their daily custom. They had spent the day in town, had taken the Gwilt and the Bellas girls home at noon and were taking them home again in the evening before returning south to their own home. The car in which they were driving, the eldest boy, William, being at the wheel, was an old-fashioned model and very heavy. Whether they were racing with the train from the east that was due at 5.18 p.m., or were stalled on the track, could not be ascertained. The engine caught the car, overturning it and carrying it a distance of 150 yards before the train could be brought to a standstill. Ethel Gwilt apparently was thrown out on her head, for there were pieces of wood in her hair as if she had struck a tie end. She was lifted and taken to the residence of S. Charters nearby, but died within a few minutes. The other two girls were cut about the body, head and face, having been entangled in the debris of the car. Little Harry Sawdon was terribly mangled and had sustained severe scalp wounds. He lived until the train in which he and his two brothers were being taken to Toronto for treatment neared the city.

The Sawdon family are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sawdon, a blacksmith residing at Britannia. Miss Gwilt's parents are farmers living near Streetsville, and Miss Bellas was the daughter of Mr. George Bellas, of Brampton.

During the month of June a car stalled on the track just as the morning train was coming into town and the occupant, a returned soldier, fortunately escaped with a cut on the head. There is no protection at the crossing other than an automatic bell.

Coroner Lawson empanelled a jury which viewed the remains at Torrance's undertaking rooms, and adjourned until Thursday next.

St. John's Sunday School Held Special Services

St. John's Sunday school paraded to the morning service with flags to take part in the "Children's day" festival. A bright and happy service was held, the hymns especially being heartily sung. The old hymn, "Ninety and Nine," was finely sung by the boy choir, with Sherwood Vernet as soloist. The echo chorus at the end was very impressive. Canon Davidson made a strong appeal for support in every way for the Sunday school work and especially for the teaching staff, whose work is a service of the highest order.

The offertory was for the work of the Sunday school Commission, both in the church and school.

Next Sunday will be Mission Sunday when the Victory Bond campaign will be opened.

Flowers were placed on the altar of St. John's church yesterday by the Sunday school in memory of former scholars, who have given their lives in the great war: Trevor Coffe, Wm. Morris, Millard Brooks and Sydney Ecobichon.

Demobilizing Americans

Men Are Being Returned at the Rate of 30,000 a Day.

(United Press Service.)

(By Carl D. Groat.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Discharge of the soldiers on this side is expected to reach a daily rate of 30,000 by the end of this week, or early next week. Machinery for demobilizing them has been speeded up now that the initial organization work is completed. The system of releasing men while fairly intricate, is in charge of the experienced personnel of each camp and contonment, and no difficulty is being experienced anywhere. With a flow of 30,000 or better a day the New Year should find more than 1,000,000 men freed both in this country and abroad. The situation with respect to demobilization overseas is complicated by the tonnage situation. England is understood to desire to withdraw some of her transports from the American service quickly, hence they may slow up the homecomings. The eight divisions already ordered back should be under way fairly soon, however.

Letter of Condolence From Overseas

The Late James Hurry Was Killed in Action Five Weeks Previous to Armistice.

It will be of interest to the many friends in Peterborough to read the epistle of condolence received from the chaplain, George G. D. Kilpatrick, of the 42nd Highland Battalion of Toronto, by Mr. and Mrs. John Hurry, Elm street, in regard to the death of their son, Pte. James Hurry, who had been in France well over three and a half years, participating in the many battles associated with his battalion. Pte. Hurry paid the supreme sacrifice a few weeks ago. The letter follows:

France, Oct. 15th.

Dear Mrs. Hurry,—As chaplain of the 42nd Battalion I wish to send this word of deep sympathy for the loss of your gallant son who fell in action on September 20th. He was instantly killed during the attack and mercifully suffered no pain. He was buried on the battlefield, where he served so splendidly. I knew your son so well. His bright and willing spirit— his courage —his loyalty —these things gained for him a high place in the battalion life. In all your sorrow you have cause to cherish proud memories of the boy who gave his best gift for the Empire. Faithful unto death he has become the inheritor of the crown of life God has in store for his soldiers. May our Father comfort you in the great sorrow and strengthen your faith so that you may be enabled to commit your loved into the Master's keeping in all trust and so be brought even through grief to new and deeper knowledge of His love and mercy.

In your son's last sacrifice you deeply share. God help us to be worthy of it. In all sympathy I am,

Very sincerely yours,

George G. D. Kilpatrick.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hurry wish to thank the many friends, Barbers' Union and 57th I.O.D.E. for their expressions of sympathy during their bereavement.

Correspondent, Who Has Arrived in Berlin, Wires Particulars of the Real Conditions There—Misery Worse Than in Russia.

EMPIRE HAS FALLEN

(By Arno Dosch Fleurot.)

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—The strongest impression one gets on coming into Germany is that the country lives in the expectation of certain famine unless its former enemies come to its aid. The traveller rides in heatless and lightless trains which creak painfully because of a lack of axle grease. He passes through station after station without a mouthful of food. He finds hardly the substitute coffee which itself is disgusting and must be taken without milk or sugar.

Entering Berlin, he finds muddy and shabby street cars, with occasional loungers in vast, empty cafes. Almost the only street traffic consists of soldiers heading homeward, too worn to feel any joy over the homecoming.

All this gives an impression of prolonged misery such as I have not seen during the war. Even in Russia, except for the organized starvation of the bourgeoisie, there is no such misery. Plainly, Germany has reached the absolute limit and lies now exhausted.

The revolution even had no such wild joyousness as that in Russia. The Empire fell over; the revolution fell on top, where it is now lying. Signs of fighting are insignificant. The upheaval has not been followed by the senseless parading of bayonets so boresome in Russia. The only case of revolutionary swank I noticed was a bustling little sailor with an enormous red bow, followed by two armed soldiers, who requisitioned the taxicab I was about to enter. The spectacle was so unusual that it even amused the onlookers.

Too Worn.

The people generally are too worn to celebrate anything. They want simply to go home, eat and recover. I came to Germany with some personal misgivings, expecting to find a survival of cockiness in at least a few individuals, but though I walked the streets talking English and French few took notice and none cared.

To all, the war is completely over, with not the slightest chance to recommence. Everything from preventing starvation to a suitable peace lies in our hands. The sense of every conversation with men in the Government and with revolutionists is that this is not the Germany which fought for four years, and the new Garmany asks for quarter. Were it not for imminent starvation the country would drop exhausted, but the situation presses. Democrats, fearing the political effect of hunger riots, are trying to get food into the cities, but the delicate organization for food which is needed weekly and its manipulation is now at a standstill. Organization of local distribution is there, but with the decentralization of power it is impossible to move accordingly. Each district refuses to give. Only the lifting hand from without can save.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 25TH, 1918.

PRICES AT NORMAL

In the general advance in the cost of almost everything needed in our scheme of existence the people of Peterboro have reason to be thankful because two necessities have refused to be effected by the high altitude tests of other commodities and have remained stationary since the war began. The two things that have not gone up in price are electric light and water and the Peterboro Utilities Commission are to be congratulated that in spite of the unusual conditions they have been successful in keeping the prices of these two vitally necessities at a normal level. Almost everything else gas, coal, wood, fod, clothing, taxes, rent, building material, labour have all climbed but it is a matter to be thankful for that electric light and water have been provided at regular prices.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

The Mayor's suggestion that final decision as to how Peterboro can best honour the memory of her sons who died for the Empire, should be left until all the soldiers are home from overseas, seems a reasonable one. If there is any class of citizens, with the exception of the immediate relatives of the returning brave, whose opinion should be eagerly sought, it is composed of the soldiers who fought side by side with the men whose memory it is desired to honour. It is important, therefore, that all Peterboro soldiers should have a chance to make themselves heard in the solution of this important matter, and final action might well be deferred until the return of Canada's army.

In the meantime, however, the question should not be side-tracked completely. There is much preliminary work to be done; the different plans that have already been suggested should be carefully worked out and developed; some idea of the amount of money needed to carry out each of the proposals arrived at, and possibly the question of how the necessary money is to be raised, determined. All these details should require careful determination, and the matter should be so handled that by the time the soldiers are all home, it will be possible to submit to them, and to the citizens generally, a series of alternative policies from which the final selection can be made.

The decision of the Council to call a public meeting will be the opening shot in the campaiin, which should not be allowed to stop until the form of memorial finally adopted has been established. The co-operation of every citizen will be needed if the monument is to be worthy of the men in whose honour it is being undertaken.

DEMOBILIZATION

It was pointed out by a contemporary the other day that the signing of the armistice with Germany is merely a suspension of hostilities, that the Germans can not be trusted and that as long as there is the slightest danger the Canadian fighting forces should be kept overseas. In spite of these things, however, the United States does not seem to be delaying the demobilization of the American Expeditionary force. It is announced that the strength of the United States army overseas is to be reduced as soon as possible by one hundred per cent. Eight divisions have already been ordered home and others are to be brought back as quickly as the ships can be provided. The task of garrisoning the German territory has been left the newest arrivals in the United States army, the work being entrusted to the newly formed third army while the men of the first and second armies, who have been on the firing line are to come home. Their war record is short compared to the Canadians' service and yet the latter are apparently destined to do police and garrison work. Surely the troops from overseas Dominions should be released from these duties or at least the task might be left to those who will volunteer for the service. Undoubtedly there are many among the Canadians who are anxious to go into Germany and to remain on the job until everything is over but there must be thousands of others who have been away from home for years who are longing to get home to their families again.

THE BIG PROBLEM.

It is fitting that early plans should be made for tendering a proper reception to Peterborough's soldiers when they arrive from overseas, but there is more to be done than merely welcoming them home with bands and cheering. The question of finding suitable employment for them will be the big problem that Peterborough will have to solve, and it is not too early to begin to consider the situation and determine what can be done from a municipal standpoint to see that they are placed in positions where they can maintain themselves and families. The difficulty of the problem is increased by reason of the fact that the munition-making industry is almost at an end. The vast army of munition makers, many of whom have been employed at abnormally large wages since early in the war, will be demobilized long before the Canadian overseas army is dispersed. The result will be that these men who have had the advantage of the high wages during the war, while the Canadian Tommy has been overseas fighting, and are dying, at $1.10 per day, will again have the advantage of the soldiers, and by the time fighting Johnny Canuck comes back from his triumphs across the Atlantic, the pick of the peace time situations are very likely to be found held by the men from the munition plants. Not only that, but because of the demobilization scheme adopted by the Government, the recently drafted men in Canada and in England will be the first to be discharged, and they will have an opportunity of escouncing themselves firmly into positions before the men of Canada's army who fought so gloriously in France and Belgium can be brought home.

It will be up to Peterborough to see that there are positions left for the fighting men. They have earned the best that we can give them, and it will be a Dominion, a Provincial and a municipal responsibility to make sure that proper employment is found for them.

And so any preparations for a reception that do not include an earnest consideration of the question of employment for the returning heroes will be inadequate.

A KINGLY SPEECH.

(New York Herald):

There are kings and kings. One sort has gone to the limbo in which they rightly belong, this sort including the treacherous Constantine, the even baser Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the weakling Charles of Austria and the kinglets of the late German Empire who aided and abetted the "All Highest" in his scheme to conquer Europe and the world. A few still remain who do honour to their positions because they have the right views of kingship and regard themselves as symbols of authority rather than as rulers by divine right and who recognize that their rule is derived from the people. Among these are Albert of Belgium, who has returned to his capital amid remarkable manifestations of affection, and loyalty, and George of England—or Windsor, as he has elected to call himself in order to divest the British throne of any of its previous German associations.

King George's reply to the leaders of his empire on the occasion of his reception of addresses passed by both Houses of Parliament was a model of what such a speech ought to be. There was no vainglorious boasting about "my army" and "my navy" and "my people," though he gave to all three the tributes that are their due. It was a message of gratitude to all who had so valiantly fought to secure their own rights and liberties and those of the world. The King's tribute to the representatives of India and the overseas dominions was indeed well merited. Britain and its King have reason to be both proud of and grateful to the men of the far flung empire who voluntarily gathered together from the four corners of the earth and fought with magnificent valor against the forces of evil and brutality so formidly arrayed against them. They furnished an object-lesson for the whole world to ponder.

King George was right in emphasizing the fact that the British fleet has largely helped to win this war. His tribute to the memory of the late Lord Kitchener was also a just one. The initial work done by that great and lamented soldier in creating the wonderful British army which fought with such splendid valor at Mons, the Marne, in Flanders and in France, as well as in the Near and Far East, will never be forgotten.

To save gas never light it until the dish to be cooked has been placed on the burner.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man who complains about the dust all summer and autumn is already beginning to draft a letter of protest about the way the snow ploughing is neglected.

The British navy is going right into the inner defences of Germany's naval system. The visit to the Kiel Canal to dismantle the remaining Hun war ships will be a pleasant outing for the Jack Tars, who are selected for the task.

"I always said they would come out," remarked Sir David Beatty. And he might have added, "and I always knew they would never go back."

There is nothing to be gained by postponing your Christmas shopping. Stocks are at their best just now and you will have a much better selection than later on.

Lakefield Store Damaged by Fire

FIRE ENGINE WAS OUT OF COMMISSION—CELLAR FLOODED.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 25th. — On Saturday afternoon shortly after two o'clock, the village was roused by the ringing of the fire bell. The fire was in the basement of Mr. Leonard's hardware store. Some straw near the furnace had caught fire and had gained considerable headway when it was discovered. The volunteer fire department deserve highest praise for their prompt action in attaching the hose to F. J. Moore's pump, and they soon put the fire out.

The fire engine is out of repair and the question of a new one has been laid on the shelf. With the strong wind blowing it was a miracle that saved Lakefield from a terrible fire. Mr. Leonard's loss will be considerable as about a foot and a half of water was pumped into the cellar before the fire was extinguished. It is believed to be partly covered by insurance.

PACKED MEETINGS TO SECURE MAJORITY

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, Nov. 25.— Dr. Liebknecht has been accused of trying to influence men returning from the front and packing various meetings with red soldiers in order to secure a majority. The indications are, however, that his efforts to win over returning soldiers have failed absolutely, and yesterday's meeting was marked by violent opposition of the soldiers, who are declared to have been enticed to the meeting under false pretences.

The total assets showed one hundred and thirty millions more than the previous month.

The British Commissioners Endeavouring to Strike German-Austrian Trade

Mr. Fred. W. Field, Trade Commissioner for the British Government in Ontario Explains How His Department Can Help Canadian Businessmen and Manufacturers—A Profitable Address.

At a luncheon at the Empress Hotel arranged by the Peterboro Board of Trade a large number of Peterboro manufacturers and business men had an opportunity at noon today of meeting Mr. Fred W. Field trade commissioner in Ontario for the British Government and of hearing an interesting and instructive address on the work which that gentleman is carrying out in the province. Mr. Field's personality made a very pleasing impression upon the gathering and his address showed that he has a thorough grasp of his work.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. B. D. Hall, president of the Board of Trade and Mayor Duncan also added a few words of civic welcome.

Mr. Field first touched upon the formation of the trade commissioner service of the United Kingdom and the decision after the tour of the Dominions' Royal Commission to increase the appointments in Canada from one to four, Mr. Field being chosen to act in Ontario with headquarters at Toronto. The others to be at Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Those who know the vast extent of this country, its great distances, its natural resources, its volume of trade and the prospects of the Dominion generally, will realize what an important step this extension is," said Mr. Field. "Even with the present delimitation of territory, you will realize that the four commissioners (the senior of them also attending to matters, within the scope of his duties, in Newfoundland) have an opportunity for very active work.

The extension of the Trade Commissioner Service of Great Britain was welcomed in an unanimous resolution introduced at the Imperial War Conference in London in April, 1917. It was also approved by the British War Cabinet.

Our service, therefore, was first suggested by the then Prime Minister of New Zealand, instituted by the present Prime Minister of Great Britain (then president of the Government Board of Trade), endorsed in a resolution proposed by General Smuts of South Africa at the Imperial War Conference, and finally approved by the British War Cabinet. The origin of the Service is consequently a happy indication of ta inter-Imperial character.

THE COMMISSIONER'S DUTIES

The functions of a Trade Commissioner are described in lengthy general instructions which are sent to those officers. It is unnecessary to repeat them here in any detail but among the general functions of a Commissioner, it is his duty to:—

1. To keep in close touch with the Government and State authorities in the Dominion to which he is attached.

2. To visit the principal commercial centres in his area and establish touch with the members of the commercial community.

3. To study and report upon the tariff laws, and customs regulations, as well as legislation affecting banking, patents and copyrights, shipping, harbours, etc.

4. To watch the imports into the Dominion, to furnish reports on the best methods of meeting foreign competition, and to furnish reports on financial and trade conditions.

5. To forward early information as to contracts open, or likely to be open to tender, the opening of new industries, and the extension of public works.

6. To make an annual general report on the conditions and prospects of trade in his area, and to supplement it by special reports dealing as exhaustively as possible with particular questions which are likely to be of interest to British firms.

FLOW OF INFORMATION.

These functions are more or less of a general character. The broad idea of the service is to see that a regular flow of commercial information of value is maintained, and to put Canadian importers and to some extent, Canadian exporters in touch with manufacturers and others in the Mother Country.

As an example of the interest which is taken in the work of the Trade Commissioners by British firms, it may be mentioned that when the Commissioner in Australia visited the United Kingdom officially in 1916, firms and deputations there to the number of 705, sought interviews with him in regard to the prospects of British trade, etc., in the Australian market. During his stay in England he also visited 31 works. The visits to works of various kinds are naturally a valuable education to a Trade Commissioner, who necessarily must deal with trades and subjects of many different types. I have been greatly pleased therefore in receiving initations to visit the works of some of your local manufacturers, and that I propose to do this afternoon.

AN IMPORTANT PHASE.

One of the most important phases of the extensin of the Trade Commissioner Service is the fact that the British government has offered the facilities of that service to the other governments of the British Empire. In the majority of, if not in all cases, the offer has been accepted wholly or in part. The Canadian Government, for instance, has accepted the facilities of our service at all points, in various countries, in which it has not a Trade Comissioner of its own. The Government of India has accepted the service in its entirety. It may be said, therefore, that this is one of the first practical commercial steps being taken by the Imperial Government and by the Governments of the Dominions to link the various units of the British Empire. The resolution of General Smuts of South Africa, at the Imperial War Conference in 1917, recommended that these governments should co-operate so as to make the Trade Commissioner Service as useful as possible to the British Empire as a whole, especially for the promotion of inter-Imperial trade.

This development is also an example of the practical work being done by these governments to give the British Empire the first benefits of its vast natural resources and its trade volume. The Australian zinc supply, for example, has been purchased by the British government for the duration of the war and for, I believe, ten years after the war. Germany formerly exercised a strong hand of control in that industry, but this will not occur in the future. Germany has been eliminated there, as it will be in any other commercial activities in the British Empire. The British Government has also purchased the Australian wool clip, and will repeat that purchase for a number of years after the war. A recommendation of a British Government Committee proposes that no mining concessions within the Empire shall be granted to an alien individual or company without government sanction, and suggests that the Dominions be urged to adopt a similar policy. Judging by the splendid sentiment which is found in Ontario, such policies appear likely to receive the greatest possible support.

Then there is a recommendation of another British Government committee in regard to the stimulation of the production of flax in Ireland, India and other parts of the Empire; chiefly impelled by the loss, for the time being, at least, of the Russian supplies. Here in Ontario, the greatest activity is apparent with respect to the increased production of flax, and I believe this industry will, within comparatively few years, become an important one in this province.

A number of committees and commissions have been appointed by the British Government to deal with these and other such matters. Their valuable reports are made, and, what is still more important, action is being taken on the reports. When the war is over, therefore, I think we may feel assured that, despite the great war burden which the Old Country has carried for four years, she will emerge, with her overseas Dominions, still stronger, more vigorous, more aggressive, giving her competitors a good run for their money in the world's markets.

The work of the Trade Commissioners, as you will have noted, is primarily to increase Great Britain's share of the import trade of Canada. If, for example, Canada is buying a considerable volume amount of merchandise from abroad each year, we want to see that John Bull obtains a large share of the business.

SPIKING ENEMY TRADE.

Incidentally, we are endeavouring to drive effective spikes into German and Austrian trade in Ontario. This will help to prevent enemy countries from entrenching themselves again in the resources and trade of the British Empire. The British Government committee in charge of the winding up of enemy concerns, has discovered to what an extraordinary extent Germany had done this. For example, a company was formed in 1897 to work certain important electrical patents taken out by a British subject, whose relatives held the chief part of the capital, the remainder being held by neutrals interested in working the patents in France. The same patents were worked in Germany by a powerful combination. When the patents expired in 1904, practically the whole of the capital of the English company passed into the hands of the German company under the stress of the German company's competition, and a territorial agreement was made, under which the British company was restricted from selling outside Great Britain, even in British colonies. The German company, having obtained control of the British company and sterilized its power of competition out of Great Britain, proceeded to utilize the manufactory of the British company for the purpose of undercutting a very important business of a similar kind carried on by another British company, until it was forced to accept an agreement under which it had to resign its foreign business, though it still held on to its business in the Colonies.

We propose to try to make it very difficult for these enemy countries to do business here after the war. In this work, and indeed in our work generally, we are meeting with the greatest possible sympathy and co-operation on the part of the business community and of the general public in Ontario, where there is such a well-defined patriotic sentiment.

At the end of his address, Mr. Field answered a number of questions on different subjects in connection with his department, these discussions being both interesting and helpful.

HIGHER HOTEL RATES UNDER THE NEW LAW

NEW YORK, November 25.—Elimination on July 1, 1919, under the "dry" clause of the new emergency agricultural law will mean higher rates for hotel rooms and lower rentals to owners of hotel properties, New York hotelmen declared after a conference here.

It was agreed that the hotels could not survive with the sale of wines and liquors stopped, unless the present rates for other accommodations were increased. Some of the bars, it was said, would be kept open, however, for the sale of soft drinks and lunches.

Thirty-five Thousand Children Socially Murdered Each Year

Startling Conditions in Canada Revealed by Rev. J. G. Shearer at Mass Meeting Held in Y.M.C.A. Last Evening.

At the mass meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. last evening Rev. J. G. Shearer D.D., Toronto, a member of the Social Service Council, spoke of the organization of the council and the work which it had accomplished and was now trying to advance on a much larger scale.

The council is organized somewhat like the government of the country. There is a Federal Council dealing with questions concerning the whole Dominion; Provincial organizations in each of the nine provinces, also Newfoundland and Bermuda making eleven provincial organizations subservient to the Federal Council. Each local centre also has a council which deals purely with local questions. The Federal Council is a Federal Union of all existing societies and all other bodies sympathetic. There are seventeen Dominion-wide bodies including Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Women's Christian Temperance Union, the International Association of Rotary Clubs, all Protestant churches and others.

TWENTY PLANKS

"We have about 20 planks in our platform and we do what we set out to do. We stand to solve economic moral and political problems. "There isn't a wrong that can't be righted," declared Dr. Shearer, "if we only have the organization behind us."

We brought four questions to the notice of the Minister of Justice protecting the morality of the child. The Minister was sympathetic. He made them amendments of the Civil Code and they received the support of the House of Commons but they, all four were thrown out by the Senate. New Zealand, Great Britain, most of the provinces of Australia and others have these amendments in their Civil Code but Canada hasn't. We at present keep company with Germany, Austria, Hungary and Mexico. How do you like your company?

TIME FOR EVERYTHING

"There is a time for everything. War time was the time for the suppression of strong drink and the enfranchising of the women and our Federal Council decided that 1918 was the year for the abolition of party patronage and a system of education or child welfare. Some things you only need to turn the spotlight on and they disappear. Already the patronage system is dying out although it is not dead. As to child welfare in three and a half years of war 35,000 of our boys have laid down their lives but in Canada in one year 35,000 children die who ought to live. They are socially murdered. We are all immeasurably responsible for that. Ignorance is no excuse.

CHILD WELFARE WEEK

We have asked the Federal Government to set aside the first week of May as Child Welfare Week. Then if the Dominion Government approves we will ask the Provincial governments to endorse it and the local communities to act upon it. It will be a week of education. For you know all the world revolves around the child.

MORE WORKERS NEEDED

Dr. Gilbert Agar B.A., General Secretary for Ontario explained the organization of Ontario. As Ontario has about four times the population of Manitoba or most of the other provinces more workers are needed. Men have been appointed to superintend districts in Ontario. One man likely at Toronto, one at Hamilton, one at London and one at Ottawa. In forming a local organization he suggested that the W.C.T.U. and other organizations each send two delegates to a local meeting. The consitution of the Social Service Council called for one person to represent each organization and one additional member for each one hundred members. Mr. Joseph Wearing M.A., who was the chairman of the evening, suggested that the organization of a local council be deferred until a larger and more representative body of citizens is called together. Men each a representative of a denomination were named as delegates and to form a committee to call a meeting in the near future.

In the morning Dr. Shearer preached at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and in the evening he occupied the pulpit at Murray Street Baptist Church. Dr. Agar addressed no less than five audiences on Sunday.

BOY'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH AT G.T.R. CROSSING ON REID ST.

Was Running Home From Work After First Morning of His Apprenticeship at Wm. Hamilton Foundry.

Stanley Ivison, a sixteen year old apprentice in the moulding shop of the Wm. Hamilton Company, was so hungry after his first morning's work that when the whistle released him at noon to-day he raced across the G.T.R. tracks on Reid street without noticing the passenger train from Toronto, fifteen minutes late, until it was upon him. In the flashing moment in which he realized his danger, he plunged across the outside rail, escaping death by an eyelash. Some part of the engine, he does not know which, struck his left leg below the knee, bruising the flesh and gouging out a wound that will be slow to heal. The trouser below the knee was torn completely round, almost as cleanly as if it had been cut with a scissors. But Stanley may consider himself an extremely lucky boy to be alive. The G.T.R. skirts the Hamilton shops on each side of Reid street and is laid close to the moulding shop. It was only a few steps, therefore, from the door to the main line of the railway, and the boy was running at full speed as he reached its rails.

The gateman asserts that had young Ivison taken his time and looked up the railway before crossing he could not have failed to see the train, which was only a few yards away at that moment. The gateman explains his own actions by stating that he was watching the train approach and was looking to the road on each side and not to the sidewalk behind him.

The pathetic side of the accident, apart from the boy's injury, which Dr. Eastwood said was not very serious, is the fact that Stanley had just begun work this morning, an ambitious apprentice to the time-honoured trade of moulding iron. His father, David Burgess Ivison, went to Lindsay this morning to work, and the family, except the father, had returned from Darlington, Durham County, England, only two weeks ago, where they had gone from Canada in April before the war broke out. Mr. Ivison enlisted here in the 21st Battalion, but returned nearly two years ago. His family remained at Darlington and know all about the rationing system imposed upon the English people with increasing rigour as the imports of food decreased.

When it was suggested at noon that Stanley be taken to the hospital after the accident, he objected, saying that he was too hungry and wanted to get home to dinner.

The Ivison home is at the corner of McDonnel and Rubidge streets.

Hon. W. J. Hanna's Son Meets Death in Aerial Accident

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—The sad news that Lieut. W. Neil Hanna, the only son of Hon. W. J. Hanna, was killed while flying on November 20 reached the city yesterday in cable from the Secretary of the Air Ministry. What makes the death of Lieut. Hanna particularly tragic is the fact that he was killed after the armistice was signed, and when his parents had been looking forward to his early return after several years of fighting. It is only recently that Lieut. Hanna transferred to the Royal Air Force, after serving since early in 1915 with the artillery. He joined the Air Force in September, and on October 15 word was received from him that he was going to Italy to complete his training. A letter was received from him in Italy, but it did not state where he was stationed. Although the official message does not contain any particulars as to how he met his death, it is believed that he was killed in an accident while completing his training in Italy.

Lieut. Hanna was 23 years of age at the time of his death. He was a Victoria College student of 1917, and it was his intention to proceed to a course in law. He enlisted in the Canadian Field Artillery, but obtained his commission in the Royal Field Artillery, and was wounded in July, 1916. Hon. W. J. Hanna reached the city from New York this morning.

VICAR DEFIES POLICE: PREACHES FOR FOUR

Carries Through Service While Officers Stand at Church Entrance.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 25.—Defying the order of the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. C. N. Laurie, prohibiting public gatherings on account of influenza, Rev. B. F. Palmer, vicar of the Anglican Missions, Saturday advertised services for Sunday. The Medical Officer of Health caused two policemen to be stationed at the doors of the church to take the names of those who entered. Only four persons, in addition to the vicar, would give their names. The others were not allowed to enter, but regular service was held for these four. The Medical Officer of Health had threatened prosecution in Police Court if services were held, but it is not likely that steps will now be taken on account of the four not constituting an unlawful assembly under the Medical Health Officer's proclamation.

Why Can't I Get to Sleep?

Thousands of people all over the country ask this question but still continue to toss night after night on a sleepless bed and it is impossible for them to get a full night's refreshing sleep.

Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease, has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quietened except by the pernicious use of opiates or narcotics. Or again, you have heart palpitation, and sensation of sinking, a feeling you are going to die, or perhaps you wake up in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and the only way that you can get relief is to sit up in bed.

To all who suffer in this way, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer an inestimable boon. They bring back the much needed night's rest by improving the tone of the nerves, strengthen the heart, enriching the blood and making the whole organization act in harmony—then you sleep as peaceful as a child.

Mrs. James Latimer, 39 Leinster St., St. John, N. B., writes: "At night I could not sleep. I had to sit up in bed, my heart beat so fast and when I walked up stairs I would get all out of breath. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I can sleep all night, and am not out of breath after walking."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The 20 men were released.

Billeted in a Warm House

Peterborough Soldier Writes Interesting Letter to His Mother.

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. A. A. Torrance, 466 Park street, Lance-Corp. G. G. Torrance, describing the towns recaptured by the Allies from the Germans, says:

"We are out for a time on rest, and billeted in a warm, comfortable house with three stoves and plenty of coal. If you were here you could get all the coal you wanted for nothing. The people bring it home in wheelbarrows. We are up in the cities the Germans have held since 1914, and the people are certainly glad to be liberated. When we entered the towns the people gave us cakes, coffee and cocoa, shook hands and kissed some of the fellows. The men all raise their hats to us. We did not know at the time, but I think the food they gave us was that supplied by the American relief.

We can buy bread up here and get a small loaf for 10 cents. I still have my gun section and I've had the pleasure of taking them over the top, and I wasn't behind them either. It is getting dark and I can't see to write, as it is hard to get candles. When the Germans left here they took nearly everything the people had, including their food clothes, etc.

Anniversary Services Held in Mark Street Church Yesterday

Inspiring Addresses by the Rev. Wm. Higgs and Rev. F. E. Malott.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Anniversary services were held in the Mark street church yesterday. Rev. William Higgs, of Millbrook, chairman of the Peterboro District, spoke at the morning service. His text was taken from St. Paul's Epistle to the Corinthians 12:12: "For as the body is one and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body, so also is Christ."

"The church and its congregation is the body or vehicle through which the spirit of God is disseminated among men. God is not the body of one person but is the body of many persons. A paramount duty of us all is to represent Jesus Christ in the world. This is the greatest honor that could come to any man."

Continuing the theme the speaker referred to the forgiving spirit manifested by the Christ in such acts as forgiving the woman who had sinned. Christ came not to condemn the world but to save it.

Mr. Higgs concluded his discourse with a stirring appeal for a greater spiritual endeavour among the people and an adequate and sincere expression of thankfulness for the peace that has been brought to this earth and the successful conclusion of the conflict.

The Evening Service.

"Four Clear Calls to Duty and Privilege," was the theme of the Rev. F. E. Malott's sermon at the service in the evening. The sermon was an exposiiton of Psalm 96, verses 7 to 10. "This Psalm," said the speaker, "is the first of a series known as 'Coronation Psalms.' They were written at the time of the rebuilding of the Temple, and they deal with the whole question of man's need of worship and the place and value of the House of God in the community."

The main theme of Psalm 96 is man's debt to God. "Give unto the Lord the glory due unto His name," said the Psalmist; and he suggests four ways in which we can pay this debt. We give God the glory due unto His name by regular attendance at the services of God's house, as a worshipper. The first call is a call to come into the Lord's courts. The speaker dwelt upon the value of this and gave many apt illustrations to prove his point. We give God the glory due unto His name when we recognize His claim upon our money and bring our offering with us to His house. This is a distinctive part of worship, but too many regard it as an obtrusion and resent it. The second call is a call to "bring an offering" when we come into the Lord's courts.

Conduct Comes First.

But attendance at worship and money gifts are not the most pleasing things to God. Conduct comes first, said Mr. Malott. The character of the giver means more than character of the gift. The third call is a call to holy living. "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness." No amount of formal worship can atone for a bad or a selfish life. We glorify God in our daily lives.

The last call is a call to proclaim our God as the Lord of the whole earth. "Say among the heathen, the Lord reigneth." The speaker dwelt on the fact of the Lordship of Jesus Christ and of the need of bringing that fact home to the hearts and the minds of all men. Loyalty to our King and our God demands that we help Him establish His kingdom.

The Music.

The music at both services was particularly well chosen. In the morning the quartette, Mrs. Matchett, Mrs. Iredale, Mr. Iredale and Mr. Speer was well received. In the evening a solo by Mrs. Ed. Wand added greatly to the general service. Miss Etta Kempt presided at the organ at all the services.

A RECORD FOR TAKING PRISONERS

(Special to The Examiner.)

ROME, Nov. 25.—The world record for taking prisoners apparently goes to Italy. Francisco Cardini, son of the Vice-Prefect of Rome, has been awarded the silver military medal for his work during the Austrian retreat. The Citation says that while reconnoitring with three armoured cars manned by fourteen men, he headed off four thousand Austrians and took them prisoners.

(This is a ratio of 226 3/5 prisoners per man.)

CHARGED VET. DUTY ON SUIT.

Had to Pay $11 on an Outfit That Cost Him $18.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—A passenger on the C.P.R. train which left Buffalo at 6 o'clock last night tells of an incident at Black Rock wherein a Canadian Customs officer played a prominent, if not a pleasing role.

A First Contingent soldier, who lives in North Toronto, had been down to New York to meet his wife. He was for two years and nine months in the trenches, and has a dozen or more wounds, and although invalided home about nine months ago, is still under treatment. In New York he bought a suit of clothes for $18. When the Customs officer learned this, he insisted on a payment of $11 duty. The veteran protested that he did not have sufficient money, but the officer was obdurate. Finally, passengers on the train, with considerable emphasis on the treatment being accorded to a veteran by a Government employe, subscribed about $22. When this was handed over the soldier broke down and wept. It seems that he gave up a job as a railway engineer at $130 a month to enlist in the C.E.F.

Voice of The People

STATEMENT REGARDING THE CIRCUMSTANCES IN CONNECTION WITH THE BURIAL OF MRS. W. L. WOOD.

The Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E., and the Business Girls' Club, as well as others who contributed towards this, distinctly wish it understood that it was not their intention that the part they took in connection with the burial of Mrs. W. L. Wood should have been made public, and they regret very much the article that appeared in Saturday evening's issue of The Examiner. The facts are as follows:

Having learned early Thursday morning of Mrs. Wood's death, interested parties, knowing the circumstances, came forward and guaranteed to meet all expenses in connection with the funeral, and on Monday evening, November 18th, a short service was held at Comstock's undertaking parlours—the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Thomas—at which a number who were interested were present, and the remains were laid away on Tuesday morning, in the Little Lake cemetery, Mr. Thomas officiating, there being present a representative from each of the above mentioned organizations, as well as the Superintendent of the Y.W.C.A.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas was with Mrs. Wood before she passed away, and he with Mrs. Thomas was extremely kind to the girls who had interested themselves in this matter, as w " as others whose names are not mentioned.

The sympathy of the community surely goes out to the aged parents and the three little orphan boys of the deceased.

9TH ANNIVERSARY OF SACRED HEART CHURCH YESTERDAY

Branch of the Holy Name Society Instituted in the Afternoon—Day Spent in Religious Exercises.

BISHOP O'BRIEN PRESENT

A feature of the celebration of the ninth anniversary of the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday was the formation of a branch of the society of the Holy Name of Jesus. There was a large attendance of the men of the parish in the basement hall in the afternoon, when the following officers were eelted:

President—Mr. Peter Milloy.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. A. Rose.
Secretary—Mr. George Gordon.
Treasurer—Mr. L. D. Letellier.

The object of this society is to foster among men the veneration of the name of Jesus, and by united effort to combat the evil of profanity. It is also devoted to the proper observance of the Lord's Day. His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who spent the day with his former parishioners, addressed the men's meeting, presenting the great opportunity of carrying on God's work that is opened to the Holy Name Society, and illustrating its possibilities by the success obtained in many larger cities. The meetings of the society will be held in the basement of the church.

At the early masses communion was received by practically the whole congregation, many of whom returned for the High Mass at 10.30 o'clock, at which Bishop O'Brien pontificated. The sermon was preached by Rev. R. P. McLaughlin of the Redemptorist Order of Toronto, who also preached at Vespers. At the close of mass, His Lordship congratulated the congregation, the pastor, Rev. J. J. O'Brien and his assistant, Rev. Father O'Gorman, upon the year's work and progress in religion, and emphasized the duty of thanking God for the favours he had given the people of the parish, and for the blessing of peace.

GUILTY GERMANS WILL BE NAMED

Documents in Connection With Origin of War to be Made Public.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Daily News has received a despatch from Munich sent by its Zurich correspondent, who crossed Lake Constance into Bavaria. The despatch, dated Munich on Friday, reads:

"The Bavarian Government has telegraphed Berlin that in order to win the confidence of the Entente all the documents dealing with the origin of the war and the Germans' guilt will immediately be published.

"It seems that the new Bavarian Government has discovered important documents in this connection in the archives of the Foreign Ministry."

Badges for Food Production Service

The Organization of Resources committee, representing the Ontario Government and Legislature in their plans for encouraging the production of food as a war-time service, has had prepared a Food Production Service Badge for awarding to children and others who have done good work for the past season. It offers the badge to War Production Clubs, Agricultural and Horticultural Societies, Resources Committee Branches, School Boards, Teachers, Women's Institutes, Sunday School Clubs, or any other group of responsible persons, at a fraction of its cost for distribution locally at public meetings. In the distribution of these badges the purposes are: To commemorate the splendid response made throughout Ontario to the Empire's call for increased production in the season of 1918; to stimulate community interest in local achievements; to recognize deserving effort in national service, and to encourage a continuance of the work next year and as lon gas the world's need of food is urgent. The badge may be awarded long as the world's need of food is Boys or girls who have helped materially in farm work during their holidays; those who have worked with their parents in a worth-while home garden scheme, or those who have raised poultry or produced pork will also be entitled to the badge. The badge, a sample of which may be seen at this office, will be cherished in after years as a very interesting war-time souvenir.

DOUSE THE GLIM, KELLY!

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(By Mail.)—It's hard to fool a London policeman. He is somewhat slow at coming to a conclusion, but when he arrives at that point he sticks to it like glue.

Late one night recently a policeman noticed a light in a house at Highgate. He knew the occupants of the house were an "early to bed and early to rise" family, as he had never before noticed a light there at so late an hour.

This particular policeman grew suspicious.

A knock at the front door brought a man, who said he lived there, and gave the name of Wilson, but he did not know the number of the house!

Then the policeman noticed a food card protruding from a pocket of the man's coat. He helped himself to it—and found the name to be Kelly.

Kelly's fate still hangs in the balance. He was remanded at Highgate Police Court pending further discoveries as to his past.

SORT OF EGGING HIM ON.

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(By Mail.)—At a suburban variety show a conjuror was doing a trick with an egg. At a given point in the performance he called upon someone in the audience to assist him. In response there stepped out an American soldier, to whom the conjuror handed the egg asking him to examine it.

The soldier seemed to roll it between his hands, and it vanished! None was more surprised than the performer when the egg finally was produced from under the soldier's chin.

Fortitude of the Czecho-Slovaks

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Step by step the secession of Bohemia from the Austro-Hungarian rule has been accomplished. Barely a month ago the Czech deputies made history when they left the Austrian Parliament, never to return. Their withdrawal was followed by the declaration of Deputy Zahradnik that all ties of Bohemia with Austria-Hungary were severed forever. Nine days later came the notable declaration of independence of the Czecho-Slovaks, in which their leader proclaimed to the world that they had cut themselves off from the polyglot empire of the Hapsburgs and proposed to found a republic of their own.

The rapidity with which these events have transpired has raised the question whether an armed uprising of the Czechs in Bohemia may be imminent to dislodge out the Austrian officers and army quartered in Prague. But it appears that such a rebellion may not be looked for at present. One reason is that the people have not enough firearms. Another reason was succinctly explained by the Narodni Listy, a leading newspaper of Prague, which, after a long period of suppression by the authorities, suddenly came out about the middle of September, without official permission, and expressed itself freely, in a single issue, on the subject of conditions in Bohemia.
